

EUROPEAN OUTLOOK BECOMING BETTER, SAYS DR. ZIMMERN

Washington Conference Called Wonderful Success by Noted Scholar

FACULTY DINNER ENJOYED

Europe Convalescing; Britain and U. S. Expected to Work Together

Dr. Alfred E. Zimmern, who with Madame Zimmer, has come to the University to give a course of lectures by special invitation, sounded a note of guarded optimism for Europe in his address last night at the dinner given in their honor by the faculty at Hendricks hall.

Among the points of greatest interest made by Dr. Zimmern are the following:

The Washington conference on arms and Pacific problems has been a great success (provided the treaties are ratified).

The League of Nations is functioning in Europe and doing a great deal to stabilize Europe, in spite of American non-membership.

Europe has gone back to work. The greatest sufferers from the present situation are the industries of Great Britain and the United States.

The fall of Lloyd George ministry will mean the beginning of better relations with both France and Germany.

It is Britain's fault, and not France's, that the two governments have drifted apart in their policy toward Germany. Britain through Lloyd George loaded upon the reparations a sum in pensions and kindred expense a sum three times in excess of the amount which Germany could legally be expected to pay.

Under the Poincare government, France is working to a better understanding with Britain and America.

The best policy toward Germany is, first, reasonableness of terms, then firmness in insisting on their fulfillment.

Dr. Zimmern held the audience of more than a hundred faculty men and their wives and faculty women for over an hour giving an insight into Europe in reconstruction, into the Armament Conference, the League of Nations, and other interesting subjects.

"The Washington conference was a wonderful success in all that it was competent to do," said Dr. Zimmern. In speaking of the far East and Pacific questions let me first attempt to impress you with what it meant to the British to give up her naval supremacy. The fact that we accepted the plan is a wonderful tribute to the confidence that exists between the two English speaking peoples. The days of naval supremacy is to be replaced by a supremacy shared by your nation and ours. This means a tremendous responsibility. As far as I can see by looking into the future, Britain and America are going to work together. Not only this, but they are going hand in hand to win the confidence of the rest of the world."

Conference Methods Praised

"The Washington Conference has been a success not only in what it has achieved but also in the method of its achievement. They have not pursued the tactics of the Peace Conference by trying to settle the affairs of the whole world at once but have worked on the basis of taking one region of the world and working out its problems separately.

"If you should ask me whether the people of Europe are working, my answer should be that there has been a wonderful improvement in the years since the war. This has been more true of agricultural nations than of the industrial which have been handicapped in selling outside.

"Europe has passed through a tremendous ordeal, one not only of expense and casualties in war but also in the dislocation of their industrial and agricultural system. The reason that their finances have been in such confusion in the central countries is that they had to begin their reconstruction by buying raw material from nations overseas which had better money than they had.

Genoa Conference too Late

"The greatest mistake made by our statesmen is that they failed to adopt the co-operative plan of reconstruction. The Genoa conference comes just three years too late. Had it been called

VESPER SERVICES ARE TO BE HELD MARCH 19

Cantata Olive to Calvary to be Given; Lenten Organ Recitals Postponed Until March 26.

There will be a special Vesper service given at the Methodist church on Sunday, March 19, by the University Vesper choir under the direction of John Stark Evans. The service will be entirely musical and the following soloists will appear: Madame Rose McGrew, George Hopkins, Glen Morrow, Eloise McPherson. The feature of the service will be the Lenten cantata "Olivet to Calvary" by Maunder. Mr. Evans will be heard at the organ.

Contrary to previous plans the Lenten organ recitals by Mr. Evans will continue until Easter, being given on March 26, April 2 and April 16.

The culmination of the Lenten musical treats will be the cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" which will be given on April 9. This is said to be of even greater musical interest than was the St. Cecilia Mass given at Christmas time. The University choir, directed by Mr. Evans and assisted by Madame Rose McGrew, soprano, John B. Siefert, tenor, and J. Erwyn Mutch, baritone, will render the impressive service.

GYM EXHIBITION PLANNED

MORE THAN 550 WOMEN WILL TAKE PART IN STUNTS

Work in Interhouse and Interclass Contests Commended by Head of Physical Education

The work of the women's physical education department for the term will culminate in a monster gymnasium demonstration Friday night at 8 o'clock when more than 550 freshmen and sophomore girls and upperclass members in the department will take part in gymnastics, drills, folk dancing, military tactics and apparatus stunts.

The big new gymnasium which will make the demonstration more interesting than ever before and the physical education department invites all students, members of the faculty, and Eugene townspeople to come and see what has been done during the past three months.

The demonstration will start with a grand march in which all of the gymnasium classes will take part, including the majors in the department and the corrective students. This will be followed by a gymnastic drill in which about 175 girls will take part. The freshman majors will give three folk dances and all of the freshman classes will take part in games and feats with the basketball and apparatus. The next event will be military tactics and gymnastic drills by the upperclass majors. The evening will end with the annual interclass track meet in which 12 girls from each class will compete for the Hayward indoor track cup for women.

The department has made a special effort this term to base gymnasium work on activities which were naturally more interesting to the girls. The contest instituted by Miss Florence Alden, head of the department, at the beginning of the term has stimulated much competitive interest not only among the individual girls but also between the different classes. The stunts on which the girls are scored include many which prove beneficial in the class and house activities, such as baseball pitching, basketball throwing, high jumping and rope climbing.

The basketball and swimming seasons were unusually successful not only from the standpoint of the results of the games, but also the number who took part, according to Miss Waterman and Miss Winslow, who have been coaching these sports. So many girls turned out for swimming that it was added to the list of doughnut sports. Kappa Alpha Theta won the first series. In the class meet it was necessary to have three duel meets instead of one as before.

About twice as many girls played in the interhouse and class basketball series as last year, and Miss Alden expressed herself as being especially pleased with the games. "The girls play unusually good basketball," she said, "their endurance indicates splendid preliminary training." She also commended the girls on the splendid spirit shown.

MARSHALL TO LECTURE

That the Bible is the product of man's religious experience, and that it is the expression of man's growing idea of God will be the theme of the third of the round-table discussions, at the "Y" hut led by the Rev. W. H. L. Marshall of the Eugene Congregational church, this afternoon from 5 to 5:40. This is the last of the three discussions led by Mr. Marshall at the hut.

WEATHER FORECAST

Thursday, rain, southwesterly winds.

FEDERAL FINANCES TOPIC OF A. L. MILLS IN ASSEMBLY TALK

Reserve System Methods to be Portlind in Speech by Portland Man

AFTERNOON LECTURE AT 3

Technical Aspects of Subject Will be Discussed With Advanced Classes

A. L. Mills, president of the First National Bank of Portland, and one of the foremost figures in financial circles of the northwest, has been secured to deliver the assembly address today. This is the last assembly of the term.

As an officer in the Federal Reserve System, Mr. Mills is well able to speak with assurance on his topic, "The United States Government in Banking." It is probable that he will outline the development of federal interests in banking and give a brief history of the federal experiments in banking in the past, with particular bearing on the development of the Federal Reserve System and the part it has played in tiding the country through its most acute financial crises.

Held Good Speaker

Mr. Mills came here with a reputation as a fluent and capable public speaker, able to handle a topic such as he has chosen in a clear and interesting style. Members of the faculty who have heard him say that he is very forceful and that they have a high regard for his ability. He has been much in demand throughout the state, and his speeches have met with success wherever delivered. Two months ago he addressed the students at O. A. C. on some similar topic, and reports indicate that he made a very strong impression. He also delivered an address at the inauguration of the president of Reed College a year ago.

This is the first time for a long period that a man prominent in financial circles has addressed the assembly. It was only by a fortunate opportunity that Mr. Mills was able to come to the campus, as business interests require his almost continuous presence at Portland.

After his graduation from Harvard in the early eighties, Mr. Mills came direct to Oregon, starting his financial career in a small bank in Eastern Oregon. He then worked in a Walla Walla bank, and after a few years there came to Portland and became connected with the First National Bank, the presidency of which he has held for a number of years. He has had a large part in building up this institution, and is regarded as a very able banker.

Prominent in Public Life

Despite his many business interests, Mr. Mills has had time to devote to public affairs. He is a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University, and is prominent in many public movements.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon he will meet some of the advanced classes in finance as well as any students who may be interested, in room 105 of the commerce building. His talk then will be on some of the more technical aspects of the Federal Reserve System of banking.

Miss Florence Garrett will render a vocal selection.

NEWMAN CLUB LIBRARY CONTAINS 500 VOLUMES

Father O'Hara Gives Greater Part of Collection; Portland Man and K. of C. Other Donors

There are now about 500 volumes, of general Catholic literature, in the Newman club library. The greater part of this library has been donated by Father E. V. O'Hara, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of Eugene.

The second largest donation was $100 given by a non-Catholic man of Portland, Oregon, while the Eugene Knights of Columbus come third with a donation of $75. Other donations in the way of books have also been received from various sources.

Among the books now contained in the library are the complete works of Cardinal Newman, lives of the saints, Catholic Encyclopedia, various works defending Christianity, the writings of the fathers of the church, works dealing with Christian architecture and books treating on the Church and Science. There are also kept many of the current Catholic magazines.

Father O'Hara is, at the present time, planning an addition of works to the library fiction writers and poets to the library.

Oregon Club women	and men will work together on a float.

As a result of the above lottery, which was held last night at the meeting of the general Junior Week-end committee, all the men's and women's organizations are now paired off for the annual mill race event. This shows that 17 floats will be entered.

Plans for the Fete are shaping out well, according to Harold Simpson, chairman of the event. Permission has been obtained from the city to use the street along the mill race. The committee is still working on the lease, which it hopes to secure in a few days. This is necessary this year if the plan to erect permanent bleachers is carried out. According to present indications, sufficient funds are to be placed in the hands of the committee to erect permanent bleachers which will accommodate a considerable crowd.

All committees for Junior Week-end are lining up their work, with a meeting of the general committees every Wednesday night. With the opening of the Spring term concentrated work will start in earnest.

The publicity committee is the most active at the present time, getting out advance literature on the annual campus event.

CAMPUS HEALTH BETTER

Cases Treated by Health Service on Decrease Since January

The number of cases being treated by the University health service has been steadily decreasing since the epidemic of grip in January. At the office it was said that this reduction shows that the students have done a lot of work in helping overcome the epidemic of colds.

This month there have been very few cases of colds treated; some days there have been none. There have been eight operations. The daily average at the infirmary has been between four and five.

During February there were 67 patients at the infirmary; 44 being cases of grip; three operations and 18 miscellaneous cases.

DIRECTOR WRITES ARTICLE

Piece by Earl Kilpatrick Published in Book of Readings

An article on Pleasant Hill, Oregon, by Earl Kilpatrick, director of the extension division, has been published in a book of readings on "The Rural Community" by Professor N. L. Simms, professor of sociology at the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

This article formed a chapter in the rural survey of Lane county, published in 1916. Professor Simms has published this book of readings for college use, and uses the material on Pleasant Hill to show the type of community which is held together by the school, the Union High School being the binding factor among the small towns of this community.

NEW SERIES ARRANGED

Seretary Putnam of the campus "Y" is arranging a series of lectures for next term to take the place of Dr. A. R. Sweetser's lectures, from 5 to 5:45 on Wednesday. Dr. Sweetser's series of lectures will end this week.

VISITING EDITORS TO SEE EXHIBITION OF STYLES

Correct Dress to be Shown High School Women; Portland Firm to Loan Sport Clothes

During the week-end of April 14 and 15 which will be given over by the University to the entertainment of visiting high school editors the Women's League will stage a style show for the benefit of the women editors.

This is an entirely new idea on the Oregon campus, although it has been successfully carried out at other institutions of collegiate rank. The motive behind the idea is to give the prospective girl students an idea of the proper clothing for a college woman, not only on the campus but at social functions.

Frocks and sport clothes will be obtained from supply houses of Portland and some will be furnished by the domestic art students of the campus.

Those in charge of arrangements for the style show which will be held on April 14 are Catherine Nicholson, Wilhemina Beckstead, Savilla Week, Phebe Gage, and Pearl Lewis. A committee meeting will be held tomorrow at 5 o'clock in the Women's building, at which further plans will be discussed.

GUILD PLAY SUCCESSFUL

FERGUS REDDIE AS SHYLOCK EXCEEDINGLY FINE

Entire Company Enters Into Spirit of Sixteenth Century Drama Staged Last Night

"The Merchant of Venice," which was produced last night in Guild theatre, was one of the most successful Shakespearean plays ever produced on the campus. The work of Professor Fergus Reddie who played Shylock, and who directed the play, and that of Charlotte Banfiel was exceedingly fine, and the whole company entered into the spirit of the sixteenth century drama with keen interest.

The settings were simple, which greatly facilitated the changing of the scenes and shortened the time between the acts. The play was composed of five acts, two of which were divided into two scenes. The fourth act, which shows the court of the Duke of Venice, where the trial of Antonio, the merchant, takes place, was exceptionally good, and the scene between Launcelot Gobbo, the fool, played by Claire Keeney, and Old Gobbo, his father, played by John Ellstad, won much praise from every one who saw the production.

Hildegard Repinen, who has been seen several times on the Guild hall stage, played Jessica, Shylock's daughter, well. This role was in extreme contrast to the other more serious roles she has played this year. Nerissa, the friend and companion of Portia, was played by Sadye Eccles.

Two solos were sung, one by Delbert Faust, who played the part of Gratiano, who sang under the window of Jessica, and the other by Viola Powell, who sang during the casket scene when Bassanio was trying to choose the casket which held the picture of Portia.

Bassanio was played by Norvell Thompson, who had not been seen in a Guild hall theatre production since he played the lead in "Why Marry?" last fall. This role is one of the most important in the whole play, and it was handled very well by him.

The play will be staged both tonight and tomorrow night.

Y. W. TO GIVE SILVER TEA

Proceeds to be Used to Buy Furniture for Association Rooms

Plans have been made for a silver tea to be given at the Bungalow early in the Spring term, the proceeds of which will be used for additional furnishings for the association rooms, according to Miss Dorothy Collier, secretary.

Mrs. George Bohler was recently appointed chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Dean Walker.

New rugs were laid during the past week which were purchased from the proceeds of the Rummage Sale held in February, and it is hoped there will be drapes hung and a davenport installed very soon.

MUSICIANS TO PLAY SATURDAY

Helen Harper, violinist and Hildred Hall, pianist will go to Cottage Grove Saturday to play for a formal tea to be given by a group of the ladies of Cottage Grove Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Bartle. The musicians will be entertained Saturday night by some of those who are giving the tea.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCED

WINNERS OF RELAYS SATURDAY TO FORM NUCLEUS OF SQUAD

Results to Show Men Who Will Defend Oregon in All-State Meet Here April 14-15

HIGH GRADES ARE WANTED

Aspirants for House Teams are Turning Out Every Night; 78 Already Signed Up

The results of the inter-class relays to be staged on Hayward field Saturday will determine the tracksters who will defend Oregon in the All-state relays to be held here on April 14 and 15, and in the Seattle Relay Carnival. It will be necessary for those men chosen to stay here over the spring vacation to get in shape to meet those other teams, according to Coach Bill Hayward.

Saturday's meet will also be a determining factor in picking the relay team to represent Oregon at Penn State on April 27, 28 and 29. Hayward's plans for a team are not panning out. Some of the men who he was depending on have apparently quit coming out with no excuse. Spearow is the only man now that Bill can depend on in the famous meet. "I haven't got time to fool with a man who knows that I am depending on him and doesn't show up," Bill said.

Hayward is Pleased

The coaches are arranging the regular nightly practice so that all men in the same event are on the field at the same time, adding materially to training efficiency. Hayward is much pleased with the way in which his proteges are picking up in their class work, and it is unlikely that any of them will be ineligible because of class work.

"We want them to keep their grades at four and above," Bill said, and most of them are fulfilling his expectation. Whenever a trackster's grade card shows him low in any subject, he has Bill to reckon with.

Judging from early reports the Inter-Organization track meet to be held next term is going to be a big success. Already five houses have turned in lists of men who expect to turn out, the total being 78 to date. Many of the aspirants are turning out but Bill says that he is not going to check up on them until the first of the new term, because most of them need all their spare time to put in on their studies. However Bill said that he would keep a close tab on them after that, and the men will have to turn out regularly in order to compete.

Frosh Meet Planned

While it is probable that the freshmen will not have a track meet away from home this year they stand in line for several good meets here. Chemawa and the Eugene High are on the list. Pacific is anxious to get a meet with the yarlings, and so is Cottage Grove. Beside these they will take part against the O. A. C. rooks in both the All-State Relay and the Oregon-O. A. C. meet. If they do not win many honors this year they will at least get a lot of valuable practice that will stand them in good stead next year. There are enough of them getting experience this year to at least put Oregon in a better place than she now stands.

"BIB" HOYT MUST SWIM OR FAIL TO GRADUATE

University Regulations Require 60 Yards; Ten With Difficulty is Longest Distance Made

Just another victim of University regulations is the plight of Wilbur "Bib" Hoyt, a senior who is, or rather, was, to graduate in June.

Bib's records show that he will no doubt have plenty of languages, science, economics, history and so on "ad infinitum" but he does lack the ability to swim 60 yards and University requirements say that he has to make up this deficiency. Bib found this out last fall and for almost six months he has conscientiously tried to learn to swim, but with little success, for the best record that he has chalked up so far is a 10 yard endurance, accompanied by strenuous splashing and splinting.

The first trouble that he had in his attempts to learn the many art of swimming was his inability to keep his feet from sinking. Three months of hard work remedied this but the result was that he couldn't keep his head up at the same time.

So Bib's last months of college life will consist of a grim struggle between watery discomfiture and graduation with the odds all in favor of the former.
