BILL, SHY AND TEAM WARMLY RECEIVED AT BIG ASSEMBLY

First Student Body Meeting of Year Shows Return of Pre-War Pep

BUSINESS SESSION HELD

New Officers Presented and Reports of the Standing Committees Made

Students of the University, with all the old-time fight, gave the varsity football team, and Bill and Shy a roof-raising reception in Villard yesterday morning. Bill Hayward, trainer, admitted, in his talk at the first student-body meeting of the year, that the pre-war pep appears to be here and the Thundering Thousand plus as many more of the second thousand as could squeeze into the hall made things hum.

The way in which the students responded to the requests of Del Oberbauer for yells and cheers was a revelation. All available floor space was occupied.

Good Team Promised

"We're going to have a good team," was what Shy Huntington, varsity football coach, said after his introduction by Lyle Bartholomew, A. S. U. O. president. "Shy" is not discouraged over the prospects for this year, as the men are working hard, and only need the backing of the students to make the football season this year a big success. "Get the idea into your heads that Oregon can't be beat, and we won't," he added quickly.

Bill Hayward was not quite so optimistic. "Oregon can be beat, but she can't be licked," was his comment. "Bill" feels that this year the students are backing the team far better than they did last year, and that consequently conditions will be more favorable. He urged that more of the "huskies" that are seen on the campus turn out on the field, and get the "once over" of the coaches. A few of the best men are at present laid up, so new material will be needed constantly to take their places, he pointed out.

Basketball Coach Speaks

Instructions in the fundamentals of basketball will be given by Coach George Bohler within a week or two, he said yesterday. They will continue for about three weeks, when the doughnut series will begin. Bohler reiterated the old refrain which is applied to every undertaking of the University. "Prospects of basketball depend not so much upon the team itself as upon the students."

"The students have the old fight again" was the verdict of Jack Benefiel, graduate manager, also, who spoke of the football schedule for this year. "The schedule is to be regretted, but it was the most honorable one we could get," he said. He told the students that this homecoming will be the biggest ever, and that what is needed to help "put it across" is some snappy slogans. These may be handed in to Norton Winnard at any time.

President Urges Organization

President Campbell spoke on the efforts made by the student body toward efficient organization in the framing of the new constitution. "The secret of success is perfection of organization," he said, explaining that getting individuals to work together in an organized way is one of the problems of socialization, and that this problem can in a measure be solved by students by their regarding the University as a laboratory which will be of value in community life.

"For a minimum expenditure of energy there should be a maximum of result," he said. "A big spirit of friendliness and willingness to do the right thing must lie back of an organization to make it effective at all." In concluding President Campbell urged the students to be open-minded, show a spirit of cooperation, and support the various committees and officers loyally and honestly.

New Officers Presented

Members of the executive council, the student council, Floyd Maxwell, editor of the Emerald, and Inez King, editor of the Oregana, were formally presented to the new students. They occupied seats on the platform with the members of the coaching staff, and a few members of the faculty.

The regular meeting of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon was called to order by President Bartholomew. Reports of the standing committees took up most of the session, and these were followed by various announcements. Art Campbell, chairman of the dance committee, announced that there would be no student body

Judge Leaves Bench To Be Oregon Frosh

From stamping the seal of the State of Oregon to long legal papers filled with whereas, parties of the second part, etc., to kissing the same seal in front of Villard hall entrance is some drop, and a rather steep one. But Thomas Hughes, freshman in pre-law, laid aside his municipal judgeship in Heppner and entered the University this fall.

Trusting the tying of marriage knots to a judge of freshman age seems a serious matter but Hughes is a good six feet tall and looks capable of handling any duty which a municipal judge and justice of the peace might be called upon to perform. "The most difficult task of all," said the ex-judge, "was to send an old schoolmate up for time, but then duty is duty." Sitting at the bench and disposing of the court calendar filled with offenses from speeding to drunkenness was the routine which gave Hughes an experience that might well be envied by law seniors.

When in office Hughes was the youngest judge in the state.

STAFF OF OREGANA NAMED

MARGARET SCOTT, JOHN DIERDORFF ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Al Krohn and Ben Woods Appointed as Aides to Business Manager George McIntyre

Staff appointments for the 1922 Oregana were announced yesterday by Inez King, editor, who declared that this year's annual would be bigger and better than ever before. The staff this year is much smaller than in former years. George McIntyre was appointed manager last spring.

Margaret Scott and John Dierdorff are to be the associate editors of the book. This is the first time that two associate editors have been appointed. Dierdorff was editor of the feature section of the Oregana last year.

Class editors were named as follows: Seniors, Ruth Austin; juniors, Margaret Jackson, and sophomores and freshmen, Luella Hausler. The "Calendar of Campus Events" will be handled by Phil Brogan, well known on the campus as a feature writer.

Florence Skinner has charge of all activities, including debate, dramatics and music. Miss Skinner is to appoint her own assistants in these departments. Rosalia Keber is assigned to the section on honorary organizations.

Athletics will be covered by Emily Perry and Gene Kelly. Miss Perry is active in women's athletics and Kelly was formerly on the sports staff of the Emerald.

The women's organizations section will be edited by Lenore Cram and the men's by Kenneth Youel. Jessie Thompson has been selected for the faculty section.

Ernest Haycox alias The Campus Cynic, the winner of the Edison Marshall prize last year, and writer for both the Lemon Punch and the Emerald is to be the feature writer for the Oregana this year. Emily Veazie is the literary editor.

Ray Bethers, a new man on the campus, and a former student at the California Institute of Fine Arts is to be Art Editor. It is the aim of the staff, and also the intention of Mr. Bethers, that the art work in this year's annual is to be uniform, and of the same type throughout.

George McIntyre, manager, has appointed as his assistants Al Krohn, circulation manager, and advertising manager, Dan Woods.

"It is my plan to have each staff member appoint his or her own assistants," asserted Miss King. "They know with whom they can work best. I hope to have closer cooperation than in previous years. Thirty five has been the usual number for the Oregana staff. I have reduced this to sixteen, directly responsible to me."

TWO NEOPHYTES AIR VIEWS

Humor Artists Carry Sledgehammers To All Their Classes

Explosions of pedagogue bunk from the lips of Owen Callaway and Ep Hoyt, two neophytes of Hammer and Coffin, yesterday morning attracted the attention of the crowds from "Photo" Read, who was endeavoring to make an all-University picture. Armed with huge sledgehammers, the two victims appeared upon the steps of the Oregon building and aired their views to the suffering students. Their outbursts were greeted with profuse groans from the tortured audience.

Like convicts on the way to the rockpile, the neophytes carried their sledges to all classes throughout the day, being permitted to deposit them only when they retired for the night.

STAFF OF EMERALD ANNOUNCED; YOUEL MADE NEWS EDITOR

Freshmen Still Have Chance to Win Berths; Check On Work to Continue

HOYT TO HANDLE SPORTS

Other Additions To Personnel Will Be Made Known Next Week

The first announcement of staff members for the Emerald was made yesterday by Floyd Maxwell, Editor. In making the announcements however, Maxwell declared that the list of staff appointees was far from complete and that further appointments would be made as the reporters and aspirants for staff positions proved their worth.

The members for the most part so far are those who held positions on the staff last year and in previous years. Few freshmen have yet earned a place.

"It must be made clear that freshmen will be given an equal opportunity to make good on the staff," said Maxwell in announcing the newly made appointments, "and a careful check is being made on their work, with the idea of making the best selections."

Daily Editors Named

Kenneth Youel, member of the staff for the past two years, who last year acted as night editor has been appointed news editor. Youel will have a staff of four assistants at present who will be known as the Daily News Editors, each of them taking a turn at being held responsible for the quality of the news published on the day on which he is assigned to take charge.

John Dierdorff, veteran member of the staff, has been appointed Pacific Interscholastic News Service editor this year. The news service being carried on by the various colleges of the Pacific Interscholastic Press Association this year is proving to be highly valuable, and it was felt that the position of editor of this service here was one of importance.

Staffs to be Enlarged

Edwin Hoyt, member of the staff for the past two years and last year a sports writer, has been appointed Sports Editor. It is planned to have a larger staff of sport writers this year than in the past and although no further announcements for this department have been made yet, it is expected that there will be some by the middle of next week.

Only three Night Editors have so far qualified to take charge of the night work in making up the paper and getting it on the presses. Arne Rae, John Anderson and Earle Voorhies are the aspirants who have so far been appointed by Editor Maxwell for these positions, although it is expected to enlarge this staff.

News Staff Picked

After his appointment yesterday Kenneth Youel announced the names of those who will assist him as Daily News Editors. They are Ruth Austin, Mar-

PHEBE GAGE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF Y. W. A. C.

More Than 150 at Meeting Which is Addressed by Dean Fox and Hears Mme. McGrew Sing

Phebe Gage of Portland was unanimously elected vice-president of the University Y. W. C. A. at the first meeting of the year, held in the bungalow yesterday afternoon. Miss Gage succeeds Ruth Flegal, who moved up to the presidency when Eleanor Spall, president-elect, did not return to college. Other officers of the association are Emily Veazie of Portland, secretary, and Florence Furuset of Eugene, treasurer.

About 150 girls attended the meeting. Dean Fox in a short address on "The Place of the Association in the University Woman's Life" described the universal organization of the Y. W. C. A. and its extensive work in foreign lands. Mme. Rose McGrew, operatic soprano, of the school of music faculty, sang two solos. Next week will be "Invitation Week," when all campus women will be invited to join the association.

The new secretary of the association, Miss Dorothy Collier, is an Oregon graduate. After extended study at Wellesley college, she was engaged in Y. W. C. A. work in the East. Miss Collier extended a cordial welcome to all women students of the University and announced that her office would be open at all hours to them.

COUNCIL APPROVES PROPOSED SYSTEM TO RULE FRESHMEN

Move to Give President More Prestige Endorsed by Student Officers

FRO-TRA-CO IS BACKED

Society of First Year Men To Work This Year On Enlarged Scope

By LEITH ABBOTT

The freshman presidency is to be made a position of honor.

The student council, realizing the evils which have resulted from the fact that through the eye of the campus during the past several years the position has been viewed with disparagement, last night passed a resolution to the effect that the presidency should be elevated in the esteem of the student body and that every campus organization allow their best men to aspire to or become a candidate for the honor.

At the same meeting a proposal to recognize Fro-tra-co, honorary freshman organization, as an official student body organization was considered and plans for a complete reorganization of freshman government were endorsed.

These plans, drafted by a student committee this week, were accepted by President Campbell, Dean Straub and Dean Dymont. The action was taken to quiet a tense situation which has threatened to grow out of an unfortunate rupture of underclass relations last Friday night. Under the plans as approved it is thought that the problem will be settled for years to come.

Order of O Takes Part

Fro-tra-co is to become a four-year organization, with an official badge, and with members taking an inactive role after their freshman year. The organization was promulgated last year, the name meaning "Freshman Traditions Committee." It consisted of two freshmen from each Greek organization on the campus with three representatives from Friendly hall and Oregon club. Members of the organization kept a close check on their classmates and tradition violators were reported to the Order of the O who held a weekly trial in front of the library each Thursday morning and upon conviction offenders were meted out their just punishment by the lettermen. Fro-tra-co members also took an active part in carrying out the president's Committees are as follows: Sponsor: Gayle Acton, Gladys Emison, Margaret Scott, Ruth Sanborn, Luella Hausler. Refreshments: Marian Gillis, Betty Pride. Music: Chloe Thompson. Programs: Hallie Smith. Patronesses: Eleanor Coleman, Elizabeth Torrey, Ruth Austin.

YELL ASSISTANTS NAMED

Constitution of Women's League to Be Given Revision

Arthur Larson, Fred Woods, and Arthur Rosenbraugh were selected by the student council last night as assistant yell leaders. The tryouts were held Wednesday, but the final decision was left to the student council. The assistant yell leaders will begin their duties immediately.

Batification of the new Women's league constitution was left to a specially appointed committee. This constitution must be ratified by the student council committee before it is effective.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HAS TWO FACULTY ADVISERS

President Campbell Suggests That Economy Should Be Practiced In Entertainment Affairs

Scenes approaching a riot featured the first sophomore class meeting held last night in Villard hall. Miss Madeline McManus of the school of business administration, and Colin Dymont, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, were elected to advise the sophomores on all the weighty problems that may confront them during the year. The election followed a most spirited campaign among the participants of those nominated for the positions of advisers.

President Campbell addressed a few words of greeting to the class, expressing hopes for a successful and enjoyable year. "Use more brains; cash is short this year," added the President, "and encourage all reasonable economy, especially in the matter of entertainment."

Officers of the sophomore class, elected last term, are: William Johnson, president; Betty Pride, vice-president; Luella Hausler, secretary; Alice Garretson, treasurer; and Dick Reed, sergeant-at-arms.

BASEBALL PRACTICE ON

BOHLER GIVING FIRST AUTUMN WORKOUTS HERE

New Batting Cage to be Installed, and Aggregation Who Can Hit Developed

Beginning with fall practice, now being held for the first time in Oregon history, Coach George Bohler has started conditioning aspirants for next season's baseball teams, both varsity and freshman.

Practice at the present time is limited to batting and bunting; but as soon as the rainy season starts, Coach Bohler intends to add sliding practice to the schedule.

In order to permit batting practice through the rainy months Bohler is having the old grandstand on Kincaid field made into a model batting cage equipped with a slanting floor arranged so that no matter in which direction the ball is knocked it will roll back to the pitcher's box. When finished the cage will be 65 feet long, 14 feet wide and 17 feet high. The entire cage will be covered with wire netting stretched so that no matter how hard the ball hits there will be no rebound. The cage will be open the entire college year, and the men may practice at any time.

About 40 men have signed up for baseball and among them are many of the vets of both last year's varsity and frosh nines. The coach expects a larger turnout in the spring as many of the baseball men are now out for football. Coach Bohler has found that many of the last year's men have been playing with the bushers this summer and have developed a mighty wallop. The prospects for a hard-hitting team, according to the coach, is bright and he intends to develop the men in the art of swinging the hickory, for he says, "You can't learn to bat by reading. You must hit—hit."

FOOTBALL TICKETS WAIT

Slogan-Constructors Slow to Make Bid For Prize

Two valuable tickets for the Oregon-O. A. C. football game are waiting for some one to claim them. They are the prize for the best slogan submitted for use during homecoming. As yet only a few suggestions have been turned in and there is a fine opportunity for some one to win the tickets. The contest closes October 10, leaving four more days. Slogans should be left at the Alumni office in the Administration building. Get busy now!

Frosh Hold Front Line When Picture Is Taken

"Watch the birdie."
"Shoot I'm here."
"Take a profile."

These and many others were the commands shouted to "watch my smoke" Read, campus photographer, as he semaphorically attempted to herd the students into formation for the group picture at 10:50 yesterday morning.

The frosh held the honor for being on the grounds of "little Hollywood" first. The green caps took up the position of shock troops in the front line, and held their formation through the entire scene without the loss of a man.

At 10:50 the "supers" arrived on the location and chances for a first rate mob scene looked good. Read in his shirt sleeves, from the roof of the Y. M. C. A. shouted his orders frantically, accompanied by frenzied motions. No attention was paid to him and little harm was done. A call for "Obie"

PRINK CALLISON TO RETURN TO OREGON IS WORD RECEIVED

Squad Now Eating at Training Table; Fraternities and A.S.U.O. Cooperate

FRANK COACHING PACIFIC

Workout Tonight to be Light; Leslie, Chapman, Latham And Gram Punting

A telegram announcing that "Prink" Callison, center on the great Oregon team of 1919, would board the S. P. at San Francisco last night, was received late yesterday afternoon by "Brock" Mitchell, varsity end coach. Callison, it was stated, was leaving last night on the Shasta, which will get him in Eugene tonight at 5:30. The wire was received through the graduate manager's office.

Callison was Keith Leslie's understudy on the varsity team of 1919-20 and when "Brock" broke his hand in the Washington State game, Callison took his place. Against O. A. C., in a game which Oregon won 9-0, Callison proved himself a star performer at center, and time after time broke through the Aggies' line to break up punts and forward passes.

Center for Olympic

The last two years he has played with the Olympic club eleven of San Francisco. He will undoubtedly prove a tower of strength to the Oregon line and the coaching staff is well pleased to find that at last he is actually on his way. He was expected on the Shasta Wednesday evening and when he did not arrive his return was held doubtful by the coaches.

A varsity training table started at the Anchorage last night with the following men: Backfield—Johnson, Parsons, King, Shields, Chapman; ends—Captain Howard, Morfitt, Latham; line—Strachan, "Tiny" Shields, Laughlin, Brown, Leslie, Reed, McKeown, Von der Ahe, Clerin.

The training table is made possible through the cooperation of the fraternities and the A. S. U. O. as is provided by the conference ruling.

Must Pile Score on Pacific

Oregon's inability to secure more than a single touchdown against Willamette was not necessarily indicative of weakness on the part of the Lemon-Yellow, but Huntington's men will have to administer a crushing defeat to the team representing Pacific University, if it is to be figured to win any conference games.

The game Saturday will be the first appearance against Oregon made by the Pacific gridsters in many years, hitherto the Forest Grove collegians have not made a practice of scheduling games with the big teams of the Northwest. Last week the P. U. varsity defeated Mt. Angel college team 20-6 but this does not show especially well as Mt. Angel plays practically all of their games with prep schools and the freshman teams of the near by universities.

Leo Frank Coaching Pacific

With the advent of Leo Frank as coach Pacific decided she had the class to step into fast company hence the game with the Lemon-Yellow. Frank was connected with the local department of physical education last year. He obtained his football experience in Iowa. Coach Frank's brother Orville, and an all-Iowa halfback, is depended
