A Code and the Undesirables

Bill Hayward, track coach and trainer, caused a stir in assembly when he declared that he would gladly quit if he could not turn out winning track teams from Oregon provided he were given proper support. Every coach and trainer is entitled to a square deal. We all like the words "square deal" and "playing fair"—and the students who are quick to criticize should insist upon a square deal. As was pointed out in the last issue of The Emerald, some faculty members have not gone about the matter of giving out monthly grades with a proper sense of fairness.

The men of Oregon are confronted with the same principle in complaining that Oregon does not win its share of track and field meets,—when they are not putting their own individual efforts into the work. Oregon can win track and field meets. Under the tutelage of Bill Hayward, Oregon has won many,—but those were the days when the school was small; when Oregon Spirit was rife in all parts of campus life; when everyone said "Hello!" in the spirit of friendliness without the forced expression.

Hayward has laid his cards on the table. He has faced the issue fairly and squarely and when he says he will quit if he can't produce the team, he means it,—but he has got to be given a square deal. The cards must not be stacked against him, and every able-bodied man in the University who can possibly do so, should turn out on the track and give Bill a square deal. Forgetting even for a moment the obligation to the alma mater, why not let the sense of fairness predominate?

An honor system in athletics cannot succeed when the lust for victory overshadows the pure love of the sport. Here at Oregon we pride ourselves that an honor system among athletes does exist,—that no so-called "hangers on" are kept here by a plentiful supply of "soft jobs." And thence we are thrown face to face with our own responsibility; success must come from such a plan in the end but it cannot come without the full realization of what the responsibility is,—the utmost cooperation from every student who enters the University is demanded.

A "code" is suggested as the best means by which an honor system can succeed. A "code" then should be used in this emergency,—an unwritten law, which scorns the "lounge lizard" who cannot devote any time to his alma mater for which he does not receive compensation in full. A student of that type is not desirable to any university, to any fraternity, and above all he is not desirable to any democracy.

The Present Shortcomings

Evidently recognizing the need for immediate relief in the present system of payment of laboratory fees, the faculty colloquium has appointed a committee to investigate a flat rate system of payment. The merits of a flat rate fee are unknown but the action of the faculty in recognizing the present unsatisfactory system of the collection of lab fees is commendable.

The idea of bettering a number of present conditions by the faculty members who have the power to have their theories enforced, is far better than planning for emergencies which may arise in the future, but which are not yet of vital concern,—as for instance the recent attempt to install a plan of Saturday classes.

Students who cannot find the time to attend the meetings of the A. S. U. O., when these meetings come but once in a term, are hardly ready to take over the responsibility of self-government. Perhaps, however, they were cognizant of the fact that the dull monotony of a dingy stage had not been broken by any sense of the artistic which might prompt the placing of even a vase with flowers in one corner; or the far from pleasant sensation of the back-breaking process required to sit in a folding chair or on a bench for sixty minutes. Another plea for the facilities needed at student assemblies.

The reasons for the Orchestra being a self-supporting activity are now plainly obvious. Their commendable concert of last night ranked as one of the leading musicales of the year. And the price was within the reach of all.

More self-supporting organizations are needed on the campus,—or possibly fewer organizations if that cannot be accomplished.

GYM FINALS MARCH 15

SCORE OF OVER 60 POINTS MUST BE MADE FOR GRADE

Bar Vault, Four Lap Run, Swimming Posture, Proficiency and Effort to be Judged

Final exams for the freshmen and sophomore men's physical education classes are to begin March 15. Points will be given in the bar vault, four lap run and swimming for posture, effort and proficiency. The highest possible score is 100 points and can be made by bar vaulting 5 ft. 8 in., which will give 16 points; running four laps on the upper track in 51 or 52 seconds, giving 16 points; swimming three laps on the stomach and one on the back, giving 18 points; and having developed a good posture, giving 50 points. A score below 60 points is good for a flunk. Men who have already passed the swimming test will not need to take it again.

H. A. Scott, head of the physical education department, in explaining the plan of next year's classes, stated that the system established this year will have been used long enough to allow "the sophomores of 1922-23 to select their sport for one term and receive specialized training in it. A different sport will be elected for each of the three terms and an examination of advanced standards will be required to be passed. The plan for the incoming freshman class will remain the same as now, which is that during the first term each class is devoted in turn to a particular exercise or sport; during the second term, each week is devoted, and in the third term, every two weeks this plan gives the student an opportunity to become acquainted with all the sports and puts him in a position to know what he wants in his sophomore year.

During the present year, the two underclasses have been conducted on the same plan because last year's freshmen did not have to pass the present requirements. For the upper classmen the main plan will be to get men out for doughnut sports. Gym classes will also be open to them and the tank, handball courts and wrestling room will be available. Mr. Scott reports that about two hundred men passed the physical ability test during the present term. The test will be offered again after the beginning of the spring term. About ten men have failed to remove incompletes which they received in gymnasium last term. To remove them they should report to Mr. Scott, who will tell them what is necessary.

Y. W. FINANCE PROGRAM OUTLINED BY SECRETARY

Miss Gladys Taylor, Representative of National Finance Committee Tells of Use of Funds

Miss Gladys Taylor, campus Y. W. C. A. secretary from O. A. C., who has recently been appointed to the position of representative of the national finance committee of the Y. W., spoke Wednesday afternoon at a joint gathering of the campus Y. W. C. A. cabinet and finance committee, outlining the full national finance program of the association. Miss Taylor spoke in large figures, pointing out in detail the entire amount of income which the association receives, and the uses to which the money will be put.

On her appointment to the national finance committee about a month ago, Miss Taylor attended a conference with national association finance leaders, held in Seattle the first week in March. She plans to visit all of the student associations in Oregon, Washington and Idaho before attending the national convention which will be held April 20-27 at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Miss Taylor is a graduate of the University of Washington, and of the national Y. W. C. A. training school. She has been campus secretary at O. A. C. for the last two years. Her appointment to the national finance committee is considered by her associates as a distinctive honor, and to have come as a mark of recognition of exceptional work performed.

Walking on the Grass

To the editor: Mention was made in assembly about walking on the grass along the paths. This could be easily remedied by a little care on the part of the students. To attempt to pass a group of three or four who have arms so interlocked that they can not untangle to let one pass necessitates walking on the grass. This is also the case when some ultra-attentive gallant must needs stop on an already crowded path and visit his damsel so that the persons essaying to make the distance from Deady to the Music building are crowded off of the path. If we were more considerate and observed the "keep to the right" custom the edges of the paths would not look ragged.

OREGON KNIGHTS MEET

Members Gather Last Time This Term; Report of Activities Given

The last Oregon Knight meeting of the term was held Thursday evening. Reports of the committees were heard and a discussion as to the upholding of Oregon traditions. Yell King Oberhauser, honorary president of the Knights, gave a short talk summing up the work accomplished by the society from the time of its organization to the present time. A detailed report will soon be made to the University in regard to their activities. The meeting adjourned early in order that the members might attend the orchestra concert.

SENIORS ON CODE COMMITTEE

Mary Evans has been appointed by Ella Rawlings, president of Women's league to serve on the committee which will judge the proposed women's codes which are to be presented before Junior Week-end. Norton Winnard was appointed as senior man to serve on the same committee, by Lyle Bartholomew, president of the A. S. U. O. Dean Straub is chairman of the committee which will make the award of $10 which has been offered by Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, a regent of the University, for the best code written by a student of the University for the conduct of the women on the campus.

College Girls' Low Heel Pumps and Oxfords

There is real art in designing a low-heel walking shoe so as to have comfort and style at the same time. These low-heel Oxfords and Pumps are noteworthy examples of how such a combination is possible. They have medium toes and good sturdy soles. At the same time they have all the new spring points of smartness, including the snug fitting inner heel.

Oxfords are ever so popular this year, especially with the manish punchwork effects. Models in patent leather and black and brown kid or calf are priced at $3.45 and more.

The new pumps are priced at $3.50 and more.
