

WASHINGTON MAN SAYS SIX-DAY WEEK PLAN UNECONOMIC

Visitor Reports Failure of Scheme at University After Year's Trial

MANY KEPT FROM CHURCH

Research and Field Work Held Handicapped; Limit Set on Attendance

Herbert T. Condon, graduate of the University of Oregon with the class of 1892, and now comptroller of the University of Washington, was a visitor in his old haunts on the campus yesterday. Mr. Condon brings the news that Washington, after a year's trial of the six-day week, about two years ago gave up the plan and went back to the old five-day schedule.

"The arguments against the six-day plan," said Mr. Condon, "were largely economic. Large numbers of the student body who were earning their way through were doing Saturday work and found it difficult to obtain on the other days the needed amount of employment.

Kept Away From Church

"A second argument was, that the plan simply forced over into Sunday a number of the things that had been done on Saturday. We were denounced from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church by Dr. Matthews for taking the students' Sabbath away from them. The students, Dr. Matthews and others charged, were kept away from divine services by the system.

"A third argument used against the plan was, that Saturday should be the day for the student to 'take stock,' so to speak, of his week's work—to strengthen up the weak spots—and his day for recreation."

The principal reason for the adoption of the six-day week, Mr. Condon pointed out, was for economy of schedule and room space. The plan did save the space of one building.

Faculty Was Divided

"The faculty was divided over the merits of the idea," said the Washington comptroller when asked as to the attitude of the teaching staff. Several found that the system interfered with research and field work. I have heard no argument lately for a return to the six-day week.

"We might however, have been compelled to retain it had it not been for the accession of some fine new buildings and the restriction of enrollment."

Many Students Dropped

Washington's new ruling which makes it necessary for a student to make C (equivalent to Oregon's III) or higher to remain in college resulted in the dropping of 450 students at the end of the winter term of last year, according to Mr. Condon. This reduced the congestion materially, but two-thirds of these re-registered in the fall term of this year. Washington's student limit is now at 4500.

Mr. Condon's wife was Miss Maude Wilkins, class of 1896. One of his classmates is Professor F. S. Dunn, head of the department of Latin language and literature.

The Washington man is here on a vacation. He expressed himself as much pleased with Oregon's building progress.

Co-ed Code Competition Rules Announced by Mrs. Gerlinger

(Editor's Note:—Mrs. G. T. Gerlinger, a member of the board of regents, in an address before the University women a short time ago suggested that a co-ed's "code" be written and adopted at Oregon. The idea has met with a great deal of favorable comment, and in this article specially prepared for the Emerald, Mrs. Gerlinger has outlined the definite competitive plan.)

By IRENE H. GERLINGER

At a recent meeting of the Woman's League, it was proposed to engage the girls of the University in a friendly competition to see who could write the most acceptable Code of Morals, Ethics, and Manners. It was suggested that such a code, if adequate, would serve as a basis for the guidance of all young women who might choose to adopt it.

It was proposed also that this co-ed's code, or creed, or whatever its author wishes to call it, should be expressed in some choice literary form such as Channing's Sympathy, the Sermon on the Mount, Aristotle's Ethics (on characteristics of high-

DEAN ROBBINS TO VISIT EASTERN OREGON POINTS

Commerce Head to Address Umatilla County Institute; Will Speak to Schools and Civic Clubs

Dean E. C. Robbins of the School of Business Administration left yesterday morning for a week's trip to Eastern Oregon, where he will speak before a number of commercial organizations and high schools. He will arrive in Pendleton this morning and will address the Umatilla County institute on "High School Commerce Curricula." In the afternoon he will speak to the students of the Pendleton high school.

Dean Robbins will be entertained Sunday by Arnold Koepke, '21, who has a wheat farm near Pendleton.

Dean Robbins will speak to the high school and to the commercial club at LaGrande on Tuesday, and Union Junction high school and chamber of commerce on Wednesday. Thursday and Friday will be spent in Baker, Ontario, Cove, and Vale, speaking before high schools and commercial organizations. At several of the clubs he will be a guest at luncheon.

The Dean will speak on subjects relative to commercial organizations and commercial curricula in high schools and in the University of Oregon. The spring course for secretaries of commercial organizations will be recommended to all of the clubs addressed and an effort will be made to get their secretaries enrolled.

1922 OREGANA PROGRESSES

NEW BOOK TO CONTAIN SPECIAL ART FEATURES

All Copy Will be in Hands of Printer by March 1; Subscription Sales Exceed Expectations

Work on the 1922 Oregana is rapidly being completed, according to Inez King, the editor. Half of the engravings and 64 printed pages are completed, and the balance of the work will be in the hands of the printer by March 1. A feature of this year's issue will be eight pages of pictures taken by Avarid Fairbanks' class in artistic photography. These pictures will be printed in brown ink on a paper of a pebbled finish. Borders for printed pages are of conventional design, with neutral grey to harmonize with the type.

Most of the illustrations are half-tones, as also are the department headings. These headings were done in wash by Ed Bohlman, Doris Bothwell and Ray Bethers. Miss Bothwell and Bethers attended the California institute of fine arts last year and have contributed a number of other art features.

The design for the comic section is the work of Wilbur Hulm. Ernest Haycox, otherwise known as the campus cynic and E. J. H., is in charge of this department.

The number on the staff this year has been limited in order to more definitely place responsibility and in order to allow the heads of various departments to choose their own assistants. According to Miss King the plan has worked exceedingly well.

Subscription sales have exceeded all expectations according to George McIntyre, manager. The Oregana will make its appearance about a week before Junior Week-end.

This year's staff is as follows: Inez King, editor; Margaret Jackson and Luella Hausler, classes; Emily Perry and Eugene Kelly, athletics; Kenneth Youel and Lenore Cram, living organizations; Jessie Thompson, administration; Ernest Haycox, features; Ray Bethers, art; Emily Veazie, literature; Phil Brogan, events; Florence Skinner, activities; Rosalie Keber, Margaret Duniway, honorary organizations; John McGregor, circulation; Dan Woods, advertising; Myron Shannon, general assistant.

mindness) Chapter 8, Book 4, a prayer, Commandments, or any of the verse forms which might even be sufficiently lyrical to be set to music.

The manuscripts are to be typewritten, unsigned, and handed to the chairman of the judge's committee not later than May 1. Accompanying this must be a plain, sealed envelope containing a card with the author's name. Upon receipt of manuscripts and envelopes containing names, the judge will put on each the same number.

More than one manuscript may be submitted by an author. A prize of ten dollars will be awarded at Junior Week-end to the successful writer. In case of collaboration between two or more authors producing the successful code, this sum will be equally divided. The judges will count 75 per cent on the high ethical quality and the completeness of the Code, and 25 per cent on its literary form. Dr. John Straub has been asked to act as chairman of this committee. The other members are Miss Elizabeth Fox, Miss Mary

DYMENT AND BATES FAVOR ABOLITION OF FRESHMAN ENGLISH

Requirements for First Year Work in Department to be Discussed by Faculty

SUBSTITUTE IS PROVIDED

Those "Obviously Deficient" May be Given Composition Course With no Credit

At the faculty meeting of March 1, there will be presented to the faculty a motion proposing to abolish freshman work in English composition. The plan provides for the substitution of a year of work in an advanced course in written English as a requirement for any of the bachelor's degrees. Such a course would carry not less than two nor more than three hours per term.

The motion which is presented by Dean Dymont and Dr. Bates is as follows in regard to its details: "The freshman entrance examination in English would be required of all matriculants but would be devoted largely to grammar and syntax. Those matriculants who were obviously English defectives, and other deficiencies sent in by major professors, would be required to take a sub-freshman course without credit.

"Except in the case of deficient, it would not be contemplated that any freshman (majors in the department of English not necessarily included) should take written English in their first year.

"The department of English would provide some two dozen written English sections, covering a variety of work such that any school or department could list for its course of study any suitable writing course, fitting it into the second, third or fourth year as desired.

"Each candidate for any of the bachelor's degrees must have passed one year of these writing courses.

"The expense of this plan would not be greater than the expense of written English as given at present.

The plan is not proposed to relieve any congestion that the department of English may have, but is directed to correct improper English in all departments of the University. Under a ruling of this order all aspirants for A. B. degrees of any kind would be required to take at least one year of written English courses.

FRESHMEN BASKETEERS WIN TWO GAMES IN SOUTH

No Contests Dropped so Far by Babes' Quintet; Record is Best Made for Five or Six Years

The frosh basketball team returned from its trip to Southern Oregon without breaking its clean record of victories, as they won both the games which were played on the trip. The first one with Ashland was taken by the close score of 28 to 31, while the Medford game was taken 25 to 31.

Returned members of the team report that the frosh played poor ball both games and should have won by larger scores if they had played as well as they did in the rook contests.

The Ashland game was especially close as the high school team led by several points at the end of the first half, but during the second period the frosh came back and staged a rally which netted them several markers and put them in the lead shortly before the final whistle blew.

These two games are the last that are scheduled for the yearlings unless the proposed Portland trip is brought about and at present the outlook is doubtful.

The frosh team has a record this year that has not been duplicated by any frosh teams for the last five or six years as to date they have not lost a game, and the prospects are that they will be able to defeat any high school aggregation which they meet before the end of the season.

IDAHO ADDS MAJOR SPORT

University of Idaho, Feb. 20.—Wrestling will be inaugurated as a major sport at Idaho Friday evening when the local mat squad locks horns with the W. S. C. grapplers on the Idaho floor. This will be the first match of the year for the local men, and it will give them a good opportunity to measure their strength against an older and more experienced bunch of men. Babe Brown, veteran heavyweight grappler for Idaho, and holder of the Pacific Coast amateur championship, is coaching the squad and will enter in the heavyweight class.

OREGON TAKES GAME FROM NEVADA 32-29

ALL-STATE RELAY MEET OUTLINED AT PORTLAND MEETING

Seven Oregon Colleges to be Represented in First Tilt of Its Kind

HAYWARD ORIGINATES IDEA

Active Institutions Divided Into Three Classes; Events Announced

Plans for the first all-state relay of collegiate institutions were worked out in Portland Saturday by the representatives of seven Oregon colleges and universities. The meet is the first of its kind to be held in the state and the idea has been fostered by Bill Hayward for several years past. The completion of the $10,000 cinder path at Oregon, which will serve as an appropriate place to hold this meet, brought about the realization of his idea.

Entries for the meet will be made from the following Oregon institutions: University of Oregon, Oregon Agricultural College, Willamette university, Pacific university, Linfield college, Albany college, Reed college, North Pacific college, Pacific college, Philomath college, Monmouth Normal, Chemawa, and Mt. Angel college.

Only One Open Event

The meet will be held under the National Intercollegiate rules and will have but one open event, the pentathlon, which will include the following events: 200-meter run, broad jump, discus, javelin and the 1500-meter run. The events occur in the order named.

As planned, the carnival competition was divided into three classes—Class A is limited to the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college first teams, class B will be for all other collegiate institutions entered, while the competition between the rooks and the frosh will fall under class C.

Events Are Listed

The complete list of the events is as follows:

Class A—Relay events: ½-mile relay, 1-mile relay, 2-mile relay and 4-mile relay. Special events: 100-yard dash, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, shot-put, 120-yard low hurdles and javelin throw.

Class B—Relay events: ½-mile relay, 1-mile relay, 2-mile relay and medley relay, in which two men will run 220 yards, one man 440 yards and one man ½-mile. Special events: 100-yard dash, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, shot-put, javelin throw, 120-yard low hurdles 10 feet apart.

Class C—Relay events: ½-mile relay, 1-mile relay. No special events for the freshman teams.

Better Athletic Spirit Object

The relay carnival as outlined will be unique in the history of state athletics and will be the first time that the various colleges and universities have had an opportunity to meet in all-state competition. The relay was suggested by the University of Oregon to foster a better athletic spirit in the state, according to Jack Benefiel, graduate manager, and to give the smaller colleges some incentive to turn out track teams.

The representatives from the various schools in the state were as follows: Roy Bohler, Willamette university; W. A. Long, Pacific university; Mike H. Butler, Oregon Agricultural college; George W. Clark, Reed college; Morse Pettit, Linfield college; E. W. McNeal, Albany college, and Jack Benefiel, University of Oregon.

W. A. A. WILL MEET TODAY

Elimination of Awards of Intrinsic Value to be Voted on

The Women's Athletic Association will meet this afternoon at 5:15 in the Women's League rooms at the Women's building. The meeting is an important one as the association will vote on the elimination of personal awards of intrinsic value such as sweatbands for track and walking, canoe paddle, tennis racket and swimming suit. This does not affect the student body awards to members of varsity teams. Plans for Field Day, which will be the last Saturday in May, will also be discussed.

JUNIOR CLASS TO TALK PLANS FOR CANOE FETE

Arrangements for Week-end to be Gone Over in Class Meeting; Dance to be Held in April

Plans for holding the canoe fete during Junior Week-end will be discussed at the junior class meeting which will be held this afternoon at 5:15 in Villard.

A committee which has been investigating the matter of financing the building of bleachers to accommodate the crowd viewing the canoe fete will report at that time. This committee has gone into every detail regarding the canoe fete, according to Tommy Wyatt, junior president, and has devised ways and means of securing funds to defray the expense of building the bleachers. Just how this has been accomplished will be brought out at the class meeting.

Another junior class dance will be held sometime in April. What form the dance will take—whether fancy dress or "roughneck" will also be decided at the meeting.

Plans for Junior Week-end are now well under way, Wyatt says. Charles Lamb, general chairman of the week-end committee, has called meetings of all committees already appointed, for some time this week.

ATHLETICS ARE DISCUSSED

CLOSER SCHOOL FRIENDSHIP IS OBJECT OF CONFERENCE

Oregon and O. A. C. Physical Education Departments Not in Favor of Intercollegiate Sports

The physical education departments of both the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college expressed themselves as unfavorable to intercollegiate sports for girls, at a conference of the faculty of the two departments and representatives of the women's athletic association held at Corvallis Saturday.

The purpose of the conference was expressed by Miss Alden, who was elected chairman, when she said, "The idea of the conference is to bring the two schools together in such a way as to cement their friendship and promote the spirit of mutual interest and admiration among the girls rather than purely rivalry and competition. Formerly the two schools have met merely as competitors, but now we hope to get better acquainted socially and realize that we have the same standards, hopes and ideals."

"The Oregon Woman's Athletic Association does not stand for intercollegiate sports for girls," said Margaret Russell, president of the association, "but friendly games between the two schools are greatly favored and looked forward to by the girls as a culmination of house and doughnut sports."

A definite program of contests for the rest of the year was outlined. March 4 was set as the definite date for the basketball game which will be played at Eugene in the women's gymnasium. It will be the first varsity contest in the new building and the Oregon W. A. A. is planning special entertainment for their guests.

The date of the swimming meet was left open but it will probably be held about the first of May, nor was it definitely decided whether it would be at Eugene or Corvallis. The last girls' meet was at Eugene in 1920 and resulted in an overwhelming victory for Oregon. The basketball game and tennis matches will be played at Corvallis on June 3.

Following the conference, the Oregon delegates, Miss Alden, Miss Emma Waterman, Miss Catherine Winslow, Miss Jessie Thompson, Margaret Russell, Charlotte Howells, Muriel Meyers, and Mae Lindlay, were entertained by the domestic science department with a luncheon in their new building.

CALIFORNIA CLUB TO DANCE

Social Evening Set for Friday, Feb. 24, At Chamber of Commerce

The California Club, an organization recently formed on the campus, will give a dance on Friday, February 24, at the Chamber of Commerce hall. California poppies will be used to decorate the hall and the programs, designed by Doris Bothwell, are very original.

The California Club, organized to unite California students in the University, has about 60 members. It was formed in January with Don Park as president, Helen Dougherty, vice-president, Doris Bothwell, secretary, Jack Meyers, treasurer, and Emil Ghio, sergeant-at-arms.

STRING OF DEFEATS BROKEN BY VICTORY IN SPEEDY CONTEST

Neither Team Has Edge During First Period; Edlunds Makes Last Goal

VARSITY PLAY IS IMPROVED

Series Will be Closed Tonight With Next on Schedule at Willamette Friday

Oregon 32, Nevada 29.

Thus Oregon won the first regular basketball game of the season and chased old man Jinx into the offing for a space by trimming the five from the University of Nevada in the Army last night in a game marked by brilliant scoring spurts by both teams and a whirlwind finish.

The Oregon team, just back from a disastrous southern invasion, outplayed the Sagebrushers and led steadily throughout the contest. "Rabbit" Bradshaw, the visitors diminutive guard played a speedy game and led the Nevadans scoring with 13 points. The little fellow hooped seven free throws without a miss and then with but two or three minutes of play left and with the score Oregon 28, Nevada 27 the little fellow missed the tying score and a second later Eddie Edlunds pulled things out of the fire with a field goal that boosted the Lemon Yellow's count to 30.

Game Starts Fast

The game started with a rush, Referee Coleman calling a foul on Zimmerman on the initial toss up which Bradshaw converted for Nevada. A little later Rol Andre for the varsity evened it up with a free throw. Leo Goar dropped in the first field goal of the game from the center of the floor and a minute later Zimmerman converted a missed free throw by Andre into a marker.

The closing minutes of the first half were nip and tuck with the score being constantly tied. With the score 12-10 Nevada, Andre stepped out and annexed two baskets and a free throw, the half ending with the varsity on the long end of a 15-12 count.

With the opening of the final period of play Coach Bohler sent in two substitutes, Edlunds for Altstock and Latham for Zimmerman. The varsity led steadily throughout the second period, being threatened by the invading quintet only occasionally. Edlunds loosened up and nicked the Reno hoopers for five field goals, tying with Rol Andre for high point man for Oregon.

Passing is Accurate

The Oregon team showed a marked improvement in their play last night, their passing being much more accurate. They refused to become rattled with the invaders rallies but tightened up and got the ball out of danger. The guarding showed a great deal of improvement and the entire team checked to advantage.

The two teams will meet in the final game of the series tonight with the varsity journeying to Salem the last of the week for a series with the Willamette Bearcats on Friday and Saturday nights.

The lineup:

Oregon (32)	Nevada (29)
Andre, 10	F..... Reed, 8
Altstock, 2	F..... Foster, 6
Zimmerman, 2	C..... Egan
Goar, 4	G..... Bradshaw, 13
Couch, 2	G..... Harrison
Latham, 2	S..... Hobbs, 2
Edlunds, 10	S.....

Referee—Ralph Coleman, O. A. C. Timer—"Spike" Leslie, Scorer—Brown.

The varsity wound up their series in the south with a defeat 20-9 at the hands of Stanford Saturday night. At the end of the first half the varsity was ahead of the Cardinals 7-5 but could not hold the pace and during the final period the Stanford quintet gradually lengthened their lead.

The team returned from the southern trip on the Shasta and were met at the train by yell king Del Oberteuffer, his staff and a hundred cheering students.

WEATHER FORECAST Tuesday fair, northwesterly winds.
