THE H. C. OF DANCING.

"On with the dance, let the expense be what it may," seems to be the slogan of the freshman class. In planning for the annual Frosh Glee at class meeting Thursday evening, the freshmen, confronted with the statement that but a paltry $350 (three hundred and fifty dollars) remained in the class treasury, responded to the plea of the chairman of the glee committee and voted for a special class assessment to raise more money for the dance.

If it were not so serious, the whole affair might be ridiculous. But are the freshmen of the University going to advertise to the state that it is impossible to dance at the University of Oregon for three hundred and fifty dollars?

"We could sweep the floor and hire a cheap orchestra for the amount of money now in the treasury," is the way one member of the class put it. If that were so, half the men in the University would be besieging the freshman class for job as floor sweepers and piano murderers. The amount of money in the treasury of the freshman class will provide as good an orchestra as has played for any class dance, will furnish programs that anyone can read, and will decorate the Armory so that no one will know the place.

If the freshmen can't do it, the Emerald makes a bid for the job right now, and guarantees to split a profit among its staff members, in addition to staging a dance where anyone except a cripple can shake a mean foot. And it would be a dance which would be remembered too.

Freshmen, don't try to start a contest among classes to see which can stage the best dance. Students always remember Frosh Glee, and few if any have ever made derogatory statements about any class for failing to stage a wonderful affair. A wonderful dance can be given for the amount of money in your treasury or less. The Emerald would not advise a single freshman to pay any assessment.

Stanford has announced its 1921 football schedule, which will perhaps cause a few to see a light. Of seven games scheduled, all but one are to be played at Plao Alto. One game is scheduled for Seattle with the University of Washington. California and Washington will probably announce similar schedules soon, and it is safe to predict that the number of games played off the campus in these two schools will be correspondingly low. Who was it that said the "Big Three" wasn't to set up a dictatorial policy towards other coast institutions?

DR. EDDY DINNER GUEST

Educational Problems of Europe Discussed by Lecturer.

Dr. and Mrs. Sherwood Eddy were honor guests at a dinner given by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. cabinets at the Anchorage last night. Dr. Eddy spoke of the educational problems existing in the central European countries. members were: Mr. Gale Seaman, men's have sent aid to the students in these countries but there is still a great need for help, he said.

Those attending the dinner beside the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. cabinet members were: Mr. Gale Seaman, men's student representative for the Pacific coast, Dr. J. F. Bovard, Mr. M. H. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Crockett, Dean and Mrs. H. D. Sheldon and Dean Elizabeth Fox. A number of faculty people were unable to be present at the dinner on account of the editors' banquet at the Osburn, held at the same time.

GRADUATE FEE EXTRA

Dollar Is Fine For Late Registration After January 13.

Graduate students who have not paid their registration fee will have to pay an extra dollar in order to be duly enrolled at the University of Oregon, according to Carlton Spencer, registrar. Yesterday was the last day that the fee could be paid without extra charge.

Special provision is made for graduate students two weeks being allowed for registration. This is because the cards of the grades must be passed upon by the graduate council. Also many of the classes in research work start late because the professors are busy organizing classes at the very first of the term.

SYSTEM IS WANTED.

A few minutes of time lost may not seem to amount to much, but when such loss occurs frequently it soon counts up. The present system of passage into and out of the library is the cause of a considerable waste of time for the students which, it seems, might be prevented. At the end of certain class periods in the morning it often happens that crowds of students meeting in the entrance completely block the passage and stand for several minutes with absolutely no movement.

If the students would keep to the right side of the entrance hall this congestion would be prevented. The fact that the cloak room is on one side of the vestibule, indeed, makes this a little inconvenient, but even then it would not be more so than at present and a student coming out of the library who wishes to go into the cloak room could save time by following the crowd to the outer door and then coming back on the other side. Let's get a little system. other side. Let's get a little system.

WHAT THE OLD GRADS ARE DOING.

Chester H. Starr accepted a position as salesman for the Wells Realty Company immediately after his graduation in 1906. He kept that place for some years and then went to Spokane, where he began work for the Willard Storage Battery Company, which has its headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio. His progress in this work was rapid and his promotions carried him into California and finally into Texas where is now acting as district manager of his company. Starr was married in 1918 to Norma L. Hendricks, who is also a graduate of Oregon and who was former Alumni Secretary.

DEAN LANDBURY TO TRAVEL.

Dean John J. Landsbury, of the school of music left yesterday for Portland to do some committee work. From Portland he will go to The Dalles, where he will deliver a lecture on Tuesday.

CAMPUS WILL HAVE MORE ROSE BUSHES

Work of Preparing Grounds for Spring Planting is Begun Early This Year.

For several days of the past week men have been busy making cuttings of roses, ivy and Virginia Creeper on the campus, so that the grounds will be ready for spring planting. The work of making the cuttings is generally done earlier in the season but the winter has been so mild that the work was postponed. The slips, or cuttings are used for further planting on the campus and schools and individuals over the state who wish them are also supplied.

H. M. Fisher, who recently resigned as superintendent of grounds, was an authority on roses, and it was to him that Oregon owes its reputation as having the most beautiful rose garden campus in the country. Over a thousand bushes have been set out by him, and this number will be greatly increased when the planting is done about the new buildings.

Out-of-door grown roses in full blossom as a table decoration for Christmas would not be unusual in California, but it is not at all common in Oregon. However, that is what some people in Eugene had sharing equal honors with the turkey. Of course the buds as they appear on the campus needed a little extra persuasion and tender care in the form of hot applications for a few days in order to appear in their beauty. Mr. H. M. Hanna who is in charge of the campus since Mr. Fisher left was the man who was telling of the work.
