START RIGHT

GET the "Assembly Habit."

Every Thursday morning there will be an assembly in Villard Hall. Today will mark the beginning of that succession of Thursday assemblies and it is the day to get the right sort of a start.

Of course there will be assemblies that bore you. You can't be satisfied with every one, but there are many more good features than there are poor ones and every effort will be made this year to weed out the poor ones.

The freshman gets his first impression of the students he has cast his lot with today. On the shoulders of the older students falls the responsibility of getting the freshmen started right.

We might hint that there was a chance for a lot of missionary work along that line last year, and we would not be far from right. The importance of attending assemblies cannot be over emphasized and the time to get the habit starts today. Make it a record.

DON'T crowd over the sidelines, boys, when you go out to watch that football team at work. Shy Huntington, Bart Spellmanman, Brick Mitchell and Bill Hayward are devoting every moment of their time to perfecting that gridiron machine, and they can't stop and ask you to step back of the sidelines. That is only one of the ways you can help.

FIFTY students answered the call for the first instructions for staff positions on the Emerald yesterday. With such a wealth of material to select from, the coveted position on the Emerald staff will mean all the more honor to the plodder who gets to the top.

THE wearers of the green will have their inning today. Everything comes to him who waits, and the frosh have been waiting patiently for this day. Look them over carefully, Sophs, and then shape their destinies accordingly.

The Vegetable Stand

Fruit—Glorious Fruit; Fresh and Near Fresh.

E. J. H.

Here we are again at the same old stand, peddling the same old line of goods. Intermittently, or perhaps still less frequently, we will bust forth in some strain of adumbrated orations, which some of you became more or less familiar with last year. Until then we wish you a happy time getting registered. We change the title because the old caption "Campus Cynic," besides being false in implication sounded too dyspeptic. Adois; At present we have our card ruled out with courses requiring heavy reading, heavy note taking, and heavy oil burning. We now depart in search of a course allowing a little light slumber. Somehow or other we are reminded, in our protracted search for such a study, of a well known brand of mince meat; "Noneseuch". Funny thing this association of ideas.

DYMENT TO FRAME CODE

Dean Asked by State to Submit Draft to Conference

Colin V. Dymont, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, has just been appointed by the State Editorial Association to formulate a code of ethics in journalism to be submitted at the winter conference of the association for adoption as a working code for newspaper workers and publishers. The state conference will be held on the campus as usual in January.

Dean Dymont read a paper on this subject in Bend in July at the summer meeting of the organization. It was at this time that the members decided to adopt a working code for their general guidance.

91ST MEN INVITE DYMENT

Dean to Attend Annual Meeting of Veterans at Portland

Colin V. Dymont, Dean of the College of Literature, Science and the Arts, will go to Portland this week-end to attend the annual reunion of the Oregon veterans of the 91st Division. A banquet at the Multnomah hotel Saturday evening has been planned for the world war veterans, and he will be present at this meeting. Lieutenant Ben Dorris, commander of the American Legion post of Eugene, and a member of Co. F, 362nd Infantry, will represent his post.

Dean Dymont believes the spirit of the men of the 91st, so strong during the war, that in many respects it resembled a college spirit, has continued. Every year in the week of September 26, the anniversary of the date when the division went into action, reunions are held in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and in Montana.

MANY CHANGES IN BUILDINGS TO AID HOUSING PROBLEM

This small room houses the metal melting pot and casting machine which will be used in casting cuts for the Emerald and other shop work. The interior of the journalism shack is also being remodeled, several partitions having been torn out and the classroom changed from its old position to the room formerly used by reporters. Professor Thacher now has his classroom and office in the old classroom.

An important change is that made in the physical education building where the dispensary is now located. A waiting room, a surgical dressing room and three doctor's offices are provided here. None but bed cases will be taken at the infirmary, which has been repapered and overhauled during the summer. The new dispensary is convenient to the campus and eliminates disturbance in the infirmary caused by students coming in for dispensary treatment.

Deady Hall Basement Altered

Minor alterations have been made in the basement of Deady hall to provide better quarters for the physics laboratories.

The second floor of the library has been converted into an overflow reading room to relieve the congestion which has prevailed in the main reading room for the past few years. This floor has been entirely remodeled and will provide study space for many students. A circulation desk will be maintained here for certain classes of reference and reserve books.

GEOLOGY ATTRACTIVE TO MANY THIS TERM

60 Freshmen in General Course; Dr. Hodge to Return Soon. To Accept Position

Economic geology will be emphasized this year by the geology department, according to Dr. E. L. Packard, acting head of the department in the absence of Dr. Warren D. Smith. At an early hour yesterday 60 freshmen had registered in the general geology course and Dr. Packard expects at least 70 in the class. To date 25 majors have enrolled in the department.

Dr. Smith will remain another year in the Philippines to assist in the reorganization of the Bureau of Science. Major-General Leonard Wood, governor-to-be of the Philippines, cabled the University requesting that Dr. Smith be granted another year's absence. Dr. Packard was on his way to Eugene from Alaska, where he had been engaged in some private business during the summer vacation, when he was cabled Dr. Smith had been granted an extension of leave.

Dr. Packard immediately got in touch with Dr. E. T. Hodge, instructor in the geology department during the spring term, asking him to take a place on the Oregon faculty. Dr. Hodge, former consulting geologist for New York City, later a member of the faculty of the University of British Columbia, will arrive on the campus soon, where he will be a permanent member of the faculty.

BOWMAN IN EXTENSION DIVISION

J. Carl Bowman, who graduated from the University last year, is now instructor of education in the correspondence study department of the extension division. Mr. Bowman is also taking work in the University toward a master's degree. He is majoring in education and minoring in sociology.

DR. REBEC ON CAMPUS PLEASES OLD-TIMERS

Philosophy Professor Here for Part Time; May Later Return to Full Schedule

To the faculty and older students on the campus the sight of Dr. George Rebec seems mighty good, and the realization that he will be in Eugene part time during the winter is very pleasing. If conclusions may be drawn from the comments of various persons, Dr. Rebec, who is dean of the graduate school, and is also director of the Portland center of the University of Oregon, will be on the campus on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of every week. The rest of the time he will spend in Portland attending to his duties there. He will conduct classes in philosophy of history and a philosophical seminar this term.

His part time work here is regarded as an indication that he may at some future date be on the campus entirely, as he was up until about 1917.

Dr. Rebec's son Will, who is well-known here, is now a sophomore in medicine at the University of Michigan. He completed the requirements for a B.A. there in August.
