

FROSH HOOP SQUAD HAS TWO BATTLES

Chemawa and Mt. Angel Will Be Opponents for Babes in Preliminaries

Oregon's freshmen hoopers, hitherto undefeated, are preparing for some stiff competition this week-end. Friday evening the Chemawa Indian quintet will form the opposition for the babes and Saturday night Mt. Angel college is scheduled to battle the first year men. Both of these games are preliminaries to the varsity games and will start promptly at 7 o'clock or perhaps before, in order to get the big games off on time.

In the three contests already played the frosh have had little difficulty in turning in victories by decisive scores. Franklin high school was the only team which gave them a close run and in this tilt the frosh were not up to form. But both the Indians and Mt. Angel are said to have teams above high school calibre and it is likely that the babes will have to extend themselves to chalk up wins against them.

Squad Is Reduced

The frosh squad, which has been reduced to 10 men, has been working out every day with the varsity squad. During the season the yearlings will be handled more or less by Shy Huntington, as Coach Bohler will be too occupied with the varsity men to devote much attention to them. Until a short time before the annual game with the Aggie rooks the present squad will be retained but then it is planned to make another reduction, leaving six or seven men who will be retained for the rest of the season. Just who will compose this squad depends upon the work of the men during the coming games.

Coach Bohler expressed himself as fairly well pleased with the work of the guardsmen Monday night. The team showed a tendency to be erratic at times and its playing was rather listless in the second half but these faults will no doubt disappear with further practice and experience.

SUMMER PLANS FORMULATING

Plans for the 1923 summer session of the University are already under way and word has been received that Dr. Charles H. Whitman, head of the English department at Rutgers college, will be here to give a number of courses in advanced writing and short story writing. Dr. Whitman has also been head of the English department in the New Jersey College for Women since it was founded four years ago and has had experience in lecturing to women as well as men. He received his doctor's degree of philosophy from Yale University and has traveled abroad extensively since that time.

OPERA COMPANY TO APPEAR

The American Light Opera company will appear at the Heilig on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 18, 19 and 20. Rex Reynolds, owner of the company is offering the following program: Bohemian Girl.....Thursday evening MikadoFriday evening PinaforeSaturday matinee Chimes of Normandy.....Saturday evening This company comes direct from a record engagement in Portland. Mr. Reynolds has a great ambition to build up on the coast such a perfect opera company that the music loving people of the Pacific states will demand by their liberal patronage, its entire time indefinitely. He is unsparing of money, experience and genius to put such an organization before the public.

MEIGHAN IN STRONG ROLE

From wealth and high social station to poverty and ridicule, is only one of the many humiliating situations for Thomas Meighan in "Back Home and Broke," which will be the main attraction at the Rex theater this week-end. Finding only liabilities when he expected to get a fortune, he drops in popular estimation with a sickening crash. He goes away to make good and when he returns very inauspiciously, he is the subject of more ridicule than ever. It is well worth while to see how he extricates himself from the disagreeable situation. Alfred Green directed and Lila Lee is the leading woman.

HENDRICKS HALL WINS FROM TRI DELTS 30-6

Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Gamma Lose in Tuesday Games; Hendricks and Susan Play Today

Hendricks hall was again victorious last night when she humbled the Tri Delt team by the score of 30 to 6. In spite of the fact that the score was lopsided, the game was fast and hard fought, the losing players putting up a strong defense against their opponents. The Hendricks team is one of the strongest in the do-not league and proved too fast for the Tri Delt team, which has been greatly weakened by the loss of two of its first team players.

Hendricks hall and the Thetas were winners in Tuesday's games, the former swamping the Delta Gamma hoopers by a score of 57 to 2, while the Alpha Chi Omegas lost to the Theta team in a close tilt, resulting in a 15 to 14 score. Grace Sullivan, forward for Susan Campbell did the best work she has done this season, annexing 42 points to the score by her 21 baskets.

Today at 5 o'clock Hendricks hall and Susan Campbell are scheduled to play. This game promises to be one of the best and most exciting of the year, as neither team has been defeated this year. Six games yet remain to be played in the series and according to Grace Sullivan, head of basketball all games must be over by the end of this week.

The lineup for yesterday's game was as follows:
Hendricks
M. Crain C. F. Karshner
W. Chattin SC J. Ulrich
M. Onslow G A. McMonies
P. Lewis G M. Goodin
G. Sullivan F E. Robson
B. Alexander F A. Langmarc

WIRING HELD CHIEF LIBRARY FIRE DANGER

M. H. Douglass Says Hazard Caused by Electricity; H. M. Fisher Contends No Need for Present Alarm

The only danger to the library from fire, according to M. H. Douglass, librarian, is through overloaded electric wires. If too many lights are going in the building for the weight of the wires, they will become hot. When this happens the fuses blow out and that ends the danger. But if the wires, through some unforeseen neglect are not properly insulated they set fire to woodwork and should such be the case had a fire gets started in the main part of the library, it would go so rapidly that few, if any, of the books could be saved.

The old main part of the building is of cheap construction and even the supporting pillars are all of wood. A fire would create such a heat that it would dangerously risk the chance of saving the stacks which are of good fire proof construction.

The library is not insured, as the state does not insure its buildings. Some of the books are insured, but no insurance could replace a collection that has taken years to build up. According to L. H. Johnson, comptroller of the University, the books of the business office show a total of $25,000 in insurance covering the books in the library. Mr. H. M. Fisher says the wires at the library are soon to be replaced and as there are no actual fires in the building there is no very present danger.

INDIAN STUDENT HURT

Frank Johnson, junior in pre-medicine, sustained a broken collarbone Tuesday afternoon while wrestling in the gymnasium, and is now in the University infirmary. The nature of injury is not very serious, according to the attending physician, although the accident is painful to the patient. He will be able to resume his studies within a few days. Johnson is an Alaskan Indian and is a member of the Cosmopolitan club.

Students Must Have Tickets
Students have been admitted to the games played so far this season without their student body tickets, but according to Graduate Manager Jack Benefiel none will be admitted from now on unless they have their signed tickets with them.

The frosh team meets Chemawa in a preliminary to the Friday game, and Mt. Angel College preceding the Idaho mix on Saturday.

TERM PLAN VOTE SHOWS SENTIMENT

them and convince others to their way of thinking.

This depth of conviction was evidenced in some of the ballots cast, so say the counting committee. One zealous upholder of the term plan wrote on the back of his ballot the following: "Semester plan will work serious hardships on self-supporting student, and would undo the work of dovetailing the courses of study, which are working so well at present, and which have been completed at a great cost of labor and time." Another who voted for the semester plan also offered this opinion, evidently not entirely satisfied with either plan: "Six days a week, six weeks longer in summer."

Little Group Voting

Other interesting facts caught by the counting committee indicated how strongly some favored the plan of their choice. One co-ed very distinctly made four neat X's in the square opposite the term plan. Quite a number wrote the figure "3" alongside the X, to make doubly certain, no doubt, that their choice would not be mistaken. Occasional votes noticed by the committee indicated, likewise, that there was very little "group" voting. Those departments standing out most strongly against the proposed change had their few who favored the semester plan. In one instance it was noticed brother voted against brother.

Due to the temporary illness of Phil Brogan, managing editor of the Emerald, the election board and counting committee were under the supervision of Art Rudd, associate managing editor. All members of the election board were members of the Emerald staff, since the campus daily sponsored the straw vote. The counting committee, however, was composed of students of several departments.

Box Is Watched

"The ballot box was carefully watched all day," declared Rudd, "and the election as a whole conducted in as fair a manner as possible." Those in charge of the box during the day were Inez King, George Stewart, Kenneth Cooper, Anna Jerzyk, and Genevieve Jewell.

The counting committee was composed of the following members: Ellen McVeigh, senior, English literature; Leonard Lerwill, junior, journalism; Margaret Beatty, senior, business administration; and Lester Turnbaugh, junior, journalism. A statement to the effect that the result of the count was correct to the best of the ability of its members was signed by the committee and turned over to the Emerald editor.

"The New Architecture"

A DISTINCTLY new tendency is apparent in architectural thought and design today. Architects are designing in masses—the great silhouette, the profile of the building has become of far greater importance than its detail.

There is a new vigor and ruggedness even in buildings which are conventionally classic in their detail. Masses mount upward, supporting the tower, accentuating its height. The new architecture is tending toward great structures rather than multiplicity of detail.

Certainly modern invention—modern engineering skill and organization, will prove more than equal to the demands of the architecture of the future.

Sidelights on Meeting of CO-OP Members

At the annual CO-OP meeting Tuesday night, the following board of directors was elected:

Dean J. F. Bovard, Dr. J. H. Gilbert, Ben Maxwell, Hal Sayre, Orlando Hollis, Jack Myers, Paul Staley.

The Co-op store is proving itself to be of student benefit in more ways than one. Ordinarily imagines, for example, $1,620 was paid to student assistants during the past year.

Many Co-op members were made happy last spring when dividends were paid. A total of $1500 was distributed among the student members. Students used their dividends in various ways, some in trade, others in cash.

Last years textbook business, as estimated at the meeting, amounted to a total of $28,000; this was an increase over the business of the previous year. Distributing textbooks of this amount is no small task.

The manager reported a very successful year, with prospects of paying dividends at the close of the school year in June. Bright prospects for those who wisely invested a dollar last fall!
