ENVOYS MEET IN PORTLAND

University Representatives to Attend Dinner for Alumni
on Thursday

By Clinton Howard

Homecoming, 1922, will be introduced to the students of the University, at the Thursday morning assembly, when the student body band blares forth the old Oregon songs, and Robert Kuykendall, president of the Alumni association, President P. L. Campbell of the University, and President John MacGregor of the Associated Students present to Richard Shore (Dick) Smith, Oregon's premier football player, the right to represent the Oregon clans at the gathering of the Washington Vikings.

Smith is probably the greatest football player that Oregon has ever produced, and he certainly is in line for that title with regard to the entire western United States. For two years he captained the Oregon teams and for three other years he played various positions on that time, a total of five years in Oregon's service on the gridiron, over and above anything he did on the track and field.

Answers Oregon's Call

He coached later Oregon teams. Now after some years of private life, he responds once more to the call of his alma mater. He is an example of the sort of thing that makes old Oregon famous—her men and her women. When the call of love for Oregon enters a man's life it is difficult to resist, as exemplified by Smith's acceptance of the ambassadorship.

Reminding the students of the solemn occasion, the band will station itself in front of the Woman's building and "beat the air with loud crashes of music" for this is an assembly extraordinary, the keynote and initial blare and blast of the Homecoming trumpets. Oregon accredits and sends forth her ambassador!

Envoys to Meet

Immediately following the assembly, Robert Kuykendall and Dick Smith will leave for Portland where they will arrive about six o'clock, in time for the alumni dinner, to be given jointly in honor of Smith and King Dykeman, Washington's ambassador to the Oregon Homecoming. Already the Washington and Oregon newspapers throughout the two states have spread widely "The Tale of the Two Ambassadors."

On Friday morning, Smith will continue on his way to Washington where he will be met by the alumni president, and Dykeman will continue his trip to Eugene with Kuykendall.

In addition to the presentation of Smith's credentials by the three presidents at Thursday's assembly, the glee clubs will sing Oregon songs.

BOOK CATALOGUE OBTAINED

Among the recent editions to the University library is the English catalogue of books, according to M. H. Douglass, librarian. This catalogue in eight volumes records all books published in England from 1801 to 1907. The English record is now complete to date. There are also French from 1840, American from 1876, and German from 1750 to 1914.

The Scottish Game Has Come to Match the Baggy Pants

Long have we had in our midst the wearers of the baggy draping knee trousers; the multicolored, turned over at the top, stockings; the flat soled shoes; and the formless sweater. For such is the accoutrement of the golfer.

"But where, oh, where," has been the question, "is the golf green, the golf clubs, and the little white balls." The campus cynic, in words which are typical, belches forth and wonders, "Poor souls! Knoweth they what golf balls are?"

But no longer does the wearer of such clothes have to explain. He has an excuse, for golf, the game, is coming into its own on the University of Oregon campus, along with the clothes. Up in the men's gymnasium, far from sight, and out of the trodden paths, a golf professional rules in his domain. One, with the aid of a guide, goes through many doors, and finds himself in the sanctum of the followers

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE WILL BE APPOINTED

W. K. Newell Speaks to Large Gathering of Grads

Active support of the University of Oregon endowment campaign is planned by Portland alumni of the state University. F. Harold Young, a member of the staff of the Oregon Voter and the newly elected president of the Portland branch of the University of Oregon alumni association, will appoint a committee of five this week to formulate plans for the participation in the campaign of the graduates who live in Multnomah county.

W. K. Newell, in charge of general campaign headquarters, and Lamar Tooze, '16, held director, outlined the needs of the University and the necessity of private benefactions at a meeting of the Portland alumni in the Portland hotel, Saturday.

As 200 alumni were present at this meeting the endowment campaign obtained an auspicious start in Portland. Many of the Portland alumni will be present at the fall meeting of the Alumni association in Eugene, Saturday morning, when the entire body of graduates and former students will get behind the efforts to obtain "$10,000,000 in ten years."

TWO-GUN MOVIE MAN'S NAMESAKE ON CAMPUS

Oregon's Bill Hart Dramatic Major;
First Appearance to Be in "The Scarlet Pimpernel"

Ready? Action! Camera! Pep it up! Draw both guns at once! More action!

Fair co-eds and trusting readers, do not be surprised if some day you hear the above being barked out on the campus, because—Bill Hart is here! However he is not the same "Big Bill" of two gun fame you see on the movie screen, but only his namesake. An Emerald newshound succeeded in penetrating his incognito in spite of the flat hat he wears.

Oregon's Bill Hart is registered in dramatics and naturally making great strides in his vocation. He differs slightly in appearance from the movie "Big Bill" but nevertheless has the same steel blue eyes, firm broad chin, expressive eyebrows and Hartian physique.

Bill's first dramatic appearance on the campus will be as a bar-room rouser in the coming Guild hall production, "The Scarlet Pimpernel."

For any other information about Bill, see him at the Chi Psi house.

SIXTEEN GAMES ON SCHEDULE FOR VARSITY QUINTET

Seven Letter Men Are Back
at University as Basis of This Year's Team

"HUNK" LATHAM TO PLAY

Bohler Plans Barnstorming
Trip Before Conference
Struggles Start

With seven letter men together with last year's subs and last year's freshman team from whom to pick a basketball team, Oregon will enter the conference hoop struggle this season with its strongest quintet since the days of Eddie Durno. "Hunk" Latham, who played such a stellar game at center two years ago, but who was not back from the football trip to Hawaii in time to try out for basketball last year, will be out in a suit again.

There are six lettermen in school this term, and the seventh, Haddon Rockey, will be back for basketball season. The six men are Latham, Edlund, Zimmerman, Couch, Goar, and Burnett. This leaves but three men from last year's squad, Marc Latham, "Rol" Andre, and "Frane" Beller, who will not be in a suit this year. In addition to these men, there are several of last year's "transfers" who are eligible this year. Earl Shafer came here last year from Willamette, where he was one of the mainstays of the "Bearcat" squad.

Barnstorming Trip Planned

The first call for basketball men will not be sounded by Coach Bohler until the holidays, when the team will take a barnstorming tour on which they will play several practice games. "Two weeks work in vacation," says Bohler, "is better than two months during school, when the men have classes."

"This trip," Coach Bohler went on to say, "will give the new men a chance to play under strange conditions, on different floors, and with other lighting arrangements."

The only radical change in the arrangement of the schedule this year will be that each traveling team will play but one game with each home team in place of two as was the case last year. This will give the traveling team a lighter schedule while on the trip. A few minor changes have been made in Oregon's schedule since it was given out at the first of the year. The game that was scheduled with Willamette here January 12 has been postponed until January 19, and in place of that game the varsity will play a double header with North Pacific Dental College and Pacific University.

Following is the revised schedule:

- Jan. 12. *O vs. N. P. Dental College and Pacific U. at Eugene.
- 13. O vs. Multnomah Club at Portland.
- 19. O vs. Willamette at Eugene.
- 20. O vs. Idaho at Eugene.
- 25. O vs. U. of W. at Eugene.
- 27. O vs. Willamette at Salem.
- Feb. 2. O vs. O. A. C. at Corvallis.
- 3. O vs. O. A. C. at Corvallis.
- 5. O vs. W. S. C. at Eugene.
- 9. O vs. O. A. C. at Eugene.
- 10. O vs. O. A. C. at Eugene.
- 17. O vs. Whitman at Walla Walla.
- 19. O vs. Idaho at Moscow.
- 21. O vs. W. S. C. at Pullman.
- 22. O vs. Spokane A. A. C. at Spokane.
- 24. O vs. U. of W. at Seattle.

STUDENTS KEEP ORDER WHEN LIGHTS GO OUT

Matches Used to Identify Books in Reserve Section of Commerce Library; Room Deserted

Can you picture a library at night with flickering matches as the sole source of illumination? It is hard to believe but that is what happened in the reserve section of the library in the Commerce building on Thursday evening when the fuses burned out.

There was a very audible "oh" when darkness fell so suddenly but very soon those fortunate persons who were equipped for such emergencies, with the aid of the old "safeties" sent forth feeble beams of light.

Unfortunately, from the standpoint of the "news gatherer," there was no confusion or excitement of any kind. Orderly lines were formed before the windows at the reserve desk and fortunately the match supply was available until the librarian, with the pale light but mostly by touch and intuition was able to hand out books to all the applicants. Even by this time the source of trouble had not been found, so considering the disadvantages of studying by the light of a match, the reading rooms were soon deserted.

Campus Prepares for Grads' Return and Armistice Day

Homecoming and Peace Celebration Feature This Week-end When Oregon Alumni Come to Take Part in Rally and See Frosh Pyre Burn; Flag
Raising Before Game Saturday

Great as have been many of Oregon's past Homecomings, this celebration at the University will pass the fond memories of the old grads by many strides, if present plans are a criterion. Rally bonfire, alumni reunion, peace celebration parade, flag raising, Oregon's adoption and oath of friendship to sons of other schools, who live within her domain, and the football game spell the success of this year's Homecoming.

Of this year's features, named above and others not named, such as the Homecoming dance, and the exchange of ambassadors of Oregon with Washington, three are new, being tried for the first time, and one, an old tradition, has been altered.

The freshman bonfire, traditionally has been built by the frosh as high and as wide as they wanted it, but this year it cannot be. Too many freshmen have flunked out in years past from overwork on the pyre, and too, approximately one-third of the class have done most of the construction. This year, with the faculty ruling of a pyre to be not over 40 feet high, as wide as desired and to cost not over $150, the frosh class has been organized to the last degree, according to the bonfire committee, consisting of 25 captains, each in command of ten workers.

The poles for the pyre were erected on Sunday afternoon, and nothing will be done now in the way of construction or gathering of material until Thursday afternoon. At present, the captains of the 25 teams are scouring the town to locate wood which will be gathered on Thursday afternoon and night. They are also making the round of garages which will promise to save for them the waste oil and grease, rags and other inflammable material.

One of the new features in this year's Homecoming is the merger of the Homecoming and Armistice day celebrations. Since the war, Armistice day, Homecoming and Thanksgiving vacation all coming in November in the last half of the fall term, and just before the final term examinations, have proved a source of annoyance to both students and faculty.

Hence, this year the University is cooperating with the Eugene and Lane posts of the American Legion, in staging an "everybody-in" parade of townspeople and University students alike. Ralf Couch, chairman of the student parade committee, urges all organizations to see that their members turn out for this event and join in the line of march, which will be down Wilamette street, from Sixth street to Eleventh. The parade will leave the Armory at 10:15 Saturday morning.

The flag raising which will take place before the game Saturday afternoon, the piece de resistance of the entire celebration, will be another way of commemorating Armistice day. Ralf Couch and the Armistice Day committee are cooperating with the student body in the raising of the flag pole which will be a permanent feature of the campus. The University and the Legion are sharing half and half the expense of the erection. Lynn McCready, '19, is representing the local post of the Legion in this matter.

Oregon's adoption of alien alumni is to be one of the features of Homecoming. It is one of the innovations of this Homecoming, and the ceremony will take place on Hayward field between the halves of the game. Charles Lamb, chairman of the naturalization committee is in charge of this.

The rally on Friday, an old standby feature of the University's Homecomings, is in the hands of Jack Myers and the rally committee. Myers reports that thus far the committee has obtained approximately 30 trucks, and expects to obtain as many more, so that the entire student body, all the visitors, and the "alums" may ride.

Myers compliments the Eugene owners of trucks for their loyalty to the University in lending the use of their machines, gratis. In regard to the noise-making contrivances in the parade, the committee offers a prize of a

TICKETS ON SALE FOR HOMECOMING BALL

Admission Will Be One Dollar;
Two Dances Planned

Tickets are on sale this morning.—Tickets for Oregon's Homecoming Ball, the dance of dances of the fall season of the college year, when the present and future "alums" mingle as the one big, everlasting student body of the State University, and the governor opens the ball!

Tickets will be on sale at the Co-op and through a representative in each of the men's organizations at the price of one dollar. That price of one dollar guarantees plenty of room and good punch and good music to every campus dancer and dancer according to Owen Cadaway, vice-president of the student body and chairman of the dance committee.

Furthermore the committee in charge, through Callaway, the chairman forecasts a good time for all when Oregonites break loose for fun. The stress and strain of the parade, the rally, and the game is over, and everyone is ready to make merry, and merry, and merrier until the limit in the wee sma' hours is reached.

Two startling statements made by Callaway yesterday regarding the setting of the dance in the Woman's building were—"The punch will harmonize with the scenery and the scenery with the punch, which is changeable" and "The committee is behind the setting around the theme of a South Sea island setting, and a hula dancer will be especially imported from the islands for the feature dance of the evening."

Late yesterday afternoon the committee did not know the name of the dancer, who is expected to arrive in Portland on one of the boats of the Pacific fleet. Her name will be announced as soon as it is learned on the campus. Patrons and patronesses of the affair will be announced at a later date. According to the plans of the committee, freshmen and sophomores will dance at the Armory, and upperclassmen, guests, and "alums" will go to the Woman's building.

CHARLES PARSONS INJURED; OUT OF GAME FOR SEASON

Backfield Man Will Be Greatly Missed by Coaches and
Rest of Team

CAMPBELL TO BE ELIGIBLE

215 Pound Man Makes Varsity
Line Strong; Squad to Be in Shape

Charles "Chuck" Parsons, one of the best backfield men that Oregon has had this year, had to quit football this week as the result of an injury received in the Whitman game. This further reduces the eligible candidates for Oregon's offensive in the homecoming game against Washington State this week-end.

Parsons was kicked in the side during the Whitman game, but went on playing nevertheless, until late last week, when he went to the infirmary for an examination after his side had failed to improve during the week. The examination showed that his side had been badly bruised, and the doctor ordered him to lay off football for the rest of the year.

Chuck will be missed greatly as Coach Huntington had been counting on him for the Washington State game, and had been working him with the Latham, Chapman, King combination. Dute Gram has practically recovered from all injuries now though, and either he or Ward Johnson will fill in the other backfield position.

The loss of Parsons is offset by the fact that Cogs Campbell is now definitely eligible, and will probably make his varsity debut in the Homecoming contest, as he has been working out with the Varsity for some time. Cogs weighs 215 pounds and uses it to good advantage, so his addition will strengthen an already good line.

The addition, makes the line strong from end to end as the lineup against the Cougars probably will be Callison at center, Tiny and Floyd Shields as guards, Cogs Campbell and Vonder Ahe as tackles and Rud Brown and Bill Spear as ends.

Many football fans are predicting that the Varsity will easily wallopp the W. S. C. eleven here this week, judging from the slap they were handed by the California Bears at Berkeley Saturday, the final count being 61 to 0 in favor of the aforesaid Bruins, but Coach Huntington predicts that Oregon is up against their hardest game this week-end and says the Varsity will be lucky to win at all, let alone run up any score on the Cougars.

The fact that California ran up such a count merely goes to prove that their eleven is on a par with their famous team last year, and the Oregon coaches look for the southern men to easily defeat the University of Washington at Seattle this Saturday.

The Varsity men will be in the best condition they have been in this season for the tilt with the Cougars, as they will have a full strength line, and a backfield which is the strongest that has appeared for Oregon this year.

The Homecoming game is the contest which counts most on the Oregon schedule this year, and the coaches, aware of the fact, are getting the team into the best possible shape.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS MAY BE ORDERED FROM Y. W.

Flowers to Be Delivered Friday Afternoon; Blossoms Will Cost 40 Cents Apiece; Cards Can Be Sent

"Larger and better than ever," is the slogan of the Y. W. C. A. committee, which is taking orders today for the yellow chrysanthemums to be worn at the Homecoming game Saturday. The flowers this year are a different variety from those sold before, and the committee is confident that the choicest flowers of the season are being sold at the lowest price.

Forty cents apiece is asked for the blossoms, which will average six inches in diameter. There are representatives in the organizations on the campus to take orders. Those outside of organizations may leave their orders at the Bungalow. The flowers will be delivered Friday afternoon to the organizations, and to those persons ordering over a dozen. Individual orders must be called for at the Bungalow at that time.

Cards or messages will be sent with the flowers, if left at the Bungalow.

This sale is annually conducted by the Y. W. C. A., the proceeds going toward special improvements for the Bungalow. Miss Thelma Kimberling is chairman of the committee.
