

COMMITTEE ASKS FACULTY TO MEET

Special Session Is Urged to Decide Date for Return to Semester System

Recommendation that a special faculty meeting be called to consider the most feasible time for changing the present term system back to the old semester plan is incorporated in the report which will be submitted by the special committee recently appointed by President Campbell to consider action on the change as voted. The committee, according to Dean W. G. Hale, chairman, made no definite report on the time or method of change, but may have a few suggestions to offer at the faculty meeting. Other committee members are Dean J. F. Bovard and Professors Conklin, Howe, and Gilbert.

The report will be submitted to President Campbell at once, and it is expected that a meeting of all those entitled to give the matter consideration will be called sometime this week.

The action of the meeting is not expected to be final, states Dean Hale, but it is hoped that the matter can be cleared up enough so that the arrangement of details of the change can be cleared up at the regular meeting in February.

It was also admitted that the issue is by no means settled, since the time of the change was left open. This leaves two avenues open: those opposed may succeed in having the change indefinitely postponed, or if any faculty members now supporting the semester plan, change their views the matter can again be brought up for further action.

Supporters of both the term and semester plans have been more or less concerned over the attitude of the medical school, and the possible effect it will have on its operation. Although it is known that the faculty members in Portland are taking a great deal of interest in the proposed move, it is the opinion there that since the operation of the medical school does not depend on the University in any way, it matters little whether the term or semester plan is definitely adopted. Faculty members and others here have expressed the belief that the medical school faculty should be represented in the final voting on the issue, but it does not appear probable that the medical men will insist on a vote.

Briefly, the matter can be summed up thus:

The faculty has adopted the old semester plan, and discarded the present method. The time for the change has not been set. The time of change, or any reconsidering of the action, will be discussed at a special faculty meeting to be held this week. Final action on the whole matter will come up at the next regular faculty meeting, which will be held in February.

RURAL SURVEY GIVEN IN COMMONWEALTH REVIEW

Faculty and Students Make Extensive Studies of Country Communities for January Publication

A general survey of life in the rural communities is given in the January issue of "The Commonwealth Review," which has just been placed on the library shelves. This is one of a series of subjects which have been treated in the publication, of which Dr. F. G. Young of the sociology department is managing editor, by the faculty and students of the social science courses.

The last few editions have treated the subjects of "Taxation," "Unemployment," and "Consolidation of Schools." Among authorities who have appeared in recent numbers are F. G. Young, Azile Howard, Charles J. Bullock, Earl Kilpatrick, and Charles Glen Smith.

Dr. Young writes on the question of "Realization of Cooperation, Fellowship, and Life Enrichment in the Oregon Rural Community." The theme of this paper is that the farmer should have as much leisure and as many means of getting together as the people in the city without some of the counter attractions of their city friends.

The "Commonwealth Review" originated from a series of commercial conferences, ten or twelve in all, legislative in nature, at which leading authorities provided discussions and papers on public questions. These papers needed a wider distribution, so the Review was started to give publicity to the proceedings of the commercial conferences. During war times everyone was so engrossed in national questions that the conferences were discontinued. Later the organization of state commerce naturally assumed the sphere of these conferences, but the Review continues to discuss topics of broad interest.

FOREIGNERS TO HAVE PARTY

The Eugene chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution have planned to give a party for the foreign students of the University in the Woman's building on February 9 at 3:30 in the afternoon. The students will furnish the program with speakers and music as the main attractions. At the party last year given for the foreign students, about 25 people attended and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

THREE TEAMS TIED IN LEAGUE 2 COMPETITION

Extra Game Necessary to Decide Who Will Play Hendricks Hall for Do-Nut Championship

Oregon club added greater complications to the semi-finals of league two by making a 17 to 14 score against the Kappa hoopers in last night's game. Monday, the Theta team won from the Kappas in a slow but steady and hard fought contest which resulted in a score of 17 to 3. Three teams, the Alpha Phis, Thetas, and Oregon club, still remain in the league with but one defeat against them. To determine the champions of this league two games must be played, the Theta tossers being scheduled to re-play Oregon club today. The winners of this game will then play the Alpha Phis, the victorious team becoming the champions. A game with Hendricks hall, the winners in league one, will then be arranged with the prospective victors of the second league to decide the campus championship in do-nut basketball.

The turn-out for class practice yesterday was comparatively small, due to the fact that few players knew of the recent schedule. All girls interested in making a class team are urged to come out for practice at 5 o'clock. Class games with O. A. C. have been shoved a week ahead and will be played February 24.

The lineup for yesterday's game was as follows:

Oregon Club	Kappa
R. MacGregor	C. M. Flegel
C. Howells	SC. M. Buren
K. Sartain	G. M. Nicolai
C. Cheadle	F. D. McKee
L. Quinlan	G. N. Service
V. Quinlan	F. G. Clemens

MANY CREDITS EARNED IN EXTENSION DIVISION

Zoe Marie Hager and Charles F. Stein, Teaching in Outside Schools, Earn Hours to Graduate

Two students of the extension division have virtually finished their work for degrees from the University. Miss Zoe Marie Hager, sister of Miss Celia V. Hager, M.A., instructor of psychology here, has finished her work and is a post-graduate student in sociology at the Portland center. Charles F. Stein, principal of schools at Brogan, Oregon, has carried fifty-six hours through the extension division in addition to 102 hours in the University.

Miss Hager, in a letter to Dan E. Clark of the extension division, states that all her hours, with the exception of 42 from the University of South Dakota and the University of Chicago, have been made through the correspondence division, Portland center, and summer sessions. All her grades are I's and II's except eight hours of III's. She has been successfully teaching in Milwaukee high school near Portland, where she is head of the commercial and Spanish departments.

Three more hours for Mr. Stein will complete for him the maximum number of hours allowed in the extension division toward a degree. He has written several times about another course, but as yet, has been unable to find a three hour course that he wants. Before he went to Brogan to teach Mr. Stein's home was in Eugene, where he still spends his summers.

RAGGEDY MAN AT GUILD

their lives. So starts the play in which one laugh follows quickly after another through three delightful acts.

As an additional attraction Mr. Reddie will read Riley rhymes between the acts on all three nights. He has spent a number of years in the southern part of Indiana and is well acquainted with the Hoosier dialect and manners.

Candy will be sold during the intermissions by the Y. W. C. A. for the benefit of the association in Astoria which suffered greatly in the recent fire in that city.

The play with a cast of about 35 persons, including four children, Bobby Allen, Janet Thacher, Rosalind Gray, and Bobby Seay, is a large undertaking but the Company is proving its ability to handle it with credit. Many Guild hall stars are cast in character parts, who have heretofore played straight parts only, and those whose comedy roles have moved Guild hall audiences to mirth before will play strong comedy leads. Katherine Pinneo does some splendid acting in the role of Addelny Bowersox. Claire Keeney and Vern Fudge in the roles of old men are both unusually good.

PORTLAND CLASSES CONDUCTED

Phil W. Janney and F. E. Folts of the school of business administration are among those who go to Portland to conduct classes in the extension division school there. Mr. Janney conducts classes in American Institute Banking Accounting and Income Tax Procedure, while Mr. Folts teaches Finance.

HUNTINGTON WILL ANSWER TONIGHT

Executive Council Will Hear Decision of Coach at Special Meeting

Charles "Shy" Huntington, for five years coach of Oregon football, will face a special meeting of the executive council tonight, with either a definite acceptance or a definite rejection of the one-year coaching contract offered him by that body almost a month ago. Although the matter has been kept as much as possible under cover for some time, it is expected by many who have been in touch with the affair that tonight's meeting will be a lively one.

From the fact that the contract has lain with Huntington for nearly a month now, without definite answer, and since it is definitely known that the Varsity coach has received tempting offers from other schools, it is inferred by a large part of the campus who are in touch with the situation that Huntington is doing some deep thinking before possibly accepting the responsibility of Oregon teams for another year. There has been some agitation on the campus in favor of giving Huntington a three-year contract as coach, such as was, indeed, recommended at first by the football committee to the Executive Council. This recommendation to the Council was later rescinded by the committee in favor of a one-year contract, and it is thought by some that outside influence was brought to bear upon the committee to bring about this change.

John MacGregor, president of the associated Students definitely stated last night that one-year contract was the only type of contract which the council would consider offering "Shy." He refused, then, to discuss the matter any further, and all the efforts of representatives of the Emerald, Eugene, or Portland papers have been useless, in an attempt to draw more information regarding the affair and its roots, from MacGregor or any member of the Executive Council.

Huntington, himself has been silent regarding the affair, since the receipt of the proffered contract, except to request of the council last Wednesday, a week's lee-way in which to further consider the question. It has been said in various quarters of the campus that Huntington would be glad to get away from the present uncongenial atmosphere of the Oregon campus and the coast conference. He was silent to all questions on his attitude yesterday, and would only state that he would have his answer ready for the council tonight. The council meeting will be a specially called meeting to consider the question.

SIEFERT GIVES PROGRAM

Music School Lecturer Sings at Hood River Community Church

John B. Siefert, instructor in voice in the school of music, gave a comprehensive and greatly appreciated program Sunday afternoon in the community church at Hood River. Mr. Siefert's program was largely made up of sacred music, which he had divided into four groups of three songs each.

The program was opened with Dudley Buck's "Fear Not Ye Israel," and for closing number Mr. Siefert gave "The Garden of My Heart," Ball. Handel's beautiful "Where E'er You Walk," and "Care Selve," were also included in the program. Other compositions which Mr. Siefert sang were "The Publican," Van De Water; "The Ninety and Nine," Campion; "Benedicite's Stream," Getty; "The Lord Is My Light," Oley Speaks; and "When the Roses Bloom," Stenson.

Mr. Siefert was accompanied by Sarah Howes of Hood River, who is organist in the church and a pupil of Lucien Becker.

GIFFEN RETURNS FROM CONFERENCE IN EAST

Student Pastor's Convention Successful; Religious Course Advocated for Universities

Bruce J. Giffen, student pastor of the University, has returned to Eugene, after attending the student pastor's convention at Chicago. He returns with an enthusiastic belief that the new course in religion which will be given here under his personal instruction will be successful.

This national conference of religious workers from all the state universities convened at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago for four days, January 9 to 12. Reports from the schools of religion on the university campuses made by the different delegates and numerous and beneficial suggestions were made to help the pastors in organizing the schools when they returned to their respective colleges.

According to Mr. Giffen, the Wesley fund of the Methodist church has already raised $300,000 for the erection of an endowment building at the University of Illinois.

"The main feature of the convention," said Mr. Giffen, "was expressed in the hope that there will sooner or later be a recognized school of religion in every university of the country."

The Pennsylvania University plan has been adopted as being the most efficient. In view of this fact, the same plan will be adopted on the Oregon campus to be in line with the other centers.

MRS. WILSON ON VACATION

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, who has been caretaker of the Woman's building since its opening, is in California, on a two months leave of absence to visit her daughter. In the interim, Mrs. W. K. McKnight, the sister of Mrs. Anna Landsbury Beck and Dr. John Landsbury, of the school of music, is taking her place.
