

OLD STUDENTS VISIT CAMPUS ON WAY EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pryor to Take Up Work in China

Mrs. Roy Pryor (Helen Brenton, '19), with her husband, to whom she was married in Kansas City, December 1, reached Eugene yesterday on their way to Peking, China, where they will engage in college and hospital work. Mrs. Pryor, who was the editor of the Emerald in 1918 and editor of the Emerald in the spring of 1919, visited the University and dropped in at her old haunts around the copy desk.

At the wedding the bridesmaid was Dorothy Wilkinson, a former student at the University of Oregon, who made the trip from Omaha for the ceremony. Mrs. W. H. Brenton and Helen's twin brother came from New York; the bridegroom made the trip for California, and Mrs. Brenton jaunted down from Minneapolis, where she had received the degree of doctor of medicine from the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Pryor specialized in pediatrics at the Minnesota medical school, and she expects to treat women and children at the Peking Medical institution, operated there by the Rockefeller Foundation, with which she is now associated. Her husband will be a member of the faculty of the Yale university unit in Peking. She is anticipating with more or less dread, she says, her encounter with the intended dialect of northern China, in which she will ultimately communicate with her patients.

The career is one of which Helen Brenton had a vision even before her graduation from the University of Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Pryor left last night for San Francisco, from where they will sail for the Orient.

RESTRICTIVE EXERCISE MEN TAKE UP SPORTS

Policy of Physical Education Department to Teach Games Rather Than Correct Defects

The policy of the department of physical education for men regarding the 105 men assigned to restrictive exercises because of some minor physical defect is to perfect them in some sport rather than spend a great amount of time in an effort to cure the defect, according to H. A. Scott, head of the department. A great many of the defects for which men were assigned to restrictive exercises could be cured by long and tedious effort, he says, but in many cases it would scarcely be worth while.

Indoor baseball, swimming, and golf are among the sports which are given to the restricted exercises classes at the present time. These sports can be taken up by a large number of the men without injuring them in any way and by learning them games in college they may acquire an athletic interest and ability which will be useful to them throughout life.

There are more men assigned to restricted exercises this year than last but Mr. Scott attributes the increase to more efficient methods used in giving physical examinations. Men who were thought to have some infirmity were given a number of examinations until the exact nature of their trouble was determined.

SHACK NOW 'QUARTZ HALL'

Condon Club Decides 'Rock Hall' Lacks Sufficient Dignity

After much strife and warfare, and attempted ballot-stuffing on the part of members of Condon club, the shack in back of the Ad building has at last been awarded its title. "Quartz hall" was found to be by far the most effective and appropriate title, and much more dignified than "Rock hall," which vied for honors in the balloting.

Voting from the floor seemed unsuccessful at the last meeting of the Condon club, when the name was voted upon, due to unusually lusty voices on the opposing side, so no decision was made. Later at a meeting of the seminar students, superior minds decided that the "ayes" had it.

So now the shack will no longer be without a name, and intentions of raising an imposing sign bearing the words

"Quartz Hall," have been declared. Some weary and unfortunate students, however, threaten to ignore the sign and dub the structure "the rock-crusher" or "the smelter."

However, in the University directory and in the minds of the upholders of the nomenclature "Quartz hall" remains, and will house the geology students and be the scene of many future meetings of the Condon club.

PENTATHLON HELD FRIDAY

The do-nut physical ability pentathlon which will be held Friday night in the men's gymnasium should appeal to all students on the campus, both men and women who are interested in athletics, says Gerald Barnes of the physical education department. Spectators are invited. There will be no admission charged. The events will be called at 8 o'clock, but the entrants are asked to report on the indoor golf course at 7:45 so that they may be checked up with the score-keeper.

SHELL COLLECTION GIVEN TO UNIVERSITY

Many Varied Specimens Gathered by Mrs. Martha Chambers to Be Used in Geology Department

An interesting set of shells, corals, fossils and mineral materials, has recently been donated to the University by Mrs. Martha Chambers of Eugene and will be added to the collections in the geology department. There are several hundred shell specimens of every shape and size in the collections, several pieces of coral, and some pieces of the more commonly seen copper ore and lead.

Shimmering abalone, slim spirals of white fusus shells, shining henna-toned "helmet" shells, brittle coral, the pink Spondy us and glistening pearl oysters are in the varied and beautiful collection. There are also specimens of petrified wood, sponge corals, dried seaweed, sea urchins and star fish. One of the interesting specimens is a curiously formed Byzoan, a primitive minute organism, which looks like a miniature porcupine with bristling points on its shining surface.

The shells were collected over a period of many years from many corners of the South Sea islands and the Philippines. Mrs. Chambers did not collect all of them personally, but secured a great majority of them from curio dealers and from sailors coming into the coast ports from the Orient. She found some of the shells along the California coast during her travels there.

The shells will be used to prepare class study sets in conchology, the study of shells, as well as the basis for investigative work in the department.

LUNCH CLUB AT Y. M.

Girls Who Live Far From Campus to Take Noon Meal at Bungalow

Every noon between twelve and one, the bungalow is the scene of a jolly party around the fire-place. This is the daily meeting of the "Lunch club." The club consists of girls who live too far from the campus and who prefer to eat their lunches nearby. There are twenty charter members of this club. A few others have recently been voted in.

The girls have arranged among themselves concerning the preparations for the lunch. Every day two members prepare some hot dish or chocolate. The girls supply the rest of their luncheon. The scarcity of kitchen utensils at the bungalow hinders more preparations.

Each deposits a small sum of money and then check off the amount which they ate during the meal. They also agreed to wash their own dishes.

The officers of the Lunch club are: Bertha Atkinson, president; Verneta Morrison, vice-president; and Josephine Goetshell, secretary-treasurer.

REDDIE IS RESTING

Fergus Reddie, head of the department of drama and the speech arts, has gone to his ranch near Gold Hill, Oreg., to rest. Professor Reddie has been overworked in his department this fall because of the numerous plays and heavy class enrollment. A breakdown seemed imminent so he is for the present resting. He may spend Christmas in California, but plans to return for the winter semester.

SCHENCK COMPLETING GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Eugene Quadrangle Is Subject of Long Controversy

A geological survey of the Eugene quadrangle, an area of about 200 square miles, is being completed by Hubert G. Schenck, graduate assistant in the department of geology, in connection with his work toward a master's degree.

Mr. Schenck has been working on this project for the past seven years and has been doing particularly extensive work during the last two years, in which he has been assisted by Paul Cook, a senior student in the geology department.

The territory under survey includes all the land from a point two miles north of Junction City, three miles south of Eugene, one mile east of Springfield and to within a half mile of Goshen. It reaches to the edge of the Coburg hills on the east and does not quite touch the Coyote Creek on the west.

The principal problem which is being worked out is the determining of the age of the sandstone beds found in the quadrangle. This "Miocene-Oligocene controversy of Oregon," as the problem is called, has been under consideration among geologists since the early part of the last century when James D. Dana, geologist of the United States exploring expedition under Charles Wilkes, in 1849, stated that he had found Tertiary formations in the valleys of the Willamette and Columbia rivers.

The survey includes a study of the economic value of the soil, its culture, vegetation and general features, as well as an intensive report on the geological materials found in the territory for the various ages of geological formation.

Mr. Schenck entered the University in 1916. He spent some time in the Philippines with Dr. Warren D. Smith, doing work for the United States Bureau of Mines. He was graduated with the class of 1922 and is at present working for his master's degree.

COLLEGE COMIC ADMITTED

Hammer and Coffin Grants Chapter to University of Chicago

The "Phoenix," humorous publication of the University of Chicago, has been granted a chapter in Hammer and Coffin, national organization of college comic magazine writers. Word to this effect has just been received by "Doc" Braddock, editor of the Lemon Punch, from the national president of the organization. According to Braddock the Phoenix ranks very high among the college humorous magazines of the country.

The Lemon Punch comic was admitted to national membership in May, 1921. The O. A. C. Orange Owl secured its chapter last March.
