MAKERS OF NOISE TO RULE SUPREME HOMECOMING EVE

Permanent Loving Cup Will Be Given Unit Making Most Clamor

PARADE ROUTE IS MAPPED

Display of Pyrotechnics Is to Feature Pre-Game Rally Through Eugene

Plans for the Homecoming parade, to be held November 11, are taking shape, according to Jack Meyers, chairman of the parade committee. As in the case of the Homecoming week-end of last year, the parade will be the big feature of the welcome to the returning alumni. To stimulate interest in noise-making, the committee is offering a permanent loving cup to the house that furnishes the best silence disturber in the parade.

The wreckers of silence are always the big feature of Homecoming parades and interest usually runs high concerning the devising of machines of noise to violently vibrate the eardrums of the audience and spectators. Last year, Bachelor won the prize with a steam boiler and whistle mounted on a truck. The committee request that all houses decide upon their noise maker as soon as possible and when the choice is made to call Meyers at 127, telling him what the stunt will be and from where the truck is to be obtained. This is essential, says Meyers, so as to be sure of a place in the parade.

Fireworks Are Limited

Another feature of the parade will be the fireworks. This year the pyrotechnic display will be limited to $250. It will constitute a big attraction of the pre-game rally.

The line of parade has been quite definitely fixed as follows: Start at 7 o'clock on 13th, in front of the Administration building; proceed to Alder; down Alder to 11th; down 11th to Willamette; down Willamette to 8th, where the line will turn in and out several blocks, the exact route to be announced later. Then the line will swing back into Willamette and follow the same route back to the bonfire on Kincaid field on Cemetery ridge.

Vehicles in Line

An effort will be made to furnish enough vehicles to make it possible for all students to ride in the parade. All the old grads will ride with the students, and, in addition to and competition with the other noise-making devices, the band will go along.

Jack Meyers also had charge of last year's Homecoming parade. This year the California club, of which Meyers is a member, requested to be allowed to help put the parade over big, and the members are working with that end in view. Indications are now that the parade this year will surpass previous affairs.

SOPHS ENTERTAIN AT HALL

Grotesque Costumes Worn at Halloween Party Saturday Evening

Saturday night the sophomores of Susan Campbell hall gave a party in honor of all the girls in the hall.

The early part of the evening was given over to characteristic Halloween games, and each class put on a stunt. The sophomores won first, freshmen second, and the juniors and seniors tied for third place. Lunch consisting of doughnuts and cider was served, and an informal dance followed the lunch.

All of the girls were arrayed in grotesque costumes, many of which produced much merriment. At the close of the dance, the score of the Oregon-Idaho game was announced and all serpentine the floor, singing "Mighty Oregon."

TEA IS THIS AFTERNOON

Women's League Officers Are Hostesses Dancing Will Be from 4 to 6

The third of a series of Women's League teas will be held in the sun-parlor of the Woman's building today from 4 until 6 o'clock. Excellent music has been arranged this time, so dancing may be enjoyed, and all girls are cordially invited to come after classes and be refreshed with hot tea and wafers.

A group of girls from the various organizations on the campus will serve, and Women's League officers will be hostesses. As the exchange dinners are not being held this year these teas serve as the medium for acquaintance among all girls on the campus. All older girls are urged to take their spouses and also to make it a point to become acquainted with as many new girls as possible and see that they meet each other.

OPEN HOUSE IS KEPT FOR SENIOR WOMEN

Many Trips Planned for Tonight But Rain Makes Outdoor Dates Look Doubtful

"I met you at open house." "The same old stall!" the senior man will mutter as he proceeds to get his date for the coming afternoon's entertainment.

Last night the senior ladies, accoutred in their Sunday best, made the rounds of the houses of men, followed through the usual open house proceedings, and now the senior men have no valid excuse for turning down dates on the grounds of non-acquaintance. The spirits of the maidens were not dampened by the Oregon rain, and a good attendance at each house was reported.

This afternoon the Gamma Phi and Thetas are getting their forces together for an all-around good time in the form of a matinee, at the Gamma Phi house, from 3:45 until 5:45.

"We're looking for the whole senior gang," said one of the Gamma Phi seniors, "and we'll promise you two hours of fun."

Numerous canoeing parties, trips to the "O," and other familiar walks known to Oregon students, had been planned for this evening, which the committee generously left open to individual choice. However, if it rains, the result will probably be a run on the entertainments offered by the movie houses in Eugene and neighboring vicinity.

EXCHANGE OF VISITORS WITH U. OF W. PLANNED

Co-Operation and Friendship Motive of Action

Bonds of closer cooperation and friendship between two state universities, daughters of the same mother, Oregon territory of the days of "Fifty-four Forty or Fight," were completed yesterday upon the receipt of a telegram by Leith Abbott, general chairman of the Oregon Homecoming, from A. R. Hilen, president of the University of Washington Alumni association announcing the appointment of Washington's ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Oregon Homecoming. The University of Oregon will end in return an ambassador to the Washington Homecoming, which occurs at the same time as does the Oregon Homecoming.

King Dykeman, judge of the superior court of King county, Washington, and also judge of the juvenile court of Seattle, an alumnus of the University of Washington and a man of affairs has been selected to represent his alma mater.

The Oregon ambassador will be selected by Robert Kuykendall, president of the Alumni association of the University of Oregon, and word of his choice is expected to arrive on the campus today.

The ambassadors of the two institutions will meet in Portland on their respective journeys. At his destination each ambassador will be formally received by the Homecoming officials and will present his credentials and a message of good will between the two schools. These ambassadors will speak at the respective Homecoming rallies and will appear with the governors of the respective states, in the official boxes at the games.

MISS DAVIS LEAVES Y. W.

Assistant Secretary Resigns Position to Join Gift Campaign Forces

Miss Louise Davis of Eugene, who has been for the past two years assistant secretary of the campus Y. W. C. A., has resigned her position with the association and will be connected in the future with the endowment campaign offices. Miss Davis will be secretary for Lamar Toozie, field director of the campaign, W. K. Newell, general director, and Miss Grace Edgington, alumni secretary. She will begin her work with the endowment fund program on Wednesday.

Miss Davis' successor has not yet been named by the advisory board of the association which has charge of appointments of this kind.

SELECTION IS APPROVED

Spencer Collins Gets Scholarship in Practice of Accounting

The selection of Spencer Collins, '21, by the school of business administration, to receive the scholarship in practice accounting offered by the Whitfield, Whitcomb company has been accepted by that firm. By the terms of the scholarship, Mr. Collins will begin his training under their supervision November 1, 1922.

A brilliant future in the accounting profession is predicted for Mr. Collins by the management of Whitfield, Whitcomb company.

VARSITY DEBATE WILL BEGIN WITH O. A. C. MEET

Tentative Schedule Given Out Includes Dates for Women

EDNA LARGENT MANAGER

Do-Nut Teams Are Organized; Will Begin Contests November 15

The tentative inter-collegiate debate schedule for the year has been announced by Paul Patterson, forensic manager. Edna Largent has been appointed as manager of women's forensics this year and the schedule is to include women's debates as well. The first one of the series will be held on December 8 with Oregon Agricultural College (men) at Corvallis.

The first women's debate will be with the University of Washington women's team at Seattle. On March 4 will be held the three debates which will decide the coast championship. The University of Washington team will meet one Stanford team at Stanford University; a second Stanford team will meet Oregon at Eugene, and Oregon's other team will meet Washington's second team at Seattle. Last year Oregon won the coast championship, and prospects are bright for this year, according to the managers, though as yet work has just begun.

In April the women's team will meet the O. A. C. women's team, and in May the State Oratorical contest will be held at Albany, where teams from nine colleges will compete for honors. Another contest is scheduled to take place at Moscow, Idaho, to which Oregon will send her representatives. More details will be announced later.

Campus do-nut debate teams are being organized and on November 15th and 16th the men's houses will compete. Women's houses do-nut debates will be held the following week, on November 21 and 22. The question to be debated by both men and women's houses is, "Resolved: That the United States should cancel all Allied war debts, except those of Great Britain."

Oregon Agricultural College will meet the Reed College team in Eugene some time in December, to debate upon the question, "Resolved: That a Federal court with a power to enforce its decisions should be established for the adjudication of industrial disputes."

LEMON-YELLOW ROOTERS BOOST FOR OREGON

Oregon Students and Alumni Hold Big Rally; Band, Megaphones Urge Fighting Spirit

More than 500 students found their way to Portland for the game with Idaho Saturday afternoon on Multnomah field. Many went up on the special train, while others went in cars. At one o'clock all University students and many alumni and former students put on an immense rally in front of the Imperial hotel.

The University band with their new white trousers, blue jerseys and rooster caps led the way up Washington street to Multnomah field. At the head of the procession was a large banner, "You Can't Beat Oregon Fight." The rooters were led by Yell King Rosebraugh and assistants Keeney, Oberteuffer and Martin.

The lemon-yellow occupied the bleachers on the east side of the field, while Idaho alumni and friends were in another section of the grandstand. Oregon rooters all wore lemon and green caps and carried megaphones.

ALUMNI LUNCHEON NOV. 4

President Campbell Will Speak at Port- land Homecoming Event

The annual Portland Homecoming luncheon will be held at the Multnomah hotel Saturday noon, November 4. Harold Young, '14, who is on the staff of the Oregon Voter, is in charge of arrangements. A number of persons from the campus including President P. L. Campbell, who will give an address, will be in attendance.

The program includes selections by the University glee club quartette, consisting of Maurice Eben, Glen Morrow, Roy Bryson and John Stark Evans, an address by Prof. H. C. Howe on "Medieval and Modern Literature and Its Effect on Oregon's Chances to Beat W. S. C.," and talks by Shy Huntington and Baz Williams. There are about five hundred alumni in Portland so it is expected that a large number will be present at the luncheon, especially including those who find it impossible to return to Eugene for Homecoming.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORKER VISITING OREGON CAMPUS

Industrial Welfare Secretary Believes Trained Persons Needed in Field

LACK HUMAN EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Trumbull Says Young Are Not Experienced in Human Values

Social service work as a vocation for women is lauded by Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull, secretary of the State Industrial Welfare commission, when they couple it with discernment and do not become obsessed with the idea that being a college graduate is sufficient. Mrs. Trumbull is inspecting the working conditions in factories in Eugene and will talk to Dean Fox's class in practical ethics at 2 o'clock today. Social service work, Mrs. Trumbull emphasized, is a job which must be learned and not "stuffed." "Social service workers need experience with human nature, which is something most young people have not had," said Mrs. Trumbull. "And they also need a large sense of values, especially human values."

Mrs. Trumbull mentioned the change in the building and design of factories in the interest of the workers' health.

The lack of experience in human values Mrs. Trumbull attributes to the fact that most college women are not in close contact with the working world and are prone to forget that people in industries are human. Part of this, she said, is due to the fact that until the last few years social service work has been looked upon as a fad.

Social Reform Slow

Mrs. Trumbull's work takes her through the state examining all kinds of industries in which women and children are employed, suggesting improvements of any kind and seeing that the industrial labor laws are obeyed. "Improvement in working conditions for women has been slow, but steady," Mrs. Trumbull said.

The industrial law in Oregon forbids women under 18 years of age working at commercial employments, unless they have permits, and since it applies to married women also, Mrs. Trumbull said that it often brings about amusing situations.

Mrs. Trumbull is also on the board of inspectors of child labor, which issues permits for children to work if they are physically fit, sees that they go to school if they are not, and has medical attention given them. It also regulates the number of hours which children may work and limits the kind of work they can be employed to do.

Law Defect Pointed Out

Oregon is the only state where working permits are issued by the board, Mrs. Trumbull said. One weakness in the Oregon law which Mrs. Trumbull pointed out, is that it does not include a compulsory physical examination for children before they go to work.

As an experiment the child labor board through Mrs. Trumbull checked up on the number of boys at the state industrial school from Portland and found that 60 per cent of them had been given permits to stay out of school to work. Consequently they had no time to play and in their free time overstepped the bounds of right conduct. Practically all the young auto thieves are boys who are working when they should be going to school.

AT LAST A REMEDY— FOR LONESOME FROSH

Library Provides Reading Room as Camping Place to Scan "The News" from Home Town

How many University freshmen are aware of the fact that in the basement of the library there is a newspaper room which contains an assortment of over one hundred newspapers published in all parts of the state of Oregon?

So you, Willie Jones from Arsonak and Mary Smithers from Bakeoven, the next time you get that feeling of a big rock lodged just above your collar button,—why don't you wander down to the newspaper room and look up the old home-town "bugle"? It's a sure chaser of the blues to settle down in a nice warm corner and read "Jim Peters and wife have returned from the County Fair," and "Jake Snow is fattening a bunch of hogs for the Portland market."

"It may be comedy for some folks to get home-sick but it's tragedy for a frosh!"

DR. SHELDON TO ADDRESS FROSH AT HUT TONIGHT

Douglass Named New Advisory Board Chairman; Secretary and Treasurer Elected

Dean H. D. Sheldon of the school of education will speak at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at another meeting of the series arranged by the "Y" association for the benefit of freshmen. Dean Sheldon's topic will be "The Big Objectives of University Education," and the meeting will be for freshmen only. A preliminary program has been arranged by Don Zimmerman.

It has been pointed out that the service of the Y. M. C. A. on the campus is doing for the freshmen in this respect and the almost indispensable work of the employment and rooming service justifies the hearty support of the organization by the students. The present drive is progressing rather slowly and Webster Rubie, chairman of the association, estimates that it will take another month to cover all the Oregon club men.

At a meeting of the advisory board yesterday M. H. Douglass was elected chairman, H. R. Douglass treasurer, and C. D. Thorpe was elected to membership in the board and named as treasurer. The advisory board is composed of the faculty members of the University, the ministers of the Eugene churches, and several representatives from the various churches other than ministers.

FROSH GET SHORT END OF SATURDAY'S GAME

Flukes Favor Washington in Hard Fought Battle

True to advance dope Oregon's freshman gridsters returned from Seattle with the short end of the score in the annual game with the University of Washington yearlings. But the Lemon-Yellow babes in holding the Purple and Gold to a 26 to 0 count verified Coach Baz Williams' prediction, that this year's team would not suffer as terrible a defeat as last year's freshmen did. In fact the 1922 aggregation, from all reports, put up a wonderful game, that had it not been for some very unexpected flukes in Washington's favor, the score would have been smaller and possibly not so advantageous to the Seattle youths.

Using a shift play to good advantage in the first quarter the Oregon team swept their opponents steadily down the field before them until they reached the Washington 20-yard line. Here occurred the first break in favor of Seattle team. Quarterback Anderson shot a forward pass which a Washington man intercepted and carried the length of the field for a touchdown. Two of the other touchdowns scored against the Frosh came as the result of blocked kicks, each one resulting in a sensational score for Washington.

Oregon was minus an experienced kicker, and the burden of handling this department of the game fell upon Bob Mautz a lineman who had never attempted kicking before. Hence they were greatly handicapped and the purple and gold benefitted accordingly.

Despite these disheartening circumstances Baz Williams' crew put up a spirited fight throughout the game and gave Washington no chance to ease up. The Seattle freshmen had an abundance of flashy and reliable men, the pick of two teams, the Purples and the Golds, which previous to this game had been participating independent of each other. "They had one of the most wonderful freshman teams that I have ever seen," was Baz's comment.

With this game out of the way the yearlings will now concentrate all their efforts on the premier attraction of the year, the annual affair with the O. A. C. Rooks. This contest will be the final one of the season for the frosh and is scheduled for Hayward field on next Saturday. If nothing unexpected turns up they will be in better shape for this tilt than any previous one this season, which because of the poor schedule has been a hard one for both the coaches and the players. Not a man was hurt to any extent in the Seattle game; and, with the help of some of the cripples recovering before Saturday, the freshmen should show up well against their traditional rivals from Corvallis.

MLLE. DEW WILL SPEAK

Le Foyer Francais to Hold Election at Meeting Tonight

Mlle. Germaine Dew will give a talk on "How I Learned English" tonight at the regular meeting of Le Foyer Francais (French club) which will be held in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow at 7:30. Miss Gwaldys Keeney will also take part in the program by rendering a vocal solo.

A vice-president and secretary will be elected to take the place of Annabelle Denn and Doris Sengstaken who did not return this fall. Ralph Poston is president of the organization.

OREGON RESTING FOR CLASH WITH COUGARS NOV. 11

Victors Over Idaho to Take Life Easy for Few Days Recuperating

MACHINE NOT YET PERFECT

Lemon-Yellow Line Working Nicely But Backs Are Not Under Way

By Ed Fraser
The Oregon team, victorious against both Idaho and Whitman by virtue of Hal Chapman's ability to place kick, will lay off this week-end and recuperate the cripples in an attempt to put a real winning eleven on Hayward field against Washington State here Homecoming day, November 11.

Although the Varsity has been the winner in both her latest contests, these games were won by the narrow margin of 3 points, and strange as it may seem, not a single touchdown has been scored by the backfield in their last three games. This would seem to indicate that the offensive strength of the squad needs improvement, and Coach Huntington is to spend much time between now and the W. S. C. game improving the scoring end of the squad.

Varsity Over Hump

Oregon's victory over Idaho Saturday really put them over the hump for this season, for with several of the stars badly injured, and some of those in the lineup in bad condition, the best that Shy looked for was a tie. The week's rest granted the squad at this time comes in just right, as it will help them to prepare for the Homecoming game.

The Oregon line is living up to the praise given it at the first of the season as "the best since 1916," but the backfield so far has not produced, with the exception of Hal Chapman who is a stellar fixture at quarter. The inability of the backfield on the defense to cope with a forward pass attack has been especially noticeable, as in the Idaho game especially, the Vandals completed pass after pass over the heads of the Oregon backs.

Injuries Weaken Backfield

A great deal of the trouble has no doubt been caused by injuries to the backs which broke up effective combinations, but with all the men back in the lineup by November 11, they should be able to score on W. S. C., if they expect to score at all this season.

Prink Callison and Tiny Shields who both played their first game Saturday, showed up as expected and make the problems of the line coach much easier. The line on the offensive is not yet functioning as it should, but with these men working regularly they should be able to break holes in any conference line before the end of the season.

Oregon at present seems to be as strong as any of the coast teams, as she succeeded in taking Idaho into camp, which is about as much as either W. S. C. or Washington could do, and they are rated as high as any of the teams at present.

Stanford Not Impressive

The Stanford-O. A. C. game at Corvallis was anything but impressive, and the introduction of the famous Warner system to the southern school did not bring any special different brand of football to light. Stanford seems to have the Indian sign on the Oregon schools, though, as neither Oregon nor O. A. C. has won from her for several years.

The conference at present is in a very unsettled state, but the Homecoming game will really determine whether Oregon is to have an important part this year or not.

Y. W. SERVICE THURSDAY

Candlelight Ceremony Scheduled as Treat for New Members

Lately there have been a good many inquiries at the Bungalow concerning the annual recognition service for the new members of the Y. W. C. A. The service will be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Bungalow. The affair is the candlelight service that all old University members of the Y. W. are familiar with, and it is expected to be a treat to the new members. Everyone should be present at this meeting as it is one of the most important ones of the year.

LeLaine West, president of the Y. W. C. A., will preside.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCED

Alpha Beta Chi announces the pledging of Kenneth Rew of Pendleton and Robert Cole of Portland.
