Starting the Year

With the publication of the first Emerald today and the beginning of regular class sessions, student life is under way for another year. By the end of the week the confusion and excitement of registration days will have abated and perfect organization will prevail.

President Campbell and John MacGregor, head of the Associated Students, have welcomed the new students and have sounded the keynote of the year. The campus is aglow with enthusiasm and optimism. With larger registration, increased facilities and well-oiled machinery, a more profitable year than ever before seems inevitable.

Now is the time for the student to realize the value of conscientious work. The first day is the right day to begin attending all classes. Studies are the fundamental thing in college life and if the right start is made the rest of the road will be easier. Many college careers have been cut short through failure to jump into the swing of things.

Freshmen will find that the campus is anxious to provide them with information and to help them get their bearings. The spirit of democratic friendliness voiced by the president will be everywhere evident. Precedent has it that first-year students are taken care of first. They are given first opportunity to register. Organization for finding positions aim to favor the first-year man who is trying to work his way through school.

As the new students begin their work and become acquainted with Oregon traditions they will learn to know the real Oregon spirit. They will see that it means loyalty to teams of the gridiron, but not that alone. They will see that it means loyalty to everything which will promote a Mightier Oregon.

Oregon's most famous tradition is to say "Hello." Let's start in today. Of course you don't know all of the students you meet, but they are Oregon students and there is no surer way to get acquainted.

The staff of the "Oregon Hello Book" should be commended for their work. The book is attractive and convenient, and fills a distinct need at registration time.

GREEN LIDS DUE TOMORROW.

From the powers that be and sanctioned by Thomas Hughes, president of the sophomore class, comes an ultimatum effective tomorrow afternoon. At that time all members of the class of 1925 will be requested to array themselves in proximity to the scenery near the library in preparations for the annual Frosh parade. The initiatory performances start at 4 o'clock promptly Thursday afternoon. Further information from the wig-wags of the sophomore warriors is that the green derbys need not be worn until the start of the parade.

OREGON "HELLO" BOOK IS ISSUED

Containing 115 pages filled with valuable information for both the old and new student, the Oregon "Hello" book, presented to each student at the time of registration this term is considered the most comprehensive hand book of its kind that has ever been issued for the students' benefit.

The Associated Student Body and the Young Men's Christian association cooperated in putting out the volume. George H. Godfrey, a senior in the school of journalism, was editor. He was assisted by a number of students among them being Ernest J. Haycox, well known as the campus cynic, who compiled the Brief Notes of Oregon and the Campus Directory. Arthur J. Larson had charge of athletics, Harold Evans, forensics and music, Margaret Skavian women's athletics and sororities, Kelly Branstetter fraternities and Kenneth W. Moore circulation. Gertrude Livermore, Richard Godfrey and Virgil H. Mulkey were on the business staff. J. Warren Kays was manager of the volume.

A distinctive feature of the book this year is the large number of cuts. It contains half-tones of President Campbell, Dean Straub, Dean DeCou and a number of others well known on the campus. Several line etchings are also included to lighten the tone of the work.

CAMPUS SCRIBES MEET AT ELEVEN

A get-together assembly for journalism students, new and old, will be held in Guild hall this morning at 11 o'clock and every student registered in the school of journalism is particularly urged to be present, according to Dean Eric W. Allen.

An informal program will consist of short talks by Dean Allen and other members of the journalism faculty, the introduction of Emerald, Oregon and Lemon Punch officers to new students. The new building program regarding construction of a modern structure to be used for journalism purposes will be discussed and explained and announcements made regarding Emerald staff tryouts and appointments. An opportunity will be provided for an association of old and new students, which is going to be rather difficult this fall according to Dean Allen, because of the cramped conditions existing in the journalism department, making it necessary to hold classes in different buildings and creating an atmosphere of disorder which will not be corrected until the new building is completed in December.
