

STUDENTS TODAY TO HEAR REPORT OF HOMECOMING

Washington Envoy To Receive Credentials at Assembly in Woman's Building

ABBOTT TO MAKE REPORT

Grads Must Be Made to Feel at Home When They Come Back to Campus

The entire student body and the faculty will gather in the women's gymnasium in the Woman's building, this morning at eleven o'clock to bid Oregon's ambassador, Richard Shore Smith, god-speed on his journey to the University of Washington where he will represent the University at the Washington Homecoming.

In addition to the presentation of the credentials and greetings to Smith, Leith Abbott, general chairman of the Homecoming committee, will make a general report on the work accomplished by the various committees and at the same time point out to the students the particular ways by which they can aid in making the occasion a success.

"The 'Hello' cannot be stressed too greatly," said Abbott in reference to Oregon's democratic tradition, especially since there will be a great number of visitors many of whom will have come with the intention of becoming an adopted son of the institution. The old grads should be made to feel at home as well as the visitors, and they will if they are greeted by the 'Hello' as they were in days of yore. The grads and former students will be recognized by a lemon-yellow cardboard tag which they will wear, while the visitors will be supplied with some other form of insignia.

Open Houses Requested

Many of the old grads and former students, who belonged to no organization during their college career, have complained that in the past they have had no place to go and that the campus luncheon afforded them the only time to talk over old times with their classmates and acquaintances that they received during their stay on the campus. In order that this may be avoided this year, Abbott requests that each organization should arrange to hold open house for these men and women so that they will be able to talk over old times with their fellow students.

In regard to the Armistice day parade the entire student body, with the exception of the ex-service men on the campus who will meet at the armory, will assemble in a body at the corner of 11th and Alder streets at 10 o'clock and from there they will join in the parade, which will not last more than a half an hour. All of the senior women will be requested to see that the women from their organizations turn out 100 per cent for the parade. Abbott declared that a 100 per cent participation on the part of the students is absolutely necessary.

Judge King Dykeman, ambassador of the University of Washington, was presented with his credentials by A. R. Hilen, president of the Washington Alumni association, in the Sylvan theater on the Washington campus, Friday. Those who participated in the ceremony were Dean John T. Condon, acting president of the University; Professor Edmond S. Meany; J. E. Gould, dean of men; Robert Little, president of the associated students; Enoch Bagshaw, football coach; Bob Ingram, football captain; Darwin Meisner, graduate manager; Miss Celeste Moll, escorted by a committee of coeds, presented Ambassador Dykeman with a letter of welcome to the under-

CAMPUS LUNCHEON TO BE IN BOTH MEN'S GYMNASIUMS

Good Menu Announced by Fred Lorenz, Chairman

Plans have been practically completed for the campus luncheon to be served Saturday, from 11:30 until 1, in the two men's gymnasiums. Fred Lorenz has assumed active charge of the work of the committee, in the absence of Bernice Altstock, and has for his assistants Mary Clerin, in charge of preparation of sandwiches; Ed Tapfer, arrangement of tables and chairs and head of the clean-up committee; Hal Simpson, business manager, and Inez King, head of the serving committee.

Since the game starts promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it was deemed advisable by the committee to start serving at 11:30 in place of 12 o'clock as formerly, and close the doors at one. This will enable those in charge of the luncheon to complete their work, and still get to the game in time.

In order to handle the large crowd of students and guests, arrangements have been made for the use of the two gymnasiums. The food will be served from four long tables. The indoor gymnasium will be reserved for the old grads, visitors and upperclassmen, while the freshmen and sophomores will occupy the outdoor gym.

"We hope that every student will come to the luncheon," said Lorenz. "Everyone connected with the University is expected, and there will be lots of food—good food."

The menu at present includes sliced cold pork and veal, hot rolls (such as Mrs. Datson has made in the Friendly Hall kitchens) with lots of butter, creamed potatoes, fruit salad, coffee (with real cream) and fat, sugary doughnuts (of the kind sold by Theta Sigma Phi on the campus recently). No luncheons will be served in the living organizations Saturday noon, since all students will be fed in the two gymnasiums.

"We are asking," said Mr. Lorenz, "that everyone, especially the undergraduates notice the signs and follow their advice. Receptacles will be provided for cups and silverware, and we are urging that the students see that each is returned to the proper place. Also, in order that the 'old grads' may have time to stop and chat, it is expected that underclassmen will not 'congregate' in the gyms after they have finished their luncheon."

Four girls from each house are asked to assist with the serving Saturday. The following have been appointed by Inez King, in charge of serving, to see that their house furnishes its proper quota: Alpha Chi Omega, Margaret Jackson; Alpha Sigma, Margaret Seymour; Alpha Delta Pi, Rosalia Keber; Alpha Phi, Chloe Thompson; Alpha Xi

YELL LEADER MAY HAVE POSITION ON STUDENT COUNCIL

Proposal Favored by Group Is to Come Up at Meeting on December 7

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

Campus Is Urged to Welcome Grads and Visitors in Coming Week-End

A resolution to make the yell leader a member of the student council by amending Article 4, Section 2 of the student constitution was passed at the regular meeting of the student council last night and will be brought before the students at the next meeting of the A. S. U. O., December 7. The only change will be to make the constitution read "fifteen members" instead of "fourteen" and to insert the position of yell leader in the list of officers who are members of the council.

The proposed amendment will be read at the student body meeting December 7. According to the constitution it must be published in the Emerald within one week and voted on within one week later. To carry two thirds of the votes cast must be favorable to the amendment, and at least three hundred votes must be cast. It will be necessary to hold a special election to vote on the measure.

Place on Ballot Changed

It was decided to cooperate with the movement to make the yell leader's position of greater importance and prestige by placing name on the official ballot just before the senior men on the student council. The movement has grown out of the lack of incentive for people to work toward the yell leader's position.

The recommendation of the drives committee that the Student Friendship Fund committee be allowed to put on a campaign on the campus December 7 was approved. The drive will be limited to one day and booths will be placed in front of the library and at the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., but the idea has been expressed that gifts are a purely voluntary matter. The promoters of the drive will bring Stephen I. Miller, dean of the School of Business Administration here on that day to address the students for a short time at the assembly. Ralph Spearow is chairman of the committee.

Committees Announced

The personnel of three student committees for the year has been announced by John MacGregor, A. S. U. O. president as follows: Drive committee, Ralph Spearow, chairman, Lynden Myers, Lois Pixley, Margaret Beattie, Dorothy McKee, Randolph Kuhn, Aulis Anderson, Luella Hauser, Jim Baker, Bruce McConnell, and Glen Walkley. The student health committee will be composed of George Gochnour, Winifred Graham, and Edwin Kelley, and the vesper committee of Don Zimmerman, Marion Lawrence, and Fred Dunn.

In the discussion of Homecoming plans it was urged that students be reminded that alumni and visitors like to hear the "hello."

OREGON CLUB IS GROWING

Membership Larger Than Ever; Teams Well Up in Athletics

The Oregon club is larger and stronger this year than ever before. It is well represented in all activities, and plans for the year are progressing nicely. The club is an organization of non-fraternity men to get its members out for activities, help them get acquainted and to better the University generally.

The Oregon club basketball team leads in its division of the do-not basketball league and has four out of five men on the varsity cross-country team. In prior years the club has taken prominent part in other athletics.

The club collects small dues from its members and gives a dance each year to finance its activities, such as basketball, baseball and track. This year's officers are Glenn Walkley, president; Emil Ghio, vice-president, and John Homewood, secretary-treasurer.

DIRECTORY PLANNED

A plan to publish a student directory is on foot and action concerning its progress will be made known within the next week. There has been such a demand for a directory of this nature not only for the students but also for the business concerns of Eugene that it has been thought wise to refer the matter to the publications committee of the student body for consideration at an early date.

PYRE MATERIAL IGNITED DURING EARLY MORNING

Blaze Quickly Extinguished After Phi Delt's Call Out Fighters

GANGS FOR WORK NAMED

Guards Will Be on Skinner's to Prevent Further Painting of "O"

But for a timely alarm given by those living nearby, material which had been gathered by the frosh for the Homecoming bonfire would have been prematurely burned, at an early hour yesterday morning. The alarm, which was sounded at 3:20 a. m., quickly brought a number of freshmen from various living organizations to the scene who succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The Eugene fire department also made a run to the rubbish heap, but when they arrived the fire was already under control.

Kerosene had been used to start the fire, and as yet it is not known who the perpetrators of the act are.

Early the same morning, it was also discovered that the "O" atop of Skinner's butte had been treated to a coat of black paint; but it was not long before a party of freshmen restored the Oregon symbol to its natural color.

"O" Will Be Guarded

However, it is thought that the acts will not occur again, as from now on until after Homecoming both the bonfire and the "O" will be closely guarded by members of the class of '26, who will work in groups of six on four hour shifts. A four-foot circular saw will also be hung in the vicinity of the bonfire to be used as an alarm in the event of necessity.

Four trucks will be used to gather bonfire material this afternoon, when the actual work on the pyre will begin. Also, every freshman will be required to put in a certain number of hours of work.

For the benefit of the freshmen who do not already know under whom they are to work, the following lists of the committee-heads and their "gangs" are given. If your name does not appear, it is because your committee-head has not turned in his list.

SOUTH SEA QUEEN COMES INCOGNITO

IDENTITY TO BE KEPT SECRET UNTIL SATURDAY NIGHT

Visitor to Be at Homecoming Dance With Music, Maidens, Parrots and Punch from Tropics

Hokumillowapus is approaching Eugene! According to yesterday's Emerald, her Tahitian majesty has put foot on these United States after her far journey from sea-breezed, palm beached Tahiti, of the South Sea isles.

It is now expected that her dusky highness will take private residence in-cognito in this city. No one will meet appearance as the motif and feature her until the evening of her auspicious of the Homecoming dance next Saturday night in the Armory.

Hot nights in the South Sea isles! Tahitian frolics of dusky queens and jungle men! Flocks of brilliant, garrulous parrots of sheening plum! Nectarous, tangy, pineapple punch served by Ya-Ya girls! Rhythmic island music vended by Bob Stewart's Tahitian players from a palm grove, where the juicy coconuts fall and boom the big bass drum in time! All this will surround Hokumillowapus during her tropical sways next Saturday eve.

This bit of Tahitian royalty was procured especially for the Homecoming dance by Ed Bohlan, decorator and feature master, in order to introduce to Oregon the present fad of the far East—the South Sea island influence, Gilda Grey, of Broadway, is the chief exponent in the East of the unconventional Tahitian dances. However, Hokumillowapus is reputed to be no slouch.

DR. GREGORY'S NEW BOOK ON MEASUREMENTS OUT

Advanced Classes Furnish Experiments for Work

Dr. C. A. Gregory, of the school of education, has recently had a book published by D. Appleton and company, New York, entitled, "Fundamentals of Educational Measurements with the Elements of Statistical Method." Some of the studies reported in the book are experiments made by Dr. Gregory's advanced classes dealing with the measure of the materials of instruction are on studies made on the reading vocabulary of third grade children and on American histories used in the state of Oregon.

The book deals with the fundamental problems of school achievement, primarily, with the measurements of intelligence. The first of the book takes up reasons why measurements are necessary and is followed by a hundred pages on problems incident to measuring intelligence, the idea being to give a resume of the work that has been done in attempts at measuring intelligence. The problems that confronted Binet and others in attempting to measure intelligence are also discussed and their works listed.

The next three chapters deal with the measure of school achievement, taking up the fundamental problems of test making and pointing out their possibilities and limitations. One chapter is devoted to the measurements of educational processes and products in five fields of school work, namely: Measurement of materials of instruction; measurements of the physical growth of school children, measurements of money in the cost of education, measurements of school buildings, and measurement of retardation, acceleration and elimination. These five fields were briefly discussed in a chapter with the idea of showing that the entire field of quantitative studies in education might be in his way divided. The last of the book deals with statistical methods applied to education.

DR. LANDBURY TO SPEAK

Portland Symphony Orchestra Lectures to Be Given by Music Faculty

It is a custom of the Portland Symphony orchestra to precede their concerts by explanatory lectures of the program to be given, and this year these lectures will be given by members of the faculty of the school of music. The first lecture of this season is to be delivered Friday evening, November 10, in Sherman, Clay & Co. hall by Dr. John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, and will be a critical explanation of Dvorak's New World Symphony and the ballet music from Debussy's "Sylvia." The next two lectures will be given by Mrs. Anna Landsbury Beck and David Campbell.

The lectures are intended, primarily, to acquaint people with the structure of music, especially that given by the symphony orchestra in their programs, but other points of interest are covered as well.

VARSAITY IS READY FOR GRID BATTLE; PLAYERS IN SHAPE

CRITICAL TIME FOR SQUAD

Oregon Not Strong in Punting Department; Johnson Is on Sick List

The Washington State Cougars, who will arrive here tomorrow for their game with the Varsity, are in good condition despite the fact that they played at Berkeley last Saturday, and will come to Eugene with the object of beating the Lemon-Yellow in order to atone in part for the lacing they took from California.

The northern team is a great deal stronger than the score of their southern jaunt would indicate, says Coach Huntington, as their regular quarterback, Hickey, was knocked out in the first period of play, and the team fought through the remainder of the game with a second string quarter at the helm. This slowed up their attack a great deal, and with Hickey back in the lineup for the game here this week, they will be a great deal stronger on the offense than in the game at Berkeley.

Cougars Good Punters

A department in which W. S. C. will no doubt excel will be in punting, for with Latham unable to kick, Chappy is to handle the punting and although he averages well around 35 or 40 yards he is unable to get out the 50 yard spirals that Hunk regularly does.

The Varsity will have the advantage of having laid off last week for a rest, while the Cougars were on the hardest trip of their schedule, but this will not give Oregon as much as it seems, for the Washington State team got back to Pullman early this week, and have been putting in late hours of drill in special preparation for the Oregon contest.

This game is the critical one of the Varsity schedule, for if they can wallop W. S. C. they are still very much in the running for conference honors, while if W. S. C. wins, it will put Oregon definitely out of the running since the Cougars lost to the University of Washington in their annual set-to.

Team in Good Shape

The team took only a light workout last night and will do the same for the remaining practices, as they all are in good shape at present, and Coach Huntington is taking no risks of injuring any more of his mainstays by scrimmage work.

Ward Johnson, whose ankle was twisted in the Idaho game, is now the only man on the sick-list, as his ankle was sprained again in practice early this week, and apparently will not recover in time for him to get into the lineup against the Cougars.

The entire team is in the best of condition they have been in this season, and have been showing lots of pep and enthusiasm in their practices this week. It looks as if the game Saturday will end in an Oregon victory if we are to get our share of the wins this season.

STUDENT'S BROTHER DIES

Harold McConnell Learns Yesterday Relative is Killed in Accident

Harold McConnell, a senior majoring in the department of geology, yesterday afternoon received a telegram from his home in Torpedo, Pa., saying that his brother had been killed in an accident.

McConnell, along with Homer Wise, also a major in geology was scheduled to entertain the campus populace just before the assembly hour this morning with a public initiation stunt. The two men were to cook flapjacks over a camp fire on Kincaid field. This initiation has been indefinitely postponed.

It is not known whether or not McConnell will go East now. He has been in the West since being discharged from the service, having served as a first lieutenant in the 13th Division.

MEDICAL FACULTY COMING

Portland Professors and Wives Guests of Science Club Over Week-End

Members of the Portland School of Medicine faculty and their wives will be on the campus during Homecoming week-end as guests of the Science club. It is expected that there will be about twelve members of the faculty in the group.

An informal dinner has been planned for Friday night and an inspection of the campus after the game on Saturday.

Homecoming Issue of Lemmy Appears to Greet Old Grads

Today Lemmy is out in all his glory and Homecoming spirit! For weeks Doc Braddock and his corps of associates have spent their energies in the culmination of a 38 page issue that bids fair to excel all others that have gone before, in wit, originality, and art work.

The cover, by "Stu" Biles, who has recently been appointed art editor in place of Owen Callaway, is suggestive of the spirit of Homecoming, and done in attractive colors. Several new artists have been added to the art staff, and have contributed a number of art pieces to the Homecoming issue.

A full-page cartoon is contributed by Claude Snow, and another by "Stu" Biles. Paul Corey has several snappy cartoons. "Carmine" by Ted Osborn, is one of the brainiest and wittiest hits of the season. There are a larger number of jokes than ever, many of them contributed by Gus Evans.

Two solid pages of Lemmy's Homecoming issue are devoted to editorials, dealing with Homecoming and "cake-eaters," and featuring the Ten Million Dollar campaign.

Lemmy will be on sale at the Co-op until sold out. Copies will also be on sale at the game Saturday, and at stands about town. Individual copies will be delivered to the various houses of residence. If the old grads and guests are to be supplied, purchasers must speak early, as there is a limited supply, and Lemmy is much in demand for this is his only Homecoming issue of the year.
