Selective Measures Wanted?

"Education is consecrated to the betterment of mankind. I would not have the universities incapable of educating for positions of highest responsibility, but I would have them recognize that raising the intellectual level of the mass offers the opportunity for the man of genius to emerge."—President Hopkins of Dartmouth College

Surely this must be the defense for a democratic institution, where wealth and position are thrown into a jumbled heap out of which will be born a new citizen, well able to take part in an active world. It is an unwritten law in institutions such as this that upon individual merit depends the rapidity with which the student will rise above his or her fellow students. We pride ourselves that such is the case.

And priding ourselves let us not by any act allow that spirit of democracy to be modified or abandoned as no longer possible. It is possible,—and intellectual development in institutions of higher education must not be confined to wealth or position, it must be within the reach of all who desire it.

The number of self-supporting students at Oregon is extremely large, due to the spirit of democracy which permeates the intellectual and social life here. As students and faculty alike we do not wish to deprive the university of that reputation of democracy and fair dealing. Then believing that we will all readily assent to this, can we afford to take any action which will do that very thing?

A large proportion of these self-supporting students are right on the margin of their ability to pay their way, and to take away the one day of the week when they are allowed to do some sort of outside labor to assist in paying for the necessities of life, means to deprive them of their opportunity to secure a higher education. True, many of them will persist and by staying out of college for two years they will be able to come to the university and pay their expenses with their earnings,—but are they not then deprived of two years of their life as educated men and women?

The six-day week for class work is not conducive to the principles upon which a democratic institution of higher education is founded.

The Co-ed and the "Code."

Considerable comment has been aroused recently among the co-eds of the plan suggested recently by Mrs. G. T. Gerlinger, a member of the board of regents, for a written "code" for the university women. It is a splendid opportunity for the co-eds to assert themselves, to put into writing what they are thinking.

If the college girl of today is different from the college girl of a decade ago, then her "code" will be interesting to read. It will be interesting to know whether this "code," which every girl has, is different from the "code" of a decade ago.

The attempt of "yellow journals" throughout the country recently, to expose the college girl as smoking cigarettes and indulging in wordly amusements has brought adverse criticism. The submitting of ideas of conventionality from the standpoint of the co-ed will give her an opportunity to answer these accusations.

One hundred and seventy-one colleges and universities in the United States and Canada now offer courses in journalism. In 1917 there were only eighty-four. The oldest schools of journalism were founded simultaneously in the University of Wisconsin and the University of Missouri in 1907.

SECOND UNIVERSITY HIKE HAS SMALL ATTENDANCE

Tramp to Goshen Enjoyed; Threatening Weather Keeps Many Home; Next Trip March 11.

A small group of hikers braved the threatening weather of Saturday to tramp over hills, through forests and open fields to Goshen. The roads were thick with mud, but luckily the rain held off until the party was close to Eugene on the return trip. This was the second of the series of all-University hikes.

Hubert Schenck, a geology major, led the hike in place of Dr. John Bovard, who was unable to attend on account of illness. The route taken led out Alder street over the range to the east of Spencer's butte, down a ridge to Goshen, and return to Eugene over the Pacific highway.

The next hike is scheduled for March 11. A number of people failed to attend the hike because they thought it had been postponed on account of the weather. None of the hikes are to be postponed, no matter what the condition of the weather is.

FUNERAL OF L. E. FLEGAL HELD

The funeral of Louis E. Flegal, who died at his residence, 1490 Moss street, Wednesday, was held at the Gordon & Veatch chapel yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. J. M. Walters, pastor of the First Methodist Church, delivered the funeral sermon. Mr. Flegal was the father of Ruth Flegal, member of the class of 1922 and president of Tre Nu, and of Bruce Flegal, who graduated from the University several years ago.

SIGMA CHI, FIJI, KAPPA CHI HANDBALL WINNERS

Spike Leslie Wins by Large Score; Games Not Played on Schedule to be Forfeited

Kappa Theta Chi, Sigma Chi, and Phi Gamma Delta were victors in the handball contests held yesterday afternoon, beating Oregon Club No. 1, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Oregon Club. Kappa Sigma and Alpha Tau Omega were scheduled to mix but their match was postponed.

In the first game, Kappa Theta Chi beat Oregon Club No. 1 by a score of 21-10 and 21-1. Spike Leslie kept Sigma Chi in the lead by winning his match from Sigma Alpha Epsilon 21-1 and 21-6. Jacobberger, for the Fijis, won two hotly contested sets from the Oregon Club No. 2 representative, 21-19 and 21-18.

"All games must be played as scheduled," says Gerald Barnes. "Games not played on schedule will be forfeited to the representative appearing and if neither representative appears the game will be counted as a loss to both teams." Sigma Chi is scheduled to meet Oregon Club No. 1 today. Thursday Kappa Sigma will play Kappa Theta Chi and the two Oregon Club teams will tangle.

MAY ROBINSON TO BE SEEN

A brand new play with the bewitching title "It Pays to Smile," written by Nina Wilcox Putnam, is the vehicle which Augustus Pitou, Inc., has secured for the popular favorite May Robson on her transcontinental tour this season.

The character which Miss Robson impersonates is that of a quaint New England spinster and her characterization of it, is one of the best she has ever done. "It Pays to Smile" will be seen at the Eugene Theatre on Wednesday February 22.

NO CLASSES WEDNESDAY; TEA AND DANCE ON BILL

Washington's Birthday All-University Holiday; Observance of Day to be Unofficial

Washington's birthday, tomorrow, will be an all-University holiday, according to announcement made by the President's office yesterday. All classes and labs are dismissed in accordance with a long-established custom on the campus.

No official observance of the holiday will be held, but a number of events are scheduled for the day.

A student body dance will be held in the women's gym from 2:30 to 5:30 Wednesday afternoon. It will be a jitney affair and a novel feature and excellent music are promised by the committee in charge.

A Colonial tea will be given from 3 to 5 in Hendricks hall. All the faculty members and representatives from the women's organizations have been invited. Any of the members of men's organizations who wish to "drop in" on their way to the dance are invited to do so.

92 PAINTINGS EXHIBITED

Texon Society Will Show Schroff's Pacific Coast Landscapes

The exhibit of 92 paintings done by Alfred Schroff, professor of fine arts at the University, will open at the Eugene Chamber of Commerce this evening. The placing of the pictures and the exhibit will be in charge of Texon, architectural honor society on the campus. One member of the society will be in charge of the exhibit each day during the next two weeks and everyone interested is urged to take this opportunity of seeing these paintings of landscapes on the Pacific coast, many of which represent familiar beauty spots of Oregon.

Members of Texon who will have charge of the exhibit are Phebe Gage, Agnes Brooks, Mary Alta Kelly, Lyle Bartholomew, Cleo Jenkins, Richard Sandeleaf, and Sidney Hayslip.
