

COMMERCE SCHOOL ANNOUNCES PRIZES FOR SCHOLARSHIP

V. Dymont introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Dodson.

Citizens Urged to Awake

In addressing the students, Mr. Dodson related many of his experiences in connection with the work of the chamber in Portland, with especial regard to the commercial opportunities offered by the improvement of the harbor, and urging that the citizens of the state awaken to the possibilities of growth open to them. Mr. Dodson also told something of his own work with the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

After the program, Professors Folts and Janney fried hot dogs, assisted by Professors Whitaker and McDougal, the latter two, when they were not needed at the stove earning their refreshments, juggling trays of cider and doughnuts about the rooms. Over in one corner, a jazz orchestra rendered Beethoven's Thirty-ninth Symphony to the tune of "Ain't We Got Fun?", while different revelers favored the assembled students with solos. For a period the lights went out and the audience witnessed a "Real Life Movie" made by throwing the shadows of the actresses on a screen, while one of the girls told the story in verse.

"WHY MARRY?" PROMISING

Play to be Given Next Week Strictly Modern; Character roles Good

Rehearsals of "Why Marry?", by Jesse Lynch Williams, the first play of the year to be produced by the dramatic company on the campus Wednesday and Thursday of next week, are going very well, according to Fergus Reddie, who is directing the play. The play itself, which is unique inasmuch as it is a problem play handled through comedy, is strictly modern in every sense and will have a real appeal to everyone on the campus as well as to everyone interested in the modern drama.

Claire Keeney has the part of an old judge who is seeking a divorce from his wife. The part is strictly a character part and he is doing some of the best work he has ever done, in this role. Vern Fudge also has a character part a little different from anything he has done on the campus before. The work of Doris Pittinger, Irene Stewart, and Elizabeth Melis also is showing up well in rehearsals. The costumes will be up-to-date and distinctive and good lighting effect will be had.

Here in this chair I'll put a glare upon them something swell.
