

GIRLS BEGIN WARMING UP FOR DOUGHNUT SPORTS

Loving Cup Will be Awarded Season Champions

Practice for the girl's doughnut basketball series started Monday afternoon with a bang. Thirty-six girls met at 5 o'clock in the outdoor gym and after a short practice in passing and basket shooting, several speedy games were played between houses which had a full team out.

More than 175 girls have signed up for basketball and Miss Emily Perry who is head of this sport for the Women's Athletic Association expresses the belief that every house on the campus will be represented this year in the series.

The baskets will be up in the indoor gymnasium by the end of this week and there will be practice there as well as in the outdoor gymnasium every evening at 5 o'clock and Tuesday and Thursday at 4. Any house that wishes to get its players together for special practice may see Miss Perry and arrangements will be made.

The series will begin November 28 and Miss Perry hopes to close the season by examination time. On account of the large number of teams they will be divided into two leagues, each team playing every other team in its league and the winners playing for the cup, which is now held by Gamma Phi Beta.

LEMON PUNCH ALMOST READY TO GO ON PRESS

November 19 Will Probably be Date of Appearance of 32-Page Homecoming Number

The first issue of Lemon Punch, which will make its appearance Homecoming, will be sent to press in a few days, according to Stan Eisman, editor. It will contain 32 pages of humor, including a double page spread drawn by Wilbur Hulin, which is to be one of the features of the issue. The cover, a three-color piece, drawn by Ray Bethers, is said to be the best yet attempted by the magazine. The issue day will probably be November 19.

Houses desiring extra copies are asked to report the number wanted during the next week, says Harris Ellsworth, business manager. Only a limited number will be printed and those organizations that turn in early orders for their alumni will be the first served. Orders should be mailed to the Lemon Punch office or given to Wilbur Hoyt.

Work has already been commenced on the second issue which will make its appearance before the Christmas holidays. The name of the number will be announced the latter part of the week.

MAJOR IN COMMERCE WRITES ON WAR LOANS

Paper by James Say Wins Favorable Mention From Business Administration Faculty

A paper called "A Brief History of the National Loans of the Five Chief Belligerents of the World War," written by James Say, a senior in the school of business administration, has received favorable mention from the faculty of the business school.

The paper, consisting of about 10,000 words, was prepared last summer. The faculty of the school of business administration have considered it of such research and educational value that it has been mimeographed, and besides 10 bound copies, which will be placed in the library for reference work, one copy will be given to each member of the investments class.

Two main things are shown in the essay, first that nations always become involved in debt through war-time loans, and second, that during the recent war the military progress of each belligerent could be read in the length of time for which it made loans. Thus, Germany started off with short time loans and kept making them for longer periods until at the close of the war she had no maturity date. On the other hand, the loans of the allied nations showed success because they were made for shorter periods as the war progressed. This is a phase of the subject heretofore undeveloped.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

The bleak night wind whistled down Willamette. Hard by, a gaunt stone structure accentuated the chilled condition of his spine as he stood there at the mercy of the elements. An unexplainable sinister feeling gripped his being as he cringed away from the driving sleet to the icy wall of the dingy shop window.

Suddenly, his beady eyes snapped and riveted upon something far down the street. What is it? What could it be? Certainly it was a reality! He made his way toward the speck of light which seemed to issue from remote nothingness far away. All at once it grew and a feeling of warmth and comfort crept into his heart. Then as the fog haze no longer obstructed his vision, Joe's glad heart read the words—
