THE OREGANA.

How many of us realize what it will mean to us if the Oregana, the yearbook of the University of Oregon, fails to receive the support of the students in the subscription campaign now being waged?

The Oregana has grown each year, as it should naturally grow. This year it is planned to increase the size of the book some fifty pages. Each year some betterment is planned. For the Oregana, as the yearbook of the University, presents a well-written summary of the activities of the students of the University for the college year. It is unnecessary to say that Oregon must have this annual, and that it must be the best publication possible.

The Oregana is sent to the high schools of the state, where many future students peruse it. It is sent to many colleges and universities of the country, where it is taken as representative of the life of Oregon. It reaches many of our alumni and our friends. And wherever this book goes it represents Oregon.

Should the Oregana turn over to the A. S. U. O. a big deficit as it has done in the past, there is a possibility that the Oregana should make a material reduction in its annual content. Its price, reasonable enough now, would have to be raised. And until this change would be made, the student treasury would be drained paying up debts accumulated by the yearbook.

Those of us who would like to see a bigger and better Oregana each year, an Oregana which would draw students to Oregon and which would present the University in its true light to other institutions, realize what dire straits the present yearbook is in. We cannot afford to see the Oregana turn over a big debt to the students each year. It all comes back to us in the long run, for when we want to see Hayward field improved, our debate team sent on a trip, and other student activities benefited, we will find money lacking. The Oregana took it we will be told.

The way to avoid this is to order our books now. The campaign will be carried over until Monday. Five dollars is not too much to pay for the yearbook, and three dollars not too much to pay down. We may be hard pressed financially now, but if the bigger share of the price of the book is paid down, the final payment will be easy.

Lastly, how many of us realize what actual value an Oregana will be after we have graduated, and during the years that elapse until we do graduate.

Let's see everyone wearing the triangular tag.

FRIEZE REPLICAS HERE

Hermian Club Presents Artistic Gift to Women's Building.

The bas-relief replicas from the eastern frieze of the Parthenon have arrived at the women's building and will be installed in the main hall in time for the formal opening of the building. They are replicas of three sections of the portion of the frieze representing the Procession of Maidens, and are the gift of the Hermian club to the women's building. The total cost of the gift will amount to approximately $85. The Hermian club was organized last term by the upperclass majors in the department of hygiene and physical education for women. In addition to the gift of the frieze, the physical education majors have raised a $1,000 pledge toward the building fund of the women's building. The money for both gifts has been earned by the majors themselves, by means of such professional work as massage and corrective work, dancing and gymnasium classes, and also by the sale of second hand gymnasium clothing.

LOST — Brown bag with pocketbook and glasses. Phone 107. Reward.

Announcements

Oregana Pictures — Those people just entering this term may have their pictures taken for the Oregana this week at either Tollman's, McKune's or the Sunbeam studio.

Commerce Majors — Dean Robbins of the school of commerce requests that all majors in commerce who have taken two years of language in high school and who are registered in beginning language courses at the University, report to him, if they do not know that they will probably receive no credit for a beginning language course should they already have two years high school credit in that subject.

Seniors — All seniors must hand in their histories for the Oregana within two weeks. Turn them in on a slip of paper at the library where, in the reading room at the right of the main entrance, is a box for this purpose. On these slips put your name, home, University address, offices held during terms in college, the activities engaged in and the organizations of which you are member. Do it now! Not tomorrow!

Collegiate Alumnae — The Eugene division of the Associate Collegiate Alumnae will meet in the Y. W. C. A. Jan. 8, at three o'clock. Program is under the direction of Miss Charlotte Banfield and Miss Gertrude Talbot will be hostess.

The Campus Cynic

To the Editor:—

Have you a conscience which whispers, "Don't waste time?" If you have, park it with your hat and coat when you go into the library. The word "library" ordinarily connotes study. But our library means something more attractive than that. The preliminary casting about for a book and a place to sit are to be executed as in the ordinary method employed in any other library.

You don't find the book you were looking for, and you didn't particularly want it anyway. Confiscating a stray Emerald you peruse it for the forty-third time since 9 a. m. and then cast it from you and gaze abstractly at the ceiling. Removing your gaze from that inspiring expanse of blankness you let your eyes roam.

Joyous oasis of sunlight! There's the lady, whom you haven't seen for two perishing hours. You amble over. Maybe you're welcome, maybe you're not. Who cares if you don't? Man may be a pest about half the time, but he must be endured for the sake of the other half of the time when he isn't. Besides males have a comfortable denseness that renders them impervious to subtle shafts of sarcasm or annoyance. You hang around a while, making a visible effort at study, and finally get kicked out, or left by yourself.

But maybe the lady isn't there. Well, that puts you at your leisure to observe the rest of the fair sex. You do, ad infinitum, etc.—Bell. Which means a class that you are particularly dense in. That bell bears about the same relation to you as another bell did to one J. Willard in the affair with J. Dempsey. There is a slight difference, however. Willard got wise. You never will. Tomorrow the well known history will repeat its well known self.

PRIZES IN ART OFFERED

$10 for Best Gate Decoration, Also for Doorway Piece to be Given.

Dean E. F. Lawrence is offering two $10.00 prizes this term for work in the art department. One prize will be for the best mural decoration cartoon over the gate of the court yard between the architecture building and the new quarters that the art department expects to occupy in about ten days.

The other prize of $10 is to be offered to anyone in the modeling class who makes the best design for a piece over the doorway of the art building. The classes are working for these prizes and will probably have completed the work sometime during the term.

DANCE TO START AT 8

Fourteen Numbers and Two Extras Listed; Admission to be 50c.

The music will start promptly at eight o'clock tonight for the first student body dance of the term at the new Armory, according to the committee. Fourteen dances and two extras have been scheduled. The price of admission will be fifty cents a couple.

A campus orchestra will furnish the jazz for the affair and the best sort of music is promised by the committee in charge. As there will not be the opportunities this term for the students to get together at games that there was last fall student body officials are anxious that every one take this chance to mix with their fellows. This dance will take the place of open house for the winter term.

SPANGLER TAKES PRIZE

Former Oregon Student Awarded Harvard Scholarship.

Word has been received here that Paul E. Spangler, a former Oregon student, who is now in his second year at the Harvard medical school has been awarded one of the thirty-eight Isaac Sweetser scholarships.

During his last year here, Spangler was elected president of the student body, but served in this capacity only a few weeks as he left school and went to the University medical school in Portland.

He is the son of the Reverend A. M. Spangler, pastor of the Congregational church, and is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

CHAMBER HEARS LOMAX

Commercial Relations of Northwest and Orient is Topic.

Professor A. L. Lomax, of the school of commerce, spoke at the Portland Chamber of Commerce foreign trade exhibit, which is being held in the Public Library during January, on Wednesday night. His subject related to the commercial relations of the Pacific northwest and the Pacific Orient.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce, according to Professor Lomax, has arranged this exhibit as an educational medium for the people of Portland along the lines of foreign trade. There will be public meetings with lectures every Wednesday evening during the month.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED.

At a Christmas party at the Alpha Phi house the Saturday before vacation the engagement of Elizabeth Hadley to Edward Bentley was announced. Miss Hadley is a member of the class of '21 and a member of Alpha Phi and Mr. Bentley a member of Sigma Nu.
