FEW DEVELOPMENTS IN STUDENT RACES FOR A. S. U. O. JOBS

Velma Farnham Out for Head of Oregana Staff; Has Many Activities

INEZ KING FOR COUNCIL

Candidates Slow in Telling Intentions; Many "Dark Horses" Mentioned

Either a wealth of dark horses or a dearth in the eligibility list is the situation in the political campaign for the office of president of the A. S. U. O., as far as announcements for the candidacy are concerned. Yesterday saw no new developments, although rumors were again rife which all lacked official confirmation when the individual named in the report was approached. Leith Abbott, president of the senior class, who has been consistently named as a probable candidate for the executive position, said yesterday that he had not definitely decided just what his course might be.

Velma Farnham Runs

So much for the A. S. U. O. presidency. But the activities in the school of journalism took on new life again with the close of the day and Velma Farnham entered the race for editor of the Oregana, student year book. This now assures competition for the editorial position of the annual, for Doris Sikes had previously announced her intentions of running.

Miss Farnham is a major in the school of journalism and has been closely connected with the work on both the Oregana and the Emerald during her college career. She is a member of Kwama and Tre Nu and of the University Orchestra.

Inez King Candidate

Another important announcement yesterday was the decision of Inez King, present editor of the Oregana, to declare herself a candidate for the position of senior woman representative on the executive council. This is one of the most important positions open to women and at present is held by Wanna McKinney, who was likewise editor of the Oregana last year.

Miss King in addition to her editorial position on the year book, was a member of the Emerald staff for her two previous years in college and has been active in student activities. She is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalism fraternity.

The position of secretary of the A. S. U. O. has been the cause of much speculation among the co-eds, but as yet no aspiring candidates have entered the race. Two senior women and one junior woman are also to be elected to the Student Council. No candidates have aspired to these positions as yet.

Candidates Are Slow

Three senior men, two junior men and one sophomore man are also to be elected members of the Student Council and one man from the sophomore class this year is to be elected for a two-year term on the Executive Council. Candidates for yell king are likewise slow in coming to the front. Nominations are one week from today.

EVENING ART CLASSES BIG

Courses Given by Schreff and Fairbanks Twice a Week Popular

An investigation into the brightly lighted studios of the art and sculpture studios on Tuesday and Thursday evenings reveals the fact that classes are held there on these evenings for the benefit of the artistic and the ambitious, and a glance shows that their popularity is unquestionable. Professor A. H. Schreff, of the fine arts department, and Avar Fairbanks, professor of sculpture, hold classes from 7 to 10 on two evenings each week and the enrollment in both of these speaks for their popularity. For students whose afternoons are filled with other laboratory work these are welcome opportunities for work in art courses which they could not take otherwise, and according to Mr. Fairbanks, these classes are very advantageous to the students for this reason. The indication is that evening classes will become more popular as the enrollment of the University increases and there are fewer hours available during the day.

ENGINEER UNABLE TO VISIT

Due to illness, E. T. Mische, city park engineer of Portland, was unable to appear and address the pre-engineering students this morning. It is planned to have him deliver the lecture a week from Thursday if he is able to do so.

HIKERS TOLD TO BEWARE ATTRACTIVE POISON OAK

Bright Red Leaves Invite; Contact Is Not Necessary for Infection; Precautions Urged

Spring and poison oak have arrived simultaneously. Every year a number of students find themselves broken out with a red rash and are able to blame poison oak for it. Precaution should be taken when on picnics or in the woods not to come in contact with, or even in the close vicinity, of this shrub. Poison oak, contrary to the general belief, can be caught by just passing near the shrub, and actual contact with the plant is not necessary for infection.

Dr. William Kuykendall, of the University health service, suggests that students should take precautions to avoid this trouble. The first thing to do is to learn to recognize the plant, which is easily done because of its bright red leaves. Cold cream rubbed on the hands and face before going to places where poison oak may be, prevents the poison from entering the pores of the skin.

The best preventative is to wash all exposed parts thoroughly with soap and water upon returning from picnics or hikes. Infirmary treatment is advised rather than home efforts because of its efficacy, and a speedier cure is effected.

SHAW PLAY TAKES WELL

CLEVER STAGE SETTINGS MAKE PLEASING EFFECT

Miss Banfield, Darrell Larsen and Whole Cast Bring Out Humor of Production

The simple but clever stage settings and the Egyptian costumes combined with the soft lighting effects helped to make "Caesar and Cleopatra," which was produced in Guild theater last night, the most interesting play of the dramatic season. The play, written by George Bernard Shaw, is filled with clever subtleties. It will be repeated tomorrow and Saturday nights, skipping Friday night because of the orchestra concert.

Miss Charlotte Banfield played Cleopatra with her usual talent, although this was quite a different role from anything she has been seen in for some time. Darrell Larsen as Caesar did the best work he has ever done on the Guild theater stage. Margaret Nelson, who played Fatateta, the severe old woman who had charge of the household of the queen, and who would even commit murder for her mistress, played her difficult role with unusual talent. She was a mannish type who had the strength of several men and she could easily overcome Caesar's guards.

Shaw's Treatment New

Claire Keeney played the part of Pothinus with the same spirit he has put into all of his roles this season.

The story of the play is known to all persons, and yet Shaw has treated the subject in an entirely different manner from the conventional idea of Cleopatra and Caesar. Cleopatra at the time of Caesar's arrival in Egypt was only a child with a terrible fear that the Romans would eat her. With Caesar's threat that he would eat her if she did not act like a real queen, she grew up into a shrewd woman who would have killed all of her enemies, only she did not want Caesar to know how cruel she was.

Caesar, as pictured by Shaw, is a mild old man who gains much of his victories through clemency as well as cleverness. The play ends with Caesar departing for Rome with a promise to send Mark Antony to Cleopatra. She has seen Antony when she was 12 years old and has loved him ever since. The play as a whole is a burlesque on the usual idea of Caesar and Cleopatra.

Others in Cast

The other members of the cast, all of whom played their parts well, were: Lucius Septimus, Fred Young; Achilles and Major Domo, Delbert Faust; Ptolemy, Betti Kessi; Charmain, Mabel Gilham; Iras, Lorna Coolidge; Ruffio, Edwin Keech; Theodotus, John Ellstead; Britannus, Vern Fudge; Bel Afria and the boatman, Arthur Johnson; the centurion and the Persian, Wade Kerr; Belzanor and the musician, Charles Fish; the Nubian and the Roman, Virgil Mulkey; Appolodorus, Joe Clarke.

WYATT DIRECTS PLANS

The work of getting materials together for the bleachers and laying other plans has been carried on by Tom Wyatt, president of the junior class, and Harold Simpson, chairman of the canoe fete. Charles Lamb, general chairman of committees, has been directing the work gangs on Saturday. A great deal of assistance has been given by the University under Mr. Hanna's direction.

IDAHO DEFEATS OREGON

Idaho allowed Oregon four scattered hits and played errorless ball, defeating Oregon by a score of 7 to 1 yesterday at Moscow.

STUDENT COUNCIL VOTES IN FAVOR OF CAMPUS LUNCHEON

Eben Decries Attempt to Do Away with Traditions; Sentiment Approved

EXPENSE CITED BY JUNIORS

Vote Is Six to One to Rescind Order to Eliminate Big Annual Spread

By a vote of six to one, the Student Council at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, requested the junior class to preserve the tradition of the campus luncheon, to be provided for at least for the present by assessing the campus living organizations, as has been done in past years.

The motion was made by Floyd Maxwell and strongly supported by Maurice Eben, senior representative to the council, who declared that the tendency to discard traditions is met with in every school as it passes the 2000 mark in enrollment. Eben pointed out that he was not making the assertion on his own authority but as a result of talks with graduates from other schools. "I have talked with graduates of other universities who are on the campus," he said, "and they have told me that their university went through much the same experience a few years ago, and that they discarded many of their old traditions, with the result that their institution has a reputation today of being very undemocratic. I believe that no school can remain democratic when it does away with its traditions."

Eben declared that he was in favor of the idea of a tradition committee, representative of the student body, the faculty and alumni, and that no action abolishing any traditions should be taken until such a committee has been organized to supervise such work. Various members of the council expressed their approval of Eben's sentiments.

The attitude of the junior class committee was presented by three of the members, who addressed the council. Charles Lamb, head of the committee, stated that the committee was willing to do whatever the council thought best. Thomas Wyatt, president of the junior class, and Harold Simpson, treasurer, also spoke on behalf of the committee. Wyatt declared that the student support was not favorable to the plan of including the luncheon. Simpson declared that the expense was too great for the junior class to bear. Ella Rawlings, president of the Woman's league, pointed to the fact that the chief difficulty was the obtaining of student support, especially in the work of cleaning up after the luncheon was over.

"Y" TREASURY ENRICHED BY FORGOTTEN ACCOUNT

$10.41 Idle for Seven Years in Eugene Bank Would Have Reverted to State July 1

After lying idle seven years in the United States National bank, a forgotten account of $10.41 has been given by Vice-president F. N. McAlister to Mrs. Charlotte Donnelly, but mother of the campus Y. M. C. A.

The account was in the name of the Y. M. C. A. book exchange, and dates back to the dark ages before the Co-op was established, and the Y. M. headquarters were in the basement of Deady hall. Since there had been no deposits or withdrawals on the account for seven years, according to law the money would have reverted to the state the first of July.

The money will be added to the loan fund which was started at Christmas time with a gift of $6, according to Mrs. Donnelly. Two gifts of $25 and $10 increased the fund soon after, and this amount brought the sum almost to the $50 intended by Mrs. Donnelly for emergency occasions. The total was sent over the $50 Tuesday evening by a gift of $5 made by C. A. Hoyt, a member of the advisory board.

"The money is surely welcome," said Mrs. Donnelly. "The original $6 paid four boys' lab fees in succession. The need for such small loans is often enough to keep some boys out of college." Last spring a $40 sum was returned from the First National bank. A seven-year-old account of 20 cents was closed out for the University Orchestra also.

GILBERT TO SPEAK AT GOSHEN

Dr. J. H. Gilbert, head of the department of economics, will speak at a meeting of the Grange at Goshen Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on "Taxation."

DR. RICHARD SCHOLZ TO DISCUSS VISION AND REVISION TODAY

President of Reed College Will Address Students at Assembly

SPEAKER NOTED HISTORIAN

University Orchestra Will Be on Program for First Time This Year

When Dr. Richard F. Scholz, president of Reed college, speaks at the assembly today, students will have the opportunity of hearing one of the foremost historians of this country. Dr. Scholz, during his years of study at Oxford and travel through Europe which he was awarded as a winner of the Rhodes Scholarship, acquired a tremendous store of information and learning, which should make his address, on "Vision and Revision," very interesting.

His manner of speaking has received much favorable comment. Though he talks very rapidly, his speech is yet so clear and concise that though, as Dean Allen of the School of Journalism says, "he talks very much in an hour, he says as much in that one hour as any other man can say in three hours." As a former schoolmate of Dr. Scholz, having been in the same class in high school, and later in the University of Wisconsin, Dean Allen is very well acquainted with him. "There is always something worth listening to," said Dean Allen in commenting upon Dr. Scholz' style of address.

After being graduated from the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Scholz was awarded the Rhodes Scholarship, being one of the first students from this country to attain that honor. He entered Oxford university in 1902, and remained there three years, during which period he found time for extensive travel through England and the Continent, later finding the experiences and impressions gained during his sojourn in Europe of great value in his study of history. Upon returning to this country, Dr. Scholz accepted the position of instructor in history at the University of Wisconsin. He was later a member of the faculty of the University of California and of the University of Washington. A year ago he was selected to occupy the chair of president of Reed college, at Portland, to succeed Dr. William T. Foster. It is significant of the ability of Dr. Scholz that he should be chosen as president of Reed college, which holds an exceptionally high rating among the independent colleges of the country. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary scholastic fraternity.

"He has a very charming, unaffected personality, sincere, straightforward, and frank," said Dean Allen.

An innovation in musical entertainment will be introduced at the assembly tomorrow, when the University orchestra will appear for the first time in an assembly this year.

HOME ECON. GIRLS MEET

Special Class in Millinery Starts Saturday as Part of Work

At a recent meeting of the Home Economics club, it was voted to send a note of appreciation to Miss Sarah Ravenhill, a pioneer in the field of home economics, who is suffering from a severe illness in Victoria, B. C. The motion was inspired by an address by Miss Lillian Tingle concerning the achievements of Miss Ravenhill in this field.

Following a business meeting, members of the club and faculty members of the household arts department were guests at a luncheon served by Lottie Benschader and Florence Morrison, students in the advanced cooking class.

According to the president, Marie Meyers, it is hoped that eventually the membership of the club will embrace all the students in the household arts department.

There will be a special meeting of the club Saturday morning for the first of a series of lessons in millinery, to be open to members of the club.

INDUSTRIAL FILMS RECEIVED

Two new films, "Raw Sugar Production in Cuba" and "The Story of Domino Syrup," have been received from eastern distributors and will be added to the supply of films and slides used by the department of visual instruction of the extension division.

LEMON PUNCH TO ISSUE TWICE MORE THIS TERM

Preppers' Number to Be Issued Junior Week-end; Stag Edition Before End of Term

All material for the last Lemon Punch to be issued this term must be in by May 9. Two numbers will be issued this term, one at Junior Week-end, the other just before commencement. The first one has already been made up.

The last issue will be a stag number, and an effort will be made to avoid all mention of women. This number, as well as the preppers' number to come out at Junior Week-end, will have an entirely different form from all previous issues, the type, arrangement of the art work, and number of columns being changed. The new staff, under the leadership of "Doc" Braddock, will have charge of both of these issues.

The "Preppers" number will be the largest issue Lemon Punch has ever had. Contributions, both in art work and jokes, are increasing, and there is a good deal of competition in getting material into the magazine.

R.O.T.C. INSPECTION FRIDAY

COLONEL FALLS, COMMANDER OF DISTRICT, HEADS PARTY

War Department Board Is on Tour of Reserve Training Camps of Ninth Corps Area

Colonel M. N. Falls, head of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of the 9th Corps area, will be on the University campus tomorrow and will inspect the Oregon R. O. T. C. unit at 11 o'clock in the morning, according to a letter received yesterday by Major R. C. Baird, head of the University military department. Colonel Falls will be accompanied by a war department board and Majors Danielson and Budd are expected to be in the party.

Colonel Falls, whose headquarters are at the Presidio, San Francisco, is now on a tour of inspection of the college R. O. T. C. units of the 9th Corps area. Wednesday and Thursday of this week he is to inspect the military organization at the Oregon Agricultural college.

Colonel Falls said in his letter to Major Baird, "I should like to bring the Board to Eugene to inspect your unit April 28th. I am anxious to have them see just what a fine unit you have."

The R. O. T. C. unit went through practice reviews and inspection yesterday at regular drill period. Major Baird said, "I feel sure our students will live up to past records and at inspection will make the same impressions as at other times."

Colonel Falls and those accompanying him will probably leave Eugene Friday afternoon. While here they will be entertained by the military staff and a luncheon will be given them Friday noon.

PHI SIGMA PI HAS BLAZE

A garden hose in the hands of John Anderson, Dwight Gregg and Henry Karpenstein was used to extinguish a blaze on the roof of the Phi Sigma Pi house at 639 Eighth avenue east shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday evening. A passer-by noticed the smoke on the roof and notified the department, which arrived after the boys had put out the conflagration. No damage was done. The fire attracted a considerable crowd of students and townspeople from the neighborhood.

Oregon Geologist Describes Work in Wilds of Philippines

(Editor's Note.—Dr. Warren D. Smith, who wrote the following letter, is head of the department of geology in the University of Oregon. He was granted a leave of absence in June, 1920, since which time he has been in the Philippines as head of the bureau of mines for the government. Dr. Smith knows the Philippines, probably as well as any other American, having spent several years there in geological work prior to coming to the university in 1913.)

Sir:

I can well realize and appreciate the point of view of most of the young men who have taken exception to this institution and do not blame them for being 'fed up' with such an

FOUR-MAN TEAM TO REPRESENT OREGON AT SEATTLE RELAY

Sundeleaf, Riskey, Wyatt and Rosebraugh Will Run for Lemon-Yellow

MILE ONLY EVENT ENTERED

Three More Meets Scheduled for Varsity Tracksters This Season

Only four men will represent Oregon this year at the annual Pacific Coast Relay Carnival to be staged at Seattle Saturday, April 29. Track Captain Glen Walkley will officiate as manager on the trip, but this veteran miler will probably not take part in the meet. The team leaves via Southern Pacific this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The men picked by Coach Bill Hayward to defend Lemon Yellow are all 440-yard sprinters, forming the mile relay team. They are Dick Sundeleaf, Arthur Riskey, Tommy Wyatt, and Arthur Rosebraugh. Probably no other team could be picked from the ranks of the varsity tracksters possessing the qualifications of this one. All proved their mettle in the all-state relay against the Aggies, and are in fine condition, due to their constant adherence to training rules throughout the season. There will be no weak link in the chain, as is the case in several of the other relay aggregations.

List of Entries Not Known

No list of schools entering the carnival has reached here as yet, but it is believed that O. A. C., Washington State, Idaho, Montana, Whitman, and Pacific university will all be represented, and possibly more. Invitations were sent out to 18 colleges from Washington, and it is believed that an unusually large gathering will be there this year.

The meet Saturday will be easily the biggest so far this year, and many top-notchers will be present. Pratt, Washington quarter miler, is one of the best in the game. Also, Douglas is a formidable opponent in either the quarter or the half mile. Hurley and Franklin are their mainstays in the special events. The Aggies will also have to be reckoned with as evincing by their record here in the last meet. Their special eventers are among the best, and the four-mile relay aggregation, composed of Swan, Dodge, Walker and Graves, is one of the best if not the best on the coast.

Three More Meets Scheduled

The only other big meet that Oregon will take part in this year is the Northwest-Pacific Conference meet, also to be staged at Seattle, May 26 and 27. Two other meets, the first with the Aggies at Corvallis on May 13, and the second with Washington at Eugene on May 20, conclude the year's schedule. Coaches Hayward and Foster are working hard to make a creditable showing against these other schools, and they are succeeding rather well considering the not overly bright prospects at the beginning of training.

Results of warm weather are evident in both varsity and freshman aspirants, brightening measurably Oregon's hopes for the coming year.
