"Hunk" Snares Wild Passes If Huntington sees fit to use the aerial attack Latham should be good on roping in the passes. The big fellow's basketball experience stands him in good stead, and he has a faculty of pulling erratically heaved pigskins out of the air for a completed play. Both Chapman and George King can be depended upon to do some accurate passing, while Clerin and Brown, who will no one seems to be able to dislodge start at ends, are experienced in the receiving end of the aerial route.

It is doubtful whether "Prink" Callison will be able to play the whole game. Prink sustained some rather severe injuries in the last game and in recent scrimmages and may not be able to go the whole route. In that event, Bark Laughlin will take his place. Bark is a real fighter and though small is a hard man to play against.

Graduate Manager Benefiel thinks that the boys have a chance with the Homewood, J. W., 1st Lt., Co. & .4650 Staters in the game today. This it the first opportunity our team has had to meet a team that is developed under the same conditions that obtain here," he said "and I expect the boys to make a showing that will be a credit to the University, the coaching staff and the team." Benefiel did not make the trip to Pullman as he is attending an alumni banquet in Portland today.
