

CARNIVAL OF COLOR TO BE OFFERED IN CANOE FETE FRIDAY

Seventeen Floats Will Take Water Above Anchorage at 8:30 P. M.

NEW BLEACHERS READY

Structure Put Up by Junior Class Provides for 1500

An array of gorgeous and luxuriant beauty destined to rival the decorative effects of Portland's Rose Festival and Pasadena's Tournament of Roses is predicted to amaze the throngs which will crowd the banks of the mill race Friday night, May 19, for the annual Junior Week-end canoe carnival.

New Plan Satisfactory

"All is set for the fete," announced Harold Simpson, director of the event. "Organizations are working hard to have their entries ready for Friday night. Though there are fewer entries this year than in previous years, there is no doubt that what the fete lacks in numbers, it will make up in quality."

The bleachers which have been constructed by the junior class will be used for the first time Friday night. The class has put in much concentrated labor to erect seats which may be used in future years. The bleachers are to be set aside for the use of students, their guests, and the townspeople. The structure will accommodate 1500 persons.

Regulations Are Stated

"I wish to call special attention to the regulations which must be observed regarding the seating of spectators in the bleachers," said Harold Simpson yesterday. The student section may be entered only from the east end of the bleachers, and the reserved section only from the west end.

Entries Must Be Prompt

"I also wish to urge entries to be at the start at the bend above the old military bridge on time. The lineup will be in alphabetical order of the women's organizations with Alpha Chi

Unruly Frosh To Meet Fate This Morning

For failure to wear the diminutive green chapeaux, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Holy Varsity, seven frosh will meet in front of Library today at 10:30 to act in the capacity of parties of the first part in demonstrating the efficacy of the paddle wielded by members of the Order of the O.

For the former offense, the following freshmen have been duly notified and will report this morning at the Library: Donovan Knapp, Dell Tedrow, Dudley Hill, Harry Meyer, Ed Miller, Alva Adkinson, Stewart Sawtell.

The offending wearer of the tuxedo, Frank Wright, will also be on hand.

COL. LEADER WILL SPEAK

EX-UNIVERSITY MILITARY HEAD TO ADDRESS ASSEMBLY

Wide Experience and Irish Wit Well Known; Topic for Address Not Yet Announced

Colonel John Leader is with us again. The father of the University R. O. T. C.—for it was through his untiring efforts that the officers' training school reached the highest degree of perfection—is back after an extensive tour of the Antipodes, and tomorrow we will hear the colonel at assembly.

For those who do not know Colonel Leader, it might be well to tell briefly the career of one of the best friends the University has ever had. Colonel Leader organized and led the 16th Royal Irish Rifles during the early part of the world war. At the battle of the Somme the battalion was almost entirely wiped out. During the war he was wounded and was retired from active duty.

He came to the University in December, 1917, and took charge of the Officers' Training School. His record was a brilliant one and many of the men who served under him here made names for themselves in other branches of the service.

No Matter What Topic

It was a year ago that the campus last saw Colonel Leader, and during that time he has lost not a bit of that Irish humor. When asked what his topic for assembly would be, he replied: "I haven't decided yet, but it may be a mixture of Demosthenes and Cicero."

Colonel Leader hardly ever selects a topic until the time of the address, and when he does, he does not always follow it. The colonel mixes good-natured humor, a highly educated mind, and a broad experience, gained by much travel, into an address which gives the audience an hour of clean entertainment and also some message to take away and think over.

The former University commandant returns to this country greatly impressed by the athletic spirit that prevails in Australia.

Great Land for Sports

"They play more games in Australia than elsewhere," he said, "and they are sound and sensible games. They derive an education from their games. They learn initiative, self-control, and teamwork. The Australians do not specialize on any one branch of athletics. There is no stalling in the games. They think of the development of brain and body more than the winning of games."

"It is an exception for a man under 50 not to be still playing at least four games. The major sports of Australia

MR. BARRETT'S TALK TONIGHT TO BE ON AMERICA'S OUTLOOK

Government Counsellor Will Address Students and Faculty Members

SPEAKER FORMER EDITOR

Authority on All International Affairs Will Arrive in Eugene Today

The Honorable John Barrett, government counsellor in international affairs, will address students and members of the faculty this evening at 8 o'clock in Villard hall on the subject of "America's New Outlook." Mr. Barrett, ex-director-general of the Pan-American Union in Washington, was formerly United States minister to Siam, Panama, Colombia and Argentina, and has been a member of various international conferences. He comes to the campus from Portland where he spoke before the chamber of commerce on Monday.

"Japan," said Mr. Barrett in his Portland address, "with perfect right is making a mighty effort to gain and hold first position. The progress she is making in establishing steamship lines to all points on the Pacific is remarkable and is attracting the attention of the best commercial experts of the world. She is going to enter competition with us in the matter of trade with Europe. Japan is gaining power as a shipping nation."

Former Telegram Editor Mr. Barrett is a former resident of Oregon and held the position of associate editor on the Portland Telegram from 1890 to 1894.

"Our shipping has grown from almost nothing, prior to the war," said the speaker, "to great proportions. When the Armistice was signed, and since then, it has been a matter of great pride for Americans to see merchant ships now flying our flag."

"But with all our development we are faced with a great and immediate danger. It is almost the unanimous opinion of the best shipping, economic and commercial experts, uninfluenced by politics, that in another ten years the merchant fleet flying the American flag will have practically disappeared from both the Pacific and Atlantic unless extraordinary and even heroic steps are taken by the government to protect American shipping interests through necessary legislation."

"It behooves all to get behind this proposed legislation and see that our ships remain on the high seas."

University to Grant Degree Mr. Barrett has made the trip to the coast to receive from the University of Southern California, some weeks ago, a degree of doctor of laws. He is making a speaking tour of the coast.

TWO GAME SERIES WITH WHITMAN TO OPEN TODAY

Varsity Broke Even with College on Northern Trip; Missionaries Divide Games with O. A. C.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Whitman college nine will open a two-game series with the varsity on Cemetery Ridge. Coach "Nig" Borleske is bringing his Missionaries into the valley for a five-game trip, having played a series with the Aggies Monday and Tuesday in which they broke even. The visiting coach intends starting Sherwood in today's contest and will likely pitch Knudsen tomorrow.

On the northern trip the Varsity broke even with the Whitman nine, dropping the first game of that series and winning the final game of the series, and the trip behind Gray's pitching 5-4. With games coming with the Oregon Aggies Friday and Saturday, Coach Bohler will be hard put for moundmen and may use Latham and Collins in the Whitman series.

The Varsity should have better than an even break with Whitman and with a minimum of errors should be able to take the series. Bill Sorsby, stellar outfielder, and Dinty Moore, shortstop, are suffering from injuries and may not break into the play. It is likely that Coach Bohler will use most of the squad during the four games to be played this week. The pitcher who will start for Oregon today is uncertain but it is likely that Wright, Ringle or Baldwin will mount the mound in the opener today. Britton, who has umpired for the Varsity before and who was formerly connected with the Y. M. C. A., will umpire.

VARSITY CHANGES FOR WIN AGAINST WASHINGTON GOOD

Victor of Dual Meet Will Be Strong Contender for Northwest Honors

WALKLEY IN BETTER SHAPE

Dope Points to Victory if Sprints Are Captured by Oregon Stars

With the most important dual meet of the northwest season scheduled for Hayward field Saturday afternoon as the big athletic attraction for Junior Week-end, interest is running high in local athletic circles as to its outcome, for the winner of the University of Washington-University of Oregon track contest will have to be considered as the potential winner of the Pacific Coast Northwest conference meet to be held in Seattle, May 27.

Although the Aggies trimmed the Oregon squad in Corvallis last Saturday, it will be a stronger team that faces the Purple and Gold on Hayward field. Weber will be in shape for the hurdles, according to present indications, which should make quite a difference in the Lemon Yellow's scoring.

Rosenburg in Better Shape Also Rosenburg and "Speed" Peltier, both of whom were severely handicapped in the Aggie meet by strained leg muscles, will be in far better shape to compete against Hee Edmondson's talent. Further, Captain Walkley, who placed third in the mile at Corvallis, after two collegians had beat him to the tape, should be able to win this event this week.

Last Saturday, while the Varsity was going down to defeat at the hands of the Ags through a general upheaval of dope and a combination of major injuries, and inability to annex many second and third places, the Washington squad was taking the W. S. C. Cougars to a decisive wallowing to the tune of 93-38. This, taken together with the fact that a week previous the Washington Staters mopped the ground with University of Idaho tracksters, and the fact that neither the University of California nor Stanford is entering a team in the Seattle event, points to stiff competition in the conference meet between the Ags, Oregon and Washington. And with Oregon delivering in the hurdles and the javelin, a long shade is conceded the Varsity over the collegians.

Sprints Draw Interest

Much light will be thrown on this year's conference champs by the manner in which Larson and Oberteuffer handle the dashes against Vic Hurley, the crack Purple and Gold Speedster. Both Larson and Obie, winners of the century and the 220 at Corvallis last week, beat the time that Hurley made against the Staters in those events, and the Oregon men ran on a dirt path while Hurley performed on the cinder speedway in the Seattle Stadium.

Last year it was Max Snook who ran Hurley the close race in the Pacific Coast conference meet, but with the O. A. C. sprinter finishing a poor third Saturday, things look brighter for the Oregon dashmen, although Hurley will be a bad man to beat, as he has repeatedly in previous years clipped off the century in 9:4 while the best that Larson has been able to hang up officially is 10 flat.

Oregon Chances Good

If the sprints can be tucked safely away, Oregon's chances look very bright for victory for Spearow's two firsts in the pole vault and in the broad jump were not equaled by the winners in the northern meet, and Spearow should do as well or better against the Sun Dodgers. Scotty Strachan, with Gus Pope missing from the Huskie lineup, should be able to hang up an easy first with the shot. Scotty's performance excelled the Washington heave of last week by a foot.

The relay team which sprang a surprise by trimming the farmer four by a 20-yard lead Saturday, should be able to repeat against the Washington crew by all the indications available this season.

Sundeleaf Running Good Race

In the 440 which Sundeleaf won handily against the Aggies, there will be some keen competition in the person of Douglas, who won for the Sun Dodgers last year. Although Dick's time Saturday was not quite up to that stepped off by Douglas last year in the Pacific Coast meet, Sundeleaf is

STUDENT BODY DANCE SLATED FOR TOMORROW

Junior Class Sponsor for Affair to Help Defray Week-end Costs; Many Preppers Expected

The big student body dance, sponsored by the junior class, and which has so long been postponed, will be held tomorrow night in the Woman's building. The dance will be a grand opening to Junior Week-end festivities, as many of the preppers will arrive Thursday and an effort is being made to secure dates for them.

Admission will be 75 cents and dancing will begin promptly at 8:30. Bill McBride's orchestra, composed of Ted Osburn, Lee Webber, Prentiss Gross, Ray Graham, and Bill himself, will play, so excellent music is assured, and a good time promised the visiting high school students.

The dance will help to "put over" Junior Week-end, preparing everyone for more big events to follow. Proceeds will go to the junior class.

VERMONT GIVES PROGRAM

WARNER EXHIBIT WILL BE DEDICATED FORMALLY, MAY 29

Priceless Art Objects to Be Housed in Museum in Woman's Building

JUDGE CAREY TO SPEAK

School of Architecture and Allied Arts to Have Joint Exhibit

The formal opening and dedication of the Murray Warner collection of oriental art to the University of Oregon art museum will take place on Monday, May 29, in the Woman's building. Fifteen hundred invitations for the opening of the exhibit have been sent to art lovers throughout the state.

Dr. P. L. Campbell, president of the University, will preside during the program which has been arranged for the formal presentation. Music for the program will be furnished by the University Orchestra and the two glee clubs. Judge Charles H. Carey, of Portland, will speak and Mrs. Irene Gerlinger, regent of the University, will make the formal acceptance. Mrs. Murray Warner and a few friends will receive the guests.

Glenn Cases Hold Collection A wood sealed room, back of the rear gallery on the third floor of the Woman's building, has been equipped as a museum, the entire wall space of the room, from floor to ceiling, being covered with glass cases. These cases will be filled with rich oriental costumes, fine lacquer ware, tapestries, and oriental armor. One large glass case has been placed on the stairway to provide for an unusually large tapestry. On the walls of the Woman's league rooms will be hung the framed Japanese prints which are included in the collection.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 9 in the morning until 9 in the evening on May 29, and it is planned to keep it open from 2 to 4 in the afternoon on each day thereafter.

Annual Jury Day to Be Held

In connection with the dedication of the collection, the school of architecture and allied arts will hold its annual Jury Day, at which time exhibitions of students' work will be on public view in the art studios. At the same time the faculty of the art department will exhibit its work in the Woman's building.

50 SENIORS IN DILEMMA OWING TO DEFICIENCIES

Graduation of Last Year Students Delayed Unless Records Are Cleared Immediately

Fifty seniors are being notified through the registrar's office of deficiencies which will delay graduation if not cleared within the next week. After that time the order for the diplomas will go to the engrosser's. The diplomas are to be genuine sheepskin parchment, so the order must be in early.

Checking of the student's record is made, counting the work he is now carrying, assuming that he will receive a passing mark. The deficiencies are often only one or two hours of the major subject, military science, physical education, or an uncompleted language requirement.

E.J.H. Sees Morale in Orchestra; Calls Pop Concert Huge Success

By E. J. H. The "Pop" concert given last night in Villard hall was very much of a success. The more one hears of the orchestra the more one thinks that there is something to this "morale" that Mr. Charles Alexander spoke of. I'm sure I don't entirely understand just what Mr. Alexander meant by that word; but if he refers to teamwork, a sense of laboring together to achieve some definite object, a sense of personal sacrifice, then I can see it in the orchestra. A better organization of this kind never came to Eugene. If it were labeled and advertised as "direct from Chicago, 32 weeks solid in Scappoose, and an entire season in San Francisco," and a whale of a price charged, we'd never know the difference.

The program consisted of three orchestrated pieces, piano solos by George Hopkins, and vocal solos by Madame Rose McGrew. The orchestra selections were unusually good, and executed with a sense of sureness that has marked all the recent performances of this organization. "Gavotte and Menuet" particularly appealed. A great deal of work must have gone into it to give the effect of simpleness and ease that marked its rendition. Some of us musical lowbrows begin to suspect that the pieces marked by a huge crash and blare of brass may not be as hard to do as the ones that sound easy and uncomplicated.

Trained, Scientific Workers Needed in Physical Education

"One of the greatest needs of the field of physical education is for trained, scientific workers," said Dr. John Bovard, dean of the school of physical education. "Physical education is a scientific field, and we need people who will advance this science, study its laws, and work out its standards, for it is still a pioneer field."

The school of physical education at the University is organized with four distinct departments: physical education for women and for men, intercollegiate athletics, and the University health service. A department of physiotherapy is being worked up and will be continually improved, and equipment bought. Each one of these departments is presided over by a director with the exception of the intercollegiate athletics department. While these four departments are distinct, they are all one so far as the faculty, the school
