

FOUR AMENDMENTS PASSED, ONE LOST, IN STUDENT VOTE

Sweaters Not To Be Given for Women's Baseball; Others Carry.

SPEAKERS ASK STUDY OF NEW CONSTITUTION

Change Said To Be Essential; Budget System Given As Strong Point.

The student body meeting yesterday: Voted not to award sweaters for participation in girl's baseball. Voted to increase the size of the basketball letters. Voted to give tennis players a letter or winning with one team in a Pacific coast meet. Voted to decrease the size of the debate and oratory pins. Voted to award the members of the student body orchestra a pin. Presentation and discussion of the new constitution.

Baseball was voted not to be included among the girl's athletic activities which receive student body awards, and sweaters will not be awarded for participation in this sport. The amendment read that a sweater should be presented to any girl playing seven innings in an intercollegiate game, and was presented by Emily Perry. It was almost unanimously voted down by the men.

Eddie Durno presented the amendment providing for the basketball letters to be increased in size from 4x5 1/2 x 1 inches to a letter 5 1/2 x 6 1/2 x 1 1/4 inches which is one inch smaller than the letter awarded for track. Basketball has become more of a major sport, said Eddie, since the size of the letters was designated and it is also something to go through a conference season of 22 games, so I think the men should get more recognition for their work.

Tennis Requirements Changed.

The amendment providing for tennis letters to be given for winning with one team in a Pacific coast meet was presented by Lyle Bartholomew. Heretofore, it has been necessary to win a Pacific coast championship in order to receive a letter.

Elaine Cooper presented the amendment which allows the size of the debate and oratory "O" pins to be reduced to a smaller pin which will be more convenient to wear.

Since the orchestra has become a student body activity, said Ralph Hooper, who presented the amendment, they should have recognition for such, so I think the student body orchestra should have a pin. The pin voted upon will be a triangular shaped pin with the name orchestra written across the top, U. of O. at the bottom and in the center will be engraved two raised notes.

Revisions Are Explained.

In speaking of the matter of the new constitution Wilbur Carl said: "The present constitution has no coordination at all with present conditions. It was made to serve a student body of 500 and is entirely inadequate to serve a student body that is more than three times larger. The new constitution provides for a budget system for all branches of student activity, with an executive council which represents each branch of student activities to have charge of all expenditure of student body funds."

"We have presented this newly drafted constitution to President Campbell, to the faculty, to Professor Howe, chairman of the athletic council, to the alumnae and to different members of students engaged in student activities, and they have all expressed their approval of such an action."

"The committee ask you to go into it in detail," concluded Carl, "and study it out, and in doing so do not lose sight of the fact that a new constitution should be adopted; don't let smaller considerations and minor objections sway your vote, and remember that it can always be amended."

Johnny Houston and Nell Warwick, of the student council, spoke in favor of the constitution and Marion McClain, graduate manager urged that a thoughtful consideration of the adoption of the new constitution be given to it by every student, saying: "This is the biggest undertaking of the students in twenty years, and it is absolutely necessary that some change be made. I feel," he said in conclusion "that it will be the salvation of the student body, especially the adoption of a new budget system."

SOPHOMORE HONOR SOCIETY DISBANDED

Torch and Shield No Longer Exists As Result of Improperly Conducted Dance.

Torch and Shield, sophomore society, which was organized on the campus April 14, 1912, is no longer in existence, as the result of action taken by the student advisory committee regarding an improperly conducted dance held at the Country Club last January.

The cause of the student advisory committee's complaint was that some person or persons placed intoxicating liquor in the punch. The edict of the committee was that Torch and Shield must either surrender the names of the guilty parties within two weeks, or disband.

No action was taken on the part of the society, and the two weeks elapsed without any report upon the matter. The officers of the club were then ordered to disband the organization, and according to Hob Sheppard, its president, this action has been carried out.

The order issued providing the disbandment of the club further provides that the members of the organization will not be allowed to join any other similar organization during their collegiate course. The disbandment of the society is regarded by the committee as the completion of the affair.

U. H. S. OPERETTA TO RETURN MARCH 18-19

"King of the Castles" To Be Seen In Guild Theater.

Because of many requests coming from those who were unable to secure seats for their first performance or who wish to see it again, Anna Landsbury Beck's operetta, "King of the Castles," will be repeated in Guild theater by the University high school students on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, March 18 and 19. The operetta was first produced in the Eugene theater last Friday. The proceeds of the coming performance will go to the high school athletic fund, according to Mrs. Beck.

The change from the Eugene theater to the smaller one will necessitate a readjustment of the scenery which will be made as soon as the "Mikado" scenery is cleared away.

Much favorable comment was caused at the time of the initial performance by the scenery and the costuming. All the designing and making of the scenery and the costumes was done by the art department of the University under the direction of Miss Helen Rhodes, according to Mrs. Beck.

"The whole operetta was designed to be a co-operative scheme and the art department met its part in the fullest measure and is deserving of the highest praise," said Mrs. Beck. "I wish to make grateful acknowledgement of the services of the department and the inspiration received from them without which it would not have been possible to have many of the beautiful effects." An example of the hard work done in making the costumes, Mrs. Beck said, were the headbands worn by the pirates in Act III. These were all hand decorated.

The work of costuming and making the stage settings was assigned by Miss Rhodes to different students in the department. Germany Klemm with her University high school art classes designed by Brownell Frasier and Marion Ady. The dyeing of the cloth and the finished costumes were also accomplished in Miss Rhodes' classes.

"Mothers of those in the cast gave unsparingly of their time in the construction of the costumes," Mrs. Beck said, "and the support received from everyone, including members of the cast made the production possible and gave me memory of lasting pleasure."

VARSITY TRACK TEAM PROSPECTS ARE GOOD; MANY ASPIRANTS OUT

Candidates Beginning to Get Into Condition for Real Season's Work.

PACIFIC COAST MEET HERE FOR FIRST TIME

Five Letter Men Are Back and Will Form Nucleus for Hayward.

With many candidates out for all of the various events the prospects for a good varsity track aggregation seem better than usual. The men have been working out during the greater part of this term and are beginning to get in shape for the real season's work. Daily workouts are taking place, and the men have been asked by Coach Bill Hayward to do some training. The real training will not start until the first part of next term, and by that time the men will be in fair pre-season shape. The bad weather has been a handicap this year but rain or shine the men have been out daily.

For the first time since the Pacific coast conference put track on the schedule of intercollegiate sports the people of Eugene and the University students will have the privilege of witnessing this event at home. Track teams representing Washington, W. S. C., O. A. C., California, and Stanford will be sent here to compete against the varsity and each other on May 21. For the first time in sport history also Oregon will be in shape to receive and handle them. The new track which is at present being constructed around Hayward field will be completed by that time and will match any other track on the coast. At present the gravel foundation has been laid, and two carloads of cinders are on the way here for use as a dressing for the track. More cinders have also been made available for use when necessary.

Two Contests at Home.

Besides the conference meet the varsity will have one other track contest at home. O. A. C. will send a team to Eugene to compete the Saturday previous to the Pacific coast event. At least one frosh meet will be held here also, with Washington high school of Portland.

The track team will make two trips this year. The first will be to Seattle where a dual meet will be held with the

R. O. T. C. INSPECTION TO DETERMINE PLACE

Review for Purpose of Judging Ranking; Colonel Falls Visiting Officer.

The preliminary inspection which will determine whether or not Oregon will be among the colleges in the Ninth Corps Area (R. O. T. C.) who will receive a final inspection to determine the distinguished colleges of the United States was held Wednesday by Colonel Falls, Ninth Corps Area inspecting officer.

The inspection began with a review of the battalion by Colonel Falls, Major Baird, commandant of the local unit, Colonel Partello, commandant of the O. A. C. unit, Major Rowland, assistant to Major Baird and Major Hartwell of O. A. C.

Colonel Falls then inspected, individually, the cadets and their equipment. After this inspection the battalion was dismissed until 2:15. A luncheon was given in Hendricks hall by Dean Fox in honor of the inspecting officer and other visiting officers. The guests were Colonel Falls, Colonel Partello, Major and Mrs. Hartwell, Major and Mrs. Baird, President and Mrs. Campbell, Major Rowland, Dean Fox and Dean Dymont.

At 1 p. m. Colonel Falls inspected two of the machine gun classes. At 2:15 the battalion was again formed. After a parade, which was held on the drill field, the problems of an advance guard was taken up. In regard to the results of the inspection Colonel Falls said: "I am very much pleased to note the improvement in the unit." There will be, in all probability, four schools selected as distinguished colleges from the Ninth Corps Area and according to the Colonel the competition for these places is very close.

A large number of students witnessed the review and moving pictures were taken. These pictures will be shown in the Armory Tuesday evening, March 15.

P. E.'s Propound Poems to Put Pep, Punch, and Pulchritude Into the Poor Plodding Pupils

Ashes to ashes,
And dust to dust
If pink pills won't cure you
Then poetry must!

This apparently, is the theory of the P. E. department, for it has burst into song.

Stern and austere in its administration of University health, the P. E.'s have in their leisure moments been courting the muse. The last issue of the University Health Bulletin opines, vociferates, admonishes and advises in poetic strains that would make Homer throw his halo in the scrap heap.

Rivaling Robert W. Service the health bulletin delivers a philosophical message in the following epic:

"I hate to be a kicker
I'd rather stand for peace;
But the wheel that does the squeaking
Is the wheel that gets the grease."

The bulletin, in ordinary prose, proves the statement that "Spring has Come" with the intelligence that 23 cases of poison oak were treated in one week. Question; how to avoid said dread infection, and the P. E. Poet sweeps his lyre and emits the following:

Poison Oak was all around,
But Mary had no fear,
She walked right on without a sound
But Jane was on her ear.

Mary had been wise, you see,

And rubbed in lots of cream
But Jane had said, "You can't tell me,"
Her face is now a scream.

Hardly content with such delvings into the realm of the soul, upon the succeeding page, is narrated the effects of a balanced diet, thus:

There was a poor student and what do you know
He went to everything from the dance to the show.

(Then his plan he did change to):

Early to bed and a balanced diet
His grades were all ones, why won't you try it?

In keeping with the unordinary tone of the bulletin symbolic initials take the place of dashes which separate the different articles. "BI-BS-GU" they read. These stand for "Better Health—Better Scholarship—Greater University."

Incidentally, the bulletin contains a report of the activities of the infirmary for February, 1921. Women's cases totaled 190, and men's cases 222. A total of 1223 calls were made for various treatments at the infirmary, uninclusive of bed patients.

The bulletins, although not circulated broadcast, is accessible to all. Extra copies are mimeographed, and those interested either in health or in literature may have one for the asking. Verily, all who lisp may read.

WOMEN'S VARSITY TO PLAY O. A. C. TOMORROW

Basketball Game To Be Hard Fought, Says Coach.

The first women's varsity basketball game of the season will be played with the Oregon Agricultural College team at Corvallis tomorrow. Miss Emma Waterman, basketball coach, recently referred the game in which O. A. C. won from the University of Nevada, and says that the varsity team will have to fight hard if they win on Saturday. The O. A. C. team has been organized for some time and besides the Nevada game have played several high school games, while the Oregon girls have been playing together for less than a week.

Charlotte Howells and Helen Nelson will start the game as forwards, Maud Largent, jumping center, Lucy Vander Sterre, side center, and Dorothy McKee, and Emily Perry as guards. The substitutes who will accompany the team to Corvallis Saturday are Oletta Pedersen, forward, Sarah Martin, center and Eloise Harris, guard.

"The varsity team has been working very hard the past week," said Miss Waterman, "and I feel sure they will be able to make a showing against the Oregon Agricultural College team. They have all worked very faithfully, practicing every night since the doughnut league finals."

A great many girls tried out for varsity after the conclusion of the doughnut series, and it was not until the first of the week that a definite choice of the team was made. Miss Waterman expects a hard game Saturday. The O. A. C. guards and forwards are very tall, she said and the squad has a longer time in which to develop teamwork. However, the individual players on the Oregon team have been playing in the doughnut and class practices, and will put the finishing touches on their teamwork in the practice tonight.

The team, accompanied by Miss Waterman and Miss Maud Lombard, instructor in physical education in the Eugene schools, who will referee the game Saturday. A large number of Oregon rooters expect to go to Corvallis to see the game.

BART SPELLMAN AND BRICK MITCHELL TO ASSIST HUNTINGTON

Both Members of '16 Team; Election of Mitchell Is Surprise.

COUNCIL UNFAVORABLE TO HAWAIIAN CONTEST

Investigation of Expenses and Time To Be Made; Varsity To Be Consulted.

"Brick" Mitchell and "Bart" Spellman will act as assistant coaches to "Shy" Huntington, University of Oregon football mentor as a result of the election held at the meeting of the Athletic Council and the Executive Committee last night. Spellman will act in his usual capacity as line coach while the services of Mitchell will be utilized in the training of the ends.

Spellman has acted as assistant coach to Huntington for the past two years in the capacity of line coach and the reelection of "Bart" for this position was considered probable. In securing of Mitchell the Council is adding an additional assistant to the present staff.

Mitchell Is Commended.

"Brick" Mitchell is a former University of Oregon star, having played for two years at the left end position on the varsity eleven. He was a member of the same team with "Shy" Huntington and "Bart" Spellman, the team which vanquished Pennsylvania at Pasadena for the inter-sectional honors in 1916. In 1917 Mitchell played with the Mare Island Marine gridiron squad. His work with the Oregon eleven won him a place on the mythical Pacific coast selections and caused him to be rated by many critics as one of the greatest ends in the United States.

Mitchell was assistant football coach at Stanford during the season of 1919 and during the last season was head coach of the Olympic club football eleven at San Francisco. The selection of "Brick" will mean a valuable addition to the Oregon coaching staff.

Hawaiian Trip Opposed.

That there is considerable opposition to the proposed Hawaiian trip among the members of the Athletic Council and the final answer to the invitation of the University of Hawaii has been postponed for further investigation of the expense and time required to make the trip. Although faculty sanction was secured at the meeting of the faculty last week, it is understood that the trip will require the members of the team leaving school some two weeks before the final examinations of the fall term and they will of necessity receive incompletes in their work.

Other reasons advanced by the opposition were that Oregon would forfeit all chances to meet an eastern team in the inter-sectional game provided that the varsity eleven should win the right to be the western representatives. No final disposition was made of the matter and Graduate Manager Marion McClain was instructed to further investigate the expenses of the trip and the total amount of time which would be required to take the tour. A meeting will be called again in the near future at which the final vote will be taken on the matter. It is probable that in the meantime the members of the football team will be soured out as to their stand on the advisability of taking the trip.

CARUSO 'NEVER MISSED'

Dean Straub Says Fergus Reddie is Able to Fill Any Void.

"Let Caruso die" said Dean John Straub after seeing the performance of the "Mikado" Tuesday night in Guild theatre. He likened the voice of the great master to that of Fergus Reddie's, who won Dean Straub's favor with his patter. A letter received by Mr. Reddie from him ran in part as follows:

"It is needless to say..... it shows the hand of the master. The 'Mikado' ought to be seen by every student. I was worried when I hear that Caruso might die, and we lose his glorious voice, but since hearing you Tuesday night, I can say fearlessly, 'All right, Caruso, pass on!'"

He was highly complimentary regarding the work in general and particularly of Mme. Rose McGrew, who is playing the part of Katisha.

TO-KO-LO ELECTS.

To-Ko-Lo announce the pledging of Guy Koepf, of Eugene.
