WOMEN ACCEPT POINT SYSTEM FOR ATHLETICS

Sweater Awarded After 1000 Are Earned, Which Takes at Least Two Years

STUDENT COUNCIL TO ACT

Mass Meeting of Co-Eds Held to Consider Plan; Vote To Adopt It

The point system of awards presented at the mass meeting of the Woman's Athletic association yesterday afternoon, was unanimously adopted with reservations to be made. A committee, previously appointed to formulate the new system, will act in regard to making the desired adjustments.

According to the new plan, 1000 points must be made by a girl before she may receive a sweater. As it was estimated that two or three years participation in athletics would be necessary to earn these points, some question arose as to the possibility of girls, now in their junior and senior years, winning these awards. A motion was made and carried, that the committee which devised the system, investigate the possibility of crediting upperclass women with points for participation in athletics in previous years, if records are available, and, if this were found impossible, to lessen the required number of points for upperclass women.

As soon as the final detailed arrangements of this point system have been adopted by the Woman's Athletic association, the plan will be presented to the student council for its action which will definitely decide its adoption or rejection. The sentiment on the part of the men on the campus, seems unfavorable to the point system on the basis that sweaters have been and will be awarded without much participation in athletics.

No greater amount of sweaters will be awarded than in the past, said Florence Jaegger, president of the Woman's Athletic association, as the new plan tends to limit the possibility of a large number of girls winning awards, because of the required number of points.

Mildred Brown, chairman of the Woman's Athletic committee of the student body, read the plan of the new system and spoke of its use in nearly all colleges and universities in the United States. Miss Brown later said that unless the proposed system were adopted at the University of Oregon, the local organization of W. A. A. would ultimately be banished from membership in the national Woman's Athletic association, as the hundred point basis, upon which the proposed plan was formed, is the basis of the national organization. Miss Alden, head of the department of physical education, said that the point system reached the good all around athlete, who perhaps would not qualify for varsity, if that phase of women's athletics were permitted.

Letter awards for basketball, baseball, swimming, walking and other sports, previously given, will not be awarded in the future, because of the unanimous vote of the members at the meeting. As expressed by one member, these small letters meant very little to the winner, and were an additional expense to the local W. A. A. It was also voted that sports would not be divided into major and minor divisions, but that 25 additional points will be awarded to girls playing on intercollegiate class teams.

MANY STUDENTS WITH SAME NAME ON CAMPUS

Twenty-Four Johnsons Here; Smiths Number Nineteen

With a total registration of 2189 students, duplication in names is to be expected but, according to some members of the business staff, this year's list includes an unusual amount of similarity. The Smith "clan," of which nineteen are now registered in the University, must give first place, which they usually hold, to the 24 Johnsons.

The Jones and Brown "tribes" which are commonly supposed to exist in great numbers, have only eight and ten members respectively on this campus, while there are 12 Wilsons, 12 Andersons, 11 Rices, 10 Millers, 9 Taylors, 8 Lewises, and 8 Campbells. The Moore, Wood and Phillips families each have seven of their names on the list.

An exact duplication of names is not often found but there are at least seven examples of such a duplication among the students on the campus this year. Mary Lou Burton, a senior in the school of journalism, has a namesake in Mary Louise Burton who is a freshman in the school of music. Mable Lucile Johnson is a senior in the fine arts department while Mable Fern Johnson is registered in the school of music as a junior.

The Johnsons are often a source of error, for we have Minnie Charlotte Johnson, junior in the history department, and Minnie Martina Johnson, a senior majoring in English. Earl Milton Smith, a freshman in the school of business administration, is sometimes confused with Earl Wallace Smith, a sophomore in pre-engineering department. Helen E. Smith and Helen Louise Smith also have trouble in keeping their separate identities. Helen E. is a junior majoring in botany while Helen Louise is registered as a freshman in the school of business administration.

Further duplications include Charles Faulk Wilson, a special student taking work in the school of architecture, and Charles Kenneth Wilson, a freshman in the school of business administration. The freshman class list includes Edith Anna Pierce, physical education major, and Edith Sally Pierce, whose major is English.

EITHER OREGON OR WASHINGTON MAY PLAY PENN STATE

Team to Enter Intersectional Contest Must Be Chosen By Conference Vote

GAME IS NEW YEAR'S DAY

Demurring of California Is Cause of Much Comment; May Reconsider

The Oregon and University of Washington football teams now have a much better chance to play the New Years intersectional game at Pasadena than any of their Pacific Coast conference competitors, for the reason that they are the leading teams in the conference with the exception of California, and this team has decided not to play again this year.

This withdrawal by California has been much discussed of late, and as far as can be ascertained there is no reason why they should not think the matter over again if they were officially invited to play again, so the matter at present is quite badly balled up.

Conference Must Vote

Under the rules of the conference the team which plays in the intersectional game must be selected by a vote of the conference, and does not necessarily have to be the strongest one. California's decision has not been sent to the officials of the conference, according to President Dubach, and until an official notice is received from the southern school withdrawing their team from the intersectional game they must be considered in the running.

The game at Seattle will not necessarily decide which team will play at Pasadena, for if California reconsiders and offers to accept the proffer, it may become necessary to play a post season contest between California and the winner of the Oregon-University of Washington game.

Oregon Team Stronger

The Oregon team at present is a great deal stronger than at any other time during the year, is improving every day, and should be able to show a more varied offense and a stronger defense against Washington on Thanksgiving day than they have had to put out so far.

The real trouble with the varsity this season has been that they have had no real open field runners in the backfield that can break away for 30 and 40 yard gains, as Bill Steers used to do, and the California backs have been doing. The Oregon backs are all good men, but there are no stars on the squad who can twist and dodge tacklers consistently.

Line Redoubtable

The line is without a doubt as strong as any on the coast as they have outplayed and outcharged every forward defense which they met. The Washington State and Aggie games were the only contests in which Oregon had the full strength of her line in the game, and the scores of some of the early season clashes might have been much larger in favor of the varsity, but for the fact that several of the best linemen were out with injuries.

The University of Southern California is putting up a loud cry that she is entitled to represent the West as a result of holding California to a 12 to 0 game, but it seems they are a little hasty when they have Washington State yet to play, and the Cougars are getting stronger with every game. Southern California has not shown up very strong so far, and was only able to beat Stanford 6 to 0, and Stanford is one of the weak teams of the conference.

STUDENTS TEACH AT HIGH

School of Education Furnishes Six Art, Six Physical Instructors

More than one-fourth of the teaching in the University high is done by supervised teachers from the University School of Education. There are also supervised teachers practicing in Hendricks high school, in Springfield, and in the Eugene Bible University.

Of those teaching in the University Hi, six are art teachers working directly under Miss Helen Kuykendall, six are teachers of physical education, working directly under Miss Florence Alden, head of the department.

There are 24 teachers of regular subjects, of whom four are in English work, five in foreign languages, four in history, three in mathematics, two in typewriting, one in shorthand, two in science, and one as assistant librarian.

President of Oregon Associated Students Leaves to Attend Meeting at Berkeley

John MacGregor

Oregon's representatives to the dual conferences of student body presidents and editors of Pacific Coast Universities, left for Berkeley, California, last night where they will be the guests of the University of California during the remainder of this week. At the last minute yesterday, it was decided after a meeting of the finance committee of the executive council to send Vice-President Owen Calloway of the Associated Students as companion delegate of President John MacGregor to the conference.

Thus Oregon's three delegates to the two conferences will be MacGregor and Calloway, and Kenneth Youel, editor of The Emerald, who will attend the editorial conference as president of the intercollegiate press association. During Youel's absence, the Emerald will be under the direction of Ep Hoyt and Inez King, associate editors, and Phil Brogan, managing editor.

During their stay in Berkeley, the delegates will attend two meetings of the conferences daily, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, of Thursday and Friday. On Thursday evening, the president's conference will meet jointly with the editorial conference in a banquet gathering, and on Saturday morning, the last meeting of the two conferences will be held jointly. On Saturday afternoon the delegates will attend the Stanford-California football game, and will leave Saturday night for their respective destinations. MacGregor, Calloway and Youel are expected to return to Eugene either Sunday evening or Monday.

This is the fourth year of the organization of the Pacific Intercollegiate Association of Student Body Presidents, and the third year of the organization of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press Association. The former organization meets semi-annually, and the editorial association annually. The presidents met last spring in Corvallis, and last fall in Seattle at the U. of W. in conjunction with the editors.

Just before leaving last night, both of the presidential delegates expressed high hopes for the success of the conference, and Youel declared that from letters received he anticipated a lively discussion of matters pertaining to college news.

BEHAVIOR AT GAME COMMENDED BY DYMENT

Change of Attitude Toward Good Sportsmanship at Contests Felt by the Dean

"I think the Oregon faculty was very proud of the Oregon student body as well as the Oregon team last Saturday," replied Dean Dymont when questioned as to his feelings on the behavior of the Oregon students at Corvallis.

"The gradual change in the attitude of western students was visible in both rooters' sections. Knowing that rivalry was uncommonly high this year, and that there had been a number of inflaming incidents, both student bodies obviously had far more regard for the feelings of one another than would have been the case a few years ago," he continued. "This change is not the result of a loss of high spirit; rather it is a response to the countrywide demand that university students get on a higher plane of conduct and scholarship."

"One hopes that the 'incident' which for a moment this fall made the Oregon and O. A. C. students hostile toward one another will not soon recur," Dean Dymont said. "We of this university were by no means without blame; in fact, I think we cast the first stones. Therefore if our people are entitled to commendation for their poise and good sportsmanship in the O. A. C. stadium, the agricultural college is entitled to just as much," he finished.

EXTENSION HAS SHORT RESPITE

The students in the extension school in Portland are not nearly as fortunate as their class mates in Eugene, who have the entire week-end off. They have only Thanksgiving day itself in which to celebrate and recover from its gastronomical effects, and must attend their classes the following Friday and Saturday.

MR. AND MRS. IRVINE COMING

B. F. Irvine, of the Portland Journal, who will speak at assembly Thursday will be accompanied to Eugene by Mrs. Irvine. They will be registered at the Osburn hotel. Several functions for their entertainment have been planned by their many friends on the campus.

"SHINE 'EM UP" TO BE CRY OF JUNIOR MEN

Knights of the Brush and Rag to Seek Patronage from Campus Goers All Day Thursday

Freshman have a very special privilege coming to them Thursday. They can tell a junior man to shine their shoes—and he will do, if the frosh hands over a dime.

A dime for shoes, fifteen cents for boots, are the prices to be charged on the first Annual Junior Shine day, which will start tomorrow morning at eight o'clock and will last until ten at night.

Last night a meeting was held in Villard hall and Eddie Edlund, chairman of the stunt, outlined his plans and notified the various members of the class as to the part they would play in making the event a success.

Henrietta Lawrence, who has charge of the women's part of the work, reports that the girls are making their plans with considerable enthusiasm and that they will keep the men busy with prosperous customers.

Emerald May Go to the Dogs While Tyrant Youel Is Absent

The Tyrant is gone and while he is away the knaves will play. This all means that Ken Youel, head chief of the Emerald has hied himself to the sunny south to attend a convention at Berkeley, and while he is there the destiny of the Emerald will be in the hands of the staff, and dire things may result therefrom.

There is no telling what will happen when the unguided staff is left with the undertaking. The policy of the paper may be changed entirely. The order of the pages may be reversed. Lyle Janz and his gang may rush the composing room and see to it that the back page of the paper will appear under the banner.

Prists Will Rule

Whether the remainder of the editorial staff will be able to handle the fiendish pack of news hounds remains to be seen. Whether Phil Brogan and Inez King, high priests to Youel, will be able to keep the pack in leash is

WOMEN'S DEBATE DRAWS INTEREST OF MANY GROUPS

Susan Campbell Hall, Alpha Delta Pi Score High in First Contests

NINE TEAMS TAKE PART

Various Organizations Will Meet Again Tonight in Second Round

Interest in women's doughnut debate on the campus this year has proved to be keen so far and will reach the peak of interest during this week and the next, according to Edna Largent, president of Zeta Kappa Psi, women's national forensic fraternity.

"The capacity of Zeta Kappa Psi for stimulating interest in debate among the women of the University will be shown at the debate tonight," said Miss Largent. All debaters are asked to meet at last night, in room 105 of the School of Business Administration. Nine women's organizations took part in the debates last night.

Score last night was counted as one vote for each judge, making a total of three votes possible from judicial decisions, and to the score of each winning team was added one vote, called the "victory" vote.

Nine Teams Take Part

The following is a list of the teams contesting last night, with the scores made, and the points made by each organization. The point score is arrived at by adding the scores of the affirmative and negative teams of each house.

Teams competing and scores made are: Gamma Phi Beta, 0; Susan Campbell, 3. Pi Beta Phi, 0; Kappa Kappa Gamma, 3. Kappa Kappa Gamma, 1; Chi Omega, 2. Oregon Club, 1; Alpha Xi Delta, 2. Susan Campbell, 3; Pi Beta Phi, 0. Alpha Delta Pi, 2; Gamma Phi Beta, 1. Hendricks Hall, 1; Oregon Club, 2. Chi Omega, 1; Hendricks Hall, 2. Alpha Xi Delta, 0; Alpha Delta Pi, 3.

Points made by competing teams: Susan Campbell, 8. Pi Beta Phi, 0. Kappa Kappa Gamma, 5. Oregon Club, 4. Alpha Delta Pi, 7. Chi Omega, 4. Alpha Xi Delta, 3. Hendricks Hall, 4. Gamma Phi Beta, 1.

Judges Are Named

Judges of last night's debates were Professor F. L. Stetson, Miss Ethel Sanborn, Mrs. McClain, Professor George Turnbull, Miss Mattie Pattison, Miss Mildred Hawes, Professor Cameron, F. G. Young, Miss Mary Humphrey, Miss Mary Kent, Mrs. Bruce Giffen, M. H. Douglas, Miss Henrietta Gouy, Miss Mary Perkins, George Adler, Professor Gregory, Miss Julia Burgess, Boyd Iseninger, Miss Dorothy Collier, Professor Thorpe, and Claude Robinson.

DIRECTORY NUMBERS CORRECT

The graduate manager, the alumni secretary, Dean Straub and Dean Dymont may now be reached by the telephone numbers printed on the faculty list. Most of the campus telephones have now been installed under their proper numbers, though a few of them are still waiting for the new cable to be strung.

Vachel Lindsay, Roaming Bard, Coming Here November 28, Sure

A little man is coming to the Oregon campus. A little man that booms about lions, and darkies—boom-lah-boom-lah-boom-lah-boom, the ghosts are coming soon, and so, on, ad infinitum.

Strange, too, he is a popular little man, and he has been the subject of more lion hunts in England and America, than any other American poet. He has been the honor guest at pink teas, and men's smokers, and he still remains unspoiled. Vachel Lindsay is Vachel Lindsay, and everyone loves him. Probably, too, its the "him" in his poetry that they love.

Vachel Lindsay has been coming to the University before. Twice now, has the campus wrought itself up to a pitch of excitement, boom-lah-boom-lah-boom-lah-boom, chasing lions through the jungle till the next day noon. And after it all, Lindsay did not come.

November 28 is the red letter day on the Oregon calendar. Last year saw Alfred Zimmern, famous scholar, but withal and above all, an interesting man in our midst. This school term will see Vachel Lindsay, "America's tramp poet" with us. Old Villard will probably be the place, but the details of the place of meeting and of the ticket sale will be announced later.

But remember that Lindsay is human; he is no wild-eyed, uninteresting poet. He is a man that everyone will "fall for." For lovers and lovers-to-be of Lindsay, The Bookman, a current magazine, puts forth the following delightful morsel:

"Vachel is ruddy, sandy-haired, middle-sized, with eyes the color of a green twilight, and pale eyebrows... First he bows very low, with excessive politeness; then he throws his head back, somewhat doubtful. Possibly the news chasers, still rankling under the ordeal of tips, will swarm upon the Shack in a body, kidnap the powers that be, and then edit the sheet in ghoulish glee.

What the paper would look like is hard to predict, for when that clan of typewriter hammerers goes on a rampage, the sky is the limit. Without doubt the pages will be filled with scare heads, mixed type, and other wild signs of the printing trade.

Scandal Will Appear

The Emerald will, no doubt, reek with scandal—scandal that will put the campus agog with wonder and dismay. What some people didn't know about themselves will be put before them in the columns of the publication while the Sheik of the sheet carries in the Berkeley Oasis.

As the Tyrant dines with the powers down south, a telegram may be rushed
