The Tale of the Two Ambassadors

Richard Shore Smith, old Oregon graduate, is to be the University's ambassador to the University of Washington for their Homecoming this week-end, and King Dykeman, of Washington, will be the representative of the northern institution at our festivities. Before the student body at this morning's assembly the ambassador will receive his credentials from President P. L. Campbell and John MacGregor, president of the A. S. U. O., and will be sent on his way, accompanied by Robert Kuykendall, president of the Alumni association.

In Portland the two envoys will meet and formally exchange greetings at an alumni dinner. Then Ambassador Smith will take leave for Seattle and Ambassador Dykeman will be escorted to Eugene by Robert Kuykendall. Both men will have a prominent part in the Homecoming programs as representatives of the sister institution. The Washington ambassador will be one of the speakers at the rally Friday night around the bonfire. At the game he will be given a seat of honor with the president of the University.

The idea is new and original, and appeals to the imagination of the average student or alumnus. But, far more important, it is significant of the friendly relations between the universities of states so closely related. As Homecomings come and go and the idea started this year is continued, only the best of feeling and rivalry can result. It was a fortunate thought for the framers of the plan and it is to be hoped that it can be continued. We must show Ambassador Dykeman true Oregon hospitality and demonstrate the feeling of friendship which exists.

It is fortunate that "Dick" Smith could be secured to act as "The Ambassador from the University of Oregon." He was prominent on the campus in his undergraduate days and has manifested his continued interest in the institution by various activities since graduation. He will be the typical Oregon alumnus and will represent the University well at the Washington-California game and the Homecoming events. This is the first year. The plan will be successful. Let's make it an annual event.

Its Your University—too

The Campus luncheon committee reports that the fifty-cent tax, to defray expenses of the Campus Luncheon Saturday, has been paid by few of those living outside organizations. The task of collecting this money is too great to be accomplished by the officers of the men's and women's Oregon clubs, and the Luncheon committee. It is up to the individual to realize that this is his University, and his Homecoming, and his responsibility to the Old Grads; as much as it is the responsibility of those living in organized groups. The tax can be paid at the Hut, the Bungalow, and the Co-op. Get some Oregon Spirit—and come across.

Start in today to get things cleaned up for Homecoming. We want the campus and Eugene to look attractive for the returning alumni.

APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE

Don Zimmerman, Marion Lawrence, and Fred Dunn Represent Students

Don Zimmerman, Marion Lawrence and Fred Dunn have been appointed by John MacGregor, president of the A. S. U. O., as representing the students on the Vespers Service committee.

The membership also includes five from the faculty, being John Stark Evans, E. E. DeCun, Dorothy Collier, L. P. Putnam, and M. H. Douglass. University vesper services are planned and carried out by the committee.

FARNUM'S BIG PICTURE A HIT

During one of the scenes in "Moonshine Valley," the William Fox production, now showing at the Heilig theater, a fight takes place between William Farnum, the star, and Holmes Herbert, who appears as the villain. When the fight ends Herbert falls across a doll, laying on the floor.

The scene had been made once. An especially pretty doll had been smashed. Tears came to the eyes of little Dawn O'Day, who appears in the picture. Picking up a rag doll, she ran to Director Herbert Brenon and said: "Please, Mr. Brenon, can't they use this dolly; it breaks my heart to see the pretty dolly broken?"

COLLINS' DOG IN STORY

Charles Alexander's Article on Umpqua Appears in Colliers

Charles Alexander, editor of the Albany Democrat, and noted short story writer has a story published in the current number of Collier's Weekly, dealing with the doings of Umpqua, a dog, formerly owned by Professor Wilkie Nelson Collins of this campus. The dog is now dead. Professor Collins figures in the story, the inspiration for which was gained by Alexander while visiting at Newport this summer with Professor Collins. Alexander is a member of Sigma Upsilon, national writer's fraternity, and has had a number of stories published in the Blue Book magazine.

graduate women of Oregon. From Seattle Dykeman will proceed to Portland where he and Smith will meet in the Imperial hotel Thursday evening.

Smith Former Athlete

Dick Smith, Oregon's ambassador, is a member of the class of '01 and is also a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. During his stay at Oregon Smith played five years on the football team, the last two years of which he was captain. His remarkable ability as a backfield man won him great renown on the coast and later at Columbia University, New York, where he played for three years. In addition to his record as a gridiron star Smith took an active interest in track and set several records in the hammer throw, shot put and broad jump.
