The Truth About Furniture Prices

WE ARE continually being asked if Furniture has lowered in price or is apt to become lower soon. The absolute truth is that the wholesale or factory price of Furniture has not lowered a cent, nor does there seem much chance of it in the near future. This statement can be verified by the United States government report for the month of November. The same report states that it usually takes about a year for a change in manufacturing cost to reflect to any extent in retail prices, and there has been very little if any change as yet in the manufacturing cost of furniture. Of course our entire line of home furnishings includes nearly every article used around a home, the only items on which there have been a lowered wholesale price are mattresses, bedding, window shades, draperies, seagrass furniture and floor coverings.

All of these items, except floor coverings, have already been promptly (we hope) marked down in our stock. Floor covering prices were not certain until now.

We have continually hoped for reduction in furniture, thus making it easier for you to receive the desired Christmas furniture, but since that has not come, we have decided to do what we can by reducing everything possible in a

Great Pre-Christmas Home-Furnishing Sale

Our plan is to go through every department in our store and select absolutely every article which we can find the slightest reason for reducing—broken lines, discontinued patterns, etc., regardless of present price, value, quality or style will go into this sale. The old tag, marked in plain figures, will remain and a new sale tag will go on. There will be a few dressers, beds, mattresses, chairs, tables, davenports, buffets, stoves, dishes, cooking utensils, baskets, etc.—in fact, nearly anything you need, but only a few in each line, so it will pay you to come early.
