WILLAMETTE TEAM STRONG DECLARES PAUL FARRINGTON

Former Oregon Student Sends Special Word of Salem Tossers' Speed.

BEARCAT QUINTET IS SUPERIOR TO O. A. C.

Jackson, Center, Knows All About the Game and Shows It.

(By Paul P. Farrington, ex-'21.)

Salem, Or., Jan. 20.—(Special to The Emerald.)—If there be any lemon-yellow supporter over-confident that Oregon is to romp serenely away toward victory when it meets Willamette here next Friday, let him boast but little and wager less, lest ridicule and a flat pocket-book be his portion.

These Methodists down here haven't a thing but a dozen men who sleep with basketballs, shoot with an accuracy that is painful to the opposition, and work with a smoothness and finesse which would make a body of friendly politicians appear in discord.

Willamette, be it known, has some team.

Willamette Better Than O. A. C.

No doubt Oregon's five is superior to that of the Aggies. But so is this quintet of the Methodists. And although these Salem tossers may favor the enactment of laws to make blue Sundays, they don't let this love of peace affect them on Fridays and Saturdays.

Regardless of what he really thinks, Coach Mathews is frank to say he expects defeat next Friday.

"Is that just bunk or—" he was asked. "No," he insisted. "Oregon is undoubtedly far better than the Aggies—a great deal better. And there is another thing to figure in when you consider Oregon—members of its teams never quit." And, after this little tribute, which he did not intend for publication, Coach Mathews fell silent.

Uses Short Passes.

A word about the style of play used by the local five. The team confines itself to the short pass. It is executed swiftly, smoothly, easily among the players as they worm their way back and forth to keep the ball out of their opponent's territory, but so far they have managed, admirably well, to keep it out of their opponent's hands. In the Willamette-O. A. C. games the Methodists would frequently have possession of the ball for

EDISON MARSHALL HERE

Oregon Graduate Has New Novel for Publication Next Month.

"The Strength of the Pine," is Edison Marshall's next contribution to the short story world. He is now writing this story and expects to have it completed February 10, when it will then appear in series in a monthly magazine. This story has for its setting the northern woods of Canada, of which Mr. Marshall is very well acquainted after his visit to the north.

"The Man of the North," also by Edison Marshall, is to appear in book form in about a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are now stopping at the Osburn Hotel, and will remain in Eugene until Saturday.

Underclass Mix Started 1913; Begun by Juniors

By Mary Lou Burton.

Did you ever stop to wonder how the Oregon traditions got started. There is "Hello Lane" and the junior corduroys, and the underclass mix, and— but we're going to tell you about the mix now and the others later.

Once upon a time, in the year 1913 A. D., 22 seniors were yanked up on the carpet for attempting to place the frosh of that year in their proper relation to the University.

From then on there was a deep-felt need of a method to properly key down, subdue, subjugate and otherwise chasten the first year men. The juniors of 1913 undertook to supply this need, and to them belongs the credit for the institution of the underclass mix.

O. A. C. PETITIONS FORENSIC FRATERNITY

Beta Chapter of Zeta Kappa Psi On Oregon Campus, First In West.

At a meeting of the Beta Chapter of Zeta Kappa Psi, women's national honorary forensic fraternity, held Wednesday evening, Jan. 19, Lois Hall, president of the local chapter, gave a partial report of the national convention of the organization, held at Manhattan, Kansas, November 19 and 20, 1920. Miss Hall went as delegate from Beta which is the only chapter west of Kansas.

The policy of extension, said Miss Hall, was approved by the convention. O. A. C. has petitioned for a chapter, and it seems that the state may have the second as well as the first chapter of women's national forensic fraternity in the west.

Manhattan, Kansas, is the seat of the Kansas State Agricultural College which has the Alpha Chapter. A feature of the convention was the initiation of five honorary members. This honor was conferred upon women who have attained distinction in political life or other public service. Mrs. Lee Monroe who is judge of the probate court in Topeka, Kansas, was one of the five.

Wednesday evening's meeting of the local chapter was held at the home of Miss Ethel Wakefield, alumni member. The chapter will meet again Sunday afternoon, Jan. 30, at which time Miss Hall will continue the convention report.

SHAW'S 'PYGMALION' IS WELL RECEIVED

To Run for Remainder of This Week.

"Pygmalion," a comedy by Bernard Shaw, produced under the direction of Fergus Reddie, was enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience at its first performance last night in Guild theatre.

Charlotte Banfield, as Liza Doolittle, a street flower seller, delighted the audience with her vivacious and charming mannerisms. Her transformation from a girl of the gutter who said she "didn't want to talk grammar but I want to talk like a lady" to a well bred woman was accomplished under the supervision of Henry Higgins, played by Fergus Reddie, an extremely selfish and overbearing professor of phonetics. Professor Reddie seemed even to surpass his former triumphs in Guild theatre.

Applause greeted the appearance of Madam Rose McGrew, who played the part of Mrs. Higgins, mother of Henry. Her portrayal of a mother's anxieties over an eccentric son was superb.

Manford Michael, as Colonel Pickering, and Irene Rugh, as Mrs. Pearce, played their parts well as friends of Henry Higgins. Novell Thompson, as Alfred Doolittle, a dustman who couldn't "afford morals" and was proud and happy to be one of the "undeserving poor", gave the audience many a chance to laugh.

So many persons were turned away last night that it was decided to give "Pygmalion" again tonight, as well as tomorrow evening.

PRESIDENT MAKES TRIP.

President Campbell was in Portland yesterday on business in connection with the school of medicine; he expects to return to the campus this evening. On the return trip the president will make a brief stop at Salem for the purpose of a visit to the legislature, now in session.

MEN'S GLEE TO GIVE CONCERT IN PORTLAND ON FRIDAY, JAN. 28

Mme. McGrew, Operatic Soprano, to Make Appearance on Program.

EVANS' 'OREGON PLEDGE SONG' WILL BE SUNG

22 Men Making Trip Will Leave Early and Have Lunch at Club.

The first concert by the University of Oregon's Men's Glee Club to be given in Portland for several years will be staged in the Municipal Auditorium on Friday evening, Jan. 28. Madame Rose McGrew, head of the voice department of the University school of music, will accompany the club as guest artist.

"We will present a strong, well-balanced program which should interest everyone" was the comment of John Stark Evans, director of the club. The first is the heaviest part of the program, he continued. The stage lights will be dimmed for the second part which is made up of negro melodies. The last part is lightest of all, consisting largely of vaudeville sketches, while the closing number is a medley of Oregon songs. The program has a strong start and works up to a "knock-out" in the humorous selections of the last part. Besides the numbers in the program the club is well supplied with very light encores so they feel that the audience can be kept "on its toes" during the whole evening.

22 Will Make Trip.

Twenty-two men are to make the trip. The concert is to be given under the auspices of the Ellison-White Lyceum Bureau and is being advertised extensively, according to the Glee Club management, to a great extent through the University alumni.

The club will leave Eugene Friday morning in order to reach Portland in time to attend a luncheon given in their honor by the University Club. A few songs will probably be sung while there. The "Oregon Pledge Song" written by Mr. Evans will be sung in Portland for the first time at this concert. The song was written last fall to be used as an opening number for concerts. It was to take the place of the mottoes sung by many eastern clubs at the beginning of

RADIO NEWS SERVICE PROPOSED FOR COAST

Accommodations Do Not Warrant Oregon's Entering.

Unless the University provides other accommodations than those which at present exist in the physics laboratory in deady hall Oregon will not be represented among the other Pacific coast institutions in a proposed wireless news service.

"I find it incompatible with present conditions to allow students to use the wireless set," declared Dr. Boynton. He said would-be operators were permitted use the physics laboratory last year, and wireless instruction which was not recognized in the curriculum did not work successfully. To give the wireless plant over to the University publication for radio service would mean that there would be an objectionable access of students to the laboratory, intimated Dr. Boynton.

The sending set is capable of transmitting messages to Seattle, Tacoma, and other points more distant, said Dr. Boynton. There are several wireless operators in the University willing to give part of their time to the receiving and transmission of messages if the use of the plant can be arranged for.

The proposed radio service connecting the Pacific coast institutions by wireless which would be used in transmitting the reports of games, and perhaps in conjunction with the Pacific Intercollegiate Press Association in reporting events of all kinds was suggested by the University of Washington Radio club. O. A. C. accepted the suggestion, and University of Oregon, University of California, Leland Stanford University and other coast institutions having wireless will be included in the radio circuit if they accept the proposed plan.

OREGON QUINTET OFF FOR HARD SERIES OF 6 GAMES IN MONTH

Coach Bohler Says Team Hopes to Break Even in Trip Contests.

REGULAR VARSITY LINE-UP TO START

Opponents Rated High States Trainer But They Are Not Unbeatable.

"We will be well pleased if we can break even in the games on this trip," Coach George M. Bohler said last night, in speaking of the team's chances for wins in the games to be played in the northern trip and in the two games with Willamette to be played tonight and tomorrow night. In the opinion of Bohler if the team can win as many as they lose on the trip, the return games to be played here in Eugene will not cause any great worry.

The Willamette team is going to prove one of the strongest of the three which will be met before the varsity returns to Eugene, according to all reports. Willamette handed the Oregon Aggies a drubbing at Corvallis, Tuesday night, by a score of 36 to 19, and in the opinion of witnesses it was an earned victory. The Aggies never had a chance with the Willamette five, and the size of the score would indicate the difference in strength. However, the Aggies held Willamette to a one point lead in the game which the two teams played at Salem last Friday evening.

Willamette Good Shots.

"Willamette has a good team," Bohler said yesterday, "they have the same men back who played the game for them last year, and they are a polished aggregation." Bohler believes they are not unbeatable and has been working his team to take advantage of the defects in the team work of the Willamette five since he witnessed the game at Corvallis the other night. The Willamette five are wonders at long shots although a number of their baskets in the Aggie game were luck shots. They still lack some of the smoother points in team work. In the opinion of Bohler the Willamette five did not play up to the class that the varsity did in the last Saturday night game with the Chemawa Indians here.

The line-up to start the game tonight given out by the coach before the team left will be the same as the one which started against Chemawa; Bellar and Reinhart at guards, "Hunk" Latham at center, and "Marc" Latham and Durno at forwards, "Nish" Chapman will be the sixth man to be taken on the trip and it is probable that he will be worked at guard during the game tonight in place of either Reinhart or Bellar.

Guards Will Do Good Work.

Bohler is of the opinion that the guards will hold the Willamette forwards down tonight; he was well pleased with the playing of both Bellar and Reinhart in keeping the Chemawa forwards out from the basket, and he believes that Willamette will not get in any more often. O. A. C. is weak in the guard department according to witnesses of the game there, and it was this that enabled the Willamette five to run up the big score they did.

The team will not return here over Sunday, but will leave Salem Sunday for Pullman where they will play Washington State on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, going from Pullman to Seattle to meet the University of Washington quintet on Friday and Saturday nights. These games in the north are going to furnish some stiff competition as both Washington teams are rated high this year, and the varsity will face a hard schedule in the four games to be played there.

$135 POSITION OFFERED

Country High School Wants Teacher of English and Latin.

A teaching position in a country high school, with a salary of $135 a month, is open to a young woman who is qualified to teach English and Latin, says Dr. H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education. This position is open to anyone holding a teaching certificate, whether she is an education major or not.

Further information can be obtained from Dean Sheldon, who may be found in his office in the mornings, or reached by phone.

SCHROFF WORKING ON MURAL DECORATION

Greek Landscape Subject of Painting for Either End of Hall in Woman's Building.

Professor A. H. Schroff reports that he has begun work on one of the two large mural paintings that are to grace either end of the big main room of the woman's building. Only the first rough sketches have been completed on the first of these, whose theme is that of a Greek landscape. The decoration will be allegorical in treatment. Mr. Schroff plans to show the coming of Ceres, goddess of Spring, to the maidens and lambs of who are waiting to receive her. He has not yet chosen the subject for the other mural and he does not expect to have time to work on it for some weeks.

The professor does a great deal of work outside of his class room. In fact he devotes a greater part of his summer vacation to painting and makes pilgrimages to various sections of the country for this purpose. Professor Schroff has done many very fine pieces of work that have received places in art exhibits all over the country. With his practical knowledge of the arts he has played an important part in making the art department of the University a very fine one.

Professor Schroff is not alone in his department in the endeavor to make the University beautiful with art decorations. Mr. Fairbanks is working on a statue of a mother sending her child into the world for education. No doubt this will be offered to the University to be placed on the campus in some spot not yet determined upon.

A prize is being offered by the school of architecture to the student who does the best mural painting for the decoration of a building.

KAPPA SIGS DEFEAT SIG ALPHAS 20 TO 10

Championship Game Is On Next Week.

◆ Fiji .....	12	1	923
◆ Kappa Sigma .....	10	1	900
◆ S. A. E. ....	10	4	714
◆ Kappa Theta Chi ..	8	4	686
◆ Beta .....	8	4	666
◆ Bachelordon .....	8	4	666
◆ Sigma Chi .....	7	5	666
◆ A. T. O. ....	6	6	500
◆ Delta Tau .....	6	6	500
◆ Sigma Nu .....	4	5	444
◆ Phi Delt .....	4	8	333
◆ Friendly Hall .....	3	10	230
◆ Delta Theta Phi ..	0	8	000

By virtue of their 20-10 win over the scrappy Sig Alphas yesterday afternoon in doughnut basketball the speedy Kappa Sigma aggregation will meet the league leading Fijis in the final struggle for the championship in the near future. The Kappa Sigs seat Phi Gamma Delta to the mat for the count in their initial contest and the deciding game should be a good one as each of the teams have lost but one game.

While the score of the Kappa Sig-S. A. E. battle is suggestive of a somewhat one-sided contest this was not the case. Both teams were playing their best brand of ball, and the score did not favor the victors until the last of the first half when they began to forge ahead, the half ending 9-7 for the victors.

The second half was characterized by the same hard fighting and good team work on the part of both sides, but the Kappa Sigs here began to take the lead and increased it slowly until the final whistle blew.

Kays, S. A. E. forward, was the outstanding player of his team, making six of the ten points scored by them. Ford, center, and Liebe, guard, each annexed a field basket completing the score.

Andre, forward for the Kappa Sigs, was the big point getter, converting three field baskets and four free throws out of five trials. Blackman, the new center, played a stellar game hooping a field goal in both halves. Each man on the team made at least one field basket. There were no-luck shots made by either side, each team deserving of every point it scored.

They lined up as follows:

S. A. E.—10.	Kappa Sigs—20
Moore .....	F. .... Andre 10
Kays .....	F. .... Strahorn 2
Ford .....	C. .... Blackman 4
Henderson .....	G. .... Brunett 2
Liebe .....	G. .... Rockney 2

The championship game between Phi Gamma Delta and Kappa Sigma will be played next week.

ORIENTAL POLITICS DISCUSSED BY DAY IN ASSEMBLY TALK

China Certain of Great Industrial Future, Says Speaker.

U. S. IS BIG BROTHER TO ORIENTAL NATION

War With Japan Improbable According to Former Oregon Man.

That America must carefully watch the political changes of the Orient and not repeat the great mistake of 1914 when a great war broke out, and we found ourselves out of touch with world affairs, was the warning message of Mahlon H. Day, secretary of the Canton, China, Christian College, who has but recently returned from the Far East and this morning addressed the assembled student body of the University.

"This is of vital concern to the Pacific coast" declared Mr. Day. "We are comparatively close to those teeming millions on the other side of the world and it behooves us to keep in close touch with their problems and to strengthen our relations with awakening China. This is the day of opportunity for America. China remembers our acts of generosity of the past, our position of 'big brother' to her in some of her vital problems, and today she has awarn feeling of friendship for America. In the future she may be destined to be a mighty force to preserve the peace of the world."

Trouble Not Wanted.

Touching on the question of a possible war with Japan the speaker declared that no nation in the world desired trouble with America, least of all Japan, who has been a witness to our part in the late war.

Describing present social and industrial conditions in China, Mr. Day traced the past few decades of Chinese history and explained the process of the European nations in taking possession of portions of the Chinese provinces. "Japan was the last of the outside nations to invade and claim territory in China," said the speaker, "but she went farther than her predecessors and today lays claim to more of China's land than all other nations."

Industrial Future Bright.

"Industrially China is awake," he continued, "and with her natural resources superior to ours a great industrial future is certain. Politically, China, although she has thrown off the yoke of the old regime, is still far from a true republic. General elections are impossible among her millions, but they have a vision of a splendid democracy. China is a nation with a glorious past and a wonderful future."

China is developing a national spirit and the people are learning to act in concert, said Mr. Day in telling of the boycott of Japanese goods by the Chinese when students from the universities and great merchants down to the lowest stratum of society joined this great movement of rebellion against the aggressions of Japan.

A great interest is shown in modern education by the Chinese, according to Mr. Day, who in predicting a great increase in schools, declared that the present cumbersome alphabet in use would be changed to meet modern conditions.

Hello's Are Asked.

Preceding the address of Mr. Day, Carlton Savage, president of the A. S. U. O., made an appeal to the students on behalf of the "Hello" tradition, declaring that a great number of students are more and more disregarding this old campus greeting that has been in vogue since 1890. The president declared that the gradual abolition of this custom of campus courtesy would display a lack of democracy. Girls are the chief offenders in failing to keep the tradition, he said, and then added that he hoped that they would overcome their timidity and speak first in passing on the campus.

The musical program consisted of two solos by Glen Morrow, who was the recipient of the enthusiastic applause of an appreciative audience.

INDIANA HAS 384 COURSES

Eight hundred and eighty-four courses are offered at Indiana University this year. The new school of commerce and finance opened with a large enrollment. Difficulty in retaining faculty members is apparently due to the salaries paid.
