

"THE WEDDING GUEST" TO BE GIVEN ON WEDNESDAY

Play to be Produced Seen by Few People

When Barrie's "The Wedding Guest" is produced on the campus next Wednesday and Thursday the faculty and students will have the opportunity of seeing a play which few people have witnessed. The play has had only a short run in the United States and has never gone on the road. In spite of the fact that it is produced so little, it is considered by dramatic critics to be the best play Barrie has written. It is a play which holds the interest until the very end, and the conclusion is an absolute surprise. It has an ending which the entire audience will undoubtedly find satisfactory. There is no sign of morbidity in the play, which if handled in another way might easily become morbid, for into it has been woven brilliant comedy. The play offers unusual character work and with the carefully selected cast it is expected that every offered opportunity in the play will be brought out.

The story is about a young girl who has been brought up by a lazy, optimistic father who has not taken the trouble to teach her how to face any thing difficult. The young girl, Margaret, played by Lorna Coolidge, is called upon to face a difficult situation shortly after her marriage to an artist. Margaret proved surprisingly equal to the problem in spite of the fact that her father taught her only to look on the bright side of life. Mrs. Omaney, the guest at the wedding about whom the play is named, loved the artist before his marriage and had returned to Scotland only to live over again the happy days she had spent there long before. Mrs. Omaney is played by Hildegard Bepin who will for the first time take a leading part in a Guild hall production. The artist, Paul Digby, is played by Arthur Johnson and the careless father by Clair Keeney. Much of the humor of the play is brought out through the father's lines. He finds a bright side to everything, even the marriage of his only child, he finds will mean that he can smoke in the drawing room.

Margaret's aunt, Lady Dunwoodie, who is an aristocratic old Scotch lady is played by Margaret Nelson and the best man at the wedding of Margaret and Paul, which takes place in the first act, is Delbert Faust. The maid of honor will be played by Mabel Gilham. The reverend Mr. Gibson who marries the young couple and who is an old friend of Margaret's father will be played by Virgil Mulkey. The role of Jenny Geddes will be taken by Doris Pittenger. The servants and other brides maids and the flower girls will be taken by members of the lower classes.

So much trouble has arisen in seating every one in Guild hall that it was found necessary to install a new reserved section plan and for the "Wedding Guest" the center isles will be reserved.

CANTON COLLEGE ISSUES CALL FOR INSTRUCTORS

E. C. Edmunds, President to Address Students at Assembly; Personal Interviews Sought

A telegram received by the University "Y" from Hal Donnelly, former secretary of the campus association, urges Oregon to answer the call made to American colleges and universities to supply men for the faculty of the Canton Christian College in China. "This college is doing valuable work in molding the future of China," says Donnelly, "and Oregon should have a part in it."

E. C. Edmunds, president of the College, is scheduled to speak in assembly next Thursday, January 26. At that time the student will hear interesting and first-hand information concerning the work among the student class on the other side of the Pacific. The campus "Y" is now making an effort to find men who are interested in this kind of work, and line them up for personal interviews with President Edmunds.

Teachers are needed in physics, economics, business administration, English, mathematics, French and German. A staff of 40 Americans and 50 Chinese handled the 923 students registered as residents and the 336 enrolled in the extension division of the institution last year.

Canton Christian College is a co-educational institution, with instruction in all branches of learning.

At a meeting called yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock for both men and women interested in the ministry, missionary work, and other forms of life service work, an organization of a life service group was effected. This meeting was called jointly by the two "Y" organizations. The call of the Canton Christian College was put up to them.

THROAT SPRAY ATTRACTS

Stricken Ones Not Daunted by Ten Cent Dispensary Fee

You can't keep 'em away. Even the formidable barrier of a dime, ten cents, the tenth part of a dollar, fails to daunt the onrush of stricken humanity which flocks to the University dispensary each day for sympathy and throat spray. Contrary to popular supposition, the ten-cent fee imposed on each sufferer who huskily demands "throat spray," has failed as a preventive against "colds-in-the-head" and whatever other colds there be. People will enjoy ill health, and the dispensary continues to grow and prosper, and to buy more throat spray with which to entice the student body. An average of 90 persons a day have reported to the dispensary for treatment since the winter quarter opened, and the largest percent of these have been devotees of the glistening gargle. Observation explains the charm of the throat spray. Enter a victim whose voice sounds like the dim echo of a faraway past, exit victim, three minutes later, a second Desmothenes minus the pebbles. Like Postum—There's a Reason.

REGISTRATION ENDED; 1919 STUDENTS LISTED

Freshmen Lead Classes in Numbers; More Juniors Than Sophs; 226 Fall to Return

Registration for the winter term has ended and the figures given out at the Registrar's office show a final count of 1919 students, as compared with the registration of 2012 in the Fall term.

There are 173 new students on the campus this term making the total registration for the Fall and Winter terms 2185. Figures for Fall and Winter terms of 1920-21 show a total of 1845 students.

In the present registration, 1020 of the students are men, the women being in the minority with only 899 representatives.

The freshmen class with it's 650 members is, as usual, the largest but contrary to custom, the junior class with a total of 404 has an enrollment of four more members than the sophomores. There are 267 seniors, 66 graduate and 123 special students. The law school has 9 special students.

According to office records, 266 Fall term students failed to return. Of the students "flunking out," a big majority were undergraduates, first term freshmen seeming especially unfortunate.

POSTAL BUSINESS GROWS

Amount of Mail Handled Exceeds That Of Any Other Term

An average of between 2500 and 3000 pieces of mail are being handled daily at the campus postoffice so far during the Winter term, according to a report made yesterday by H. M. Fisher, postmaster. The amount of mail handled, both incoming and outgoing, is far in excess of that handled last term. The parcel post service is also holding up well, 40 or 50 packages being the usual number passing through the office every day. At least one sack of insured mail is taken care of daily.

The postoffice has been making a specialty of handling student mail for several years, and the business is increasing constantly, according to Mr. Fisher.

ART ADDRESS TO BE GIVEN

Mrs. H. C. Wortman Will Speak Wednesday Afternoon in Alumni Hall

Mrs. H. C. Wortman of Portland will be on the campus Tuesday evening and will give an address on the art of India at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon in Alumni hall of the Women's building. Mrs. Wortman comes to the University at the invitation of the normal arts department of the school of architecture and allied arts. She is well known in the Northwest as a critic of art and has been very active in promoting interest in art through the art museum in Portland. Mrs. Wortman just returned from two years of travel abroad. Her address on Wednesday will be open to public and tea will be served later in the afternoon.

ALBANY FIVE CAMPUS GUESTS

The members of the Albany high school basketball team which meets the University high school at the men's gymnasium Saturday night will be the guests of various University fraternities while in Eugene. The campus team played only one intercollegiate game but is working out in good condition according to Coach McIntyre. A game is scheduled a week from Friday with Roseburg.

DOUGHNUT SALE SUCCESS

Home Economics Club to Send Delegate To Conference at Corvallis

One for a nickle, two, for a dime. Don't gobble, eat slowly one at a time.

Food ever appeals even at basketball games and especially when it comes in the form of big luscious doughnuts such as the girls of the Home Economics club have been selling recently at the games.

The club intends to send a delegate to the conference of the national association, which is to be held at Corvallis next July.

TRACK MEN ARE EXEMPT FROM PHYSICAL TESTS

Hank Foster Says Men May Work on the Cinders Whether or Not They Can Pass Swimming Requirements

Contrary to what seems to be the general impression it is not necessary for a man to be able to pass the physical ability test before he can turn out for track, according to "Hank" Foster, who has charge of this branch of athletic work. If a man shows enough ability to be selected for the varsity squad he will be relieved from his regular gym work whether he can pass the test or not.

The impression has been rather general, says Foster, that if a man couldn't swim he would not be allowed to run. It is true that men not selected for the varsity squad or for the freshman squad will have to take these tests but the work will not be required in addition to what the regular men do. Foster asks that any men who have not been turning out for track because of the idea that they first had to successfully pass the physical ability see him and arrange to go out.

RIFLE TEAMS TO MEET

Oregon Agricultural College, Jan. 20. —(P. I. N. S.)—Oregon Agricultural College Co-ed Rifle team will meet the girls' team of University of Southern California, January 24, and the Utah Aggies, January 28.
