SCHEDULES ARE LIMITED BY NEW FACULTY RULING

Number of Hours Per Week Held to 19 or Less; No Credit for Over 16 Unless Grades Average III

The faculty ruling passed on January 4, 1922, which definitely limits the number of hours that may be carried by each student, will go into effect next term.

The rule quoted directly from the record books is as follows: "A normal schedule is 15 to 16 hours a week. Each student, however, is subject to the restrictions and requirements of his school or department and of his major professor within the following limits: A student may be permitted or required to carry as few as 12 hours or as many as 19 with the proviso that in no event shall he receive more than 16 term-hours credit toward graduation unless his grades average above III."

This will lessen the number of hours carried by many students for, according to the new ruling, it will not benefit the student to carry seventeen, eighteen or nineteen hours unless he makes a grade average of above III and under no consideration may a student carry more than nineteen hours.

Will the Fruits Be Forthcoming?

Recognizing the value of fitting men for the well paid positions of athletic coaches in colleges and high schools throughout the country, the University has attempted to offer a highly specialized course to fit men for these positions. The effort has not been in vain, for already a number of University graduates are handling this sort of work throughout the Pacific Coast.

But to reach the maximum of efficiency in presenting the course the University must not be handicapped by the lack of proper facilities. The need of football gridirons and baseball diamonds has become an obvious disadvantage, and the situation is serious. To prepare men for the coaching positions it becomes necessary to allow all an equal opportunity to participate in the major sports under the direction of the University's present capable staff of coaches. This cannot be accomplished where the lack of practice grounds and facilities for outdoor work necessitates the pruning of the squads at the end of the first week or so of practice workouts.

President Campbell in outlining the plan of the school of physical education laid special emphasis upon the great State-wide health campaign which the program includes. To bring every able-bodied man in the University into close touch with athletics and allow him to participate whether he is of intercollegiate calibre or not, is indeed a commendable achievement. The school of physical education has proposed to do this and as a result a higher type of manhood, physically and mentally, will emerge from Oregon at the end of the four years of prescribed work.

Here again the lack of facilities will reduce the ultimate benefits to be derived from such a program by the individuals participating. Oregon must have more athletic grounds, more practice fields and better facilities for carrying on this health program and the specialization work which is needed by those preparing for the field of athletic instruction and coaching.

"The lack of funds" will prevent the carrying out of a very extensive construction program for these outdoor fields for physical education, we are told, for several years to come. This being true, some means must be brought about to provide them at once. One baseball diamond to accommodate both the varsity and freshman baseball teams is not sufficient; one practice gridiron for both the freshman and varsity football squads will not make for a maximum of efficiency. The extensive program for intra-mural sports cannot be carried out with even fair results without the facilities necessary.

The regents have recognized the value of the program of physical education and have set aside a tract of land for the purpose. But the budget, we are told, will not allow the development of this tract at present. Obviously, some constructive suggestion is needed at once to bring about the early completion of the proposed construction program for the athletic fields.

The Future Possibilities

A monthly literary magazine for the campus is a splendid idea. Opportunities for the students who are talented along this line are not offered in any great number on the campus. The Emerald and the Lemon Punch cover their respective fields, but the literary magazine opens a new field, and if Pot and Quill have been able to accomplish the fulfillment of this need by their proposed plan they are to be congratulated.

Edison Marshall, an Oregon graduate, has just captured the prize for the leading short story of the year, to be published in an American periodical. Undoubtedly there are other talented writers in the University whom the campus literary magazine will aid greatly in developing.

The Friendship Fund drive which has apparently been started among the freshman women on the campus is a violation of the rule made by the drive committee, according to the statement of the chairman of this committee. It is too bad that when movements of this sort are begun, no attempt is made to ascertain the authority for them. The student council clearly outlined the authority for sanctioning or refusing to allow drives on the campus early this year. The motives were stated and the committee has met several times. The freshman girls have apparently been the victims of some overzealous campaigner in this instance.
