MANY WOMEN SWIMMERS ARE BEING DEVELOPED

Girls' Organizations Entering Teams for Meet

The women's swimming classes of the school of physical education have turned out already this year several expert swimmers and many others who are on the way to being finished products in aquatic feats, according to instructors in the swimming department.

Last year over 100 women were taught to swim by the swimming department, and many of these are being entered in the events this year.

Much interest involving extra practice is being displayed at present over the swimming meet. Teams have already been chosen by the different organizations and the following houses have signified their intention of entering a team: Susan Campbell, Alpha Phi, Delta Zeta, Kappa Theta, Hendricks Hall, Oregon Club and Gamma Phi Beta.

The events of the meet will include one length races with the breast stroke, the crawl and the trudgeon and freestyle stroke. Diving will constitute one of the leading events as well as strokes for form. There will also be a relay race, but the teams have not yet been chosen.

The schedule for the meet will be drawn up as soon as all entries are in. The meet will probably take place within the next two weeks.

LIBRARY FUND INCREASED

Knights of Columbus Give Newman Club Dance Proceeds

The Newman Club library fund was swelled to the amount of $35 by a benefit dance given by the Eugene council of the Knights of Columbus last Friday evening. This was one of a series of social affairs to be given by local councils throughout the state, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase books for the Newman Hall collection.

The library will be at the disposal of the students for both reference and recreational purposes. It is expected that contributions will be turned in from time to time as the different councils realize their subscriptions.

OREGON CLUB TO DANCE

The men's Oregon club will give a dance in the Woman's building Saturday evening, February 18. Dancing will begin at 8:30. Patrons for the affair will be Dr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Hodge and Mr. and Mrs. Marion McClain.

WILL SPEAK AT FLORENCE

Wilkie N. Collins, instructor in the department of rhetoric and American literature, will go to Florence, February 25 to attend a local Teachers Institute. He will speak on "A Free Hand for High School English Teachers." He says that his ideas are quite revolutionary, here, at least.

COURSE IN LIFE SAVING TO BE GIVEN IF MEN SIGN

Those Passing Red Cross Test to Get Certificate

The school of physical education is considering opening a class in life-saving if a sufficient number of men sign up for it in the near future, says Gerald Barnes, swimming instructor. The course was offered about a month ago, but at that time there was apparently no interest in the subject, and it was abandoned.

According to Coach Barnes a great deal of interest should be shown among the swimmers of the University in such a course, as it will be the aim to teach all the best methods of carrying a drowning person in the water, the methods of breaking holds which drowning persons instinctively take, and also the ways of reviving a partly drowned person after he has been taken to shore.

The present plan of the course is to award Red Cross life saving certificates to all persons who, after a certain amount of specified instruction, are able to pass the Red Cross test for life savers. Edwin Durno, and Gerald Barnes, both of whom have had a great deal of experience in this line, are to conduct the examinations, and Coach Barnes pointed out that they are going to make the test an especially rigorous one, and will not let any person through who is not able to go out and do real work in life saving.

At least 10 men will be needed for the formation of a class, so all those wishing to take the course should see Coach Barnes as soon as possible and arrange with him for periods.

The class is one of the most practical that can be offered by the school, and Coach Barnes points out that the men taking it will get more out of it than from any sort of unstructured swimming, and requests that any men who wish to take it whether advanced swimmers or not should come and see him.

Photography Is an Art
Many of our customers wonder at the results we are able to produce. They say that our photos are more than mere pictures and wonder why we are different from the average studio.
The truth is that our studio is not much different from the average. We use cameras, just like the others. Our portraits are different, because of the personal element; retouch, correct exposure and printing. Then we have wonderful success in posing our subjects.
All in all it is our ability to produce better photo-portraits, that gives us a claim on your patronage.

"Educationally Healthful"—Actively Helpful.

"In their major effort for self-preservation the endowed colleges find themselves hardly at all in the hands of their legally appointed governing boards, but in those of more or less self-appointed (albeit officially anointed) graduate groups. Thus, although chartered intentionally and with carefulest prevision for insuring autocracy in their control, the endowed colleges are, willy nilly, moving in the direction of pure democracy. . . .

"In college, the trustees have submitted to such weakening of their basic authority as is virtually tantamount to their abdication. The colleges are in the hands of the arbiters of their financial futures—the general body of their graduates. Whether or not this situation is educationally healthful remains to be seen. Even if it is not, the time for applying remedies has passed. . . .

"One outcome seems sure, the tendency toward actual, if not nominal, democracy of determining influence in the endowed colleges will bring about an increasing similarity between them and the emphatically democratic, tax-supported institutions. . . .

"The distinctness of purpose, the loftiness of standard, the individuality of viewpoint and method, once assumed to be the distinguishing features of the endowed colleges—and to many minds their only excuse today for being—are threatened with extinction."

The above editorial from the Boston Evening Transcript was inspired by the fact that more money has been raised in this country during the past three years for the purposes of higher education, than in any other three years in history, and that most of this money has come from loyal alumni of their alma maters. In addition to raising the funds necessary the alumni have taken an active part in the disposition of them.

During Homecoming here last fall, President Campbell launched a campaign for alumni endowments for the University, pointing out that new buildings now needed here would cost at least a million and a half dollars, and that they cannot be provided for by the millage tax for years to come. A new library, an auditorium, a science building and a men's gymnasium are among the buildings needed most at present.

President Campbell may or may not have thought of the valuable service he was doing to the University in launching this campaign from the standpoint of cementing alumni loyalty and spirit. The Boston newspaper has taken into account the great benefit to the endowed colleges only, but by the endowment plan for the University it can be plainly seen that in the administration of the many important policies the alumni can take a hand by this means.

The alumni of Oregon should take an active part in the affairs of the institution, and what could be more desirable from the standpoint of all who have the Oregon Spirit at heart than to have the University more in the hands of its "graduate groups" than in the hands of "its legally appointed governing board?"

The Emerald will hazard the prediction that not only will such participation by the alumni be "educationally healthful" from the angle of scholarship but that it will likewise attain the desired height in quality production, from the entire aspect of a liberal education. The spirit of a loyal alumni group will permeate the prep school athlete and the student interested in activities to such an extent that commercialism need never be thought of when the selection of the institution for continuing their education comes before them. A liberal education is built upon student activities as well as classroom work.

OREGON CLUB TO DANCE LOST ARTICLES IN OFFICE

Non-Fraternity Men Urged to Attend Affair Next Saturday

Members of the men's Oregon club will give an informal in the Woman's building Saturday, February 18, according to Emerald Sloan, president. The affair will begin at 8:30 o'clock. It is probable the music will be furnished by the University orchestra of four pieces. Fourteen dances and two extras have been arranged. Sloan urges that every non-fraternity man attend. Out of a membership of about 100 more than 40 men signified their intention to attend the dance at the last meeting of the Oregon club. Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hodge and Mr. and Mrs. M. F. McClain will be patrons and patronesses for the evening.

Commerce Building Rivals Second Hand Store in Variety of Goods

The office of the school of business administration in the commerce building is the headquarters of that department for lost pens, pencils and other articles left in the building, and is rivaling a second-hand store with the quantity and quality of its large collection, according to Miss Madeline Manus, secretary to Dean Robbins. Any student who lost anything from a book to a pocket-knife can have it or a substitute for carrying it away. Make Reservations—For that trip to Portland this week-end now at the Y Hut.
