KISSES TO BE BOUGHT AND SOLD ON CAMPUS

Hearts Also to be Disposed of for Cash; Read the Story if This Interest You

"Aw, have a heart!" "Gimme a kiss!" "Oh, you horrid thing! You broke my heart!" "Mix 'em up."

Hearts and kisses, logical team mates, will be openly on sale on the campus today, February 14, St. Valentine's day, the day after Monday the 13th and just before Wednesday the 15th.

Pot and Quill, a local chapter of W. W. W. (Women Who Write) and colloquially known as Kettle and Feather, is behind the promiscuous dispensation of great sugary cookie hearts and equally delectable, (or is it delectate?) kisses.

The price list has been announced as follows: Three kisses, five cents. Two hearts, a nickel.

Three kisses, five cents. Two hearts, a nickel. (Hearts come higher than kisses). One heart and one kiss, a jitney. One heart and two kisses, one-half dime.

In other words, the main motto is a now extinct cigar slogan: "Two for a nickel regardless of expense."

Senior's Bright Dream of Popularity Fades as Secret Comes Out

Men Feted by Co-eds at Theaters Think Themselves Picked From All Class; Find 'Twas Lotteried

By SENIOR SLEUTH Now here's the blow, all you senior men of the week. Since Monday night is come and gone the time for announcement is upon us.

The lady who escorted you away from the noisy house convention last night down, down to the gay whirl of the Rex orchestra which kept time to the swish of peacocks' plumes and your ecstatic foot, had, so you thought, chosen you from among men. She had singled you out and through her initiative made you partner of the evening.

The truth follows: the lady escorted you last night under compulsion of a senior women's committee, known as the welfare board which originated with the idea of seeing that less popular men should see the light of a date before the exit of senior week.

C. H. Hales Starts Spring Work for Girls; Miss Kerns to Help on Rug Selection

The Y. W. C. A. bungalow is receiving a beautiful Spring retouching this week, if anyone questions the huge buckets and the various articles of painter's apparatus be-decking the bungalow front-porch.

At the root of all this is none other than one of the Y. W.'s best friends, C. H. Hales, of the firm of Preston & Hales, of this city.

GERMAN SCIENTIFIC MAGAZINE CONTAINS WHEELER ARTICLES

"The Will" Has Papers Written by Member of Psychology Department

COOPERATION AGAIN SEEN

Lack of Money Hardship on Education According to Letter

Dr. R. H. Wheeler, of the psychology department, is the author of several articles in the third edition of "The Will," published by Dr. Johannes Lind-worsky, of the department of psychology of the University of Cologne, Germany.

Some time ago Dr. Wheeler received a request from the German professor asking for some reprints on several of his articles, and saying that he was very handicapped for material due to the fact that the University of Cologne is a newly organized institution and that practically no foreign publications were available as yet.

VALUABLE AMATI VIOLIN WILL BE USED BY ARTIST

To make a trip of hundreds of miles for the privilege of paying several thousand dollars for a very old violin falls to the lot of few persons, yet this is what Mrs. Susie Fennell Pipes, who will appear in concert at the Woman's building tomorrow night, did to acquire the rare old Amati violin upon which she plays.

While filling a professional engagement in San Francisco, Mrs. Pipes heard of this instrument, which was built in 1590 by the great Italian master violin builder, Amati. It is one of the very few such violins now extant, all of which are registered.

Neophytes To Show Ability Next Thursday

Hart, Schaffner and Marx are due to make a personal appearance on the campus next Thursday. Full evening dress is to be their garb, just as though they had been to a formal hootch party and had absent-mindedly forgotten to remove their habits (good and bad) before coming up to school the next morning.

The men taking the part of the w. k. clothiers are Jay Allen, Phil Brogan and Ep Hoyt, neophytes of Sigma Delta Chi. They will come to classes clad in swallow-tails, white vests silk hats and patent leathers.

BASKETBALL TITLE TO BE DECIDED AT MOSCOW THIS WEEK

Washington and Idaho to Play For Pennant Tonight and Wednesday

OREGON FIVE GOES SOUTH

Burnett Stars in O. A. C. Game; New Style of Passing Proving Effective

This will be the big week in inter-collegiate basketball circles with a pennant deciding series coming up between the league leaders, Washington and Idaho, at Moscow tonight.

Following the Idaho series Washington will journey to Pullman where they will tangle with the Cougars on Thursday and Friday nights.

Oregon Plays Tonight

Oregon opens in the south tonight against the California Bears, winding up the series at Berkeley tomorrow evening, resting Thursday and then finishing the invasion with a two game series against Stanford on Friday and Saturday nights.

Defeated on all sides and by all hands in the Pacific Coast Conference the Varsity would seem to have but small chance of breaking into the win column, for the Golden Bear is very strong in the court sport in spite of a double defeat at the hands of Washington.

Oregon on Defensive

Playing strictly on the defensive the Oregon five dropped the closing game of the Aggie series 34-21. Securing the ball in the vicinity of the Aggie basket the varsity started passing slowly with no effort toward getting the ball down the floor until they had drawn down the collegians when the ball was heaved up to some waiting Oregonian who slipped it through the basket.

"Slats" Gill High

"Slats" Gill, high point man for the collegians, had his horse shoe on his hip Saturday night and was dropping them in from all angles.
