A BIG UNDERTAKING.

The Pacific Coast Conference track meet which will be held here Saturday is one of the biggest events staged under the auspices of the A. S. U. O. This year is the first time in history that the coast conference meet has been held at Eugene, and it is a big undertaking.

An announcement will be made that A. S. U. O. cards will not admit to this meet. This may come as a surprise, and may even occasion criticism. An explanation may clarify matters.

At the last conference meeting, which was held in Berkeley late last fall, Oregon bid for the conference meet, and it was awarded to us. The conference passed a ruling that a $2000 guarantee was necessary for the privilege, and Oregon is thus made to pay that much.

Ordinarily, A. S. U. O. cards admit to all athletic events staged during the term in which the card is issued. But the extraordinary expense of the conference track meet necessitate an additional charge for everyone.

Last year, it will be remembered, there were no home track meets. A. S. U. O. cards therefore admitted students to no meets. This year one dual meet has already been opened to students, so there should be no criticism on that score.

At Stanford, where the conference track meet was held last year, all students were required to pay an admission larger than that which will be asked students here. At Washington, where the met was held the year before, an admission was likewise asked. Thus it can be seen that in refusing admission to holders of A. S. U. O. cards, Oregon is doing nothing different from the practices at other institutions.

We are fortunate in being able to have the coast conference track meet here for the first time. We have one of the best ovals on the coast, and we are prepared in every way to stage one of the best conference meets ever held. Those in charge of the meet will introduce new features, and attempt in every way to put it over in true Oregon style.

It is a great deal better that students pay an extra amount to witness the meet than for the A. S. U. O. to go into debt a great deal to stage the meet. There is really nothing else for us to do.

For the first time in history, or at least, recent history, the Oregonians seems likely to be financially successful. The book is one of the best issued, and there is no reason for any students failing to pay the remainder of their subscription to the book if they have already promised to purchase one. Unless some students go back on their promise to complete payment on the book, the Oregonians will come out ahead. Save up the money now, as the book will be out during the week-end.

In the somewhat hurried construction of the new A. S. U. O. constitution, mistakes were made which are now being discovered. The alumni association does not elect its member on the new executive council until commencement, whereas it is necessary that the council function a great deal before that time. Some method must be found to remedy this situation.

BISHOP STUNTZ WILL SPEAK AT ASSEMBLY

Eloquent Speaker Coming Thursday; Junior Week-end Program Will Also Be Discussed.

Bishop Homer C. Stuntz, of the Methodist Episcopal church, recent delegate to the national gathering of the church officials at Portland, and regarded by his fellow churchmen as the most eloquent speaker of the meeting, will deliver a 30-minute address to the student body at the regular weekly assembly on Thursday morning, at 11 o'clock.

The subject of the Bishop's address has not yet been announced, but advices received at the President's office concerning his recent appearances in various cities of the state and the enthusiasm that he aroused among his hearers give promise that his talk to the students will carry great inspirational value to every person present.

STORE ENLARGES.

Because of their growing business which necessitates larger quarters, Geo. H. McMorran and Carl G. Washburne purchased the building where their store has been located since 1912, from Cockrell and Weatherbee last week. The building, which is the most valuable business property in Lane county, sold for approximately $100,000. It is announced that another story will be added to the building soon.

Students of the University of Oregon will congratulate Mr. McMorran and Mr. Washburne in their new venture. Both have been liberal subscribers to the University of Oregon, Mr. McMorran being one of the leading citizens in raising the money to make the new Woman's building possible, and Mr. Washburne and his family were heavy subscribers. "We have bought the store building because we believe Oregon, Eugene and the University have a great future," states Mr. McMorran.

association at the University of Washington, was called upon and she told the girls how she appreciated their wonderful hospitality. "Last year when the Washington people visited the campus they were so impressed with the custom of saying 'hello' that when they returned we said 'hello' for almost a week," said Miss Gilbert.

Several senior girls were called upon for talks, but some of them had an inkling of what was coming and had left. However, Vivian Chandler, Isla Gilbert and Nancy Fields did tell the girls how they enjoyed the breakfast, as seniors.

SENIOR BREAKFAST HAS NEW TRADITION

Affair Is Held In Woman's Building.

A new tradition was added to the annual senior breakfast when it was held this year in the sun parlor of the Woman's building instead of the home of Mrs. P. L. Campbell. "I am sorry that we can not entertain the girls in our home any more, and in another way I am glad, for it marks progress in the growth of the Y. W. C. A.," said President Campbell, speaking to the girls Saturday morning in the place of Mrs. Campbell, who was unable to attend the breakfast this year.

Eleanor Spall, toastmistress and president of the association, welcomed the seniors and expressed the pleasure of the other girls in being able to entertain the seniors. Marjorie Holaday responded for the senior girls.

The junior girls are official escorts for the seniors at this breakfast. They were represented by Le Laine West. Miss West told the seniors how the juniors felt about the breakfast and how they enjoyed taking the seniors.

Miss Dinsdale, secretary, read a note from Dean Fox expressing her regrets at being unable to attend the banquet. Miss Watson compared the Y. W. C. A. with a bee hive, and Miss Dinsdale, Mrs. P. L. Campbell, and Dean Fox as the queen bees. When the seniors leave school they will not have the direct help of these women who have taken such an interest in all the work of the association, but they will always have these pleasant memories.
