

JUNIOR WEEK-END TOPIC OF '22 CLASS MEETING

Abolishment of Canoe Fete is Subject

NEED OF STAND TOLD

Girls Want Distinctive Garb; Jinks Committee Picked

The question of abolishing Junior Week-end, limiting it, or substituting some new feature to take the place of the annual canoe fete were the principal issues discussed at the junior meeting held in Villard hall Friday night.

A motion made by Ivan McKinney, to lay the question of Junior Week-end on the table until further developments was voted upon and unanimously carried.

Professor W. F. G. Thatcher, faculty advisor of the Junior class led the discussion on the abolishment of the canoe fete and spoke in favor of doing away with the water fete and substituting some appropriate feature. Speaking of the growth of the canoe fete and of the work and expenses connected with it Professor Thatcher said:

"I have watched the canoe fete for seven years and it has grown from a very unpretentious, common affair to a very elaborate one." In connection with the growth of the fete Professor Thatcher said that he had been informed by the management of the Anchorage that as a result of the large crowd which had gathered on the top deck of the platform, to watch the fete, the structure had sunk eight inches and had listed fully one foot toward the mill race.

"I am not crying wolf—wolf" said the speaker but it is the opinion of the management of the Anchorage that it would be inadvisable to use the structure again this year until it had been examined by a registered architect or engineer.

"We should give the canoe fete very serious consideration before we turn it down," said Charles Lamb, "and before we do we should have some thing definite in mind to replace it."

Lamb stated that he was in favor of regulating the expenses of the event and suggested that a limitation of the amount of money to be spent on each canoe be set. He also suggested that good seats be reserved for the guests, thus avoiding the taking up of all the good seats by the town people. Lamb concluded his address by saying: "But until we have something definite to take the place of the canoe fete lets us continue it."

Among the other suggestions made was one for the erection of a permanent grandstand on the race, the money to be raised by the sale of reserved seats to the town people.

A general discussion on what action the class should take resulted in a unanimous vote to postpone a decision by the class until after the student opinion, as a whole, had been determined by the reports of committees now working on the question.

Professor Thatcher then suggested that a junior committee be appointed to carry on an investigation and to sit with the other Junior Week-end committees at the meeting of the Student Council.

This suggestion was put in form of a motion by Floyd Maxwell and was accepted by the class without putting it to a vote. The following have been appointed to form the committee: Tommie Wyatt, Hallie Smith and Arthur Rosebraugh.

Other matters taken up at the meeting were, the Junior Jinks, next year's senior sombreros and a distinguishing insignia for senior women.

It was decided to hold the Jinks in the men's gym and the following committee to take charge of the affair was named: Hallie Smith, chairman; George King; Dan Woods, Ivan McKinney, Lenor Cram and Florence Jagger.

The adoption of a stiff brimmed Stetson sombrero for next year's senior class was considered as was likewise a distinctive insignia for the senior women. The only suggestion offered for the women's insignia was made by Bernice Altstock, who suggested that a distinctive vest be worn.

According to the financial report $92.75 was carried over from last year. This year's receipts amounted to $441 and expenditures $50 leaving a balance of $483.75.

FUTURE OF SOCCER IS SAID TO BE HANGING IN BALANCE

More Games to be Scheduled if Bigger Squad is Out

The fate of varsity soccer now lies in the hands of the players themselves. If there is not a larger turnout for practice the game might as well be put by the board for this year at least. It is absolutely impossible to perfect team work with six or seven men turning out for nightly practice. Eleven men compose a soccer team and to make teamwork possible there should be a squad of 22 men out each night.

Professor Gerald Barnes, of the physical education department, although overburdened with work, has turned out faithfully with the team in the capacity of coach. It would be a great injustice to him to allow the game to drop at this point.

According to Professor Barnes the work last term was preliminary. The real season is just beginning.

As to the games—these can be secured any time. The "Aggies" are willing to play. The teams in Portland also will play any place and any time. They are always working for the promotion of the Scotch game.

Graduate Manager Benefiel has been in touch with Stanford regarding a game when that team comes north. A guarantee must be made to the southerners, but there will be no use of staging a game with a skilled team like Stanford unless a strong team can be built. A gang of misfits who haven't played together could make no showing whatever. There is plenty of material in school for a strong team. If at the end of ten days or so there is not a more promising turnout soccer might as well be dropped for the year.

TREES DON'T GROW IN A DAY

It takes ages to grow the trees that furnish us with wood for our lumber. Nature isn't taking chances; she is putting strength in the stock that must stand the test of time.

Like wise we are not taking chances that the lumber we turn out will not be as near perfect as possible. We spend much time to insure you that your lumber will be correctly seasoned, sawed and planned.
