

UNIVERSITY PRESS ADDS NEW MACHINES

Oregon Has Largest College
Print-shop In West.

PLANT HAS BIG BUSINESS

All Printed Matter for Institution Done On Campus.

With the addition of considerable new equipment to the University press, Oregon has one of the most complete print-shops of which any University in the west can boast. Several new machines of various sorts have been added during the past few weeks.

The most recent addition to the shop is a standard Miller saw trimmer. This machine, adapted to the cutting and trimming of all kinds of cuts and linotype slugs, is a saver of considerable labor.

The University Press recently added to its equipment a 32-inch Diamond paper cutter. This cutter is power operated, carrying a motor of its own.

The job presses have been augmented by the addition of a one-eighth Chandler & Price platen press.

Many Types of Work Done.

With this equipment the print shop is able to handle all kinds and types of work required by the University. All of the booklets, catalogues and pamphlets used by the University are printed there, as well as the large majority of the printed matter required by student activities. "Old Oregon" and the Lemon Punch are among some of the University publications which are the work of the University press.

The print shop is under the supervision of Robert C. Hall, a member of the staff of the School of Journalism. Mr. Hall has charge of the instruction in laboratory work of the publishing classes. The modern and efficient type of machinery included in the shop's equipment makes it possible to turn out a maximum amount of work with a decided minimum of hand labor. Two men and sometimes three are employed full time.

Other Machines Now In Use.

In addition to the equipment recently added to the shop there is a large Optimus cylinder press, power folder, model 19 linotype, one-quarter platen press, stitcher and several minor machines. The large cylinder press measures 52 inches across the bed, and is large enough to print 32 pages the size of those used in the University catalogue, at one time. The linotype is one of the most modern developed by the Mergenthaler company, and carries three magazines, in addition to a battery of extras.

The re-wiring of the shop has recently been completed and the University Press is now on a power circuit of its own. The fact that the shop uses seven motors, ranging from one-half to four and one-half horse power, made it impossible to operate on the circuit which serves McClure hall where the shop is located.

New Building Adds Space.

With the completion of "P. E." hall, which houses a number of the journalism offices, the University Press was able to enlarge. The office in the front of the lower floor, formerly occupied by Dean Allen is now being used by Mr. Hall as the office of the print shop. This allows for considerable expansion into the space formerly needed on the floor for desk room.

A shipment of 85 reams of paper which will be used in the printing of the 1921-22 catalogues has been received. Work on this book will be commenced by the University Press in the near future.

GREEK EX-PREMIER TO BE CLUB'S TOPIC

W. J. Russis Is Cosmopolitan Speaker; Fifty Persons Eligible As Members.

There will be a meeting of the Cosmopolitan club at 7:30 Thursday evening, at the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. This will be the first regular meeting for this term, and all members of the club are requested to be present, as important matters are to be discussed, and plans laid down for the future.

The topic for the evening will be "Venizelos, the Statesman," and "Venizelos, the Man," by W. J. Russis. On account of the importance and influence of the man, and the crowd expected at the meeting, plans have been made to shift from the bungalow to the Y. M. C. A. hut in case the number present cannot be accommodated in the bungalow. Anyone outside, as well as those in the University who are interested in international affairs are invited.

Up to the present time there are about fifty persons in the University, who are eligible for membership in the Cosmopolitan club. Cards have been sent to these persons, announcing the organization of the club, and the fact that only through their co-operation can the club exist.

It is hoped that as many as possible will attend the meeting Thursday evening.

DeBusk, head of the department of educational psychology, was appointed chairman of the department of psychology and education which was organized at the last meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon State Teachers' Association. As chairman Dr. DeBusk is to arrange the work of the year to prepare the program for the next annual meeting of the association. Next year's program, Dr. DeBusk says, will probably be devoted to a study of the application of mental tests in school room problems.

This newly organized department of psychology and education is made up of superintendents and supervisors of schools, and other members of the association who are interested in educational experimentation.

Honorable Lawrence T. Harris, associate justice of the state supreme court, will be the speaker at the law school smoker tonight at the Anchorage. He will discuss the problems that the young lawyer has to face while he is getting started in practice. Judge Harris received his A. B. degree at the University of Oregon, and his law degree at the University of Michigan.

The smoker is for the pre-legal group, as well as the law students, and a special invitation is extended by the law faculty to the former.

EDDY WINS PRAISE OF WASHINGTONIANS

"Spirit Is Contagious," Wires
Y. M. Booster Club.

"Sherwood Eddy is knocking 'em dead up here," said a telegram from the University of Washington Y. M. C. A. booster club received here yesterday by Hal Donnelly, secretary of the campus Y. M. C. A. The report said that 3000 Washington students packed the hall where he spoke and several hundred more stood in the aisles. "Eddy's spirit is contagious, we want him back again," the wire concluded.

Sherwood Eddy will arrive on the Oregon campus Friday noon and it is planned to have a delegation of students at the station to meet him. The faculty, at the request of the Student Council, have agreed to clear the decks as far as classes are concerned at four o'clock, at which time Mr. Eddy will deliver his famous message on "The Challenge of the Social and Industrial Problem."

In regard to his topic Mr. Eddy wrote Hal Donnelly as follows: "My message is one of both social and personal evangelism. I feel that the present industrial problems are the most serious issue in Europe and America today, and I have given special attention to the study of this since the war."

An interesting feature of the Y. M. C. A. worker's visit is the fact that he and Hal Donnelly of the campus Y. M. C. A. were members of the same club at Princeton and were very close friends. Hal is quite jubilant over the fact that he will see his friend again.

Contrary to first reports women will be welcome to both the meeting at 4:00 Friday afternoon and the one Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

OREGON CLUB IS CALLED

OREGANA PROGRESSING

Engraving Work Is Started; Snaps Due
By Next Saturday.

Personal reports outlining the work already accomplished in the various departments and plans which are to be carried out in the next three weeks, were received at the meeting of the editorial staff of the Oregana called by Wanna McKinney, editor, on Tuesday evening.

The work is progressing rapidly and some of the departments have all of their pictures in and some write-ups. Nearly all of the snaps are ready to be mounted. Several shipments of pictures have been sent to the engravers in Portland already and another will be sent on Thursday of this week.

All the write-ups are to be handed in right away and all the snaps will be in by next Saturday, so that, according to Miss McKinney, the next three weeks will see the greater part of the Oregana work accomplished.

CHENEY TO SPEAK AT EDITORS CONFERENCE

Fifty Newspapermen Expected at Annual Gathering; Students are to Participate.

An important addition has been made to the program of the newspaper editors conference to be held here Friday and Saturday, in a speech to be given Friday afternoon by George P. Cheney, editor of the Enterprise Record Chieftain. Mr. Cheney will speak on "Professional Standards in Journalism." He is said to have one of the best weekly newspapers in the state.

Dean Allen reports that between 40 and 50 editors have sent in notice of their intention to be here, and take part in the conference. He expects about 50 per cent increase in attendance this year over last.

The students in the Journalism department of the University will be represented at the banquet of newspaper editors, which will be held in the Osburn hotel Friday night, by Mary Ellen Bailey, who will tell the scribes about student life at Oregon.

Carlton Savage, president of the student body, and Harry Smith, Emerald editor, will both speak at the luncheon Saturday noon. This luncheon will be held at Hendricks Hall, and due to lack of table space only a few students will be admitted. The Friday night banquet will be more public, as tickets have been sold for the affair.

DR. WHEELER STUDIES LEARNING PROCESSES

Psychologist Investigates Research Problems for Practical Applications.

Dr. R. W. Wheeler, professor of psychology, has been doing some research work on the problem of the development of voluntary control over muscular movement. The purpose of the work is to make possible a description of the stages through which voluntary control passes when skill is acquired in muscular activity. Efficiency in muscular activity, according to Dr. Wheeler, depends on the proper balance of the two aspects of motor control, speed and accuracy. The development of efficiency is, obviously, through purpose or intent and takes place by the slow method of experience.

For the best results, the right attitude is required; periods for practice and for rest must be distributed; and work done wrong must be undone. Thus the problem has a practical bearing by saving time and energy, and making toward efficiency.

Dr. Wheeler's method of investigation is by means of a maze, a stylus, an electric counter, and two batteries, so connected that the counter registers each time the maze and stylus come in contact.
The subjects are blind-folded and a measurement taken of the amount of skill acquired from day to day. The arm is closely watched and all action which takes place in the process of learning in this one instance is then applied to the process of learning in other instances.
