

MANY MEN ARE SELF-SUPPORTING

Eugene Merchants Helpful in Giving Positions

Sixty per cent of the University students are wholly or in part self-supporting, according to estimates made, although definite figures are not yet available. The number of men doing regular work at present is greater than it was last year, many men having come to the campus the latter part of August in order to take positions at that time.

About 400 letters were sent out from the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau to the business men of Eugene asking for their cooperation in securing employment for students. Mrs. Charlotte R. Donnelly, secretary of the bureau, states that the response to the letters has been very good and that men have obtained work at the various stores as a result of the letters and others have been indirectly benefited by them.

Able Men Furnished
"The aim of the department is to furnish men experienced and qualified to do the work which they are assigned," said Mrs. Donnelly. "If the work is not entirely satisfactory and so reported at once with the name of the employee, we see that it is made right. 'Satisfaction guaranteed' is our motto for the coming year and that is only possible through the reports and cooperation of our friends. The fact that we select men for the work and guarantee satisfaction helps the situation greatly, but the applications for work at present far exceed the number of places to be filled."

The call for help for odd jobs last week exceeded the number of students who wanted them but the recent rains have decreased the demand which falls below that of registration week last year.

Clerks for grocery, clothing and candy stores, dishwashers, janitors and window washers are some of the forms of employment offered. There are more men who have obtained employment in fraternity houses than in former years. Foreign students including Filipinos, Chinese and a Korean have obtained work in homes.

Women Given Jobs

About 90 applications for work from women who have not been on the campus before were received at the employment bureau of the Y. W. C. A. this summer. Of this number 60 have called at the office and half have arranged their schedules to take positions which will net each woman from ten to fifteen dollars a month. Beside this number, 14 freshmen have been placed in permanent positions working for room and board and two have received permanent stenographic positions. Five other experienced stenographers have applied for such work and have been placed on the waiting list. Permanent positions caring for children and doing housework have been obtained by the bureau for nine applicants, according to Miss Louise Davis, employment secretary.

Twenty girls got work of various kinds last week prior to the beginning of school. The bureau has places for 19 girls to work for board and room in homes in Eugene so that any girl who desires to do housework can be placed at once.

Association Is Planned

The number of applicants for work is greater than in former years and the number of available positions is about the same as last year.

Plans have been made by the bureau for an association of working girls. Frequent meetings will be held and programs will be arranged with the help of Tre Nu, local organization of working girls. An industrial forum will also be maintained by the Y. W. C. A. The regular meeting of employees and employers to discuss working conditions and questions of interest is to be scheduled soon.

GIFT CAMPAIGN IS SUBJECT

that this endowment plan is not a dream, not a nebulous conception of an unorganized group of persons, he explained to the students that a friend of the University had already given $10,000 to cover the initial expense of the campaign. Under the direction of the Eugene chamber of commerce, loyal business men and University alumni in Eugene have added to this sum $15,000, making a total of $25,000 to be used in launching the campaign for $10,000,000 in ten years. Lamar Tooze, a graduate from the University, who completed his law course in Harvard after having served in the world war, has given up his law practice in McMinnville and for one year will have charge of the field work of the campaign. W. K. Newell, superintendent of University property, has given up this position and will have charge of the office work of the gift campaign. His work will include a complete survey of all the resources of the state. Miss Grace Edgington, alumni secretary, has charge of the general work and will edit "Old Oregon," the alumni publication which is to appear each month and will play an important role in the campaign.

By explaining the organization of the campaign in this manner, President Campbell made the students realize that plans were far from being nebulous. He told the students they are to have an important part in carrying the endowment idea to people in every part of the state.

Memorial Buildings Wanted

The methods to be used by all friends of the University in educating the people of the state as explained by President Campbell briefly were these: People must be made to understand that the salvation of civilization is dependent on higher education; the citizens of the state must be informed about the needs of the University; persons with money should be made to realize that the most noble manner in which wealth can be dedicated to humanity for the sake of civilization is to give it to an educational institution for the erection and equipment of memorial structures in which the younger generation of the state will be educated.

In order that no person who heard his talk might leave with the impression that the endowment plan was a futile dream, President Campbell before closing his address reminded the audience that many of the great educational institutions of the country have received millions for memorial buildings in recent years.

"I am here to preach the doctrine that we not only have a great state, but also a great University," said Lamar Tooze in his opening remarks. "We have a great University and we are to make it rank with the greatest in the country. We must teach the doctrine of giving and our best argument for endowments is this institution itself. The basis of determination should be the quality of the product and it is up to the students to show the people of the state that Oregon is worthy of all gifts given and it is incumbent upon the students to bring up the standard and ideals." Mr. Tooze before concluding his talk said that he had not been on the campus for several years, but expressed his appreciation with the same old spirit of democracy.

Mrs. Millican Introduced

President Campbell before concluding his talk introduced Mrs. Ada B.

Millican, formerly of Prineville, who has recently loaned to the University a magnificent collection of Indian relics. It is planned to found at the University a circle Pacific museum which will have a collection of all the art of the natives of the Pacific states.

John MacGregor greeted the new and old students and said that the gift campaign was to be the keynote of this year's work. Registration is now over and it is time for the students to put away all finery and get back to campus democracy and studiousness, he said.

An interesting incident of the assembly was the attempt of the freshmen to give Dean Straub a yell. Failing under the long distance leadership of Art Rosebraugh from the stage, the freshmen quickly organized and gave the dean a rousing cheer in high school fashion.

"COUNTRY FAIR" ALIVE WITH CARNIVAL SPIRIT

Minstrel Show Is Main Event at Elks Entertainment for Christmas Cheer Fund

A genuine carnival spirit overflowed the large crowd last night at the Country Fair which is being given by the Elks to raise money for their Christmas Cheer fund. The Christmas Cheer jubilee over Friday and Saturday nights.

A minstrel show of about an hour's duration formed the principal part of the entertainment. Booths and side shows of various descriptions added still more variety to the occasion. Part of the evening was given over to dancing.

Each year the Elks raise this fund with which cheer is dispensed to the needy. This year the country fair idea was chosen as the method of raising the money. Last year the University dramatic department gave a play for the same purpose.

LEMON PUNCH OFFERS PRIZES TO SOLICITORS

Ten Dollars Will Be Given Winner; Two Silver Loving Cups For Second Man and Woman

Lemon Punch, the famous campus comic, is offering a first prize of ten dollars to the person who procures the largest number of subscriptions to that publication; and second prize of two silver loving cups to the man and woman who obtain the next largest number of subscriptions.

"Lemmy" will make his first bow of the year to students on the campus about the last of next week if there is not a printers' walk-out between now and then, according to "Doc" Braddock, editor.

A great many innovations will clothe "Lemmy" this semester, among which will be a sport page edited by Ep Hoyt, which will furnish much sport for the readers. A number of movie reviews, which will move the readers to tears of merriment will also appear, and "our usual complete line of effervescent comedy," according to current rumor. Members of the faculty will also contribute to "Lemmy's" page of book reviews.

As a final work, "Lemmy" bids the students watch for "Synceopation" issue which will supercede the rustic jazz.
