

VARSITY AND AGGIES SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER IN CLOSE CONTESTS

Oregon Wins First By Score of 3 to 2 and Loses
Second 5 to 4.

HOMERUN BY KNUDSEN BRINGS THREE RUNS

Berg Pitches 15 Innings of Airtight Ball; Jacobson
Hurls Three.

The double-header baseball game played Saturday morning between the varsity and O. A. C. resulted in an even break, Oregon taking the first contest, 3-2, while the Aggies came out on top in the final game, the score of which was 5-4. Berg and Knudsen were the main factors in the Lemon-Yellow victory, while "boots" were the prime cause of the loss of the second game, in which the Oregon defense crumbled in crucial moments.

In the initial set-to, Art Berg, for the University, allowed but five scattered bingles, and counted out nine of the Corvallis batsmen on strikes. Carl Knudsen, heavy hitting right fielder, put the game on ice in the first canto when he pickled one of Bert Babb's fast ones for a circuit clout with two men decorating the sacks. Knudsen's homer ended the varsity scoring but the three runs brought home the bacon, as the Aggies could get but two runners across the plate.

Visitors Hit Hard.
In the first half of the first, the visitors started things with a bang. Noonan and McKenna opened on Berg with singles but their hits went for naught when the big fellow retired the next three of the batting order on strikes.

Berg found himself in a bad hole in the fifth. Tasto hit a long fly to the outfield which was misjudged and which went for two bags. An infield bobbie put Babb, next man up, on first, and advanced Tasto to third. Knudsen saved the day when he made a beautiful running catch of Noonan's liner and caught Babb off second for the third out.

The O. A. C. tallies came in the ninth. Two glaring errors and a walk filled the bases. Gill laid one down the third base line, a boot scored McKenna, while "Spec" Keene crossed the pan a moment later on Hartman's sacrifice fly. Zimmerman, Oregon left fielder, made a beautiful running catch of this fly, and throwing as he fell, stopped further scoring. Berg retired the side a moment later by retiring Tasto for the final out of the game.

Berg Fans Eight.
Berg started the second game, which immediately followed the first, and for six innings of the final game in which he worked, Art struck out eight men, allowed three hits and issued one base on balls, and was responsible for none of the three counters which the Collegians amassed.

The Aggies started proceedings in the first inning, when two errors in the infield netted a tally. Berg ended the frame by striking out "Spec" Keene and Booth, with one down and an Orange and Black runner on third.

The Aggies tallied in the fifth, sixth

DUCKING AND ROOTING RESULT IN SUNBURN

Frosh President Develops Prize Case;
Also Suffers From Loss of Voice.

It began Friday morning, when, just on general principles, the senior cops dipped him head first into the cooling waters of the fountain.

Friday afternoon he did much rooting for the frosh tug-of-war team, and immediately thereafter plunged into the cold millrace, which helped it along still more.

At the ball game Saturday morning he yelled for Oregon and shouted defiance to the O. A. C. rooters, which was the beginning of the end—

And to cap the climax, he went to the track meet Saturday afternoon and sat in the burning sun of the bleachers with no protection except a rooter's cap—

Until now, the president of the class of 1924 has one of the most beautiful cases of sunburn that has appeared on the campus so far this spring, and in addition to that, he has lost his voice, practically so, for he is unable to talk above a whisper. But Claire should worry, for the luck is all his when the recitations are oral.

HUG IS EXPECTED TO SIGN CONTRACT SOON

A contract was mailed last night to George Hug, who was recently elected graduate manager of the University of Oregon, and it is expected that he will sign immediately. The contract calls for a salary of $3400 a year and the duties of the office are to be taken over June 1.

It is understood that Hug has decided to accept the office, but has been delaying announcing his acceptance until signing the contract. Should Hug sign the contract mailed him, he will resign his office as superintendent of Salem public schools and take over his new position immediately. Hug was in Eugene over the past week-end arranging details of the contract specifications.

HAMMER AND COFFIN CHAPTER INSTALLED

Nine Members of Lemon Punch
Society Initiated.

Hammer and Coffin, national humorous publication society, was formally installed into the University of Oregon last Friday and Saturday evenings when nine members of the Punch Publishing Society were initiated into the mysteries of the Coffin. The installing officers were Steele Lindsay and Merv McGinnis, editor and business manager of the Lemon Punch were initiated Friday evening and the remaining members Saturday evening. A banquet at the Hotel Osburn followed the final initiation ceremonies.

Preceding initiation ceremonies the new initiates on the business staff of the Punch were required to sell first copies of "Lemmy," which had just come from the bindery, at the Junior class play. At the banquet Saturday evening speeches were made by Steele Lindsay and Merv McGinnis, who spoke concerning the literary and business departments of the Sun Dodger and the possibilities in the field of humor.

Hammer and Coffin Society was founded at Menlo, California, in 1906. Present chapters of the society are located at Stanford, California; University of Washington, and University of Oregon, which include the "Chaparral," "Sun Dodger" and "Lemon Punch." Those initiated into the society Friday and Saturday evenings were Harris Ellsworth, Stan Eisman, John Braddock, Chan Castle, Frank Short, Allen Carncross, Ray Vester, Harry Smith and Dean Ireland. Other members of the Punch Publishing Society to be initiated in the near future are Wilbur Hulin, Ernest Haycox and Roscoe Hemenway.

"Lemmy" plans to issue six magazines next year, two each term, according to the editor. Features and cartoons for the fall number will be worked on during the summer vacation, so that the first issue will make its appearance shortly after the opening of the University.

LETTERS BRING GUESTS

Junior Week-end Publicity Attracted Preppers to Campus.

The 500 letters and 300 posters which were sent out to the high schools of the state to advertise Junior Week-end were partly responsible for the great number of guests on the campus, says Art Kuhnhausen, chairman of the publicity committee for the week-end.

Many of the visitors have told him, Kuhnhausen says, that they were made eager to see the University by these letters, by the posters and by stories of the plans for the week-end which appeared in most of the newspapers in the state. The Greater Oregon committee also sent out invitations and descriptions of the plans for the week-end, and every high school in the state was reached somehow, Kuhnhausen says. His assistant on the committee was James Say.

PROFESSORS HOLD QUIZZES.

Miss Mary Perkins and Dr. E. S. Bates were in Portland Thursday and Friday to act on the examining board for the English majors at Reed college. Every major is required to write a thesis and take an examination, the same thing that Oregon requires of a student wishing to take honors in a subject. The examinations will continue throughout the next week also.

BOVARD GOES EAST, VISITS BIG SCHOOLS, LIKES OREGON BEST

Dean of Physical Education
Declares Work Here Is Excellent.

FACILITIES OF MANY UNIVERSITIES NOTED

Intramural Sports Is Latest
Movement; All Colleges
Need Money.

After a survey and study of physical education work as it is carried on in the schools and universities of the east, John F. Bovard, dean of the school of physical education, who has just returned from an extended trip through the country, declares that there is no place like the University of Oregon. "The farther you get away from home the better it seems to be back here," he declared.

"The Oregon organization of physical education work was highly praised by people in the east," he continued. "Of course, Oregon is a comparatively small school, but its facilities are excellent. It is one of the few schools in the country to train both men and women as teachers in physical training, and it has a right to be proud of this work."

Many Schools Visited.
Dr. Bovard visited California, middle western universities, Columbia, Harvard, Chicago University, and the University of Illinois. He studied all these schools to find out what they had that he could bring back to Oregon. The University of Michigan has practically the same organization as Dr. Bovard is working out here, and he was interested to note all the details of its system.

"The chief movement which other schools are carrying on," he said, "is that of intra-mural sports. I was particularly impressed by the fact that Oregon had such a good chance to build up this kind of sport, since there are such large fields close to the campus that may be used for tennis courts, baseball diamonds, handball courts and every other sport which the students at this growing University would be interested in." He stated that all the schools he visited were rather strapped for money, so they could not fully carry out their program of recreational facilities for everyone, but that they all had definite aims along this line.

Baseball Popular In East.
In speaking of the facilities offered by other universities he told of the splendid opportunity which the students at the University of Illinois had to play baseball. "At times there are as many as 18 games all going on at the same time. Everybody plays," he said with a smile. Harvard has a great number of tennis courts, and all the men play, which Dr. Bovard claims in the reason why most Harvard graduates are such tennis sharks.

"One thing I took special pains to see in every college I visited was their woman's building, and I can truthfully say that our Woman's building stands up favorably when compared with any other of like character in the country," Dr. Bovard said, with an air of pride. He compared it with the woman's gymnasium and club house at the University of Chicago. That building, while it is very large, beautiful, and expensive, is not any more satisfactory than ours, he maintained. Whereas we have only about 550 girls to accommodate, and they have over 2000, we have five gym floors, which are usable at all times, while they have only one.

Wellesley's Schools Noted.
"Something they have at Wellesley, which we do not have, are playing fields, where the girls taking up various sports in the gym classes can practice," he went on. "On the other hand, they have practically no outdoor gyms in the east, but armories with dirt floors. A stadium is being planned at the University of Illinois which is to cost three and one-half million, and just recently the student body there has raised $640,000, which is an average of $100 per student." The plan of these stadiums is to make them a great recreational center for all the students.

Dean Bovard also investigated the student health service and obtained all the latest ideas on how the health of the college student should be safeguarded which ideas he expects to use at Oregon.

PACIFIC COAST TENNIS TOURNAMENT PLACES CALIFORNIA AT TOP

Stanford, Oregon, O. A. C., W.
S. C. and Washington
Follow In Order.

SMITH-WESTERMAN TEAM RANKED HIGH

Lemon-Yellow Drew Third By Good Luck and Skillful Playing.

California, Stanford, Oregon, O. A. C., W. S. C. and Washington. That is the way the standing of the Pacific coast conference tennis tournament read, according to Professor Sam Bass Warner, official scorekeeper of the tournament.

Although Washington placed last, her team was probably superior to O. A. C. and W. S. C. and would have given Oregon a hard run, according to local tennis fans, and the placing was due largely to the results of the drawing. Oregon was fortunate in this respect and this bit of luck combined with excellent work of Smith and Westerman gave the Lemon-Yellow an excellent standing.

Next to the home team, the Californians were easily the favorites among the fans, both Bates and Levy being true sports as well as whirlwind players. Davies, the Stanford man who came out ahead in the singles finals, also was popular.

Large Crowds on Hand.
When the tournament started Thursday afternoon there was a large crowd on hand to welcome the visitors. Old man Jupe was there, too, and after Oregon had defeated W. S. C., and California had defeated both Washington and O. A. C. in the first part of the singles preliminary, he turned on the mist and the affair stopped for the afternoon.

Friday the sun came out winner and so did Bates and Levy, of California, who with their wonderful drives and careful placing took everything in sight.

One of the interesting features of the day was a hard-fought battle between the Sun Dodgers and the Bears in which the former, although losing, showed class that gives them a third or fourth place, in the eyes of the fans.

Bates Is Fast.
Terrific playing and increased crowds were features of the last day's finals. Bates, of the Bears, and Davies, of Stanford, fought it out to a finish, with Davies coming out winner. In the rapid-fire doubles, the tables were turned, and the Blue and Gold of California triumphed.

Both teams expect to go east, almost immediately, to take part in eastern tournaments. Oregon and the other northern schools wish them luck and join in hailing them as champion tennis players and mighty good sports, according to the consensus of opinion, expressed at an informal meeting of the teams, immediately following the close of the finals.

RESULTS:

Singles—Davies (Stanford) beat Allen (Washington), 6-3, 6-4; Westerman (Oregon) won from Webber (W. S. C.) 6-4, 6-3; Bates (California) beat Taylor (Washington) 6-0, 6-3; Neer (Stanford) beat Maberly (O. A. C.) 6-1, 6-0.

In the singles semi-finals, Levy (California) took two sets from Joy (O. A. C.) by 6-1 and 6-1 score, and Smith (Oregon) from Heald (W. S. C.) by 6-2, 6-3. Davies (Stanford) won from Westerman (Oregon) 6-0 and 6-3, while Bates (California) won from Smith (Oregon), and from Neer (Stanford) by the same scores.

Doubles—Bates and Levy (California) beat Smith and Westerman (Oregon) 6-4 and 6-0, and beat Allen and Taylor (Washington) 7-5 and 7-5. Maberly and Joy (O. A. C.) won from Webber and Heald (W. S. C.) 6-3, 6-3. Neer and Davies (Stanford) won from Waller and Langlie (Washington) 6-0 and 6-3, and from Maberly and Joy (O. A. C.) 6-2, 6-4.

Finals—California defeated Stanford, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6 and 6-4, with Bates and Levy, of California, against Neer and Davies, of Stanford.

The rating of the teams, placing California, Stanford and Oregon at the top was determined by the number of sets won by the various teams.

MARVEL SKEELS AND REMEY COX WINNERS

Award of Gerlinger and Koyl
Cups Made at Prom.

The Koyl and Gerlinger cups, given each year to the man and woman in the junior class standing highest in scholarship and in student activities, were presented last Saturday night to Remy Cox and Marvel Skeels. The awards were announced at the Junior Prom by President P. L. Campbell.

The Koyl cup has been on the campus for the past eight years, having been given by Charles W. Koyl. It is awarded every year, according to Dean John Straub, to the young man who has had the most influence for good in his junior year. He must be an all-around man, not an athlete or debater alone, but one who exerts an exceptional influence on his fellow students.

The Gerlinger cup is awarded to the college woman standing highest in scholarship, leadership, college activities and for her personality and loyalty, said Dean Elizabeth Fox. It was given four years ago by Mrs. George Gerlinger, of Portland, a member of the board of regents.

The decision to make the award to Cox was made because of his activity in college affairs during the past year. He was a leader in the fight for the passage of the millage bill, upon which the school depended. He is, at present, head of the forum, and forensic manager. He has taken much interest in debating and has been a member of the varsity debating team for the past two years. Cox was also a member of the Oregon staff this year. Another factor which had to do with the decision was that he has made his own way through college.

Miss Skeels stands high in scholarship, her average for the year being 2.45. She has been active on student body committees and on musical organizations, being a member of the glee club, Mu Phi Epsilon and the music council. During her sophomore year, Miss Skeels was elected into membership by Kwana sophomore honor society. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Former holders of the Koyl cup are Herbert Lombard, Leslie O. Tooze, Nicholas Jauregui, Randall Scott, Dwight Wilson, Herald White and Thomas I. Chapman. Those who previously held the Gerlinger cup are Roberta Schubel, Dorothy Duniway and Nancy Fields.

SAILING DATE CHANGED

European Trip Plans Altered; Destination of Ship Is Shifted.

Plans for the European trip under Dean Elizabeth Fox and Miss Julia Burgess will be altered owing to a change in the date of sailing.

The destination of the steamer Leopoldina, on which the party was to have left New York on July 2, has been changed to a South American port, so other sailing dates are being considered by the members of the party. It is hoped that some satisfactory arrangement can be made.

MEN ENTER FORESTRY WORK.

Jack Benfield, Jake Jacobson, Don Davis and Elmer Pendall will work with the 91st aero squadron here in Eugene this summer in the forest patrol. The last three were engaged last year in the same work. Pendall will be liaison officer.
