

MISS FENTON RESIGNS ALUMNI SECRETARYSHIP

Successor to Be Chosen at June 17 Meeting of Grads

Miss Charlie Fenton, a former student of the University, and who until recently filled a position as secretary to the alumni association, has accepted a position as private secretary to Dean Daggett in the school of commerce at the University of California.

Miss Fenton left the University last August and traveled to San Francisco where she attended Munson's secretarial school. Upon graduating from this institution she was given a certificate vouching for her ability as a qualified secretary.

Miss Fenton is well known among the alumni. Shortly after her graduation from the University in 1916 she was chosen as secretary of the association. In this capacity she did much to perfect a closer organization among the alumni. She is now compiling material for a new student directory to replace the last issue which was printed in 1914.

Miss Fenton is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. While in the University she was active in basketball and served as manager of the tennis club. For three years she was a member of the glee club and also served on the Oregon staff.

A successor to fill the vacancy left by Miss Fenton's resignation will be chosen at the next meeting of the alumni association, which will be held in Guild hall on Saturday, June 17.

way took first place and Jesse Green, Sydney Hayslip, Richard Sundeleaf and P. L. Abbott took the three seconds and the third mention respectively.

P. T. Lau won the Reed prize of $10 in domestic architecture and the Dean's second prize of $5 was awarded to C. H. Irwin.

Prominent Men Judge

Members of the jury for the school of architecture were W. G. Holford, Joseph Jacobberger, A. E. Doyle, William Purell and Carl Linde, all prominent architects of Portland, and George Gove of Tacoma; Carl Gould, head of the school of architecture at the University of Washington. Three former students of the University who are graduates of the school of architecture were members of the jury also. They were John McGuire of Tacoma, Irving Smith and Glen Stanton of Portland.

For the departments of fine arts, sculpture and the normal arts, the following prominent art critics of the state served on the jury: Mrs. H. C. Wortman, Miss Dunlap, school docent of Portland; Miss Esther Wuest, supervisor of art in the Portland schools; Mrs. Lee Hoffman, Judge Charles Carey, Everett Babcock, Harry Wentz and N. B. Zane of Portland, and Mrs. Laura Mack, supervisor of art in the schools of Eugene.

The awards made by this jury in the departments of normal arts, fine arts and sculpture follow: The Bennes prize for a magazine cover went to Jessie Lewis, first mention to Agnes Schultz, second to Marjorie Hazard, and third to Kathryn Nicholson. For pedagogy, Helen Williams won the prize, Wilhelmina Becksted, first mention, and Florence Moorhead second. Another Bennes prize for a house plan went to Miss Becksted, a first mention to Jessie Lewis and a second mention to Helen Manning. Special mention was awarded to Doris Bothwell for a portrait design and to Edgar Bohlman for a mural design.

Dresses Are Judged

In the work in arts and crafts the Bennes prize was won by Marion Boettcher for weaving, and Clara Meador and Edna Bushman took first and second mention respectively. The Dean's prize for leather stooling was won by Eleanor Kilham and the first mention went to Phebe Gage. In representation, Hazel Borders won the prize and the mentions went to Eleanor Keep and Gladys Russell. Another prize offered by the dean for work in dress design was awarded to Catherine Anderson, Miss Becksted and Jessie Lewis taking the mentions. The final prize in this department for poster design offered by Mr. Bennes was awarded to Hazel Borders and three mentions went to Eleanor Keep, Henry Sheldon and Helene La Fontaine respectively.

Mabel Johnson won the Bennes prize of $10 for the best work in the life class and a second prize of $5 was won by E. K. Harkness. Louise Vonder Ahe and Agnes Schultz won mentions for this work also. In the sketch class work Miss Johnson was again the first and Florence Moorhead was second.

$5 Award Made

A prize of $5 for pastel oil and water color work was won by Helen Williams and mentions went to Clare Turley and Ethel Johnson. In the decorative design class a prize of $5 went to Grace McInnis and a mention to Beatrice Morrow. Ray Bethers won a special mention in this work. Another Dean's prize of $3 was awarded to Beatrice Morrow for her work in the book and poster class.

In the department of sculpture the honors were again divided, Mr. Harkness winning the $15 Bennes prize for composition development, Eunice Zimmerman taking the $10 for portrait work, and Kathleen McCord winning first mention in elementary modeling. A mention was awarded to Mrs. Lydia Hodge, Miss Zimmerman and Mabel Johnson for their collaborative work on a relief representing the combination of architecture and sculpture. Mrs. Hodge, Beatrice Towers and Ward Prescott also won mentions for portrait work, and Florence Huntress was awarded a mention in elementary design.

Based on Work

These awards were based on the work of the entire term, as this was the only jury day that has been held this spring. They were announced by the heads of the various departments, Dean Lawrence in the school of architecture; Miss Kerns, professor of normal arts; Alfred Schreff, professor of fine arts, and Avar Fairbanks, instructor in sculpture. All members of the juries and a number of the most prominent persons in the state who were guests on the campus Monday to attend the opening of the Warner memorial collection attended the banquet which brought the program of this occasion to a successful end as well as concluding the work of the school. Cleo Jenkins, president of the Allied Arts league, was in charge of the banquet and Sidney Hayslip arranged the program. The speakers for the affair were President P. L. Campbell, Mrs. Murray Warner, Mrs. H. C. Wortman, Miss Esther Wuest, George Gove, Mr. Nakasana, a well known Japanese poet, Sidney Hayslip and F. T. Lau. Cleo Jenkins acted as toastmaster.

30 CANDIDATES TURN OUT FOR FOOTBALL PRACTICE

First Workout Sees Five Lettermen in Squad; Lee Weber Showing Promise as Punter

Spring football practice started in earnest last night with about 30 candidates out, five of whom are lettermen. Most of the men appeared in track suits because of the warmth, but suits are being issued and later on they may be required to come out in uniform for signal practice and possibly a few short scrimmages.

Punting and passing took up all the time last evening, with Hunk Latham, Hal Chapman, Dutch Gram and Lee Weber doing the kicking. With these four men performing behind the line next fall there will be little doubt but that the varsity will be plentifully supplied with punters at all times. Chapman and Webber are both good drop kickers also, and either may perform in that regard.

Langrell, French, Wilson and Zachery of this year's freshman squad are also out and will go strong for positions on the varsity next fall. French especially was the big star on the frosh eleven this year and his long runs were the sensations of several of the games. Wilson, Langrell, and Zachery are all good linemen, and with the experience gained this season should go big. "Babe" McCune is out again and will undoubtedly give the linemen a hard fight for a regular position on the team next fall, as he weighs over 200 pounds and gained a lot of experience last fall.

George King, who was the most consistent man in the backfield last fall, is also out and practically has a place cinched on the team for next season, as his line plunging and tackling was a feature of every game in which he played. Lee Webber, who did not play football last season on account of being a track man, has evidently decided that he would rather play the fall game, for he is out in a suit, and looks like a good bet, as he is a good punter and is also clever on his feet.

Hunk Latham, who was the find of the season this year, is expected to do wonders on the varsity next year as this was his first experience in football circles. He is at present practicing punting and seems to have lots of dope on the ball.

Shy Huntington, intends to have some signal work later on, but for the first three or four practices only punting, passing and ground work of the game will be considered.

HAYCOX SELLS ANOTHER STORY TO N. Y. MAGAZINE

Check for $60 Received by Campus Cynic for Alaskan Plot; Second Sold in Month

A check for $60 from Street and Smith Corporation, publishers of New York City, was received yesterday by Ernest Haycox, better known as "E. J. H.", the campus cynic, in payment for a 6000-word story entitled "The Trap Lifters," which will be published in "Sea Stories."

This is the second story which Mr. Haycox has sold to Sea Stories within a month.

"The Trap Lifters" is a story of the rugged coasts of southeastern Alaska and deals with the activities of fish piracy. The plot was obtained by the author during his recent stay in the northland. It is said to be a "thriller" and the literary friends of Mr. Haycox will watch with interest for its appearance.

The other story which was sold is "Over the Straits," and also has an Alaskan plot.

AGGIES WIN MEET FROM W. S. O. Oregon Agricultural College, May 3, (P.I.N.S.)—The Aggies won the dual track meet with Washington State College, running up 72 1-2 points to the Cougars' 49 1-2.

KNIGHT INSTALLATION IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Tom Austin of Washington Administers Degree

With impressive ceremony the Oregon Knight chapter of the Intercollegiate Knights was installed last Friday evening. Tom Austin, from the University of Washington, was the officer sent here to deliver the charge to the local organization. The installation took place in the Woman's building and was attended by most members of the society. Philip Janney, Karl Onthank, and John MacGregor were made honorary members. Knights who were not present Friday will be initiated later. Lyle Bartholomew will be made an honorary member at that time also.

Following the ceremony a banquet was enjoyed by the Knights at the Anchorage, where speeches were the order of the evening. Plans for the future of the movement were discussed and many ideas were presented as to the possibilities open for work to be done.

Chapters have already been established at Idaho and Washington State college, known as Knights of the Ball and Chain and Cougar Guard charges, respectively. The University of Montana, Montana State college, Stanford, and other coast institutions will be included in the near future.

Work of the local organization has consisted of handling visiting teams, such as transporting them to and from trains, supplying them with tickets to various entertainments, and in general to see that they were properly cared for during their stay in Eugene. Punishment of tradition breakers, ushering at University functions, selling tickets, aiding the yell king at pep rallies, and many other duties have also been handled by the underclass organization.

Officers are: Del Oberteuffer, honorary president; James Meek, stunt duke; Gordon Wilson, royal scribe; and Ed Tapfer, chancellor of the exchequer.

The pin of the national is a shield with a red stripe running diagonally across it. A silver helmet is mounted in the center, with the letters "I K" on it.

56 RIDE ON TRAIN TO DECORATION DAY PICNIC

Ice Cream and Icy Waters Enjoyed by Merry Party; Food for 300 Consumed by Crowd

Although the junior picnic raised havoc with the few shekels in the class strong box, the party of 56 which traveled to Lookout on the Willamette, near the Natron cutoff, on Decoration day, returned late in the evening in the special train of three coaches and a baggage car, reporting a glorious time.

One feature of the impromptu picnic program staged on the banks of the Willamette was the initiation of class and student officers by baptismal immersion in the snow-born floods of the river.

Members of the party said they had a great time and an abundance of ice cream. Enough of the frozen delicacy was taken along to feed 300 persons, but the 56 picnickers reduced home-bound freight expenses by eating it all. Many anglers, both men and women, whipped the waters for trout but caught few. The special arrived in Eugene with the junior party about 10:30 that evening.

OREGON CLUB CHALLENGES

Friendly Hall Nine Asked for Game to Decide Championship

The Oregon club baseball team has issued a special challenge to the Friendly hall nine for a game to decide the championship of the first division of the doughnut league. Friendly hall has the championship at present by victories over the Oregon club and Kappa Sigma nines.

The game over which the trouble is being caused was the one between the Friendly hall and Oregon club teams. The score at the end of the fifth inning stood 6 to 7 in favor of the hall, but in the first part of the sixth the Oregon club men ran in five runs, making the score 11 to 7. The game was a long drawn out one, and had taken so much time that when the Hall men made a complaint about the small amount of light remaining, Referee Eddie Durno called the game on account of darkness and the score remained the same as that at the end of the fifth frame, thus giving the Hall men a 7 to 6 victory.

The Club men are confident that with the regulation seven innings of play, they could down the Hall team, and for that reason are trying to get back into the fray. The Hall is under no compulsion to accept the challenge and may not do so.

BANQUET TO BE HELD IN PORTLAND NEXT FRIDAY

Alumni in Business Administration to Entertain Majors in Department and High School Students

On Friday, June 2, 20 students of the school of business administration will motor to Portland where they will be the guests of the alumni of the school of business administration at a banquet given at the Portland chamber of commerce that evening.

The purpose of the trip will be to advertise the school of business administration to seniors in the high schools of Portland. Fifty invitations have been sent from the commerce department at the University to an equal number of seniors taking commercial work in the high schools of Portland. Each of these high school students will be escorted to the banquet by either a student or an alumnus of the University. Entertainment will be furnished by the students and talks will be given by the alumni. The banquet as well as the trip will be a stag affair, as none but men are invited. Dean E. C. Robbins of the school of business administration will motor to Portland with the party.

An effort will be made to make this excursion to Portland an annual affair in the business administration department, according to Fred Lorenz, president of the University chamber of commerce. If it were made a permanent part of the program of the commerce department, he believes more and better students would be enrolled in the University.
