With dainty college women in lovely gowns of every tint and hue, with college men in their conventional formal attire, formal dances, in an environment of beauty to the minutest detail, are occupying the interest of college folk at this season. Two formal, those of the women's Oregon club and Alpha Xi Delta were pretty affairs of Saturday evening. However, a number of informal dances are being given during each week-end.

Informality and "pep," that word which should be devoted exclusively to describe a college dance, were the characteristics of each of the four class dances held Friday evening. With the exception of the freshman class, ludicrous costumes which in some cases gave a startling effect, were worn at the dances.

With a mask to hide their identity and with the mysterious password, so necessary for entrance into their "ball-room," the seniors made merry at a Friday evening. Costumes of every description lent color aplenty for the mix. During the evening masks were taken off resulting in many surprises and a great deal of fun. A prize of a box of candy for the couple dressed in the cleverest costumes, was won by Wesley Frater and Ethel Wheeler. The former was dressed as a farmer even to the hay on him; the latter was attired as a little old maid with curls, high choker, and a funny little hat.

The Junior Jazz Jinx was a big success if one judged by the large number present and the fun and noise prevalent. The men's gymnasium was the scene of the dance. There were feature dances, Paul Jones and tag dances during the evening. Many clever costumes were noticed among the motley-colored throng. Patrons and patronesses were Dean and Mrs. Eric W. Allen, Miss Madeline McManus, and Mr. Ben Horning.

Serpentine and gayly costumed couples were featured at the large sophomore dance at Ye Campa Shoppe. An excellent five-piece orchestra rendered music for the underclassmen. Patronesses for the event included Mrs. Mildred Giffen, Mrs. Lettie Mowrey, and Miss Sue Badollet.

Freshmen frolicked in the Woman's building which was decorated in blue and white streamers for the dance. Just off from the main hall were cleverly arranged booths in which fortunes were told. A unique feature dance was given by the Misses Kathryn Jane Seel and Gladys Noreen who were dressed as thieves with black suits on, hats pulled down over their eyes, and flashlights. Dean and Mrs. John Straub and Professor and Mrs. E. E. DeCou acted as patrons and patronesses.

Alpha Xi Delta entertained with a delightful formal dance last night at the Woman's building. A color motif of gray and blue was cleverly carried out by the moss-covered oak branches covering the walls and ceilings, and by the light shaded with blue. Attired as a wood nymph, Miss Dorothy Hall gave the feature of the evening. The programs were of gray with the crest of the sorority engraved in. Patrons and patronesses were Professor and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Prescott, Mrs. A. R. Wells, and Mrs. Mildred Giffen.

Alpha Delta Pi was the hostess at a dinner Wednesday evening when they entertained a number of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity men.

Mrs. Carl Handley Will of Seattle who is the president of the Gamma Phi Beta Alumni association of Seattle and also a visiting delegate making a tour of the western province has been the inspiration for a number of affairs during her visit here. Wednesday afternoon Gamma Phi Beta sorority entertained with a tea in her honor at the chapter house. Four women from each house and the house chaperones were asked to the affair to meet Mrs. Will. In the receiving line were Mrs. Will, Mrs. Robert Earl, Miss LeLaine West, and Miss Helen Idleman. Mrs. George Reed poured.

Thursday evening Mrs. Will was honor guest at a formal faculty dinner party at which Gamma Phi Beta was the hostess. The list of guests included besides Mrs. Will, Professor and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, Dean and Mrs. John Straub, Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Dean and Mrs. Colin V. Dymont, Professor and Mrs. Frederic S. Dunn, Professor and Mrs. O. F. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rorer, and Miss Mary Watson.

Alpha Chi Omega was the hostess at a brother dinner Tuesday evening. Twelve brothers attended the affair.

William B. Faville of San Francisco who is president of the American Institute of Architects, and is a well known figure in architectural circles, was a visitor on the campus during the past week. Thursday evening he was honor guest at a dinner given at the Anchorage by the Architecture club. A number of faculty members and students majoring in the department were included in the list of guests.

The engagement of Miss Olive Gates, '25, Chi Omega, and Francis Wade, '22, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was announced at a beautifully appointed dinner at the Chi Omega house Thursday evening. The table was centered with a profusion of red carnations, and favors and place-cards of red further carried out the color scheme. The lights were covered with red heart-shaped shades, and at each place was a red satin box of candy, in the form of a heart in which the names of the couple were written on a paper heart.

Miss Gates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Gates of Hillsboro. Mr. Wade graduated last year from the University Law school and is now district attorney of Sherman county.

Coming as a surprise was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Audrey Perkins, '23, and Verden May which was announced at a luncheon at the Alpha Delta Pi house this week. Cut spring flowers were used in the table decorations. Miss Perkins whose home is in Springfield is a senior majoring in the department of business administration. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Phi Theta Kappa. Mr. May is in business in Springfield.

Chi Omega entertained all the football letter men and the coach and trainer at a dinner Wednesday evening. The table decorations included a clever miniature football field with the goal posts, a football, and little kewpies dressed in football raiment, each with his number on his back. Besides Coach "Shy" Huntington and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hayward, the guests included twenty football men. This was the first of what the Chi Omegas plan to give annually, namely, a banquet for the football men at the end of the season.

A lovely formal dance was that given by the women's Oregon club at the Chamber of Commerce clubrooms Saturday evening. Crimson and white were the colors used in the clever decorations, and from the chandeliers hung myriads of crimson and white balloons. About the rooms were large bouquets of pussy-willows. On the white programs in gilt lettering were the words "Oregon Club," and also the Oregon seal.

Patrons and patronesses for the dance were Professor and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, Mr. John Siefert, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Spencer, and Miss Alice Betts.

Beatrice Fraley, '24, of Eugene, announced her engagement to John "Dinty" Moore, ex '21, Monday evening at dinner at the Delta Delta Delta house of which Miss Fraley is a member. At each place was a clever bouquet of paper nosegays, attached to which was an envelope bearing the two names. The lights above the table were covered with red shades, and on the table red candles shed a soft glow. A large box of candy was passed to the sorority sisters of the engaged girl. Mr. Moore is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. At present he is engaged in the lumber business with his father at Bandon, and at San Francisco.

The engagement of Grace Pick, ex '25, Alpha Delta Pi, and Meador Fletcher, ex '19, was announced recently at the Alpha Delta Pi house. Miss Pick whose home is in Portland is not here this year. Mr. Fletcher is in the insurance business in Eugene at present. The date of the wedding has not yet been set.

A delightful program of salon music was given last Tuesday evening at the Alumni hall of the Woman's building, by members of the faculty of the school of music. Taking part in the musicale were Aurora Underwood, Dr. John J. Landsbury, Rex Underwood, Lora Teshner and Alberta Potter.

FAILURES SHOULD BLAME SELVES, SAYS PROFESSOR

SOCIOLOGIST CLAIMS EVERYONE IS MORE OR LESS LAZY

College Student Meeting Adversity Becomes Victim of World-is-all-Wrong Theory and Welcomes Revolution

U. of Minnesota, Jan. 23.—That the majority of people achieve less success than they might because of conditions within their own control, and not because society fails to give them a fair opportunity is the view of Professor Ross L. Finney of the sociology department.

The individual who feels that he is not getting a fair deal or a "chance" ought to ask himself first, whether he may not be partly to blame. Perhaps he has not chosen the right occupation. Perhaps he has not seen the opportunities before him. Perhaps he has been merely trying to do average work, the same this year as last year. Perhaps, he has been too careful not to do any more work than he was paid for and has erred on the other side by doing less work than he was paid for.

Nearly everybody is more or less lazy and hates to exert himself more than he must to get what he wants. Some achieve a great deal with little effort and much luck, so why work so hard? Add to that disposition the vicious teaching that the world is all wrong, that it is made up of oppressors and oppressed, robbers and victims, and even a person of high intelligence is likely to become discouraged and brood over his fate.

The college graduate, who finds the world is not waiting to give him all he wants, is especially prone to this error. Such a person, instead of trying to improve his own situation, welcomes suggestions of visionary reforms or violent all-leveling revolution.

Newman club entertained for its members last evening at a dinner dance. Pussy-willows and spring flowers were used to decorate the rooms of the hall.

A number of social events are included in the entertainment of the high school students who will come to the campus next week-end for the high school student's conference. On Friday evening they will be given a banquet at Hendricks hall. At 8 o'clock will be College Night with the students as the guests at the auditorium of the Woman's building. This affair will include skits by the Glee club, Varsity yells, moving pictures, selections by the University Orchestra and presentation of "O's." Saturday the girls will be special guests at a luncheon to be given for them by the Women's League of the University. In the afternoon there will be the annual fashion show, demonstrating to the visiting girls the proper mode of the co-ed's attire on various occasions.

A complete surprise to the campus was the engagement of Louise Odell, of Portland, and Bryan McMinn, of Portland, announced at the Alpha Sigma house last night, of which Miss Odell is a member. The table was decorated with red carnations for centerpieces, below which were hidden cards bearing the names of the two. Miss Odell is a senior in the school, majoring in Romance languages. Mr. McMinn is a graduate of the class of 1918 at O. A. C. At present he is an instructor in the school of engineering at the University of Washington.

'CHANGE OF TEMPO NEEDED IN SCHOOL'

Granted that most students who think at all admit that there is something unsatisfactory about "higher education," is there a remedy, and if so, what is it?

"I haven't a remedy, and have not developed a satisfactory philosophy in the matter," was Dr. Barnett's reply to this question. "Some things I have mentioned could be improved, but I have no definite ideas for reform."

"One great trouble with the University," he said, "is that every member of the faculty is to a large extent engaged, necessarily, in keeping up in his own department and developing his own work, so that he does not have time to give enough thought to the general interest of the University." He, himself, Dr. Barnett repeated several times, has had neither time nor opportunity to make a real study of student life.

Activities Should Lessen He has, however, several ideas for methods of improving institutions of higher learning. He feels that inter-collegiate athletics take up far too much of the student's time and interest, and that social activities and unnecessary organizations should be limited. The plan now under consideration by Women's League, to keep out the unimportant clubs and campus organizations, meets with his hearty approval.

But while all colleges and universities leave something to be desired, the efforts of the University of Oregon to raise its standards have met with considerable success, Dr. Barnett believes, and this raising of standards is certainly a great stride taken in the right direction.

There are three classes of students, Dr. Barnett said; those of high scholastic ability, who would do good work under any circumstances; those of low ability, who can barely get along, or cannot get along at all; and the great middle class, students neither very good nor very poor in their studies.

"Reforms in a university would affect this middle class, and it is the middle class that we ought to help," Dr. Barnett declared. For this middle class, which the majority of students occupy, may become, under unfavorable circumstances, the low class of flunks, or under favorable circumstances, the high class of real students," he said. The University out of all proportion to its importance.

About Learning to Dance

You might pick up dancing, and you might pick up arithmetic—both are possible, but improbable. We don't entrust a valuable watch to an unskilled mechanic. Then why waste time and money with anyone who knows little if anything of the dance when with one-tenth of the time you can make your dancing an accomplishment. We can give to your dancing that touch, ease and grace that makes dancing a pleasure.

Monday evening, February 5, the Webfeet will take on Washington State, a team that is a decided "dark horse" since they downed Idaho last Friday night with apparent ease 20-12, Idaho collecting but one field goal. Then on Wednesday night, February 7, the Hawaiian all-stars will be here for a game. The all-stars have a good team with best men from the various athletic organizations on the Islands. On Friday and Saturday nights, February 9 and 10, Oregon will play the concluding series with the Oregon Aggies in what promises to be two real court battles.

that, if the Watch Balance should make 18,001 vibrations each hour, your watch would gain 2 2-5 minutes in a month? You wouldn't be satisfied with such a rate as that. If you ask, "Isn't it wonderful that such extreme accuracy can be attained?" We reply, "Certainly, it is marvelous." You may accept our statement that, if a watch was designed so as to allow the balance to run continuously in one direction, it would be impossible to maintain a uniform rate, nor would it be possible to obtain a run of more than a very few hours at most.
