

REVIEW OF Y. W. SHOWS
YEAR OF MANY ACTIVITIES

Change Made in Organization
by Controlling Board

With the close of the school semester, the Y. W. C. A. on the campus will complete an unusually active and successful year. Due to the increased membership which has approached the 600 mark, the association has been enabled to carry out new plans and widen its field service as never before. One of the interesting things of the year's program was the national convention which was held at Hot Springs, Arkansas, April 20 to 27, to which Glyde Schuebel was sent as the local delegate. Miss Schuebel is a junior in the romance language department and has been very active in Y. W. work during her three years in college. In connection with the convention, a number of sales were conducted by the "Y" girls to raise funds to defray the expenses of the delegate. These included the sale of pies, pop-corn balls, college bars, and candy.

Mix Is Reviewed
One of the earliest events of the year was the annual Y. W.-Y. M. Mix, which was held at the new Armory in October. This was one of the big get-togethers of the fall term and was attended by a capacity crowd.

A six-weeks course of Bible study discussions was conducted in the living organizations under the auspices of the association, with faculty members and townspeople as speakers, and a church-cooperation drive, when the attendance at the Sunday school Bible classes of the various churches increased 100 per cent in six weeks.

A conference of the Student Volunteer association, with delegates from seven Oregon colleges and universities, was held on the campus April 28, 29 and 30.

The Life Service club, of which Ralph Spearow is president, was organized during the year and is composed of all those students who are interested in some form of social or missionary service as a profession after leaving school.

Non-Dancers Entertained
A new feature of the association's social work was the series of parties given at the Y. M. hut on the nights of student body dances, for all students not wishing to attend the dances. These had an average attendance of 100 to 150. The last of the series was held on the night of the Junior Prom.

Organizations which have used the Bungalow for teas, meetings, and social affairs during the year include: Kwama, Tre Nu, Spanish club, French club, Lutaixian, senior class, Theta Sigma Phi, Oregon club, and Mask and Buskin.

An inter-denominational conference with field representatives from the different churches of the northwest, met on the campus during November.

Association Is Reorganized
The association was also completely reorganized, the old cabinet system giving way to a new department system, which is expected to more fully meet the growing need of the "Y".

The Bungalow was refurbished from the proceeds raised by various sales and drives.

LeLaine West was elected president for next year at the annual election held on April 12. Her election was announced at the banquet held the same evening.

No definite plans have been announced for next year as yet.

UNIVERSITY GROWTH

(Continued from page one)

only state prestige but prestige in the middle west and east.

Plant Increases Eight-fold
When President Campbell came to the University the entire campus was not more than 12 acres in size; today it is more than 90 acres. The buildings at that time were Dady, Villard, Friendly hall, McClure and the old gymnasium for women. Within recent years buildings have been added that now make the total value of campus buildings over $1,250,000, as compared to the value in 1902 of $155,000.

President Campbell has achieved success not only in gaining material things for the school, but has succeeded also in gaining support throughout the state in times of stress when referendum measures threatened the future of the school. Eight or ten times the president has had to go out in the state and fight almost for the life of the institution on appropriations. The present status of the institution shows how well he has succeeded.

OREGON DEBATERS

(Continued from page one)

Earle Fleischmann took the honors; in 1918 Abe Rosenberg, a law student in the University, won the prize; in 1920 Fred Coley, an economics major, took first, while last year Ralph Hoeber, also an economics major, who is at present an assistant in the economics department, took first. The Failing-Beekman oratorical contest for seniors on June 15 will close the forensic year for 1922.

The alumni debate contest, an annual affair held to determine the best debater of the year, carries a prize of $25 which is donated by the alumni. Those debaters who try for the prize are given two days to prepare on the general question. Two hours before the start of the debate they are assigned to either the affirmative or negative side of the question. Teams are not organized, only individual speeches being considered by the judges.

Debate Future Bright
The future for debate and oratory looks bright for next year, according to Professor Thorpe. He says, "I look for a big year in speaking, as none of this year's men's team are graduating and there is an abundance of new material." Mr. Thorpe also stated that doughnut debates should be continued, as they bring up more men and create a more general interest in forensics on the campus.

If present plans materialize a men's debating team will make a trip east some time after New Year's. However, should Stanford's plan for inter-sectional debates with the coast champions meeting eastern champions be realized, it is possible that this plan will not be carried out. With the present outlook in debate it is probable that Oregon may have a chance to represent the west. A triangular debate for women, including Washington, California and Oregon, is being planned to replace the dual debate between Washington and Oregon.

Prospects for girls' varsity debate next year are not so bright, as three veterans are graduating. Elaine Cooper and Wanda Daggett are to be awarded a shield signifying three years on the varsity. Glenn Frank will also be lost as a debater, as she finishes school this year.

WORK OF HEALTH SERVICE

(Continued from page one)

work. Such an infirmary would permit the performing of operations other than emergency, for a nominal fee to students. "It should be equipped so that whatever we do or attempt, will be done well," said Dr. Livingston.

Educational Basis for Health
One of the aims of the health service, the doctor said, will be a furthering of the education of the students in health, hygiene and sanitation, so that they will become influences for better health in their communities and to their families. Putting health on an educational basis will bring into play preventive and remedial measures and will teach the student that there is more to health than simply taking medicines.

Dr. Livingston also said that a more complete history of the students who come to the dispensary for medical care will be taken. This will bring quicker results, as cases can be carried on from the last visit of the patient and there is no overlapping of treatments or repetitions. In line with this are plans for making more thorough examinations of the students who come for aid and in doing everything as perfectly as possible.

NEW PRESIDENT OUTLINES

(Continued from page one)

gon graduate, and it is the intention to bring this realization home to the alumni throughout the country, as well as to the students on the campus. The administration of student government next year will work with the University administration and the alumni secretary in forming stronger associations to do more active work in all the towns of the state.

In the Promenade of Summer Fashions
These Lovely Organdie Frocks

Take Distinguished Precedence

No fabric could be more beautifully adapted to this season's smart youthful lines than these crisp lightsome organdies, and no frocks could more perfectly express important phases of summer fashions than these.

There's charm in every detail, grace in every line and real artistry in the color harmonies—

Dainty peach, orchid, pink, jade, and yellow dotted and plain organdie frocks with frills, ruffles, flowers, etc., to delight every girlish heart.

Their jaunty lines and original touches make these the frocks misses prefer.

They're very moderately priced at $18.50 and $25

McMowan & Washburne Store
FOR STYLE QUALITY & ECONOMY

FRESHMEN -- SOPHOMORES -- JUNIORS

Before You Go Home

it will pay you to find out how, aside from attending one of the summer sessions, you may continue your University work during the summer.

High School Graduates may also begin their University work at home.

Call at Extension Division

and learn how serious-minded students may earn University credits at home without interfering with gainful occupation.

Hundreds of people in Oregon are enrolled in home-study courses with their State University.

Ask for Catalogue

containing descriptions of eighty correspondence courses, and enroll early in order to secure full benefit from home-study during the summer.

MAKE THE SUMMER COUNT

Full Information at EXTENSION DIVISION, Eugene, Oregon

New Progressive Shoe Shop

THE TWO MACK'S

First-Class Work or Your Money Back Professors—Teachers—Students We appreciate your past favors and will always give you the best.

Thanking you,

W. A. McClew, Proprietor,
J. E. McIntire, Foreman.

73 East 9th Street Eugene, Oregon