

Oregon Daily Emerald

VOLUME XXII.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, OREGON, Wednesday, January 12, 1921.

NO. 50.

BISHOP SHEPARD WILL MAKE ADDRESS AT NEXT ASSEMBLY

Has National Reputation As One of Great Religious Workers of West.

STUDENTS MEETING SET FOR SUNDAY EVENING

Supper Will Be Followed By Organ, Choir Music and Short Talks.

Bishop William O. Shepard, general superintendent of the Portland Area of the Methodist Episcopal church, who will address the regular student assembly in Villard hall Thursday morning, is known as one of the greatest religious workers of the west, according to Dr. D. H. Leech, pastor of the Eugene Methodist church.

"Bishop Shepard has a national reputation for interest in the building up of colleges," said Dr. Leech, who believes him to be a truly great man.

The Bishop was assigned to Portland last May to fill the vacancy left by the death of Bishop Matt S. Hughes. Before coming to Oregon he was at the head of the Wichita, Kansas, Area. The Portland Area includes Oregon, Washington, part of Idaho and Alaska.

Degrees have been conferred on Dr. Shepard by DePaul, Syracuse, and West Virginia Wesleyan Universities. He served for 25 years as pastor of churches in Illinois and at one time was District Superintendent of the Chicago Conference.

To Arrive Thursday Bishop Shepard, who is accompanied by Dr. E. E. Gilbert, Dr. S. A. Danford and Dr. W. W. Youngson, will arrive in Eugene on Thursday and will be entertained by the local Methodist church during the remainder of the week.

At 5 o'clock on Sunday evening students of the University are invited to the church to meet Bishop Shepard and his party. A supper will be served and all are urged to attend.

Later in the evening a special musical program will be given, under the direction of John Stark Evans, assistant dean of the school of music. Madame Rose McGrew will be the soloist. At this time short talks will be given by Bishop Shepard and members of his party.

FACULTY ASKED TO GO

Attendance Invited at Newspaper Conference Sessions.

A special invitation is given by Dean Eric W. Allen of the school of journalism to members of the faculty to attend the sessions of the Oregon Newspaper Conference to be held here Friday and Saturday of this week. The conference will open Friday afternoon and will end early Saturday afternoon.

Already a number of faculty men and women have expressed their intention of attending the banquet to be given the visiting publishers by the Eugene Chamber of Commerce at the Osburn, Friday evening, at 6:30. Tickets for this event are on sale at the Co-op. At noon Saturday the visitors, who are expected to number about 60 from all parts of the state, will be the guests at a luncheon at Hendricks hall.

ANNUAL FROSH SMOKER IS SET FOR SATURDAY

The days of his youth would come back to him as the cows come home at sunset, if "Bill Pioneer" could leave his lonely pedestal on the campus and wander into the Kappa Sigma house Saturday night while the annual freshman smoker is in progress. Those days of the small western town, the hail plainmen, the hardy cattlemen, and the western adventurer will be revived so vividly that those who are present will see in fact the things their fathers and mothers knew in the west of yesterday.

The nights of nights in a man's first year in the University has been set for Saturday, January 15. Those in charge have paved the way for a perfect night and nothing will prevent the wide opening of the gambling den and the dance hall after the basketball game is over.

CAMPBELL HALL TO BE READY BY FEBRUARY 1

Interior Finishing Still to be Done; New Dormitory Not to Have Dining Room.

Susan Campbell hall, the new woman's dormitory now under process of construction, will probably be ready for occupancy the first of February, according to W. K. Newell, superintendent of construction. There is a great deal of inside finishing to be done, and furniture to be installed.

This new hall of residence is to be almost identical with Hendricks hall, except that there will be no dining room. It has not been decided as yet just where the girls who live there will eat, but arrangements are to be made for this later.

The rooms are arranged in units, with suits of three rooms, each to accommodate two to four girls. This plan has been worked out very successfully in Hendricks hall, as it provides for the greatest comfort to the largest number of girls.

An added feature of the new dormitory is a recreation room, which is to be in the basement under the drawing room. There is to be a fireplace in the room, a piano, and hardwood floors so that the girls may dance.

NEW OPERA COMPANY TO FORM ON CAMPUS

Members To Be Chosen from "Mikado" Cast.

The University is to have a permanent opera company on the campus. The company, which is to be chosen from the "Mikado," will organize and in time will form another musical activity entirely separate from the two glee clubs. It will have a much larger membership than they will and present greater opportunities to a large number of students who are musically inclined.

The opera company, combined with the public speaking department will present as its first number "The Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan, March 8 to 12 inclusive. Such a long run necessitates understudies for every part, thus, doubling the chances of obtaining a part.

Madame Rose McGrew and Professor Fergus Reddie will take the part of "Katishaw" and "Koko" respectively. The other principals have not yet been chosen.

"I am anticipating with pleasure the roll of "Katishaw," says Madame McGrew. "It is such a marked change from the parts which I have taken in the past." Madame McGrew has appeared in productions practically all over the world.

Further tryouts for positions in the chorus will take place in Madame McGrew's studio on Wednesday at 5:00. There are a number of vacancies still to be filled, especially of men's voices. Madame McGrew urges everyone who is interested to try out, first to support the new activity, and second because it is an opportunity to develop one's voice and learn really worth while music.

WASHINGTONIANS MEET

Club Organized at First Gathering; Election Next Wednesday.

A meeting of all students from Washington for the purpose of organizing a Washington club was held in Villard at 4:15 yesterday. The number present at this first meeting spoke well for the success of the undertaking. A committee was appointed to draw up the constitution, and a meeting for the election of officers will be held next Wednesday.

The club is to be organized so that Washington students as a whole may have an opportunity to take part in school activities, and for social and athletic purposes, according to John Bra-dock, of Puyallup, Washington, who is interested in the movement.

DORIS CHURCHILL WEDS

Former Student Married in Portland to O. A. C. Man.

Doris Churchill, ex-'21 who attended the University last year, was married to George W. Weller in Portland, Friday afternoon at the home of her sister. Mrs. Weller is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Weller was a junior last year at the Oregon Agricultural College and a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Weller will make their home in Salem, where Mr. Weller will be associated with his father in the wholesale grocery business.

PSYCHOLOGICAL TEST PROVES ABILITIES OF EMBRYO JOURNALIST

Geography and Statistics Are Rewritten in Various Strange Ways.

SIMILAR QUIZ GIVEN OTHER SCHOOLS IN U. S.

Questions Sent Out By Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh.

That the Non-Partisan League is an organization of journalists, that Irvin Cobb is a baseball player, and that a major ranks lower than a captain were some of the answers to the questions in the Psychological Test of Journalistic Aptitude which was given to the students in the school of journalism yesterday afternoon.

One must have good eyesight to use a stethoscope, ventured another freshman, while the opinion as to the capital of Texas was badly scattered over four different cities. Of course there were some who had Bud Fisher classified as an author. Students of geography will be glad to know that the river Nile now flows all four directions.

The test was given to all students majoring in journalism except those who took it last year. This is the second year that such an examination has been given here, and the questions were similar to those of a year ago.

Test Over Country.

All students in schools of journalism in the United States are to be given this same test, and the results of the Oregon students will be compared with those of other colleges. The questions were prepared by Professor Max Freyd, who holds a research fellowship in the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh.

The results of the examination will not be known for some time as the manuscripts have been sent back to Pittsburgh to be graded.

There were a number of questions of a general nature to test the young journalist's supply of ready knowledge, but most of the test was given over to technical points in newspaper writing, or grammatical construction.

A picture was given to be studied for one minute and fifteen seconds, and then the students were required to describe and answer questions as to details.

A time limit was set for each question and all students started on each question at the same time. Dr. E. S. Conklin conducts the test and gave the necessary instructions. The entire examination required one hour.

UNIVERSITY EMPLOYS OVER 100 STUDENTS

Work Varied and Irregular; Average Rate Paid Forty Cents An Hour.

Over $2250 a month is being paid by the University to from one hundred to one hundred twenty students in various departments and classes. There are twelve post-grads on the regular payroll. The other students are on the irregular payroll, which means that they are being paid at a fixed rate by the hour.

The prevailing rate for most kinds of work is forty cents an hour, although some of the office help and assistant instructors receive fifty and sixty cents. The average amount earned per month by the regular workers is $25.00.

There are also students not on the regular payroll who are earning board and room in the dormitories. At present there are only two students on the grounds' staff, but later, when lawns are to be made around the new buildings, more will be employed. In case of a heavy snowfall, Mr. Hanna, who is in charge of the grounds, says he will employ as many students as are willing to work.

Every department of the University employs some students. A great diversity of student labor is represented by that $2250 monthly payroll. Gardening, correcting papers, waxing floors, carrying messages, typing, and instructing in boxing, biology, and bookkeeping are some of the ways students are earning their educations.

H. M. Fisher, Leaving University After 13 Years, Says Students Are Nicest People He Has Met

"Yes, I'll get 'homesick' for the campus, I couldn't help it," said H. M. Fisher, who gave up at the beginning of the year his position as superintendent of buildings and grounds of the University, a position to which he came thirteen years ago. That was when the University had about 400 students and a couple of dozen faculty members, Mr. Fisher said.

"But it was an awful big small school," he continued. "Whenever there was a rally at Villard hall everybody was there and doing his part. Everybody helped about everything," he went on, "because it was hard to get money for the University in those days."

The only buildings on the campus then were Deady, Villard, McClure, Friendly hall, the main body of the women's gym which was then the men's gym, and the small wing of the architecture building. The library and the building now occupied by the school of music were under construction. There was nothing south of 13th street except the president's house and Spiller hall which was being built.

Mr. Fisher saw all of the other buildings grow, one every few years as the University could secure funds. He saw Friendly, McClure, the library, the gym, and the architecture building put out excrescences politely called annexes, some of which are larger than the original structures.

SHAW'S 'PYGMALION' TO SHOW THIS WEEK

Madame McGrew to Appear for First Time in Drama.

Played by a picket cast including Mme. Rose McGrew, Charlotte Banfield and Fergus Reddie, "Pygmalion," a comedy by George Bernard Shaw which satirizes the English language and incidentally society, will open the term's season in Guild theatre on Thursday and Saturday nights.

Prof. Higgins, a phonetician, makes a bet with his friend Colonel Pickering, that he can take a crude girl from the streets and in time so train her that she will be able to pass in society as a duchess.

Liza Doolittle is the girl who they take up for the experiment. She has a terrible dialect which the Colonel is satisfied the Professor cannot break up. There follows a rare bit of comedy which finds its flavor in the numerous situations and the unique expressions of the characters, of which Shaw is a master.

In the part of old Doolittle, Shaw finds a means of expression for his notions of things in general. There is a rare philosophy to the old fellow in his untutored ways.

A bit of love story is introduced into the play, which does not culminate with the last act, although Shaw tells us afterwards that Freddy Hill and Liza marry, Freddy coming from an aristocratic family.

"Pygmalion" will serve to introduce several new figures in drama on the campus. Mrs. Higgins, played by Mme. McGrew, will appear for the first time in a play as will Professor Michael, of the public speaking department. Miss Hill, Fred's mother, is played by Miss Fenton, alumni secretary.

Members of the cast in order of appearance are: Prof. Henry Higgins ..... Fergus Reddie Col. Pickering ..... Manfred Mich. Mrs. Pearce ..... Irene Rugh Liza Doolittle ..... Charlotte Banfield Alfred Doolittle ..... Norvele Thompson Mrs. Higgins ..... Rose McGrew Mrs. Eynsford Hill ..... Charlie Fenton Miss Eynsford Hill ..... Dorothy Wootton Freddy Eynsford Hill ..... Claire Keeney Maid ..... Irene Stewart

69 REFUSED ADMISSION.

Sixty-nine underclassmen, applicants for admission to the school of journalism at the University of Washington, were notified at the beginning of the winter quarter that they would not be permitted to enter that school because the work that they had been doing in pre-journalism was of inferior quality. Seventy-nine other students were warned that similar action would be taken in their cases unless their work improved.

The special pride of Mr. Fisher has been the grounds. "I've tried to keep the grounds beautiful," he said, "because I think the campus is one of the University's greatest assets. Everybody sees the campus, even those going through the town."

Mr. Fisher superintended the planting of all the rose hedges and ornamental shrubs which now delight students and visitors. He gave the University its admired lawns by instituting the plan of regular watering and mowing the turf which had previously been mowed only by horses, and watered not at all outside the rainy season.

All students and faculty members used to be personally known to him, Mr. Fisher said, as they delighted him by coming to him for everything from tacks to servant girls.

"What have you enjoyed most of all during your thirteen years on the campus," he was asked.

"My contact with the students," was the unhesitating answer. "I've found them the nicest people I ever met. During all my thirteen years here, I've found very few snobs," he added. "I'll miss the students most of all."

On account of failing health, Mr. Fisher has given up his work with the University, and has gone with his family to live on a little farm west of the city, where, he says, he expects to spend the rest of his days raising chickens.

Honorary Commerce Fraternity Takes Eight Students.

The installation of Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary commerce fraternity, was held last week-end at the Osburn hotel, at which time eight commerce students, who had high enough grades to meet the scholastic requirements of the fraternity were initiated.

The pre-initiation of the commerce men provided much merriment for the onlookers at the hotel when the strange procession of neophytes was led by Dean Miller, of the University of Washington school of commerce. The advent of his honor fraternity is considered an important part of the expansion of the school of commerce because of the scholastic requirements for membership. Beta Gamma Sigma is called the Phi Beta Kappa of Commerce.

Those initiated were: Ross McKenna, Don Davis, Frank Miller, Franklin Folts, William Blackaby, C. Carl Meyers, Jack Benefiel, Phillip Janey, Professor V. C. McDougle and Professor T. J. Bolitho were also elected but will be initiated at a later date.

OREGON CLUB DANCE TO BE GIVEN FEB. 19

Committees Appointed, Plans Outlined at First Meeting of Winter Term.

Preliminary arrangements for the dance which will be held on February 19 occupied the members of the Oregon Club present at the first meeting of the winter term held in the campus "Y" hut Monday night. Barney Garrett, president of the club, appointed several committees and outlined the immediate plans of the men's organization.

After deciding that the place of the dance should not be arranged for until some estimate of the number who planned to attend should be obtained, Garrett requested all the Oregon Club men to express their intentions at least two weeks before the date set and leave their names at the "Y" hut. Men who are not acquainted and desire partners are asked to leave their request, with names.

Norton Winnard was appointed as a committee of one to procure patrons and patronesses for the dance. George Pasto, Ernest Evans, and Bob Taylor comprise the decorating committee, and Virgil DeLap, Stanley Crowe, and Meryl Boyer are listed as the committee to attend to the refreshments.

The men were reminded that their basketball team would meet the Kappa Sig team Wednesday night, and that an Oregon Club rooting section at this game was desirable.

OHIO ELEVEN HAD NO CHANCE FOR VICTORY, SAYS OREGON COACH

Mid-Western University Team Ragged Compared to Coast Squads.

CALIFORNIA PLAYED ON OFFENSIVE AS USUAL

"Brick" Muller of the Bears Was Star in New Year's Gridiron Contest.

That the Ohio State football team, champions of the middle west, never had a chance to win from California is the opinion of "Shy" Huntington, Oregon mentor who has just recently returned from Pasadena where he witnessed the California-Ohio State game on New Year's Day. The Ohio State University team failed to show anywhere near the class of that of any of the coast teams this year.

The style of play which Andy Smith's eleven used so effectively against the Ohioans was that used by the Bears against the other Pacific coast teams this year, and all the other years that Smith has been coach of the southern institution's football squad, according to Huntington. Ohio State took the defensive formation to prevent the line backs which they had figured California would use, Smith immediately shifted his play to the open style of play and the passing game, and took the Ohio players off their feet.

This does not detract from the credit that is due the California team for walloping the mid-western representatives, but it is the opinion of many who witnessed the big classic that any other of the Pacific coast teams could have delivered the dose to the Ohio eleven. The Ohioans, under the tutelage of "Doc" Wilce, were built around Stinchcomb, the halfback selected by Walter Camp for the All-American eleven. And Stinchcomb, according to reports was a real football player, but he was smothered by the California defense.

"Brick" Muller, the husky end of the Bears was the big star of the game, and "Brick" Muller is going to be a worry to most of the coaches on the coast next season according to all reports. Muller is eligible for two more years with the Bears, he is only a sophomore in the southern school.

Schedule is Doubtful. According to "Shy" Huntington it is very doubtful whether Oregon and California will meet on the gridiron next fall. The California eleven would like to change their schedule so that Oregon would go south to play in Berkeley on October 29, the date originally set by the Pacific coast conference authorities for the Oregon-California game to be played in Eugene. This arrangement did not meet with approval at this end, however, and Coach Andy Smith will have to look elsewhere for a game on that date.

California is not unbeatable in the opinion of Huntington and it is hoped that a game may yet be arranged between the two schools. Just what games California will arrange outside of the "Big Three" schedule is a matter for speculation.

Outcome Not Known. It is not known what influence the formation of the so called "Big Three" schools will have on other branches of athletics as yet. Coach Huntington had little to say on this score. According to reliable information there is a movement on foot by some of the big schools in the Northwest, including Washington State and O. A. C. to exclude the University of Washington from their basketball, baseball and track schedules on account of the combining of the Sun Dodgers with the California and Stanford teams.

SPEAKERS CHANGED. Because of conflict in speaking dates, Otto Hartwig's address on "Organized Labor," which was scheduled for tonight as a part of the Y. M. C. A. educational program, will be postponed indefinitely. Hartwig is the head of the state federation of labor organization.

TAPS TO BE HEARD DAILY.

In memory of Ohio State men who lost their lives in the recent war, taps will be sounded every Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. during the school year, at Ohio State University.