ELSTON IRELAND OUT FOR A. S. U. O. HEAD

Both Stan Eisman and Floyd Maxwell, who have signified their intentions of contesting for the position, have been active on campus publications during their years on the campus.

Eisman is at present editor of Lemon Punch, Oregon's comic magazine, which was started during the past year. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, and of Sigma Upsilon, national writers' fraternity. He served for one year as reporter on the Emerald, acting as editorial writer the following year. In the first term of this year, before the inauguration of the comic magazine, Eisman was night editor on the Emerald. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Maxwell is at present sports editor on the Emerald, and served as assistant sports editor the year before. He is editor of this year's sports section of the Oregonian, and assisted in preparing that section last year. He was recently elected to Sigma Delta Chi, and will be initiated into the journalism fraternity this week. Maxwell has been prominent in class and student activities, having been chairman of the sophomore dance committee this year, and being named sophomore member of the student council this last fall to fill a vacancy. He is a member of Sigma Chi.

Harry Mayer, who has announced his candidacy for junior man on the student council, has been active in campus activities during his two years on the campus. He has achieved quite a reputation as a musician, and with Lyle McCroskey, manages a student dance on week-end nights. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

JUNIOR WEEK-END FUN WILL BE WELL FILMED

Thirteen Hundred Feet of Pictures to Be Taken; Tug-of-War and Track Meet Included.

Thirteen hundred feet of motion picture film will be devoted to Junior Week-end stunts this year, according to Alfred Powers, picture expert for the University. Up until this time, Mr. Powers has devoted a great part of his time to stereopticon slides, but he is one of the heads of the movement for filming Oregon fun, May 18, 19, 20. Bill Hayward's lantern, which traveled to the Olympic games last summer with such good results, will be used in filming the campus and campusites this spring.

In order that the highest talent in the picture line should be used, to guard against spoiling the film, Lew Tyrrell, who is an experienced operator, and who was on the campus last term, has been persuaded to run the machine. The developing will be done either in Portland or in Chicago, said Mr. Powers.

The "campus film directors" will concentrate on action scenes mainly, it is declared, and not on scenery, although this will be considered to some extent. As the plans stand at this early date, they expect to get the tug-of-war over the race, several hundred feet of track-meet, pictures, campus clean-up scenes and perhaps a few pictures of frosh at the "O" on Skinner's Butte.

REDDIE GIVES READING.

A reading of Macbeth by Fergus Reddie was given in Guild theatre Saturday night under the auspices of the Shakespeare club of Eugene, as an observance of the Shakespearean anniversary. The reading was public and about 150 were present.

HELEN NICOLAI VISITS.

Helen Nicolai, ex-21, is visiting friends on the campus this week before leaving for Arizona, where she will act as director for the Ellison White Chautauqua.

It Pays to Buy Meat

Now and then you will see an announcement that a certain kind of food is of more nourishing value than so much meat. That may be so, but if you had to eat that as much as you do meat, it would surely get tiresome. Meat is practically the only food that has high nourishing value that can be eaten every day and not become tiresome.
