Fight 'Em, Oregon.

Today marks the opening of the intercollegiate football season on the Pacific coast, Oregon and Idaho meet on the gridiron in Portland both with a grim determination to win. The Idaho men firmly believe that the chance of fourteen long years has arrived, and they are going to try to vindicate themselves for the long string of defeats.

The northerners have the best team they have had in many years, and Oregon will be given the battle of the season, but Oregon will be battling every minute of that game today. There are some of us who couldn't go to Portland today to see the game, but we know in our hearts that Oregon will Fight 'Em. Oregon always has fought 'em.

The fighting spirit of Oregon football teams has made history, it is the fighting spirit that beat Pennsylvania in 1916, it is the fighting spirit that gave Harvard the battle of their lives in 1919. And this same fighting spirit lives today. Perhaps the team work is not quite so smooth as it might be, perhaps the prospects for an Oregon victory are not quite so good as they might be, but there is only one answer to the question of what every individual member of that team will do today.

They will Fight 'Em.

Class Spirit makes Oregon Spirit, today will tell whether our underclassmen have received the right start on the campus. The annual underclass mix is scheduled for this afternoon. How many underclassmen will be loyal to this class today?

DANCE TO BE OCTOBER 22 TROPHY TO BE DISPLAYED

Much Delayed Student Body Frolic to Be a "Rarin' to Go" Affair

$2,000 Cup for Football Championship Of Coast Shown in Seattle

The first student body dance of this year which is to be held next Saturday, October 22, is to be the first of a series of record-breaking dances which will be held this year, according to Arthur Campbell, chairman of the dance committee. This dance was planned for an earlier date, but because of conflicting entertainments it was postponed and will be the better dance because of it, says Campbell. In fact, he says, it will be a "rarin' to go" affair.

There will be a six-piece orchestra and the dance will be held in the woman's building. The laboratory fee for the 12 dances and two extras will be only 35 cents a couple, Campbell announces. No decorations have been planned and there will be no feature, as is customary in all student body dances.

The patrons and patronesses will be: President and Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Dean and Mrs. Colin V. Dymont, Dean and Mrs. John Straub, Dean Elizabeth Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Marion McClain.

H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education, is in Portland this week-end assisting with the extension courses in education.

University of Washington, Oct. 14.—(P. I. N. S.)—The new $2000 silver and bronze trophy presented by Edgar B. Schwabacher to the Pacific coast football championship this fall will be on display in Seattle prior to the University of Washington-Stanford game, Nov. 1. It will then be taken to San Francisco for display before the University of Washington-California game, and the California and Stanford games.

Schwabacher was graduated from the University of California in 1912, and is presenting the trophy in order to award the champions, as at present no award is given.

FROSH BEAT BAGSHAW'S MEN
University of Washington, Oct. 14.—(P. I. N. S.)—Tackling the Varsity squad for the first time, the freshman gridiron athletes triumphed over coach Enoch Bagshaw's proteges last night on Denny field by a 6 to 0 score. The yearling's points were earned by two field goals dropped between the up-rights by Horace McLeod, frosh half-back who starred at Stadium high, Tacoma, last year.

BETAS INVENT NEW GAME

Remunerative Sport is Found to Enliven Dinner Hour

When the autumn rains set in, and the little fly wings himself away, the Beta dinner table will again be dull. Report has it that the Betas have discovered a new indoor sport. Nickels baited with tid-bits of meat, are laid out in front of the plates, and the individual whose nickel first tempts the wily fly wins all the stakes.

Open Forum

To the Editor: It has long been an Oregon tradition that all girls speak to the men and freshmen whom they meet on the campus, but what girl is going to do this more than a few times, when the response is either entirely lacking or in the form of a husky hello which seems to come from the depths of the pockets where the freshman's hands remain firmly placed? Is this the courtesy one would expect from a University of Oregon man? Perhaps they forget the existence of the freshman caps that rest so lightly upon their heads. In that case I suggest that the fact of their existence be sufficiently impressed that they cannot forget them.

It is not too much to expect of any gentleman that he return courtesy when a girl says "hello."

A COED.

SMOKING RULE VIOLATED

Fire Danger of Smoking in Buildings On Campus Pointed Out

Fire danger resulting from smoking in the buildings on the campus was called to the attention of the University authorities by the state fire marshal, after he had inspected the buildings recently. "Thou shalt not smoke in University buildings" is numbered among the rules, but recently there has been a noticeable increase in the amount of smoking, according to officials. The enforcement of this rule is in the hands of the superintendent of properties and members of the faculty.

Smoking in the buildings is a violation of the old Oregon tradition against smoking on the campus.
