REORGANIZATION OF PHYSICAL TRAINING FOR MEN UNDER WAY

H. A. Scott, New Department Head, To Make Many Revisions

ABILITY TO BE TEST

Demonstration of Prowess Is Necessary Before Course Can Be Elected

Revolutionization of the old system of physical education for men is planned by H. A. Scott, new head of the department, who was brought here from Columbia University for that purpose. Classification according to ability is to be stressed in all classes in accordance with the theory that is being adopted by physical education leaders all over the country.

All men taking gymnasium will be put to an ability test, the result of which will determine whether he shall enter the elementary or advanced classes of sports. As usual, freshmen, sophomores and those entering with advanced standing who have not had the equivalent elsewhere will be required to take the regular courses.

Tests to Be Given

All those who fail in the test will be given thorough instruction in that of work which they most need. Tests will be given in the running high jump, rope climb, two-lap run (indoors), and in daily work, carriage, effort and proficiency at the end of the first term. This will serve as a final examination in the physical education department. During the term's work regular instruction will be given the classes in the gymnasium. All those who take the ability tests and pass them satisfactorily will be allowed to elect a choice out of all the organized sports. This will be regarded as a privilege extended to only those who show themselves proficient in the regular class work. On the failure of a student to pass the ability test, he will continue to work with the regular classes.

Another feature of the physical ability tests will be the competition in regard to points. Of those taking the tests, five men of all four classes who pass with the highest scores will be chosen and awarded honors by the physical education department. A first honor man will be chosen also out of this group of twenty.

Swimming is Emphasized

Swimming will be another phase of physical education which will receive more attention than heretofore. Each man entering the work of the department must pass a prescribed examination or receive special instruction in that line until he becomes proficient enough to handle himself in the water. All freshmen must be able to swim 50 yards on the breast, using any stroke, and on the back, using any stroke, and be able to dive with good form. Sophomores must swim 100 yards on the breast, 50 yards on the back, tread water three minutes, do a plain front dive with good form, and demonstrate ability to swim without the use of the feet or without the hands.

A plan is being put under way whereby the doughnut league teams will cooperate with the physical education department in regard to all forms of athletic activity. Teams of merit will be awarded special honors by the department as will those within the department alone. Intramural athletics will be under the supervision of the athletic department and will be directed with the assistance of Mr. Scott.

Object is to Teach

"In introducing this new way of conducting the department of physical education for men" said Mr. Scott, "we hope to put physical education courses on a par with the other curricula in the University. Our prime object is to teach. The ability tests will serve as examinations of the students in what they have learned during the year. Special attention will be paid to beginners in all lines of athletics, and an effort will be made to make each student more agile by the end of the year."

Student assistants will be used to handle the classes in the gymnasium this year. Those taking the courses in

Oregon Picked After Quest of 10,000 Miles

Ten thousand miles to the University of Oregon! Erroll Murphy and his brother Milo, have come that far and after visiting half a dozen colleges and universities in as many states have chosen Oregon.

From Sioux City, Iowa, they started out some months ago in a car along with their mother, Mrs. Florence Murphy, in search of THE university. Washington they saw and California, their own Iowa, and others in that ten-thousand-mile trip. They are here now and looking for a home.

They like the University, but Eugene does not hold such an appeal. They find it to be a "typical college town," said in a way to infer disfavor. "Work is very hard to find here." That is another objection.

MIX TO BE HELD TONIGHT

ANNUAL AFFAIR AT Y HUT WILL BE LIVELY PARTY

Freshmen Will Be Honored; Evening Of Gay Festivity Promised; All Men Are Invited

Gentlemen! Introducing, the Frosh—the babes of the class of 1925. This cry will ring out tonight at the Y. M. C. A. hut, when the big annual University men's smoker will be held to start the new year out right. Every man, especially every freshman, is expected to attend, according to Yell King Oberteuffer, as the night has been set aside by the student authorities for the function.

The mix is the first get-together of the year and there will be enough jazz to satisfy the most lively. The opening gun will sound at 7:30 sharp and from that time until about 10:30 there will be something doing all the time.

The frosh are expected to attend the smoker as it will be their first formal introduction to the campus. Men's living organizations are urged to see that their men turn out in a body for the mix. Stray Frosh, out after 7:30 tonight will be rounded up by a vigilance committee. There will be absolutely no "razzing" of the frosh at this affair, however, their presence being desired because of the part they play in the main feature of the evening.

Faculty members are invited to attend the mix, where they will have an opportunity of meeting the students. They will each get just as big a drink of cider as any hard-boiled frosh, the committee promises.

OREGON MEN INVITED TO FOUR INAUGURATIONS

Penn State, Cornell, Lake Forest and Philippine University Have New Presidents

Invitations have been extended to the University of Oregon to send representatives to attend the Presidential inauguration ceremonies at four colleges within the next few months. The institutions that will install new presidents are Pennsylvania State College, Lake Forest University, Cornell University, and the University of the Philippines. Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department of the University of Oregon will represent the college at the ceremony at the University of the Philippines at Manila. Dr. Smith has been connected with government geological work in the islands for the past year and has recently been granted an additional year's leave by University officials to continue his work at the request of the new Governor-General, Leonard Wood.

No action has been taken in regard to accepting the invitations of the other institutions, according to University officials.

PLEDGES ARE ANNOUNCED

Total Now Well Above Two Hundred Mark For Men and Women

Seven more names have been added to the list of those pledged by campus fraternities and sororities since the opening of college this fall. This brings the total well above 200.

Following are those announced today: Chi Omega, Olive Gates of Hillsboro, and Sadye Eccles of Ogden, Utah.

Beta Theta Pi, Donald Woodward of Portland, Milton Steiner of Salem, and Lawrence Smith of The Dalles.

Kappa Theta Chi, Richard Harding of Eugene.

Sigma Chi, Dwight French of Portland.

PRESIDENT URGES STUDENTS TO BEST ALL-ROUND EFFORT

Failure to Do Share Makes Men Paupers, Campbell Tells 1500

NEW CAMPUS TENOR HEARD

Dean Straub Introduces His Frosh, and Bartholomew Makes Address

Students of the University are "paupers" if they do not give back the equivalent of what is given them, according to President P. L. Campbell in his address before the first student assembly, attended by more than 1500, yesterday. "A pauper," the President explained, "is one who receives and receives and gives nothing back." In return for what the university gives them, he went on, students should feel the call to make the world a better place to live in.

"There is no chance for happiness in life except in activity," the President said. He pointed out the rich inheritance and the unlimited opportunity for useful activity in the state, and said that only through education can each do his part to make Oregon stand out as the best and greatest state in the union.

For Rounded Education

Education, according to the President, is the development of all faculties to the utmost with knowledge and skill that will make them most effective in the long run. It is a process to give tone and power. Education must not only give knowledge and skill, but must look out for the physical health as well. The speaker told of the plan of the department of physical education to build up a habit among the students and faculty of taking at least two hours out of doors each day. Time spent out of doors, he declared, gives that level good nature that makes life enjoyable, while one who persistently remains inside becomes grouchy and hard to live with.

Democracy at Oregon

One of the outstanding characteristics of Oregon, the President said, is the healthfulness of body, mind, and soul of the students. Other things that make Oregon a university with a personality, said the speaker, are democracy, friendliness, and scholarship. At democratic Oregon, he said, every one is taken for what he is worth regardless of wealth or position of his family. He pointed out that many of the student officers in the past have been students who have worked their way through college.

Perhaps ten percent, is the way the President expressed the gain in efficiency in the University last year. He voiced the hope that further gain might be made this year, and complimented faculty and students on the good and businesslike start already made on the term's work.

The President asked that any who might be bearing personal messages for him from parents who were former students, or others, see him at his office in the administration building, Saturday afternoon of this week, from ten to twelve.

Dean Presents Class

Dr. John Straub, dean of men and "father of the freshmen," presented the new class to the student body, and entrusted in his genial way, all to please believe him "this once" when he said the class was the largest ever entering the University.

"I bespeak for them," he said, "the kind consideration that you have always given my freshman class." He urged the freshmen to get in touch with those who are in a position to help them in the new life of the University.

Lyle Bartholomew, A. S. U. O. president, urged the students, both new and old, to keep up the loyalty, friendliness and ambition that make the University a school with a character. "Friendliness," he said, "is what makes you speak to each other on the campus. Loyalty is what makes you keep up the traditions of Oregon. Ambition is what makes you turn out for activities, and is the biggest thing you can have."

"Biggest and Best" Put on Biggest Show Yet, under Direction of Sophomores

The "biggest and best" frosh class was the main attraction at the biggest and best freshman parade ever, staged on the Oregon campus and in Eugene streets yesterday afternoon. Over 250 of the infants gathered at the library promptly on time and were formed into a line which extended from the "nicotine tree" to a point opposite the Oregon building. Here they were given a chance to expose one of their lower extremities, and woe to the Frosh who failed to use his chance. Some thoughtful member of the sophomore class also took up a collection to buy cigarettes for his classmates, but so far no unusual quantity of smoke has become visible.

The paraders were then given an opportunity to show their affection for the senior bench, at the same time receiving affectionate caresses from paddles wielded by husky sophomores. They were again given a chance to demonstrate their love for Oregon by a process of osculation upon the Oregon seal in front of Villard. Here some of the music-loving sophomores undertook the job of teaching the newcomers one of the favorite campus songs, which fits the tune of "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

The wearers of the green were then escorted to the Rainbow, where their sins were washed away by the good old method so well known to upperclassmen of Oregon. During this "water cure" some of the recipients of the favors "went bolshevik," but were herded back into position by watchful sophomores.

After a grand rush to the O on Skinner's Butte, delayed only by a short pause at the depot fountain, the infants were given some fatherly advice by Ralph Spearow, who explained to them the Oregon traditions and the consequences of their violation.

The green "sky-pieces" were then put to good use, together with a large quantity of lemon colored paint, the result of which is a beautiful, clean, shining "O" beaming forth from Skinner's Butte this morning.

DISPENSARY IN NEW HOME

ROOMS IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING HOUSE STAFF

Specialists to Give Needed Care to Students; Provision Made For Athletes

Complete new quarters for the University dispensary have been provided in the physical education building and the scope of the whole health program has been widened in order that student health may be safeguarded even better than before. The infirmary has also been renovated and in the future only bed cases will be cared for there.

Dr. William Kuykendall and members of the Eugene hospital staff will have charge of the medical work for the Fall term and they will be assisted by Drs. Gullion, Nelson and Zimmerman, who will conduct a special eye, ear, nose and throat clinic. Provision is made in the new quarters for an office for Dr. Kuykendall, one for Dr. Bertha Stuart and one for the eye, ear, nose and throat clinic.

For Minor Injuries

In addition to these a surgical dressing room has been provided and here minor injuries, certain small operations and general first aid work will be cared for. A well furnished waiting room is included in the group.

The opportunity to have eyes examined free and prescriptions for glasses made out is expected to eliminate much of the physical trouble caused by defective eyes, according to Dr. Bovard, who is chairman of the student health committee. The only expense to the student will be for the glasses themselves. Ear trouble will also be given special attention, as will ailments of the nose and throat, which are largely contributory to auditory defects.

Open Ten Hours Daily

The dispensary will be open from 8:00 in the morning until 6:00 in the evening and after hours emergency attention may be secured at the infirmary, which will be open all night with a nurse on duty. Two graduate nurses will be on duty at the dispensary during hours and two doctors will be present during clinic hours. Clinic hours are from 9:00 to 11:30 and from 2:30 to 4:30 daily except Sunday. Dr. Stuart, medical advisor to women, will have office hours from 11:00 to 12:00 and from 1:00 to 2:00 daily except Sunday. The eye, ear, nose and throat clinic is from 9:30 to 11:30 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Removal of the dispensary to separate quarters insures quiet in the infirmary and gives more room for its work. Last year students running in and out of the infirmary building occasioned considerable noise and disturbance and robbed it of any sense of quiet and privacy.

Soon after the Christmas holidays the new University physician will arrive to take up his work. He is Dr. William K. Livingston, a graduate of the University of Oregon and of the Harvard Medical School. At present he is resident physician at the Massachusetts general hospital in Boston. Dr. Livingston is a very good man for the place, according to Dr. Bovard.

One doctor will be detailed to care for athletic teams. He will cooperate with Bill Hayward, veteran trainer, in any cases of sickness or injury.

X-ray photographs can be taken at the infirmary and it is expected this year that nearly all such work will be done on the campus. Arrangements have been made with local hospitals for any major operations which may have to be performed.

LEMON PUNCH ORGANIZES

SUNDODGER WRITER ADDED TO STAFF

Plans For Subscription Campaign Made; Eisman Soon to Name Helpers

Although the financial status of the Lemon Punch chapter of Hammer and Coffin, publishers of Oregon's comic magazine, is far from encouraging, members of the society, at a meeting last night, made plans for the first issue which will come out at Homecoming. Six issues is the goal set by the society for the second year of the magazine.

Practically all members of last year's staff have returned, and the members of Hammer and Coffin are jubilant over the prospects for a magazine superior to that of last year. In addition to the members of last year's staff, Herb Larson, who is a member of the Sundodger chapter of Hammer and Coffin, has entered Oregon and will work on Lemon Punch. He is a writer and his jokes and articles were featured in several numbers of Sundodger, the University of Washington comic. "Ep" Hoyt and Owen Callaway, both of whom worked hard on Lemon Punch last year, were last night elected members of Hammer and Coffin.

Contributions Pouring In

Stan Eisman, editor of the magazine, will announce his staff for the first number, and the society last night looked over copy which has already been prepared for the magazine. Both the "Punch Bowl" in the library and the Lemon Punch box in the journalism shack were filled with contributions. Frank Short, art editor of the magazine last year, has not returned this year, but has written the society that he will be back for the second term. His place will not be filled, according to action taken at the society last night, until his return. Allan Carneross will remain as literary editor.

Drive May Be Put On

Plans for a subscription campaign were discussed at the meeting last night, but no definite action was taken. A campaign, similar to that of last year, will be held within a few weeks, and an attempt will be made to secure every student as a subscriber. Prizes will again be offered for solicitors who secure the highest number of subscriptions, but full details will be announced later.

Members of Hammer and Coffin who have returned to college and who direct the publication of Lemon Punch are Stan Eisman, editor, Harris Ellsworth, manager, Herb Larson, Doc Braddock, Ernest Haycox, Allan Carneross, Wilbur Hulm, Roscoe Hemenway and Harry Smith.

COMMERCE BODY GROWS

Student Organization Has Three Times Original Membership

The enrollment of the Chamber of Commerce which was organized on the campus last year has almost been tripled. This is the second organization of its kind in the United States and the first to become affiliated with the National Chamber of Commerce. The organization not only keeps its members here in the University in touch with actual business problems and relations but also has an employment bureau which aims to place its graduates in positions where they are best fitted. It is also aiding materially in the research work of the department.

DAILY SCRIMMAGE GIVEN VARSITY FOR WILLAMETTE GAME

Lineup Indefinite For Tilt On Salem Field; 25 Men Will Be Taken

HARD FIGHT EXPECTED

Experienced Players to Face Varsity; Collegians May Spring Surprise

Daily scrimmage is the dominant feature of the strenuous preparation through which Head Coach Huntington and his staff of assistants are putting the Oregon football squad in anticipation of Saturday's contest with Willamette at Salem. At least 25 men will make the trip and it is possible that three full squads will be taken.

While it is still doubtful as to who will constitute the opening lineup against the Beacats, Bill Reinhart, speedy varsity pilot and half and Hal Chapman of last year's freshman eleven will probably alternate at quarter. "Tiny" Shields, who is showing rare promise in his kicking and passing, is almost certain to start at full. George King and Ward Johnson also show up brilliantly. Jordan and Parsons may start at the halves with able relief men in Kirtley, DeArmand and Gram.

Makeup of Line

Bark Loughlin will probably open at center, with Reed and Bill Johnson almost sure to get a chance. The guards will be picked from Floyd Shields, a varsity substitute of last year, Rudd Brown varsity end, who has been shifted to guard position, Horace Byler, McCraw and McAlister.

"Spike" Leslie, a two-year varsity letter man will likely start at one of the tackles, with "Scotty" Strachan, who won his letter last year at guard, as his running mate. Hugh Clerin and McKeown are two other candidates for line berths who are likely to get action Saturday.

Salem football fans will get a chance to see Captain Mart Howard and Neil Morfitt, last year's ends, in action. Vic Risley, Hank Latham and Karl Von der Ahe are sure to make the trip and Duer Latham, who has been showing up well in practice, is likely to start with Mart Howard in the initial lineup. Howard is rounding into shape nicely and is living up to the promise of former years.

Willamette Team Experienced

"Shy" is not especially optimistic over the situation and will rely on straight football to down the collegians. While little is known of Willamette's strength it will be an experienced eleven that faces the Oregon gridsters Saturday. Practically every old man, with the exception of Tubby Irvine, is back in a suit, though the most likely of the freshman prospects are said to have accompanied Coach Matthews to Washington, where he is acting as assistant to Enoch Bagshaw.

Willamette sprang something of a surprise last fall in fighting Whitman to a finish after the Missionaries all but defeated the University of Washington earlier in the season.

Willamette's new coach, Roy Bohler, is expected to put out a real team, as he visited many of the big eastern universities last fall in order to secure the latest ideas in football strategy and also took a summer course under the great Zupke at Illinois.

CHRISTIAN LITERATURE COURSE WILL BE GIVEN

Father O'Hara Arranging for Two Lecture Hours Each Week in Newman Hall

Plans for conducting a course in Christian Literature are being completed by Rev. Father Edwin O'Hara, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of Eugene. The course, which will consist of two hours of lecture each week, will be given at Newman hall. The fall term will be devoted to the Patristic period covering the first six centuries of the Christian era. The writings of the principal Christian teachers of this important period will be studied.

The library at Newman hall is being equipped with a special view to providing reference literature for these courses. The course in Patristic literature will begin the first week in October and will be opened to all students of the University.
