

SHERWOOD EDDY TO DELIVER MESSAGES

in every sense of the word. In the intervals of his intense activity among students of India and his work for the depressed classes, he occasionally took a week off for big game shooting in the elephant and tiger jungles. Mr. Eddy is a layman and a civil engineer who left his special profession to turn to human engineering as the greatest calling in life. Equally interested, like Theodore Roosevelt, in science, philosophy, literature and big game shooting, he is most of all interested in men. His recent study of the social and industrial problem, labor leaders, and the young intellectuals who are seeking a practical solution to the problems that confront

America today.

Meaning of Life Found.

Although his interests cover many phases of life, it is not at the cost of superficiality, for in his life and message he strikes clearly and with no uncertain sound a deep spiritual note, as he grapples with the problem of the modern world, and calls men from the lower ambitions of a crude materialism to a high faith in God and humanity. With Tolstoi, he believes he has found "the meaning of life." In a unique way he has a message for the college men of America. During the last 25 years Sherwood Eddy has been working among the students of Asia, Europe and America. After graduating from Yale in 1891, taking a postgraduate course in Princeton, and working among the American colleges, he spent more than 20 years working among the students of India, the Far East, the Near East, and Russia. During the war he was with the British army before our entry into the conflict, with the Americans in the battle of Chateau-Thierry, and the French in the Argonne and at Verdun. Since the war his work has taken him across Asia, Europe, and around the world. He now returns from his recent campaigns in Czechoslovakia, Egypt and Turkey, and from visiting eighteen of the principal countries of Europe and the Near East where he studied the student situation, and the social and industrial problem in the midst of the present strikes, unrest, revolution, and war in various parts of Europe.

COLLEGES ADOPT HONOR SYSTEM.

The student council at Simpson College, Iowa, has adopted the honor system. Simmons College, Texas, is another institution where the same system has been adopted. In the latter school the vote was 448 to 40.

THE QUARTERMASTER CORPS SURPLUS STOCK DIVISION, U. S. WAR DEPARTMENT has released to us great quantities of new and reclaimed surplus army goods. Shipments received daily and direct from various army camps, forts and supply bases and placed at the disposal of the public by the Surplus Army Goods Store, Hampton Building, 6th and Willamette streets.

Surplus army goods are those manufactured according to the war department's strict specifications under government supervision and according to army regulations, greatly in excess of the needs of the army of the great world war.

Reclaimed army goods are those that have been used but a little, completely renovated, thoroughly sterilized and laundered for re-issue, but released by the war department as surplus stock.
