With football in the discard, Oregon athletes are devoting attention to varsity basketball practice, which starts this week.

George Bohler, now starting his third year as basketball coach, has seven lettermen in his big squad of varsity candidates. While he is not promising a championship five, he declares the Oregon team this season will be much stronger than last year.

Lettermen back this season are Latham, Altstock, Edlunds, Goar, Burnett, Couch and Zimmerman and Had-don Rockey, another letterman, will join the squad with the opening of the winter term. Bill Spear, giant end of the varsity football team, and Hal Chapman, quarterback, are among the likely aspirants for the five. Only three men, Mare Latham, Beller and Andre of last year's varsity squad, are missing.

Bohler has arranged a barnstorming trip for the Christmas holidays, at which time he will take a tentative varsity squad on a tour of the Willamette valley and northwestern and north-eastern parts of the state.

GRID FIELD HAS "CROWS NEST" Rutgers, Dec. 15.—The football coach of Rutgers has invented a "crows nest," from which all points of the gridiron are visible.

PORTLAND SPORT WRITER LAUDS SHY HUNTINGTON

Oregon Football Mentor is Given all Credit for Success of This Year's Grid Team

"When Huntington succeeded the great Hugo Bezdek in the war year, 1918, and had a corking team in 1919—so good as to hold Harvard to a 7 to 6 score at Pasadena—he didn't get much credit for it," says Lair Gregory of the Portland Oregonian. "He inherited his men from Bezdek," was the cry. This last season Huntington won three conference games and tied another, 3 to 6, thereby finishing with a percentage of 1000 in the coast conference and tying Washington for the northwest conference championship. And there wasn't a Bezdek-coached man on the ground. The football players give Huntington all the credit for this year's showing.

Aggie Outlook Given
"The Aggies got away to a poor start and lost their first three conference games, under Dick Rutherford, but finished strong in their final one against Washington State, which they won by a big score. That, and the remarkable Oregon Aggie line, one of the strongest in the conference, just about assures Rutherford of another season, perhaps an extension of his contract. If he can keep most of the boys of this year's big eleven together, it ought, on dope, to be a whale of an eleven next season—providing he can dig up a good quarterback. For some reason the Aggies are unfortunate in their quarterbacks. They have had some fine mechanical players in that position, but field generals have been scarce. Give the Aggies a field general and watch them travel."

MENTOR CHANGES NOTED

Glenn Warner Leaves Pittsburg for Leland Stanford University

Ohio State, Dec. 12.—By the time the curtain rises on the football season of 1923, some new faces will probably be seen in the east of football coaches at major institutions around the country. Pittsburg has to find a new gridiron mentor to replace Glenn Warner; who goes to Leland Stanford next fall. Warner acted as advisory coach to the California eleven this year. In addition, a successor may be named for Tad Jones at Yale. Powerful alumni bodies are said to be pressing for the release of the old Yale player, following failure of the Blue to show to advantage again this season.

12 MINUTES ACTUAL TIME PLAYED IN FOOTBALL GAME

Harvard, Dec. 15.—A typical football game takes up about 12 minutes of actual playing time, according to statistics gathered by officials in an Eastern game last Saturday. The rest of the 60 minutes are used in calling signals. These figures were gathered by using a stop-watch on each of the 132 plays used in this particular game. Actual running of the plays took up 11 minutes and 23 seconds of time.

MULLER, U. OF C., PICKED ON ALL-AMERICAN SQUAD

214 Coaches Who Pick Mythical Eleven Find Great Wealth of Backs But Only Few Tackles

Columbus, Dec. 14.—The 214 coaches who picked the 1922 All-American football team to appear in the December 15 issue of the Athletic World, found a dearth of tackles and a wealth of backfield material, the magazine states. The coaches picked the following team:

- End—Muller, California.
- Tackle—Roberts, Centre.
- Guard—Braidster, Army.
- Center—DeGroot, Stanford.
- Guard—Schwab, Lafayette.
- Tackle—Gulian, Brown.
- End—Goebel, Michigan.
- Quarterback—Buell, Harvard.
- Half—Kaw, Cornell.
- Half—Kipke, Michigan.
- Fullback, Locke, Iowa.

YALE RECEIPTS $500,000

Bowl, With Seating Capacity of 77,000 is Filled Twice

Although the Yale football receipts have yet to be totaled exactly, present indications are that the final amount of cash taken in at the gate will be nearly half a million. The Yale Bowl, with a seating capacity of 77,000, was filled twice, at the Army and Harvard games, while the early season conflict with Iowa drew 55,000. The other games on the schedule averaged between 10,000 and 25,000 spectators each. About 50 per cent of this revenue will go to offset the expenses of the team, leaving the rest to be devoted to the equipment of the other teams, which do not have as good financial returns. Yale football is distinctly a paying proposition.
