Varsity track activities came to an end May 27 when Oregon took third place in the Pacific Coast-Northwest conference track meet in Seattle, going down before the Washington and O. A. C. aggregations. The season, while it cannot be called successful from the standpoint of competitive scores, has developed both men and student interest to the point where Coach Bill Hayward may well look toward victory another year.

At the outset of the season it looked doubtful whether or not Oregon would be able to make any kind of a showing against any of the conference teams, and as Hayward expressed it, it was up to him to make a winning team out of a last year's losing team, as the amount of new material was negligible.

Aggies Take Relay Meet

The first big clash of the year occurred March 14 and 15, in the All-State relay. The Varsity fought it out with the Aggies, the smaller schools of the state battling among themselves. It developed in this meet that Oregon was weakest in track events, but strong enough to hold her own in the field. The Ags left with the heavy side of a 53-47 score.

April 22 witnessed the interclass relays, and on April 29 a relay team was sent to Seattle to compete in the Northwest relay carnival. An interorganization meet was staged on Hayward field on May 6. While these meets within the University were unimportant in themselves, they produced the desired result of stirring student interest.

BAD WEATHER HANDICAPS VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM

Lack of Practice Results in Only Three Games Won

Handicapped by rainy weather during the training season, by a lack of seasoned hurling material and by inexperienced players in most of the positions, Coach Bohler's varsity baseball squad wound up a very unsuccessful season May 23 by winning a seesaw slug fest from the Eugene town team, 12-11. The game was the third victory for the Varsity this year, Whitman dropping two of the four games played to the University tossers.

Practice games were originally scheduled with Willamette university for April 14 and 15, but due to Willamette's deflection from its schedule on account of lack of material, games were later scheduled with Pacific university for the same date, but heavy rains prevented the contests and the University tossers swung north on their northern invasion to open the conference season against the speedy University of Washington nine, with no experience under fire.

Washington Takes Two

Oregon met the Huskies on April 20 and 22, losing both games 13-6, 13-2. Six more games were played on the trip, of which the Varsity was able to win but one against Whitman, the sec-

SPORT FIELD ENTERED BY UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Athletic Association Sponsor of Varied Activities

CONFERENCE IS HELD HERE

Baseball, Basketball, Swimming Emphasized

The purpose of the Women's Athletic association as expressed by the president, Margaret Russell, is to interest the women of the University in sports for sport's sake, and it aims to include in its scope of activities those girls who are not majors in the physical education department and who are interested in athletics as an avocation rather than as their life work. Judging from the number of girls who have taken part in the various sports under the supervision of the association, it has had a very successful year.

Aside from managing the sports of the year, the members of the association have had the privilege this year of being hostesses for 40 delegates from 13 colleges in the western part of the United States who met on the campus May 12 and 13 to discuss ways and means of cooperation in athletics.

Baseball Is Popular

The baseball season, which is perhaps the most popular of the year, will culminate this afternoon when the women's Varsity will clash with the O. A. C. team at Corvallis. The girls have been working toward this goal since the first of the term and those who will make the trip have been chosen from the 125 girls who have taken part in the doughnut and class series.

In the interhouse series the Hendricks hall team won first place over the 11 other teams entered and earned the distinction of having its name engraved on the Staples interhouse baseball cup for the second time. The sophomores took the interclass series and the Hayward cup when they defeated the freshmen Field Day morning.

The tennis players are also winding up the season with a meet at Corvallis

WRITTEN RULES TO GUIDE INTRA-MURAL NEXT YEAR

Kappa Sigs Now Have Plaque Cinched This Year; High in All Branches

The doughnut sport program was greatly enlarged and more interest aroused in it this year by the efforts of Harry Scott and Jerry Barnes, who took charge of the activities at the first of the year and put them on a firmer basis. Under the present system the plan includes nine sports, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, boxing, wrestling, physical ability pentathlon, tennis, and handball.

The plan is that the winner in each will be awarded one point toward the winning of a large plaque, which will be given at the end of the year. Second place in each sport counts two points, third three points, and so on, the object of the organization being to keep the number of points as low as possible, as the one with the least number of points at the end of the year gets the final award, which will be a large plaque, probably of silver. Other awards are given for the more important of the sports, as basketball and track, and each have separate awards attached to them for the winners.

Oregon Chances For Grid Title Thought Good

Schedule of Games Is Announced by Graduate Manager Benefiel; Homecoming Contest Will Be Played Armistice Day with W. S. C.; Annual O. A. C.-Oregon Tussle Will Be November 18

After winding up this year's season with a sensational finish and with practically all of the squad back for another season, Oregon is being reckoned with by those who are doping out next fall's coast gridiron champions. After stumbling through the early games of the schedule to wins over Willamette and Pacific and a 7-7 tie in the annual Idaho-Oregon game, Oregon's green team went south to face the Golden Bear on the Berkeley oval. How California's great scoring machine trampled the Varsity under foot, 39-0, is history, although the Oregon team fought gamely throughout the 60 minutes of play and outplayed the Native Sons in the final quarter.

With the California game out of the way, the coaching staff settled down to develop an eleven that would make a decent showing against the Cougars and the Aggies. How Huntington and assistants succeeded is shown in the 7-7 tie played with the Washington State crew at Pullman in a game that should have gone to Oregon when a Lemon Yellow touchdown was disqualified. Oregon met the Aggies in their annual battle on Hayward field, Homecoming, in a driving rain. The game resulted in a scoreless tie, although the Lemon Yellow warriors outplayed the Aggies in every department of play.

The Hawaiian trip resulted in two healthy wins for the Varsity, the first over the University of Hawaii at Honolulu on December 26, 47-0; the second was a better game with stiffer competition, but the Varsity defeated the Pearl Harbor crew 35-5.

Hard Schedule Ahead

Graduate Manager Jack Benefiel has a stiff schedule lined up for this year. The season will open against Willamette on October 5 and on the 14th the Multnomah eleven will journey to Eugene for their annual battle with the Oregon team. No game will be played with Multnomah in Portland this year but Oregon will make its bow to the fans of Portland on the 28th when they will stage their annual mix with the Gem Staters in the city.

The Whitman Missionaries will furnish the opposition for the Varsity in Pendleton, October 28. This game will be played on the Roundup grounds and will give the eastern Oregon fans a chance to see their team in action. It should be a real contest, too, for the Whitman team is doped to be a good one next year and the Missionaries have always furnished stiff opposition for any team on the gridiron.

Homecoming Game with W. S. C.

The Homecoming game this year will be played on Armistice Day, November 11. Washington State college will take the field against the Oregon eleven, which in itself should mean some game, for the Cougars always have a football team in the championship race.

The annual Aggie-Oregon battle is scheduled for Corvallis, November 18, and with a two-year tie on the books, should present a combat well worth the trip to the Benton county seat.

WHEN YOU ARE GONE OREGON PICTURES

Will be among your most prized possessions, for they will hark you back to the days when you were enjoying the incomparable joys of college days on the Oregon campus. There is no other way of retaining a true remembrance of places and events in after years except by looking over the photos taken on the spot. This is what I make a living on—producing pictures of every campus nook and activity. This is my specialty. Come in and look over my memory books.

WILL YOU REMEMBER

Harvard Game

when "Holly" Huntington made more yardage than the whole Harvard team. When Oregon outplayed the eastern champs and only lost by the breadth of half a camel's eyebrow. When all the East was amazed at our wonderful team.

Tug o' War

when you splashed your way to a watery defeat and later burned your green badge of bondage on old Kincaid? And how you sat to one side and watched the new bunch of frosh take to the icy waters the next year when you were a soph?

The House Gang

the bunch you put up with year after year until you began to think them the best crew in the world? Those midnight sessions with lots of blow and plenty of scandal, and the house formal, and the champion pigger of the place?

Pictures won't let you forget

"You Know Me"

"Bill" Steers

the grand old man of Oregon athletic fame who smiled his way to victory for Oregon every time the chance was half there? How he used to eat up the best that O. A. C. could produce in the line of football teams?

Your Bonfire

"the biggest and best ever," as Dean Straub used to say? The way she rolled up in one big sheet of smoke and flame and showed off for the visitors? And those many long hours of work on the old pile and guarding it the last night?

Junior "Week-end"

with the house float in the Fete, all the athletics, the senior cops and the campus lunch? And your first formal, say, you'll want to remember that as long as you live. No foolin', these are going to be great events some day.
