

PEOPLE ANXIOUS TO PRESERVE FLOWERS

Attitude of Societies Lauded by Prof. Sweetser.

"Yes, I find many persons interested and anxious to join a flower preservation society," said Professor A. R. Sweetser, head of the department of botany, who has just returned from a trip through southern Oregon where he spoke to about 900 high school students at Grants Pass, Central Point, Medford, and Ashland as part of the University extension division's campaign for the preservation of Oregon's native shrubs and flowers. At Medford, Professor Sweetser addressed also, 60 members of the Jackson county association for the preservation of natural scenery.

The Jackson county society perfected its organization at the meeting last week when Professor Sweetser was asked to speak. Its aim is to preserve the scenic beauty of the county, especially along highways and in camping places. Members of the society are men and women from all parts of the county, who plan to protect flowers, birds, natural wooded sections and streams which are the county's attractions. Unobtrusive sign boards will be kept off the highways, also.

On Thursday and Friday of this week, Professor Sweetser will speak to the high school and grades at Hood River and to the Mental Culture club in Portland. School children are not asked to sign the cards for membership in the society for preservation of plants as only adult members of clubs are presented with the cards.

Professor Sweetser's most recent article in the Sunday Oregonian illustrated series, relates the life functions of plants, using the wild mustard as an example.

REVISION OF STUDENT CONSTITUTION WILL

ulty member on each committee and at least one alumni member on each athletic committee. The members of these committees shall hold office for one year or until replaced by the executive committee.

Their duties would consist of making recommendations to the executive council regarding matters of policy or the interests of the activity which they represent and making estimates for the budget for their respective activities to the finance committee.

Although the committee which is preparing the new plan for submission to the associated students at their meeting March 10, has practically completed their plans, they still intend to hold another meeting to finally stamp their approval on the plan before they allow it to go before the student body for approval or rejection. The plan entails a practical rewriting of the entire constitution, and the committee has spent some three months gathering material and views on the proposed changes. Details of the manner in which the plan will be submitted have not yet been worked out by the committee. March 10 is the date decided upon for submission of the plan, and a week later the vote will be taken.

The members of the committee drafting the new plan are: Wilbur Carl, chairman; Lyle Bryson, Vivian Chandler, John Houston, Don Davis, Dean Walker, Dean Dymont, Karl Onthank and Marion McClain.

CABINETS OF BOTH Y.'S IN EATING MARATHON

Junction City Woman Retains Title to Cooking Championship, Say Diners.

"Oh-h-h-h. Oh my!" Loud groans greeted the sight of the three huge tables groaning under their terrific burdens. Stocks of fried chicken, heaps of roast chicken and dressing, gobs of juicy pork sausage, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, macaroni and cheese, stewed corn, vegetable salad, fruit salad smothered in whipped cream, celery, pickles, cranberry sauce, preserved strawberries, pears and peaches, five kinds of jelly, four kinds of jam, walnuts, almonds, peanuts, wild hazelnuts, bananas, oranges, fruit punch, doughnuts, four kinds of mammoth cakes, and then last of all two-inch lemon pies, deep apple pies, big juicy gooseberry pies, AND oodles and oodles of thick lumpy, heavenly CREAM.

Well, they worked at it for two hours—trying to eat it all.

It all happened out at Mrs. W. T. Simmons' near Junction City last Sunday. Mrs. Simmons has long had a reputation as the best cook in Lane County. Her reputation stands, according to those who were there.

Oh yes—who did it happen to? The members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and their guests, the members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet were there and, second in importance only to the size of the menu, it was all given in honor of Hal Donnelly, secretary of the Y, and Beatrice Wetherbee, the unfortunate woman. Yes, they were both there, too, and acquitted themselves very well, thank you.

The members of the Y. W. cabinet and staff are Miss Tirza Dinsdale, Miss Louise Davis, Marjory Holaday, Francis Habersham, Eleanor Spall, Ruth Flagg, Florence Furuset, Glyde Schubel, Ruth Lape, Elsie Marsh, Isla Gilbert, Jennie Maguire, Margaret Smith, Alice Thurston, Vivian Chandler, Jean McKenzie, Leta Kiddle, Nancy Fields and Mae Ballock.

The Y. M. cabinet and staff includes Mrs. Donnelly, Bruce McConnell, Claire Wallace, Roy Veatch, Joe Ingram, Norton Winnard, Elston Ireland, John Houston, Lyle Bartholomew, Wayne Akers, Wolcott Buren, John Gamble, Kenneth Lancefield, Virgil Delap, Wilbur Carl, Ray Osborne, Bill Purdy, Don Davis, Kenneth Youel, Ralph Spearow and Delbert Hill.

NEW BOOKS PLACED ON LIBRARY SHELVES

"Hunger," Winner of Nobel Prize, Now Available.

A number of new books have recently been acquired by the University library and are now ready for circulation. Among the books are found the more recent writers, such as Hamsun, Wells, Walpole and others. The following will be found on the shelves:

"Hunger," by Knut Hamsun. This book, one of Hamsun's greatest novels, won the Nobel Prize for literature. "In 'Hunger,'" says the New York Evening Mail in a leading editorial, "the privations, the longings, the stirrings, the disappointments and the aspirations that make up the lives of the vast masses of men and women in America and throughout the world, have been recorded."

"Outlines of History," by H. G. Wells. This is "an attempt to tell truly and clearly in one continuous narrative, the whole story of life and mankind so far as it is known today."

"Noa Noa," by Paul Gauguin. This is a story of the South Sea Islands; a story of "wonderful and strange charm set in a colorful, fantastic world still uncontaminated by civilization."

"Blind," by Ernest Poole, is a story of this age through which we are passing.

"The Captives," by Hugh Walpole, is a novel of religious narrow-mindedness.

There are also "Main Street" by Sinclair Lewis, "The Passing of a New Freedom" by James M. Beck; Margot Asquith's Autobiography, a book which is being widely talked of; "Lincoln," by John Drinkwater, a biography of the great man; "Poems by a Little Girl," by Hilda Conkling, who is eight years old; "Flame and Shadow," a book of poems by Sara Teasdale, and "A Miscellany of American Poetry of 1920."

GRIEG CONCERTO TO BE RARE MUSICAL TREAT

Mrs. Thacher Will Give Composition of High Quality Tonight, With Orchestra Accompaniment.

"While it is one of the real standard concertos, the Grieg Concerto to be played by Mrs. Jane Thacher tonight, is yet musically brilliant, melodic, and easy for the listener to grasp. There is not a dull moment in it."

That is the characterization of made by Rex Underwood, director of the University Orchestra which will accompany Mrs. Thacher in the central number of the concert to be given in Villard hall tonight beginning at 8:30. The remainder of the entertainment will be made up of orchestral music.

Few people realize the enormous amount of work required to get up a concert of the kind offered this evening. Mr. Underwood said. The concerto is difficult to play and difficult of accompaniment.

"And yet judging from rehearsals, it would not be too optimistic to predict that this will be one of the real musical events of the season," the director said.

It was the intention to give the concerto a little later because of the numerous activities going on now, according to Mr. Underwood. However, the accompaniment had to be sent on to the University of Minnesota where the number will be given in a few weeks. The program is to begin at 8:30 so as not to interfere with the basketball game.

The two orchestral numbers which will complete the program are "Pomp and Circumstance March" by Elgar and "Prelude" by Rachmaninoff.

No admission will be charged.
