

DR. PACKARD TALKS ON WOMEN OF NEAR EAST

Influence of Christian Home In Persia Described

"There is nothing which has as much influence in Mohammedan countries as the Christian home" declared Dr. H. B. Packard, returned medical missionary from Persia, in a talk at the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday on "The Work Among Women and the Influence of a Woman's Life in the Near East." The medical profession, Christian work, the power of the press, all are important, but not as important as the Christian home.

Dr. Packard told the story of a woman who came to him for medical help to illustrate the great ignorance which is prevalent in Persia. The wife of a powerful sheik came to the hospital to undergo an operation. The people do not trust their own native physicians, but they will come to a Christian doctor. This woman had a servant with her whom she always called "Lady Satan." Mrs. Packard on one of her visits to the hospital asked the woman why she called this servant by such a strange name. "Why she knows how to read and write," the woman replied. When asked if she considered this reason enough for the name, she said no she was a good woman, but she was the only one around that part of the country who could read or write.

With all their ignorance they are absolutely intolerant of any other religion. The children are so eager to learn that when two of them had to read from one book one of them learned by reading upside down. Then when they were able to have a book apiece the child that learned to read upside down had to begin all over again.

"There is a great need for work in the institutions of America, but there is also a need for work in that part of the world where they do not have the opportunities we have," said Dr. Packard. Mrs. Packard 15 years ago gave the first diplomas that had ever been received by these people in western education. Before she was able to do this she had to deliver an address in the Turkish language, said Dr. Packard.

"If you girls knew about the benighted life the Mohammedan woman has to live you would try to help lift her up," said Dr. Packard. They have to go around all the time with veils over their faces and are allowed to see no one that is eligible to marry her. Dr. Packard said that perhaps his wife would be coming this way soon and that the girls would be able to learn a great deal more about these women. "Mrs. Packard is good at telling stories," he said.

ZETA KAPPA PSI IS INSTALLED AT O. A. C.

Oregon Chapter Has Charge of Ceremonies; Nine Members Varsity Team Initiated.

Zeta chapter of Zeta Kappa Psi, women's honorary debate society was installed last week-end at O. A. C. Miss Elaine Cooper, president of the Oregon chapter was the installing officer. Other members of the Oregon chapter who assisted in the ceremonies were: Marie Ridings, Helen Carson, Wanda Dagget and Laurel Canning, who was graduated from the University last year and is now working in the library at O. A. C.

Nine members were initiated, all of whom have been members of the O. A. C. varsity debate teams. One of the requirements to membership to the Zeta chapter is that of being a member of a varsity team, as they have no house debates there. Here, members of house teams are eligible to membership.

The installation ceremonies were held in the Delta Zeta house, on Friday afternoon, the initiation taking place in the afternoon, and the initiation banquet in the evening. All the ceremonies were in charge of Beta chapter of Oregon.

Zeta chapter is the sixth chapter of Zeta Kappa Psi, the others being at the Kansas Agricultural College at Manhattan, the University of Minnesota, the University of Iowa, the University of Kansas, and at Oregon.

6 GRADUATES REGISTER

Students Will Take Work in University Until Commencement.

As the official graduations from the University of Oregon take place in January and June, six of the students who made their required number of credits for graduation at the close of the winter term, have registered in the graduate school and expect to remain in college until formally graduated in June.

Norman Byrnes, who majored in mathematics, is now majoring in rhetoric in the graduate school.

William Kussis, a former major in Greek, is now majoring in romantic languages.

Alice Thurston and Marie Ridings, mathematic majors, Wilbur Hulm, majoring in psychology, and Alice Hamm, in English literature, are continuing to major in the same subjects they did before their hours were completed.

NEW COURSE OFFERED.

A new course in marketing is being offered this term by the department of household arts. Besides reading and studying work this course will include "scouting" in the local markets. During the past week the class has visited the city meat markets where they were shown the method of cutting meat and told the best cuts of meat.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement of Laura Rand to Mike Harris was announced last night at the Pi Phi dance. Miss Rand is a member of Pi Beta Phi and well known campus singer. Mike Harris is a popular senior majoring in law, and a Sigma Chi.

STRUCTURE OF ATOMS IS SUBJECT OF TALK

Lyman Meador Reads Technical Paper Before Regular Meeting of Chemistry Club.

"The Structure of the Atom" was the subject of a paper read by Lyman Meador, a senior in the chemistry department, at the regular meeting of the chemistry department, at the regular meeting of the chemistry club Thursday evening. The lecture was built around Langmuir's theory of the atom, in which he contended that the atom is composed of positive and negative electricity. The nucleus of the atom is centrally located and positively charged, and is surrounded by negatively charged electrons. Langmuir also proved that the sum of the electrons adds to the atomic number of the elements as given by the periodic table.

All the elements are made up of these positively charged bodies, said Mr. Meador, and that the only difference is in the number of positive charges in the nucleus, all the electrons being the same. These electrons are stationary, rotate and vibrate or oscillate in definite positions around the nucleus, most probably they oscillate in restricted planes.

After the lecture a business meeting was held, at which plans for the remainder of the year were discussed. It was planned to have several more lectures, which are to be less technical in nature, and of more public interest.
