

THURSDAY MEET CALLED FOR PUNCH CONTRIBUTORS

Fresh and Other Writers Urged to Attend

All humorous writers among the freshmen, or other students who desire to write for the Lemon Punch this year, are urged to attend the meeting which will be held this afternoon at 4:15 in the Punch office. There is a chance this year to use the work of more contributors, so all students who can do this kind of work and who have not yet handed in work to "Lemmy" should take this opportunity.

The kind of work desired by the publication this year will be explained at the meeting today. A prize of five dollars will be given to the freshman who hands in the best material for the first issue, which will come out on Homecoming Week-End.

At the meeting held Tuesday afternoon for all new students interested in doing art work or cartooning a good many expressed their desire to get to work on material for the coming issue. A prize of five dollars will also be given to the freshman who turns in the best art work. If all the new students who have been stating their intentions to contribute hand in work, there is little danger of the Punch being without plenty of drawings to pick from. Two or three artists are at work on different ideas for a cover, which will be one of the features of the Homecoming issue.

Stan Eisman, editor of the Punch, announces that all material must be in by October 25. This gives all aspirants as well as former contributors, three weeks in which to put their ideas into black and white.

It is the plan now to put out six issues during the college year, which will be an increase of two over the number published the first year of the magazine's existence. The first issue will be of about thirty-two pages, and will contain twenty-five cuts.

OLD ARMORY RENOVATED

The old armory building used for student dances last year has been renovated and redecorated according to Harry Mayer, who announces that he will conduct the dances again this year. A dance will be given Friday night there, and the same orchestra as that of last year will be used.

MEN MUST DO SOLO WORK IN GLEE CLUB FINALS

Men's Trip Stimulates Interest in Singing Among Men of School

The final tryout, in which each man sings a solo of his own choice and fitted to his own voice, for the purpose of choosing the members of the new men's glee club, will start at 4:30 today. President Maurice Eben is jubilant over prospects for the new year as an unusually large number of singers have tried out. The proposed trip to New York, Boston and other cities of the East and Middle West is said to be the reason for the unusual interest.

Those who are to appear are: Reid, Furry, Piper, Nelson, Burton, Gray, Dawson, Kays, Bryson, Rice, Valentine, Russell, Roach, Brown, Coates, Young, Rayeroff, Faust, Mulkey, Thomas, Linklater, Pearson, Wright, Haycox, Krohn, Welch, Farrell, Ed Smith, and A. Smith.

SPONSOR-SPONSEE DANCE TO BE HELD OCTOBER 8

Women's League Plans Many Activities for New Year

The executive council of the Woman's League Friday night planned a program of activities for the coming year that will make of the organization a more vital campus factor than it has ever been heretofore.

Woman's League will come first within the ken of the freshmen through the annual Sponsor-Sponsee dance, to be held in the Woman's building on Saturday, October 8. This is a part of the Big Sister idea that the league fosters and is a get-acquainted dance to which freshmen "sponsees" are taken by upperclassmen "sponsors."

To encourage the spirit of friendliness and common interest among campus women the league plans to serve tea in the Woman's building every Tuesday from 4 to 6.

General use of the Woman's building was quite thoroughly discussed and provisions were made to obtain a hostess at the building for each afternoon from among University women. Women's organizations are encouraged to use the building for entertainments. Arrangements can be made through Mrs. Wilson who can be reached by telephone 475.

The league, with Dean Landsbury as chairman, is to have charge of the concerts given at the University this year.

A report was made by the committee on the revision of the constitution. The revised constitution will probably be submitted to the student council for approval next Wednesday.
