

GRADUATE CLUB CALLS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

Fifty-Six Students Are Eligible
For Membership

FACULTY MAY AFFILIATE

Workers in Many Departments
To Unite In Group

The Graduate Club of the University will hold its first meeting of the year for reorganization purposes, Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Alumni hall of the Woman's building. Fifty-six students are eligible for membership in the club this year, a decided increase over last year's membership list. All faculty members who desire to affiliate with the organization are cordially invited to do so.

The Graduate club is organized for the purpose of uniting all students who are taking graduate work, and corresponds to the class groups. Twenty-three assistant instructors, and graduate assistants in the University, are listed as graduate students.

Student Pastor Enrolled
Student-Pastor Bruce Giffen is enrolled in the psychology department, Miss Helen Broeksmith, head resident of Susan Campbell hall, and a Mount Holyoke graduate, is taking work in the Sociology department. Wen peh Yuen, who received his B. A. degree at Fuh Tau University in Tientai, China, who has taken graduate work at Pekin University, is taking economics at the University this year.

Mrs. Lillian Ackerman Carlton, the 2000th student to register in the University, who is enrolled in the sociology department, is another student eligible for membership in the club, as is Wasily Muller, a graduate of the Far Eastern University at Vladivostok, who is working toward his degree in medicine. Karl W. Onthank, secretary to the president of the University, is taking work in education.

HOME COMING TO GLITTER WITH ORIGINAL FEATURES

Committees Hope to Surprise
Students and Grads

By LEITH ABBOTT
Traditional Homecoming events will be kept intact this year but they will be augmented by a glittering array of new and original features. At the same time each committee will bend every effort to perfect the duties assigned to it with the ultimate aim of making this year's Homecoming an event of events with no discrepancies appearing anywhere to mar the festival in the slightest degree.

This was the plea sounded by Norton Winnard, general chairman of Homecoming, at the first meeting of all committees last night, and this was the basis accepted by all committee members on which to frame their part in arranging details.

Lyle Bartholomew, president of the student body, briefly outlined the work of all committees at the meeting and told of various suggestions in the way of new features. Under a policy adopted this year but little publicity will be given on some of the events or new stunts in order that they may prove as big a surprise to students as they will to homecomers.

Jeanette Calkins, acting alumni secretary, explained various publicity measures being worked out by that department. The work is already underway, one circular letter having already been dispatched. Organizations will be called upon this year to urge their alumni to return for the festivities. Postcards bearing small pictures of individual houses, appropriately inscribed, are being considered as organization publicity work. Envelopes well marked with colorful Homecoming inscriptions will supplant stickers this year. The alumni office has already sent out scores of letters in such envelopes. A different pattern is under consideration for student use.

Dean Walker, well known graduate, was present at the meeting to give his views concerning preparations and will meet with the committee each week to act in the role of adviser. Serving also in this capacity will be Morgan

WOMAN'S BUILDING USED BY MANY ORGANIZATIONS

Many Meeting Places Available for Students; Sun Porch is Good
Room for Study

One of the first places on the campus to which students and faculty take their guests on sight seeing tours is the Woman's building, and a few questions brings out the fact that this building is supplying a need long felt by various organizations, a place to meet in pleasant surroundings. According to Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, matron of the building, some club meeting or social function is held in the building every day, and it is not an uncommon occurrence for two or three organizations to be making use of the various rooms the same evening.

"However," Mrs. Wilson states, "there are rooms enough for six meetings or special functions to be in progress at one time, and we should be very glad to have other groups meet in the building at any time they might choose. The building is open from nine in the morning until nine in the evening every day except Sunday, and on Sunday from two to five in the afternoon. Everybody is welcome—we love to have them come," was Mrs. Wilson's smiling invitation.

"I wish," she continued, "that more girls would use the sun porch for a study room. It is such a pleasant place to read or study. Many girls do study up stairs, and both men and girls make use of the lounging rooms on the first floor—we are glad to have them all come," she smiled her invitation again. Students who are studying in the rooms in the evening are often permitted to remain after nine o'clock if they wish, Mrs. Wilson said.

Organizations which have made use of the rooms this year are Phi Theta Kappa, Pi Lambda Theta, Mu Phi Epsilon, Crossroads, The Dial, Woman's League, and others. Some of the organizations meet regularly in the building.

The Girl's Glee club holds regular practices there Monday and Wednesday of every week. The Pansellenic council holds all meetings in the building, and various committees make use of the rooms for their discussions.

Every week-end, according to Mrs. Wilson, social functions are held in the building. President and Mrs. Campbell's reception for the faculty, Dean Fox's reception for the women students and faculty members, and the Mu Phi Epsilon tea were mentioned. The Woman's League gives a tea in one of the rooms every Tuesday. The social calendar for the next few weeks shows that many functions will be given in the Woman's building. Among these are two dances for this week-end.

SCULPTURE STUDIO TO HAVE VISITING HOURS

"The Doughboy" by Professor Fairbanks Expected to Attract Interest of Many Visitors

The announcement by the sculpture department of the University school of art that in the near future the studios will be open for visitors during certain afternoons of the week has stimulated interest among lovers of art who are not familiar with the work being done in that department. According to those who have visited the studio of Avard Fairbanks, professor of sculpture, there is a treat in store for visitors. Three models of importance are in process at the present time, one of which, "The Doughboy," has received wide publicity and favor. This statue, by Professor Fairbanks, will undoubtedly be the chief figure of interest during the time the studio is open to the public.

FATHER QUINLAN TALKS AT CATHOLIC BREAKFAST

Activities of Newman Club
Outlined Sunday

Nearly 100 members of the Newman club attended the first After-Communion breakfast Sunday morning at the St. Mary's Parish hall. Jack Hiliary, president of the club, presided as toast master, and introduced Father G. F. Quinlan, who spoke on the life and works of Cardinal Newman, after whom the club has been named. Rev. E. V. O'Hara briefly outlined the activity of the club.

One of the features of the morning breakfast was the choice of the sophs, in preference to the frosh, to wait on the tables. President Hiliary drew a good "hand" from the frosh present from his actions in behalf of them, still sensitive over their square mixing of the day before. Hiliary also announced that the club's membership campaign would be concluded this afternoon at 4:15, when the members will gather at the club house, thirteenth and Kincaid, for their regular "Tuesday Teas" and social hour. The minimum set at 110, and fully that number is expected to have been attained by that time.

A small membership fee of $1 is being charged by the membership committee. "The fee is not for sustaining or for the upkeep of the club," Father O'Hara explained at the Sunday meeting. "The dollar will help to defray the expenses of our Tuesday Teas. We do not intend to depend upon the students for the expenses of the club itself."

THREE BIRDS BAGGED ON TRIP
Ralph L. Taylor, a pre-medic student, reports a bag of two quail and one china pheasant, shot on a hunting trip he took near his home in Albany last week-end.

Government inspected shoes differ greatly from ordinary Army Shoes. Genuine government shoes are government inspected. Ordinary manufacturers shoes do not come up to these high government specifications. Their is a difference between genuine army shoes, as carried here and those carried elsewhere. This is an official army store. Our goods have the U. S. War department Inspectors stamp on them, originated from the U. S. Quartermaster's department.

In purchasing your shoes here you are assured of the same high quality that goes with all government goods. Nothing shoddy was made for the service. Experts drew the specifications and maintained the highest possible workmanship. You get all this here at prices below what you would pay for the ordinary ones purchased elsewhere.

Condemned army shoes were sold back to manufacturers and lack the inspectors stamp. Such shoes as well as reclaimed ones are not to be had here, that may be had elsewhere. We guarantee every shoe sold here both as to fit and quality. There is no hesitancy at this store if you your money back if you do not get servicable satisfaction. Who will give you any more?
