

R.O.T.C. MEN OPEN DRILL WITH YELLS

Col. W. S. Sinclair Outlines New Policy; Demerit System To Be Given Up

Opening with a rousing "Oskie" which rolled across Hayward field and striking the heights of Hendricks park, echoed back only slightly diminished to the ears of the rooters, assembled in the grandstand, the new policy of the R. O. T. C. was inaugurated under the direction of Lieutenant-Colonel W. S. Sinclair yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Art Rosebraugh, yell king, led the cheering in fine style and instructed the ignorant among the freshmen just how Oregon men are expected to root for their teams.

Considerable improvement was noticed at the end of the fifteen minute period of practice and notice was given that the event would be held every Tuesday until further notice.

Colonel Sinclair outlined the new system which would be used in the military department this year. He stated that honor and the Oregon spirit of good sportsmanship would be relied on rather than the demerit plan of last year to carry the department through in turning out a well drilled battalion of soldiers.

In contrast to previous drill regulations, leggings will not be required except for parades, inspections, or other special occasions.

Companies were formed, the sophomores composing A company while the freshmen were alphabetically divided into three sections, companies B, C, and D, respectively.

Several of the fundamental principles of close order drill were instilled in the new men and a number of movements were executed under direction of qualified men among the sophomores and upper classmen.

Drill will be every Tuesday afternoon, the sophomores turning out from 1 to 1:50 p. m., and the freshmen from 1 to 2:50.

A call is out for recruits for the band. Captain Lewis asked all men with ability along this line to report to him. At present there are about 40 men trying out for places in this organization.

FROSH CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Joe Frazer, Everett Ogle, Gladys Noren And Lea MacPike Win Offices; Dean Straub Presides

At a scheduled meeting held in Villard hall yesterday afternoon at 4:15, "the largest and best freshman class," according to Dean Straub, held its first election of officers. The members of the class of 1923 who received the honors of office are Joe Frazer, of Portland, president; Everett Ogle, vice-president; Gladys Noren, secretary; Lea MacPike, treasurer.

Joe Frazer, the new president, who was nominated from the floor, received a large count. Although Frazer was absent from the meeting, it is expected that he will tender his resignation, according to his friends, who say that he is working and his time is consequently limited.

Dean Straub, the grand old man on the campus for the freshmen, took charge of the election. Due to some confusion, Dean Straub failed to make an important announcement which he intended to make at the meeting, and so is making it through the columns of the Emerald. It is this: All freshmen men are asked to meet at Villard hall today at 4:15 for a very special announcement which the Dean has to make.

YELL STAFF CANDIDATES TO TRY OUT SATURDAY

Several Are Already Signed up; All Asked to See or Call up Art Rosebraugh

Next Saturday afternoon while Oregon is plowing into Multnomah Club, the first yell staff tryouts will be held. Those who wish to compete for assistant yell leaders will then have the opportunity of leading Oregon in some lusty yells. Four or five candidates have already signed up for the trial, and more are expected.

Those showing the best ability in leading yells will have their names referred to the executive committee by Art Rosebraugh, yell king. The final decision is then made by the executive committee, which votes on the names submitted.

The men who wish to try out for assistant yell leader are to see Art Rosebraugh at the Sigma Chi house or call 565 for arrangements Saturday. All men are eligible for tryouts and should report at once in order to be notified for their appearance at the field.

FORESTERS WANT COOKS

Supervisor Asks University Department to Train Persons Who Can Dish Up Good Meal for Timber Men

One of the many cries for help that have recently been received by the home economics department has come in the form of a letter from N. F. MacDuff, supervisor of the Cascade National forest.

Mr. MacDuff requested the University Domestic Science department to aid the forestry service by submitting some sample menus and recipes for use in logging camps where the crews consist of from five to twenty-five men. He stressed the importance of proper food for this sort of work, and asked that the University of Oregon home economics department help by sending sensible and suitable menus, that would aid in making "cooks" into "good cooks."

Miss Tingle, head of the department, said that the matter would be considered soon, as the department is desirous of aiding whatever and whenever possible.

Gasoline and Green Caps to Shine the Seal

Who did it? When was it done? Nobody knows. But that the frosh will get it off is certain. Today it was learned that the Oregon seal had been painted a dull grey, not artistically but with a big blotch. Perhaps some careless student painter on his way to work had a spill. But this we know, on bended knees, some freshmen with love for their alma mater, and gasoline, plus green caps, will encourage the smear from the bronze insignia.

In its present condition the emblem is hardly distinguishable from the concrete walk, and is a hazard to navigation, or rather to the pedestrian, or a section thereof.

And again we repeat that the 'largest and best class' that ever wore the green top will remove the stain,—surely.

DEAN TALKS TO FRESHMEN

Next Meeting for First Year Men to Be Held in Y Hut on October 17

In Villard hall last night Dean Dymment spoke to about 175 freshmen on the subject of "School Standards, Rules, and Regulations." Dean Dymment especially stressed the point that it was impossible for a man to do outside work and carry more than 16 hours. He also advised all men who are earning their way through the University not to break into their college year in order to go to work.

The next meeting will be held in the Y hut on Tuesday, October 17, Delbert Obersteuffer will speak to the first year men on Oregon traditions and John MacGregor will speak on student activities. Art Rosebraugh will lead a few songs and yells.

THE FOOD DEPARTMENT STORE

Meat Dept.

One of our fastest growing departments is the meat department. Here people more and more of them every day are discovering that they actually are permitted to select the sort of meat they want. Try it once; you'll come again.

Grocery Dept.

Yes, ma'am, anything in the grocery line will be found on our heavily laden shelves. Hundreds of articles that go to make up a grocery department are found here—many of them sold here exclusively.

Delicatessen

For every day meals or for special occasions this department is amply prepared to meet your every demand. You'll find the things you want and if you don't see them, we will make them for you.

Bakery

The most select pastries and other baked goods are to be had here. Fraternities and sororities have found it convenient to buy their supplies here. There's a reason.
