

FROSH TAKE BOTH CHEMAWA CONTESTS

Good Early Season Form Is Shown By '24 Nine.

With two black Indian scalps hanging to his belt, Bill Steers returned to the campus Saturday night in company with his victorious frosh baseball team after taking the Chemawa redskins into camp in two contests, the scores being 6-3 and 3-2.

For early season games the contests were very good, according to the coach. The marked improvement in fielding over what was shown in practice was due to the fact that the fields were so much better and according to the testimony of the players it was a big argument for better home diamonds.

In both games "Tex" Knight did exceptional work. He is credited with the second game because of a home run which netted the winning score. "Lefty" Baldwin's pitching was also a feature of the second game and served as a counter-defense against the work of Joe Beetle, a semi-professional pitcher whom the Indians used.

The hitting of the team was described as above average by a group of Oregon supporters who saw the game at Salem. The youngsters managed to garner in 10 hits at the game at Chemawa and knocked Beetle for 11 at Salem the next day.

Large crowds witnessed both contests and according to all reports the boys received courteous treatment and a square deal. "Frisco" Edwards, of the Salem Senators, umpired the first game and "Ducky" Holmes, also of the Senators, acted in that capacity for the Salem game.

Oregon's batteries did exceptionally well for the first games of the season. "Lefty" Baldwin and Ward Johnson worked out as pitcher and catcher in the opener while Johnson handled the shoots of both Doug Wright and Phil Ringle in the home town of the Senators.

The next game for the frosh will probably be at home as an attempt is being made to stir up a row with the Eugene high school for next Saturday morning. With another week of practice and their experience of last weekend the ball playing knights of the green cap will be expected to put up a lively show for the local ball fans.

PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN

"The Dawning" Will Be Repeated Tonight, At Central Presbyterian.

"The Dawning," a religious pageant, will be given for the fourth time at the Central Presbyterian church at 7:30 tonight. Seats will be reserved for college students up to 7:25. The pageant is being repeated again on account of the large demand for it.

The pageant, which was first given on Easter Sunday, is said to have very good scenic and musical effects. It is a dramatization of the story of the Resurrection. Native costumes form a picturesque part of the production. Forty-eight characters, including eight University people, are in the cast.
